1982. Defendant CLARK M. CLIFFORD became chairman of the board of Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V., Credit and Commerce American Investment, N.V., FGB Holding Corp., and Financial General Bankshares. Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN became a director and secretary of CCAH and CCAI, director and president of FGBHC, and a director of FGB. In or about August of 1982, FGB changed its name to First American Bankshares, Inc. and FGB Holding Corp. changed its name to First American Corporation.

31. During 1984 and 1985, Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN participated in studies analyzing alternative ways by which BCCI could enter the United States banking world, including the possibility of a merger between First American Bankshares, Inc. and BCCI.

The Conspiracy

Beginning in or about 1985, the exact date being unknown to the Grand Jury, and continuing until in or about August 1991, in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN knowingly and willfully combined, conspired, confederated, and agreed together and with others, both known and unknown to the Grand Jury, to hamper, hinder, impede, impair and obstruct, by deceit, craft, trickery and dishonest means, the lawful functions of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System in regulating and supervising the activities of Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V. and its subsidiaries.

The Manner and Means of the Conspiracy

It was part of the conspiracy that:

1. The Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN would enrich themselves through agreements with BCCI, as further described below.

It was further part of the conspiracy that:

2. Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN would curry favor with BCCI and take steps to assist BCCI by:

a) purchasing the National Bank of Georgia, said purchase accomplishing the following for BCCI:

i. assisting a major BCCI borrower and purported shareholder, Ghaith R. Pharaon, who was facing financial problems, and thereby facilitating the repayment by Ghaith R. Pharaon of obligations due and owing to BCCI;

ii. bringing and keeping the National Bank of Georgia under the ownership of Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V., an entity with strong affiliations with BCCI, in awareness of BCCI's long-term strategic interest in acquiring or merging with CCAH;

b) causing $150 million to be deposited with BCCI (Overseas) in Grand Cayman from July of 1986 through December of 1986;

c) causing $45 million to be deposited with BCCI (Overseas) in Grand Cayman from December 1986 through May of 1987, and $29 million with ICIC (Overseas) from December 1986 through March of 1987;

d) permitting a valued BCCI customer to purchase at book value Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V. shares issued as part of the CCAH 1986 share offering;

e) backdating a document relative to the National Bank of Georgia acquisition at BCCI's request;

f) permitting NBG Financial Corporation shares to remain in London with BCCI after the execution of a pledge agreement which called for the shares to be kept in New York;

g) dispersing funds in connection with the National Bank of Georgia acquisition without a signed subordination agreement by BCCI which would protect Credit and Commerce American Holding's interests;

3. Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN would receive loans from BCCI for the purchase of Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V. shares and would enter into agreements with BCCI concerning the sale of said CCAH shares, under the terms of these agreements:

a) Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN would not be held personally liable for the loans and BCCI would be limited to collecting against the Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V. shares pledged as collateral; and

b) BCCI would agree to find a buyer for the Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V. shares at a "mutually agreeable price";

4. Aware that the loan and related agreements would be important to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System and might trigger FED regulatory action, including, but not limited to, an inquiry to ascertain whether BCCI exercised a controlling influence over Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V. and its subsidiaries, or controlled CCAH shares, or whether BCCI's relationship with CCAH was inconsistent with the representations made in connection with the purchase of Financial General Bankshares, and aware that such an inquiry might result in the FED's taking administrative action to their detriment, Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN would deliberately and affirmatively conceal the loan and share agreements between themselves and BCCI, and other aspects of CCAH's and the Defendants' relationship with BCCI, by:

a) withholding from counsel involved in drafting the agreements relating to the purchase of NBG Financial Corporation by Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V., for several weeks, the fact that the NBGFC shares were pledged by Ghaith R. Pharaon to BCCI;

b) structuring CCAH's purchase of NBGFC so as to avoid scrutiny by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System as to BCCI's involvement in the transaction, thereby keeping the FED unaware of facts which might lead to the FED's discovery of Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD's and ROBERT A. ALTMAN's loan and share agreements with BCCI;

c) concealing from and failing to disclose to CCAH's regulatory counsel the loan and share agreements between BCCI and

Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN and the terms of the agreements;

d) withholding from partners of Defendants' own law firm the true details of the loan and share agreements;

e) making deceitful statements to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System concerning CCAH shareholders' borrowings from BCCI;

f) attempting to keep pledges of CCAH stock from being registered on the books of CCAH in the Netherlands Antilles;

g) not informing the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System of facts relating to share purchases and sales by Mashriq Holding Company in connection with the 1986 share rights offering that raised an issue of a possible regulatory violation;

h) structuring the loan and share agreements with BCCI so that the promises from BCCI to hold Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN harmless on the loans and to find a buyer for the CCAH stock at a "mutually agreeable price" were in separate documents -- "side agreements" -- from the loan agreements and the pledge agreements;

5. Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN would breach fiduciary duties of loyalty to CCAH and First American Bankshares, Inc., for purposes of financial gain, by means of deceit and dishonesty, by:

a) disregarding counsel's advice on the safest way to structure the National Bank of Georgia acquisition, and instead causing the transaction to proceed in a fashion that benefited BCCI;

b) failing to disclose to First American Bankshares, Inc. directors the nature and extent of their agreements with BCCI, and making misleading statements to First American Bankshares, Inc. directors and officers concealing and intending to conceal their ownership of CCAH shares; and

c) failing to disclose to FAB directors the true nature and extent of BCCI's involvement in the National Bank of Georgia acquisition;

6. BCCI would cause the sale of Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD's and ROBERT A. ALTMAN's CCAH shares in 1988 to the same valued customer referred to in Paragraph 2(d) above, resulting in millions of dollars in profits to Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN;

7. BCCI would promise to purchase the balance of Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD's and ROBERT A. ALTMAN's CCAH shares in case of death at a guaranteed minimum price.

8. Defendants CLARK M. CLIFFORD and ROBERT A. ALTMAN would conceal and cover up facts as to matters material to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

COUNT TWO

On or about February 5, 1990, in the District of Columbia, Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN, in a matter within the jurisdiction of an agency of the United States, to wit, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, knowingly and willfully concealed and covered up by a trick and device a material fact, to wit, the fact that he and Defendant CLARK M. CLIFFORD had a financial arrangement with a financial institution, BCCI, said trick and device consisting of Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN's letter dated February 5, 1990, addressed to William A. Ryback, in which Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN stated, "We do not have access here to information regarding any financial arrangement that might exist between a shareholder of Credit and Commerce American Holdings, N.V. and other financial institutions, including the Bank of Credit and Commerce International, S.A. ("BCCI")," when, in truth and in fact, as Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN did then well know, Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN, in his personal and representative capacity, did have access to information regarding share repurchase agreements between Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN and BCCI, and between Defendant CLARK M. CLIFFORD and BCCI.

(In violation of Title 18, United States Code, Section 1001)

COUNT THREE

On or about June 3, 1991, in the District of Columbia, Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN, in a matter within the jurisdiction of an agency of the United States, to wit, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, knowingly and willfully concealed and covered up by a trick and device a material fact, to wit, the fact that Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN was directly involved with and made the decision to invest $45 million in Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Limited. Said trick and device consisted of Defendant ROBERT A. ALTMAN's making intentionally misleading and deceptive responses, as set forth below, to a Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System official in a deposition, thereby concealing and covering up said material fact.

Questions("Q") and Defendant's Answers("A")

Q. Do you know who made the decision to invest $45 million in BCCI International Overseas?

A. Well, it's clear from the records that Mr. Scoffone was involved. As to who and how that decision was reached, I don't recall. I may have been consulted; I may not have been.

* * *

A. BCCI was not a bank that was unknown to First American in 1986. I do not know what we thought of its creditworthiness then, but, obviously, we thought it was a prudent act to place $45 million with that institution.

I might say our judgment was confirmed because we didn't lose a penny.

Q. Do you know how you derived your knowledge of BCCI Overseas back in 1986?

A. Yes. I had been representing, personally had been involved with, that bank since 1978.

Q. Representing as attorney?

A. Yes.

Q. And the information that you derived as attorney, you shared with the people who were making the investment decisions for First American Bankshares?

A. I've already said to you that I don't remember how this decision was made, whether I was even involved in this decision. I may have been consulted; I may not have been.

But I'm quite confident that BCCI was not unknown to Mr. Scoffone and others at First American Bankshares or, for that matter, to Mr. Afridi or Mr. Richter or other people who dealt with that organization. It was well-known to us.

Q. With respect to the $45 million transfer that was made to BCCI on December 23rd of 1986 by First American Bankshares, Mr. Richter wouldn't have been involved in that, would he?

A. Well, it is -- you're asking -- having told you that I don't remember who was involved in making the decision, it's hard for me to include or exclude people.

It is very possible that Mr. Scoffone talked to Mr. Afridi. Maybe we could look at his records or something.

And maybe Mr. Afridi made this recommendation. Maybe -- but this is all speculation. I don't remember.

Subject: HIDDEN INTEREST

Reference Lead Number 32, BCCI Jamaica/ International Monetary Fund (IMF)/United States Treasury.

On June 26, 1992, writer conducted a review of captioned lead and contacted [redacted], IMF, Security Department, 623-6742 and [redacted] IMF, Legal Department, 623-7714. Because of the nature of the International Monetary Fund, writer was concerned that the United States (U.S.) may not be able to exercise jurisdiction over the fund for purposes of presenting them as a victim in a criminal fraud case. Additionally Not only, the IMF is immune from U.S. jurisdiction and cannot be compelled to comply with Federal subpoenas. The IMF may however, choose to come under the jurisdiction of the U.S. when it deems it is in its best interests. Specifically, the IMF has gone into U.S. courts for some crimes such as those committed on the premises of the IMF.

In a June 25, 1992, Memorandum from Trial Attorney, [redacted] to [redacted] Principal Deputy Chief Criminal Division, Fraud Section, [redacted] indicated that each of the DOJ Attorneys who had worked on this matter had recommended declination of further investigation, because of these jurisdictional problems. On June 26, 1992, writer met with DOJ Trial Attorneys, [redacted] to discuss the legal issues surrounding this lead. All were in agreement that pursuing the case against the BCCI with IMF as the victim would be tenuous at best. The DOJ Attorneys did propose attempting to create jurisdiction over this fraud by showing a connection between U.S. Treasury Department and IMF to the point that the U.S. Treasury could be presented as the victim of the fraud. [redacted] has possession of the relevant records in this matter and, in response to a question from writer, indicated that he was unaware of any records showing a connection between Treasury and the IMF pertaining to this fraud.

At the conclusion of the meeting, it was agreed that writer would contact U.S. Treasury and the IMF regarding communications that are had between the two agencies regarding IMF audits and dispersion of funds. Specifically, it will be determined if communications exist which U.S. Treasury may have relied upon in funding the IMF. It was also agreed, that DOJ Attorney, [redacted] would conduct legal research to help resolve the jurisdictional issues, and whether; as a last resort the U.S. Treasury could be used as a potential victim. b6 b7C

RE: LEAD #31; REGULATOR/AUDITOR INTERVIEWS.

During the period of July 7-16, 1992, writer conducted interviews of Auditors and Regulators in London associated with BCCI matters. To facilitate these interviews, writer met with the solicitors for those who were represented. These included [redacted] of Herbert Smith (011-44-71-374-8000) and [redacted] of Linklaters and Paine (011-44-71-606-7080). Both agreed to be equally accommodating during any possible future interviews and asked that they again be provided advance notice of the interviews. b6 b7C

One of the auditors not interviewed and represented by [redacted] is [redacted] reported that [redacted] is on extended assignment (indefinitely-2 years) in Hong Kong. Additionally, contact was never made with [redacted] although an order was obtained for him. [redacted] of Linklaters and Paine advised that he had contacted [redacted] through [redacted], that he was advised [redacted]s lawyers would contact him, and that he did not hear from them and knows not who these lawyers are. [redacted] Writer contacted the firm, which would not confirm this but agreed to have someone call and did not. b6 b7C b7D

Concerning additional potential auditor interviews, [redacted] confirmed that the following were associated with Price Waterhouse: [redacted] also said that [redacted] is associated with Ernst and Young. b6 b7C

Arrangements for interview of the auditors remaining in London and [redacted] in Hong Kong will be left to the discretion of the supervisor. b6 b7C

Results of Examination:

The Q2 through Q8 hard disk drives and Q6a floppy disk were analyzed using the computer resources currently available to the FBI Laboratory.

The following is the drive configuration of the submitted items: Q3, Q6, Q7 and Q8 are partitioned for logical drive C:\, Q2, Q5 and Q8 are configured for logical drives C:\ and D:\.

The operating system used on Q2, Q3, Q5 through Q8 is either MS/DOS or PC/DOS.

Directory listings have been produced for Q2, Q3, and Q5 through Q8.

A directory listing could not be produced for Q6a. This disk is probably a blank unformatted floppy disk.

The hidden files located on Q2, Q3, and Q5 through Q8 are either system, program or batch files. No hidden data files were located.

Hardcopy printouts of the deleted files contained on Q2, Q7 and Q8 have been produced. The remaining deleted files are either not recoverable, empty program files or contain no relevant text data.

Hardcopy printouts have been produced of the data files contained on Q2, Q3, and Q5 through Q8.

No duplicate diskcopies or hardcopy printouts have been retained by the FBI Laboratory.

You will be advised separately of the results of the examination of the Q4 computer system.

The Q5 computer system is being retained to assist in the examination of the Q4 computer system.

The Q2, Q3, Q6, Q7 and Q8 computer systems, Q6a floppy disk, and hardcopy printouts were personally picked up by Special Agent [redacted] on May 20, 1992. b6 b7C

RE: LEAD #33, FUGITIVE MATTERS

Writer has been assigned lead #33, Fugitive Matters, and in preparation for said lead spent 8-12-92 and 8-17-92 at Tyson's Corner reviewing the files of case 29B-WF-171994.

The purpose of this review was to note serials in the main file and sub files that should also be placed in the newly opened sub fug files of which there are four. These files should facilitate any future investigation concerning the subjects. These serials pertain not only to information regarding the fugitive status of each subject, but also information leading up to and inclusive of the indictments of the subjects.

Writer requests that IMC [redacted] be tasked with putting these files together as IMC [redacted] is familiar with the BCCI case and has already assisted writer during his review of the BCCI files. Writer also requests that this task be done as soon as possible, because as previously stated, it would facilitate the investigation of the fugitives. b6 b7C

Attached is a list of serials which should be included in each respective sub fug file.

RE: Establishment of Evidence Control Room.

Major Case #38 is a massive investigation of the failure of the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI) and its related subsidiaries. This investigation involves multiple subjects in various states and foreign countries.

As with any financial institution failure and in particular with a bank the size of BCCI, a vast amount of both evidentiary and non-evidentiary documentation exists, which support the prosecution and investigation. Because the two squads (20 SAs and 9 Financial Analysts) conducting this investigation are located at an off-site (500 1St Street, N.W., Suite 400). A room has been set aside to become an Evidence Control Room (ECR) at that location. An on-site inspection of this proposed ECR was conducted recently by AO [redacted] and WMFO's Evidence Control Technician (ECT) [redacted] Their inspection found that the room was suitable to serve as an ECR provided certain modifications and additions were made which are required by existing FBI regulations. b6 b7C

These modifications/additions to the proposed ECR are:

1) The room presently has 2 doors. One of these doors must be permanently sealed so that there is only one entrance to the room and an entry/exit log (FD-415) can be placed there.

2) The lock on the remaining door must be changed to a combination 3-position dial type changeable lock or similar lock as set forth in the regulations.

3) An intrusion detection system must be installed.

These requirements are set forth in the Bureau airtel to all SAC's dated April 5, 1992 setting forth new requirements for handling seized, subpoenaed, and voluntarily contributed property.

During the aforementioned inspection of the off-site space it was determined that a support person must be designated as an ECT for this room. That person must be trained in evidence handling procedures and will be responsible for access to the ECR, Bar Coding of all items entering the ECR and general responsibilities associated with ECR. At this time it is estimated that these duties will occupy 50% of the employee's time.

At this time there is only one support employee assigned to the BCCI Special, a secretary. AO [redacted] has posted a second secretarial position as of August 18, 1992. A request has been made to AO [redacted] for a general clerical position. This individual would handle the evidence functions as well as numerous other duties. b6 b7C

Presently this major case is anticipating a significant amount of evidence and non-evidentiary documentation to be taken into custody. Therefore it is imperative that the ECR be established and a trained ECT be in place as soon as possible.

Re Memorandum from SA [redacted] to SAC, WMFO dated 8/3/92. b6 b7C

For background information of reader: GHAITH PHARAON, along with AGHA HASAN ABEDI and [redacted] were indicted in the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C., on Nov. 15, 1991. The defendants were charged with deceiving state and federal regulators in the BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL's (BCCI) secret acquisition of the INDEPENDENCE BANK, and fraudulent securities transactions involving CENTRUST SAVINGS BANK. On Nov. 18, 1991, the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia issued an arrest warrant for PHARAON. PHARAON and others involved in this matter were also indicted by the Southern District of Florida on May 13, 1992, and by the State of New York on July 29, 1992. All these indictments were in connection with the unlawful activities of BCCI. b6 b7C PHARAON is by birth a citizen of Saudi Arabia and is described as a W/M, 5'9", DOB - 9/7/41, 250lbs., with graying hair. PHARAON is very wealthy and has the capability to travel nearly anywhere by private transportation.

Recent information on PHARAON indicates he has been attempting to buy citizenship in Pakistan [redacted] b7D PHARAON is reportedly traveling in and out of Pakistan with no attempts to hide this travel. Reports also have PHARAON traveling outside the Middle East to South Korea. As PHARAON has worldwide business ventures his travel destinations are unlimited.

[redacted] b7D

It has been difficult to obtain total cooperation in this matter with many of the mideast countries. Even though the BCCI collapse caused many to lose money in the mideast, PHARAON still has many high-level connections and many loyal followers.

PHARAON does own a 150 foot yacht named "Le Pharaon", which is currently docked at Marina Smir Tetouan, Morocco. [redacted] b6 b7C b7D It is believed that PHARAON had intended to sail his yacht in August, 1992, into the Mediterranean, but did not do so. The captain for Le Pharaon is [redacted] a U.S. citizen, and attempts are being made to locate the city of residence for [redacted] will not be approached, as the belief is [redacted] will be loyal to PHARAON and will not cooperate with U.S. law enforcement officials.

It is proposed that the feasibility of using HRT to stop, board, and arrest PHARAON when Le Pharaon is in international waters be explored. Due to the number of people expected to be on board (crew and passengers) and reports that weapons are maintained on the yacht, it will be necessary to use HRT in such a maritime arrest scenario. In addition, if notification of PHARAON's plan to sail on Le Pharaon is short notice, HRT has the capabilities for quick response.

It is anticipated that IIC [redacted], SA [redacted] and SA [redacted] will meet with HRT and FBIHQ personnel as soon as possible to discuss this matter. At this meeting SAs [redacted] will provide to HRT all information obtained by the BCCI investigative squad on PHARAON and will seek to determine what other information HRT deems necessary to determine the feasibility of such an operation. b6 b7C

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

C - All others

Claiming Non-Federal Arrests, Summonses, Recoveries or Convictions:

It is permissible to claim a local arrest, summons, recovery or conviction if the FBI significantly contributed to the accomplishment. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for the claim must accompany this report. When claiming a local recovery, enter the word "LOCAL" to the right of the amount. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IA/Ts) Used:

-Since more than one IA/T could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IA/T used must be rated.

-The IA/T used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

1325015-000-6284

Item 3. SOURCE AND AMOUNT OF FUNDS OR OTHER CONSIDERATION.

On February 15, 1990, Regal and Zurich entered into a financing agreement (the "Agreement") which provided for Zurich to lend Regal a total of $500,000. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreement, Zurich agreed to lend Regal $300,000 on or before February 27, 1990 to be used by Regal for working capital, and $200,000, upon receipt of final approval from the Environmental Protection Agency, to settle environmental litigation styled United States of America v. Bell Petroleum Services, et. al. Regal's wholly owned subsidiary, Bell Petroleum Services, is a defendant in the environmental litigation.

The Agreement also provided that Zurich would pay First City, Texas-Midland N.A. (the "Bank") an amount sufficient to obtain an option to purchase Regal's indebtedness to the Bank evidenced by a promissory note (the "Regal Note") in the principal amount of $2,144,000. Zurich acquired an option from the Bank to purchase the Regal Note for total consideration of $1,850,000 which included a $250,000 payment by Zurich to the Bank for such option. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreement, Zurich agreed to pass the discount on the amount Zurich paid the Bank for the Regal Note to Regal and to extend the maturity and the terms of the discounted Regal Note for a three year period. On June 20, 1990, Zurich purchased the Regal Note from the Bank for $1,850,000.

On June 20, 1990, in consideration for (i) Zurich's purchase of the Regal Note and the restructure of Regal's the indebtedness thereon, (ii) the $300,000 loan from Zurich to Regal for working capital, and (iii) the $200,000 loan from Zurich to Regal to be used to settle environmental litigation involving Regal's subsidiary, Regal granted Zurich an option to purchase the Regal Stock (the "Option").

The Option to purchase the Regal Stock is exercisable for a period of 360 days from the date of grant and may be repurchased by Regal at specified prices for the first 150 days following the date of grant. The Option provides that it may be exercised at an exercise price of $.25 per share.

Zurich assigned the Option to Polystar. At such time as Polystar exercises the Option to purchase the Regal Stock, Regal would be entitled to receive consideration valued at $3,000,000 or $.25 per share. On June 25, 1990, management of Polystar notified Regal that it intends to exercise the Option to acquire the Regal Stock. The consideration for acquiring the Regal Stock will be cash or forgiveness of debt, or a combination of both.

The source of the funds utilized by Zurich to purchase the debt of Regal owing to the Bank as well as the $300,000 working capital loan and the $200,000 for settlement of the environmental litigation came from working capital funds of Zurich.

Item 4. PURPOSE OF TRANSACTION.

Zurich and its assignee, Polystar, acquired the Option to purchase the Regal Stock for investment and for the purpose of acquiring a significant equity ownership interest in Regal. Polystar intends to periodically review its investment in Regal and may, depending upon its evaluation of Regal's business and prospects and future developments (including, but not limited to, general economic conditions), and subject to federal and state securities laws, determine to acquire additional shares of Regal stock or, subsequent to the exercise of of the Option, sell a portion or all of the Regal Stock.

Management of Polystar is evaluating plans regarding seeking representation on the board of directors of Regal including, but not limited to, proposing one or more nominees for director of Regal at the annual meeting of shareholders, with a view to influencing the business decisions of Regal. The decision of Polystar whether to seek representation on the Regal board is dependent upon an analysis of a number of factors which are presently being analyzed.

Polystar has been negotiating with Bailey International Holdings Limited ("Bailey") and their purported nominees Monmin Holdings ("Monmin") and Excalibur Ventures, Inc. ("Excalibur"), who together control preferred stock of Regal, which upon conversion, will approximate 37.4% of the Common Stock of Regal (provided Polystar has not exercised its Option) and approximately $2,400,000 in promissory notes. Bailey and Monmin with the express support of Excalibur have urged Polystar to help facilitate the acquisition by Regal of a certain mining transaction as mentioned in the 13D filing of Bailey dated January 31, 1990. As of the date of this Schedule 13D filing, the negotiations have not reached any successful conclusion and further negotiations are continuing. However, there can be no guarantee of a successful outcome and Polystar makes no representations about its support for the Bailey/Menmin/Excalibur proposal. Further, at this time neither Zurich nor Polystar has undertaken any due diligence with regard to the physical or financial aspects of the mining proposal.

Except as set forth in Item 4 to this Schedule 13D, none of Zurich, Polystar, [redacted] or [redacted] has formulated any plans or proposals which would relate to or would result in an extraordinary corporate transaction involving Regal, the sale or transfer of a material amount of Regal's assets, a change in Regal's board of directors or management, any material change in Regal's capitalization or dividend policy, any material change in Regal's business or corporate structure, changes in Regal's charter or by-laws or the delisting or deregistering of Regal's securities. However, it should not be assumed that Zurich, Polystar, [redacted] and [redacted] will not formulate plans and proposals which would relate to or would result in any of the matters enumerated above. Any such plans or proposals may or may not be implemented. b6 Per FBI b7C

Item 5. INTEREST IN SECURITIES OF ISSUER.

The percentage set forth in this Item 5 reflecting the beneficial ownership of Zurich, Polystar, [redacted] and [redacted] in the Common Stock of Regal is based on a total of 26,491,504 shares of Common Stock of Regal outstanding. Such number reflects the 14,491,504 shares of Common Stock of Regal outstanding as reported by Regal in its most recently filed Annual Report on Form 10-K (filed on April 12, 1990 for the fiscal year-ended December 31, 1989), plus the 12,000,000 shares of Regal Stock issuable to Polystar upon its exercise of the Option. b6 Per FBI b7C

As of the date of this Schedule 13D, Polystar has the power to vote or direct the disposition of the Regal Stock to be acquired upon Polystar's exercise of the Option to purchase such stock. The Regal Stock underlying Polystar's Option represents approximately 45% of the outstanding Common Stock of Regal. Polystar and [redacted] as [redacted] of Polystar, have the power to vote, or direct the vote, and to dispose, or direct the disposition of, the Regal Stock underlying the Option. [redacted] may be deemed the control person of Polystar. b6 Per FBI b7C

Under Section 13(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Act") and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, as a result of the relationships and agreements described in this Schedule 13D, Zurich and [redacted] may also be deemed to beneficially own the Regal Stock underlying the Option and to share the power to vote, or to direct the vote, and to dispose, or direct the disposition thereof. However, the filing of this Schedule 13D shall not be construed as an admission that, for the purposes of Section 13(d) or 13(g) of the Act, or for any other purposes, Zurich, [redacted] or [redacted] is the beneficial owner of the Regal Stock. b6 Per FBI b7C

None of the executive officers or directors of Zurich or Polystar own any Common Stock of Regal.

Item 6. CONTRACTS, ARRANGEMENTS, UNDERSTANDINGS OR RELATIONSHIPS WITH RESPECT TO SECURITIES OF THE ISSUER.

To the best knowledge of the persons filing this Schedule 13D, except as described elsewhere in this Schedule 13D, none of Zurich, Polystar, [redacted] or [redacted] is a party to any contract, arrangement, understanding or relationship with respect to any securities of Regal, including but not limited to, any contract, arrangement, understanding or relationship concerning the transfer or the voting of any securities of Regal, finders fees, joint venture, loan or option arrangements, puts or call, guarantees of profits, division of profits, or the giving or withholding of proxies. b6 Per FBI b7C

Oklahoma City, OK

Dear [redacted]

In response to your letter dated January 4, 1991 and our telephone conversation of this morning I would like to point out a number of issues, a summary of which, I feel, should be brought to the attention of the board in a meeting that I have requested to be held on January 9, 1991.

In the first instance, management was well aware of the critical need for financing and in that regard it was imperative that numbers emanating from the office of the CFO be absolutely accurate both in content and format. As it turned out not only were the totals of the format presented to Midlantic Bank inaccurate the whole format was thoroughly unprofessional. I understand that [redacted] was "busy with a number of other tasks" that precluded his furnishing accurate statements. I can't understand what could be more pressing than a need to have integrity in financial reporting. This shoddy presentation resulted in at least one lender not proceeding with financing. b6 Per FBI b7C

The appraisal process only served to underscore the gross inadequacies of operational management. It is preposterous to state that "the strength of the analysis performed in Louisiana" helped obtain a revision of the numbers. Such a statement reflects a lack of understanding of the discussions with the appraiser and this office. [redacted] had obtained an assurance from the appraiser that he would "re-work" the numbers since he told Independent that the numbers were grossly inadequate judging from the book values even if they were to be gauged on a liquidation basis. [redacted] of Independent said that, although he could not view them from the book values standpoint, he certainly would be able to give numbers using disposition under fair market conditions. Nevertheless, as I wrote earlier in my last letter, there was adequate forewarning of the need to obtain the best possible numbers. It is an acknowledged professional fact that b6 Per FBI b7C appraisal numbers can, upto a point, be improved upon based upon comparative values obtained under differing circumstances. It is only natural that each borrower try to obtain the best possible comparative number and that was what was done by this office.

On another matter, [redacted]s memo was not a directive to [redacted] The word expedite was meant to accelerate the progress of and surely not implement the proposal and was only intended as suggestion to hasten the process. He was absolutely unaware of the competing Fidelity proposal which saves the company about $35,000 and had he known so we certainly would have expected the company to implement the latter. The fact that he wrote to [redacted] with a copy to you clearly indicates that there was no attempt to subvert the management process. b6 Per FBI b7C

I understand the litigation in Delaware was costly to Regal as was the case with all the other legal bills. It was Zurich/Polystar's intention to cut short the litigation upon exercise of the option which resulted in the company's mammoth legal bill being whittled down to manageable numbers. This was contrary to your and [redacted]s position that the company continue to litigate and fight the bancruptcy under section 305. If not for Zurich, the company would have incurred far greater extraordinary losses. b6 Per FBI b7C

As I had indicated in an earlier conversation, I was appalled that a news release of which I was not informed was sent out regarding your move to Oklahoma City in order "to be with your family". I understand that the press release was issued by [redacted] regardless, this caused considerable embarrassment to me as it came up in a meeting with a prospective financier. b6 Per FBI b7C

The issue of insurance has been brought up throughout our close association with Regal starting from August 1990. As one of the biggest line items, it was a natural point of focus in the course of our evaluation of the company's operation. All attempts at obtaining information were only with the motive of effecting savings. Contrary to your belief, I believe we need to save ourselves to profitability before achieving prosperity. I have also specific concerns there in terms of the premia paid. Apparently, AIG was supposed to hike up rates by 50% before Florida Corporate stepped in (although, I am still obtaining written proof of it). Further, there appears to be three ex-employees of Regal who continue to figure in the medical insurance plan.

To reiterate, I feel that the seeming insecurity of personnel at Regal translates into inadequate performance. There appears to have been furor caused by the visit to the plant by [redacted] with [redacted] even though [redacted] informed [redacted] in advance that he was visiting the plant with the gentleman from [redacted] Further, he informed Chris that Frank was a contact of mine. Had there been any attempt at doing this surreptitiously, b6 Per FBI b7C as has been alleged, I would have precluded [redacted] from identifying the person or the purpose. I also sent [redacted]s resume to you along with a letter from me last week. As it turned out the latter part of the fax did not go through. b6 Per FBI b7C

In the light of the foregoing and other instances I request that the board be apprised of the situation in the meeting on Wednesday at Dallas at 11 AM. I propose to be in Dallas on that day and I think we can come to a final decision on the whole process in terms of management at that time.

Yours sincerely,

It was good to meet with you again and to see with my own eyes the fantastic progress you have made in refurbishing the hotel opposite La Guardia Airport. It was also a pleasure to reestablish contact with [redacted] b6 Per FBI b7C

Before I get to business I would like you to know that I spoke with the Admission Committee at Harvard College and was told that [redacted] b6 Per FBI b7C is presently at Harvard and that "he is doing well". I was told that [redacted] "has a very nice personality" and that he is not yet living in one of the undergraduate houses since he is a transfer student. I am very pleased that [redacted] was accepted at Harvard, knowing that his acceptance was important to his parents.

Now about the warrants for Regal International, you said that we would handle this issue between us. I would appreciate knowing the number of warrants to be made over to me and how this figure was arrived at. Finally what is the predetermined price of the warrant and the validity of the time period when warrants must be converted into stock.

I also need to know whether you are interested in some investors -- American and foreign -- taking an interest in the stock of Regal International. If so, I might mention the company and prospects for the company in the right places.

Finally, you were interested in having access to some reliable banks in the U.S. In that connection, I gave your secretary the name of a friend in California who might help you on that score. I also gave him your name in the hope that you might explore whether you can help each other.

Keep me informed about your pharmaceutical venture. I think I can help you in Europe in that field. Looking forward to hearing from you, I remain Regal: The re-financing for $3.5 million has been completed and the new board has been elected as of August 22, 1990. Please see attached summary sheets on the company. The company has shown two continuous quarters of profits and is expected to have a net income of over $500,000 this year. operationally and will report $1.5 million profit for 1990.

Pharma Control Corporation: This company presents an exciting new opportunity as it is on the verge of launching major new products. Further, by ensuring the addition of [redacted] (please see attached resume) the company is poised to reap enormous financial returns within the next two years as a consequence of the proprietary and unique technology brought to the company through his expertise. b6 Per FBI b7C

I have already invested $500,000 and with the infusion of another $500,000 we are assured of warrants for 10 million shares exercisable at 20 cents a share. The loans are also convertible at 20 cents a share at our discretion. I have already contacted four interested investors who have each agreed to loan $250,000 in return for a million warrants and the ability to convert their loan into equity. That will still leave a majority of the warrants (6 million) in our hands. The company's common stock has previously traded as high as $37 when it made announcements with regard to its soluble aspirin technology (please see attached summary). With the present stabilization of revenues and the future entry into the market place of drugs related to [redacted] s technology the price is expected to go up in the near term to as much as $1. b6 Per FBI b7C

[redacted] advised that he is employed by the SBA as a consultant and serves as a Receiver for claims in which the SBA has an interest. One of his assignments includes a small business investment company known as FALCON CAPITAL CORPORATION (FALCON) which is located in Greenville, North Carolina. FALCON is owned by [redacted] believes that [redacted] purchased FALCON from a South Carolina investment group in approximately 1983. [redacted] who obtained his education [redacted] His work experience in North Carolina included working at a local rehabilitation clinic. [redacted] became involved in the acquisition of hotels and real estate, which he would "flip" into a profit by renovating or improving the property and/or its operations , and then selling the hotel to another party. [redacted] is a U.S. Citizen and possess passports issued by the U.S. [redacted]

b6 Per FBI
b7C

[redacted] explained that the SBA guaranteed loans made to FALCON by various financial institutions. As a part of the SBA guarantee, FALCON pledged its assets to the SBA. FALCON's assets consist primarily of notes receivable owed by third party borrowers to FALCON. The total amount of notes receivable are approximately $1.8 million and the SBA guarantees 80% of the total. [redacted] provided a photocopy of a Court Order issued on 12/17/91 by U.S. DISTRICT COURT JUDGE JAMES C. FOX, for the Eastern District of North Carolina, which ordered FALCON's assets to be turned over to the SBA as Receiver, in order to satisfy any creditor claims against FALCON. In addition, the order also awarded a judgement in favor of the SBA in the amount of $1,265,590.01 for obligations owed to the it by FALCON. [redacted] advised that negotiations have been ongoing between the SBA and [redacted] via telephone, regarding FALCON's self-liquidation. [redacted]'s attorney is [redacted] 215 Broad Street, New Bern, North Carolina 28563, telephone number 919/633-2700.

b6 Per FBI
b7C

Through his involvement in attempting to collect these third party obligations for the SBA, [redacted] has discovered apparent fraud by [redacted] through FALCON, which consists of insider transactions involving [redacted] and his associates / affiliated entities.

b6 Per FBI
b7C

For example, one of FALCON's notes receivable was from [redacted] Grimesland, NC, dated 5/4/87 in the amount of $100,000. [redacted] contacted [redacted] who advised that [redacted] contacted him in an effort to obtain $100,000 cash. [redacted] asked

b6 Per FBI

1325015-000-6300

[redacted] if he would allow a lien to be placed on his [redacted]'s) house in order to secure a loan. Apparently, [redacted] agreed to the arrangement and obtained a loan from FALCON, wherein a lien was filed against [redacted]'s house as security. [redacted] told [redacted] that [redacted] gave the money ($100,000) to [redacted] on the same day he received it. [redacted] subsequently returned the lien against [redacted]'s house to him. In this manner, [redacted] apparently served as a straw-borrower or conduit in order for [redacted] to obtain $100,000 from FALCON, without drawing any attention from the SBA. FALCON's records report an outstanding loan to [redacted] in the amount of $100,000, with no record of any payment by [redacted] or anyone else. b6 b7C

[redacted] described another loan dated 1/25/88 made to [redacted] Summit, NJ, in the amount of $75,000. [redacted] has learned that [redacted] is a former BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (BCCI) Official in New York, and the NEW YORK DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE believes that this loan may be a payoff from [redacted] for loans made by BCCI to ZURICH CORPORATION and P.S. INVESTMENT COMPANY, which were COMPANIES owned by [redacted]. In reviewing the documentation received from FALCON, [redacted] believes that the file had been "sanitized" of pertinent records or correspondence. [redacted] has also heard that [redacted] may have a financial interest in a [redacted] owned hotel located in Raleigh, North Carolina. b6 Per FBI b7C

[redacted] also advised that FALCON's receivables included a loan dated 11/3/89 to REGAL INTERNATIONAL, INC. (REGAL), 256 North Belt East, St. 252, Houston, Texas, in the amount of $80,000. The principal name listed in connection with the loan is [redacted] telephonically contacted REGAL and spoke with a young unknown male who was serving as the Chief Financial Officer (CFO). [redacted] attempted to obtain information regarding the alleged forgiveness of debt ($80,000) by FALCON to REGAL. The young CFO would not admit any knowledge of it, and referred [redacted] to his superior. [redacted] confirmed that [redacted] REGAL. b6 Per FBI b7C

In connection with the REGAL loan, [redacted] spoke with [redacted] of REGAL. [redacted] told [redacted] that POLYSTAR, a company controlled by [redacted] agreed to invest $3 million of needed capital into REGAL. At the time, REGAL owed $1.8 million to First City Bank in Midland, Texas, and POLYSTAR negotiated some type of a settlement with the bank. POLYSTAR subsequently obtained approximately 50% of REGAL's stock in exchange for the $3 million financing arrangement, even though POLYSTAR did not actually provide $3 million in funds. After obtaining control of REGAL, the Board of Directors were replaced by [redacted]'s associates and [redacted] was voted out as President. [redacted] currently resides in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. [redacted] would be able to furnish additional details regarding the transactions involving [redacted] and his associates. b6 Per FBI b7C

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

C - All others

Claiming Non-Federal Arrests, Summonses, Recoveries or Convictions:

It is permissible to claim a local arrest, summons, recovery or conviction if the FBI significantly contributed to the accomplishment. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for the claim must accompany this report. When claiming a local recovery, enter the word "LOCAL" to the right of the amount. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IA/Ts) Used:

-Since more than one IA/T could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IA/T used must be rated.

-The IA/T used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

Race Codes:

C = Chinese; I = Indian/American; J = Japanese; B = Black; O = All other; U = Unknown; W = White

Quietly buying property

Hong Kong woman shops in Anchorage

225 712 0313 290 450 8470

By SUSAN POSTLEWAITE
Daily News reporter 227

In a deal real estate people hope will be the first of many cash injections into Anchorage's ailing economy, a wealthy Asian woman has quietly bought 20 acres and a house in west Anchorage and has bid on 17 condos and a midtown office building.

The pending purchases, by a woman identified as Maria Chen, could total several million dollars and have roused the real estate community with gossip about a secret "Hong Kong buyer."

The weak dollar combined with the depressed real estate market in Anchorage makes the area ripe for bargain hunting, many real estate people believe. And they hope that once foreign money begins to trickle in, it will breathe life back into the Anchorage real estate market.

And although the pending sales here are not large, Bob Poe, of the state's Office of International Trade, said they could be a "positive sign" for Alaska's depressed real estate market.

It's no secret that investors from Hong Kong, concerned about what will happen to their economy when the Crown Colony returns to Chinese rule in 1997, have been on a real estate buying binge in the Lower 48 and Canada, and lately, have been picking up property in the Pacific Northwest, particularly Vancouver, British Columbia. But until now, there's been no concrete evidence those business people are shopping in Alaska.

"When we look at Alaska and say what are our economic opportunities here, we see lots of potential and a depressed economy and at the moment a sort of reluctance on the part of business people to invest here. So any influx of cash in Alaska is a positive

In an economy where condos aren't selling, there's a prospective buyer for some of thes

According to property records, Chen has so far closed only one property, a house and 20 acres she bought from Anchorage businessman William Pargeter in west Anchorage on Oct. 6. The sale price wasn't disclosed; the property's assessed value is $763,000.

Pargeter said, "We didn't list it, we didn't publicize it. (Marston Real Estate agent Collette LaRose) brought them over a couple of months ago."

"We sold for cash," said Pargeter, who owns the Kayak Seafood Grill and Harry's restaurant in Anchorage. He said he will continue to live in the house on a long-term lease.

Pargeter said that Chen and a companion whom he identified as Joe Fang were here for several days.

He said when he met with them for dinner, they arrived in a limousine and "they were talking about an office building downtown and condominiums. They had about $25 million." He said they planned to head to San Francisco after leaving here.

On the same trip to Anchorage in late September, Chen also made an offer of about $475,000 in cash for 17 foreclosed condos at Alaska Landings, a 102-unit complex near Anchorage International Airport, said Gordon Hazel, who manages the condo association.

The one- and two-bedroom condos, which list at $36,000 and $49,900, are foreclosures owned by Alaska Housing Finance Corp., according to Paul Wilson of ERA Realty, the listing agent.

The offer hasn't been accepted yet. The obstacle, Hazel said, is that Chen, whom he described as a "wealthy woman from Hong Kong," intends to rent the condos.

Alaska Landings is less than half occupied by owners, and 17 more rentals would push the owner-occupancy rate much lower. "They can't rent them out unless the board of directors approves it. That's where this transaction is being held up right now," he said.

Chen's offer represents about 68 percent of the listing price, said Hazel.

The same Hong Kong investor has also made an offer on the former First Interstate Bank building at C Street and 30th Avenue in midtown. It has been for sale since the bank failed last year and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. took it over. The FDIC now has its offices there.

The building is considered high quality. With the land around it, the property would be worth $2 million to $4 million at today's depressed prices, according to local appraisers.

Tony Ferelli, spokesman for FDIC, declined to comment. "We don't disclose that information. If you were buying a building you wouldn't want it spread all over town," he said. "It will be public record after the sale closes, if it closes."

But the investor or investors have already met with the president of Transalaska Data Systems Inc., which is negotiating to lease most or all of the 29,000-square-foot FDIC building. Although Transalaska doesn't need all of the space, it could sublease part of it.

John Peacock, president of Transalaska, confirmed he met with the people who want to buy the building. He would not identify them. "This is too, too sensitive," he said.

"We are interested in it and working on it but the purchase has not gone through," said Peacock.

Although real estate agents are buzzing among themselves about the deal, no one working on the transaction wanted to talk about it.

Mark LaRose, of the real estate firm North Tower Associates, who represents the buyer, declined comment.

"They prefer their transaction to be confidential. They don't want publicity," he said.

His mother, Collette L Rose, who helped the buy find the house, also deni any knowledge of the de when asked about it. "I ha no idea what you are talki about," she said.

According to property r cords, Chen has a post offi box in Guam, but people f miliar with the deals said th buyer is from Hong Kon She could not be contacted.

If the purchases are cor pleted, they appear to repr sent the kind of foreign i vestment that some econom specialists believe would hel pull Alaska out of its re estate doldrums.

The U.S. Department Housing and Urban Develo ment has been looking ways to sell its 1,100 for closed houses to Asian buyer next year.

The Chen purchases woul be the first in Anchorage b Asian investors since th Hanjin Group, the paren company of Korean Air bought the Sheraton Anchor age Hotel from troubled Cal ista Corp. in July.

The following is a summary of the meeting I had with DOJ Fraud Section Principal Deputy Chief (PDC) [redacted] b6 b7C on 12/30/91.

In response to notification from the Minority staffers from the U.S. House of Representatives, PDC [redacted] had dispatched Trial Attorney (T/A) [redacted] b6 b7C to review records supposedly relating to congressmen who had been involved in transactions with CenTrust Savings Bank. (We sent SAs [redacted] to secure our interests after PDC [redacted] told me in an earlier conversation that an AUSA and "an agent" [type unknown] from the Middle District of Florida were coming to the meeting to look at he documents.) The staffers reportedly received the documents from various sources, e.g., the Fed, OTS, and RTC, and said they included some of the Price Waterhouse work papers. Some 20-30 boxes of material were involved.

At 10:00 a.m. Friday, 1/3/92, per T/A [redacted] b6 b7C there will be a similar meeting with the House Majority staffers. (SAs [redacted] have been assigned to cover this meeting also.)

Possibly/probably during the week of 1/5/92, [redacted] b6 b7C will be transported from New York to the WDC area, where he will be housed in the Alexandria Jail. [redacted] is scheduled to be here for two weeks, during which he will be interviewed and brought before the grand jury.

On 1/5/92, PDC [redacted] and several AUSAs are scheduled b6 b7C to meet with DAG Robert Mueller to develop a proposal for working with the New York District Attorney's Office (NYDAO) for the remainder of the investigation. On 1/6/92, DAG Mueller, PDC [redacted] et al, are to meet with [redacted] and others from the NYDAO to come to some sort of a cooperation agreement. b6 b7C

Also during the week of 1/5/92, PDC [redacted] and I are to meet for an informal but in-depth case review, with the goal of mapping strategy for future investigative efforts. PDC [redacted] said it is his desire to have the FBI proceed in a number of areas, both known and unknown, developing cases in the traditional manner and bringing DOJ the results or requests for assistance. We agreed that, up to this point, the FBI had been relegated to following the DOJ's leads, rather than its own. b6 b7C

The investigative areas mentioned by PDC [redacted] were: b6 b7C

1.) Pursuing the recent, classified information about the overheard conversation between the Saudi official and the unidentified male about how the latter was relieved at not having been indicted;

2.) Completion of the leads to interview [redacted] and acquire the BCCI records in possession of the Western District of Washington;

3.) Determining whether/what further investigation is required in re Capcock Savings Bank in Dallas, TX, particularly as it concerns [redacted] and Coolidge Bank in Boston, MA, particularly as it concerns any BCCI interest (DOJ T/A [redacted] is assigned to the Coolidge matter and is aware of need to be alert for indications of BCCI involvement);

4.) Continuation/completion of the CenTrust [redacted] matter. On this topic, PDC [redacted] said his goal is to achieve cooperation between DOJ and the USAO in Miami concerning the prosecution of [redacted] intends to proceed toward an indictment of [redacted] in WDC, and is trying to get AUSA [redacted] to understand that DOJ is going ahead on the theory that, if [redacted] finds himself facing charges in several districts, he may acquiesce. As PDC [redacted] sees it, indicting [redacted] in WDC on the "sub debt" transaction is not intended to, nor will it, jeopardize Miami's perquisites/misapplication case against [redacted]

PDC [redacted] intends to call a general status/-strategy/planning/coordination meeting of all DOJ attorneys, AUSAs, FBI SAs, NYDAO, and other interested agencies, to occur in WDC during the week of 1/12/92. b6 b7C

CLERK, U.S. DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

ORDER

This action commenced with the November 15, 1991 filing of an indictment against four corporations and three individuals. Arrest warrants were issued that date and remain outstanding and unexecuted as of today.

Approximately one month later, that is, on December 19, 1991, a superseding information was filed against the four corporate defendants (collectively, "BCCI"). This was accompanied by the memorandum of intent and a plea agreement executed the 19th of December.

On December 30th this Court confirmed by Order that the arraignment and the offer of the plea would be made today and the parties, through counsel, have assembled here for this purpose.

Accordingly, today, the Court will hear the offer of the plea and make appropriate inquiries of the defendants and the government. Today, the Court will neither accept nor reject the plea agreement, but will defer its decision as to the acceptance or rejection of the plea agreement until there has been opportunity to consider relevant matters concerning this plea agreement.

The Court is not unaware of the public interest in this criminal proceeding. Expressions of interest from other parties and/or entities have been communicated to the Court through submission of papers, letters, briefs, and copies of briefs filed in other jurisdictions. Some of these communications request intervention through alleged standing, amicus curiae status and general importuning to the Court in its consideration of whether to accept the plea agreement, which includes a proposed disposition of the case, or to reject the plea agreement.

In furtherance of the public interest and in the effective administration of justice, the Court will consider the filings of relevant materials by persons and/or entities who are not parties to these criminal proceedings. In order to be considered, those filings must be made in accordance with both the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure and the Local Rules of this Court, and must be filed no later than 12:00 noon EST, January 15, 1992. A master file in the Clerk's Office has been established to accommodate these filings. The caption of any such pleadings shall be "Miscellaneous BCCI File - Misc. No. 92-06." All submissions previously tendered the Court, including Misc. No. 92-05, are hereby made a part of this file. Allowance of these filings in no way confers standing or any other status on any person or entity making any such submission.

Should the government and/or the defendants seek to respond to any of those submissions, that response must be filed no later than 12:00 noon EST, January 21, 1992.

On January 24, 1992, at 10:00 a.m., the Court will announce in open Court its decision: acceptance of the plea agreement with its proposed disposition or its rejection of the plea agreement with its proposed disposition.

The parties, through counsel, are required to be present.

The Clerk of the Court shall place a copy of this Order in Misc. No. 92-06.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

C - All others

Claiming Non-Federal Arrests, Summonses, Recoveries or Convictions:

It is permissible to claim a local arrest, summons, recovery or conviction if the FBI significantly contributed to the accomplishment. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for the claim must accompany this report. When claiming a local recovery, enter the word "LOCAL" to the right of the amount. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IA/Ts) Used:

-Since more than one IA/T could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IA/T used must be rated.

-The IA/T used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

Subject: HIDDEN INTERESTS;
MAJOR CASE 38;
FIF; FAG;
(OO: WMFO)

The purpose of this memorandum is to address the items listed below. They focus on records of the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI). The records are in the custody of the New York State Banking Department (NYSBD). Said records are maintained at the former office of BCCI, 530 5th Avenue, New York, New York. They were seized by the NYSBD when BCCI was closed down on 7/5/91. The items addressed herein include:

1. Records located at BCCI/New York (NY).
2. Records reviewed as part of captioned investigation.
3. Records reviewed by other agencies/interests.
4. Records to be reviewed at BCCI/NY.

1. Records located at BCCI/NY:

The records located at BCCI/NY include those of the NY Rep Office, NY Agency, U.S. Region, Houston Rep Office, Washington Rep Office, and Miami Agency. Said records are voluminous. The NYSBD has reviewed all records and compiled a comprehensive file inventory. The inventory was assigned a series of numbers according to department the records were located in. The NYSBD inventory was broken up as follows:

Credit Agency	5000
Platform Services	6000
Loan Administration	7000
FX	8000
Collection/Bookkeeping	8500
Accounts/Reports	9000
Paying/Receiving	10000
Computer Runs	11000
Communications	12000
Personnel	13000
(Available)	14000
Import/Export Lcs	15000
Loan Recovery	16000
ICD/Compliance	17000
Financial	18000
US Regional/General Administration	19000
NYSBD	20000*

*Contains attorney/Houston Rep/Washington Rep/Miami Agency files.

2. Records reviewed as part of captioned investigation:

On 7/31/91, BCCI Washington Rep Office records in the possession of the law firm Morvillo, Abramowitz, Grand, Iason, Silberberg were turned over to the NYSBD, at the BCCI/NY location. The NYSBD listed these records as the 20200 series. Pursuant to media accounts, it was reported that said records contained evidence of payoffs to Public Officials.

As of 7/31/91, the writer established close liaison with representatives of the NYSBD. At that time, the focus of the investigation was on the FAB/BCCI relationship and allegations of Political Corruption. Members of the First American Bank (FAB) investigative team travelled to New York in the subsequent weeks and reviewed the 20200 series. During the review process, representatives of the NYSBD recommended that the entire 20000 series be reviewed. Such records contained correspondence and other documents dealing with the relationship between FAB and BCCI.

As of 8/29/92, the entire 20000 series had been reviewed and numerous documents tagged to be photocopied. All photocopying was completed by 9/12/91. The records copied were forwarded to the FBI/WMFO. They were then more thoroughly reviewed.

As the investigation expanded, it was determined through contacts with the NYSBD that additional records would probably contain useful background information. To date, the NYSBD inventory lists for the following series' have been reviewed:

Loan Recovery	16000
Financial	18000
US Regional/General Administrative	19000

In addition, selective records in series 13000, i.e., Personnel records, have been reviewed.

It should be noted that no evidence of payoffs to Public Officials was disclosed through review of the 20000 series. It should be further noted that, as yet, based on liaison contacts with the NYSBD and the continuing review of the documents, the BCCI records at New York do not appear to contain specific evidence of criminal activity, but rather contain background and corroborative information.

3. Records reviewed by other agencies/interests:

Since 7/91, the Manhattan District Attorney's Office (MDAO) and the Federal Reserve Board (FRB) have devoted considerable time/resources to the review of the aforementioned records. It appeared that the primary focus for each agency was on the 20000 series. It also appeared that the MDAO and the FED have reviewed all records at BCCI/NY.

Since 9/91, the General Accounting Office (GAO) has dedicated considerable resources to the review of records at BCCI/NY. It appears that the primary focus of their review has been on records relating to the BCCI/Washington Rep Office. It appears that GAO has worked closely with the MDAO. A representative of the NYSBD has advised that GAO has tracked funds in and out of the BCCI/Washington Rep Office. Initially it was believed that GAO was acting at the request of Senator JOHN KERRY and was focused on Public Corruption. Such has not been confirmed.

Senator KERRY has had Investigators from the Senate Banking Committee review BCCI/NY records on at least four occasions. It is not certain what the focus of said reviews has been.

The House Banking Committee has had Investigators review records at BCCI/NY on at least one occasion. It is not certain what the focus of said reviews has been.

The purpose of this memorandum is to report on a meeting which SA [redacted] and I attended at DOJ on 2/7/92. Also present during the meeting were: [redacted] New York District Attorney's Office (NYDAO); and for at least part of the meeting: AUSAs [redacted] Trial Attorneys (T/As) [redacted] b6 b7C

The meeting was called to discuss whether and in what ways the NYDAO and the DOJ could assist and cooperate with each other in their parallel "BCCI" investigations. It was immediately agreed that, given the similar aims of the parties--e.g., to discover if there exists, or is likely to be found, sufficient evidence to indict and prosecute such subjects as CLARK CLIFFORD [redacted]-it would be of benefit to both to share information already acquired, to the extent allowed by such things as grand jury disclosure rules. b6 b7C

There followed what primarily was a chronological recitation/comparison, beginning in about 1975, of the information and documents which the NYDAO and, to some extent, DOJ, have acquired, relating mainly to CLIFFORD [redacted] When the meeting ended, the chronology had reached the end of 1980, although some other events which occurred outside the period of 1975-80 were discussed. All present agreed that the exercise was a valuable one, and that it should and would be continued at a later date. b6 b7C

Several noteworthy items were mentioned during the discussion, not the least of which being that, thus far in its investigation, the NYDAO has not found any documentation or other evidence to verify or refute allusions to or allegations of BCCI paying off or otherwise corrupting any U.S. officials.

Another noteworthy item was Assistant District Attorney (ADA) [redacted] reporting that NYDAO has received indications that [redacted] is willing to cooperate. Supposedly, according to [redacted] counsel, [redacted] CLARK CLIFFORD's idea for BCCI to use nominees to purchase U.S. banks. b6 b7C

[redacted] identified another [redacted] as having knowledge about the use of nominees by BCCI in the purchasing of FAB. Reportedly, [redacted] was asked by ABEDI to be a nominee for BCCI. Although [redacted] declined, both were sent to meet with CLIFFORD, ostensibly to furnish intelligence information on the Shah of Iran, but also for [redacted] to give CLIFFORD background information on himself for presentation to the regulators. b6 b7C

On 2/6/92, NYDAO received a copy of a ten-page report by an OCC examiner in 2/1978, about his review of documents at the BANK OF AMERICA (BOA) in London. In the report, the examiner opines that BOA was not being well served by its association with BCCI. It was apparently based on this report that SKADDEN & ARPS, representing FGB in the suit it filed to prevent the takeover, subpoenaed documents from BOA. Pursuant to the subpoena [redacted] brought a large volume of documents to the hearings. [redacted] protested the production of these records, and ultimately persuaded the WDC District Court magistrate, who reviewed the records in camera, to bar them from the proceedings. S&A attorney [redacted] was able to examine but not copy the records. He subsequently produced an affidavit about his recollections of the documents, which, he claimed, showed evidence that BCCI used nominees and paid bribes in the FGB takeover. Witnesses to these events/documents are [redacted] Currently, the NYDAO is attempting to reconstruct the documents through [redacted] at BOA. b6 b7C

On the issue of whether the various regulators (OCC; BGFRS) understood what BCCI's role was and would be with regard to the takeover and capitalization of FGB, the NYDAO has:

--a letter from OCC's [redacted] to the BGFRS, stating [redacted] b6 b7C

--a memorandum to a NYSBD file, written by [redacted] after a 12/20/80 meeting with CLIFFORD, stating that, [redacted] This is at distinct odds with CLIFFORD's b6 b7C

later, published statements that NYSBD knew BCCI would have an advisory and financial role in FAB/NY, because he told [redacted] so during that meeting. b6 b7C

Another disclosure by the NYDAO was that, when they interviewed [redacted] he produced a large stack of BCCI documents (gesturing with his hands, ADA [redacted] indicated the stack had been about a foot high) which he called his "insurance policy." It should be noted that, on the four occasions when we interviewed [redacted] -whose story has been, at best, unconvincing-- the only documents which appeared were ones we showed him. b6 b7C

Reportedly, [redacted] also told the NYDAO that, in the summer of 1990, [redacted] Washington Post [redacted] who wanted to interview him about such things as whether BCCI had any role in FABS' decision to acquire 33 upstate New York branches of BANKERS TRUST. [redacted] about the contact and was called to a meeting in WDC about it. Part of the discussion at the meeting, which was attended by [redacted] CLIFFORD, [redacted] CLIFFORD's [redacted] denying that they had conferred with ABEDI [redacted] about whether to buy the branches. [redacted] told the NYDAO he had declared to the others at the meeting that his recollection did not comport with theirs, but was told in no uncertain terms that it had better do so. b6 b7C

According to another NYDAO source, [redacted] CLIFFORD [redacted] Later, when asked by the NYDAO, [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

Yet another NYDAO confidential source disclosed that, [redacted] (Baltimore Division has been queried.) b6 b7C b7D

1325015-000-6192

As far as the NYDAO has been able to determine, there is no list of U.S. political-payoff recipients as the media have reported. Initially, [redacted] of the Fed said they saw such a list in Abu Dhabi. Later [redacted] recanted, and [redacted] said he had seen some names of some Americans on some file jackets among the records in Abu Dhabi. b6 b7C

NYDAO has interviewed [redacted] b7D

[redacted] WHITE & CASE, [redacted] BCCI in 1986 for unknown reasons. b6 b7C

After the NYDAO attorneys departed, a discussion ensued about whether a "prosecutive status memorandum" should be done with regard to the case against CLIFFORD [redacted] and if such a document was being sought to serve as the basis on which someone was going to decide whether to proceed with the investigation. It was agreed that AUSA [redacted] and I would advance the opinion to PDC [redacted] that it was premature to create such a document. b6 b7C

later, published statements that NYSBD knew BCCI would have an advisory and financial role in FAB/NY, because he told [redacted] so during that meeting. b6 b7C

Another disclosure by the NYDAO was that, when they interviewed [redacted] he produced a large stack of BCCI documents (gesturing with his hands, ADA [redacted] indicated the stack had been about a foot high) which he called his "insurance policy." It should be noted that, on the four occasions when we interviewed [redacted] --whose story has been, at best, unconvincing-- the only documents which appeared were ones we showed him. b6 b7C

Reportedly, [redacted] also told the NYDAO that, in the summer of 1990, he was called by a Washington Post [redacted] who wanted to interview him about such things as whether BCCI had any role in FABS' decision to acquire 33 upstate New York branches of BANKERS TRUST. [redacted] about the contact and was called to a meeting in WDC about it. Part of the discussion at the meeting, which was attended by [redacted] CLIFFORD, [redacted] CLIFFORD's [redacted] denying that they had conferred with ABEDI [redacted] about whether to buy the branches. [redacted] told the NYDAO he had declared to the others at the meeting that his recollection did not comport with theirs, but was told in no uncertain terms that it had better do so. b6 b7C

According to another NYDAO source [redacted] CLIFFORD [redacted] Later, when asked by the NYDAO, [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

1325015-000-6205

As far as the NYDAO has been able to determine, there is no list of U.S. political-payoff recipients as the media have reported. Initially, [redacted] of the Fed said they saw such a list in Abu Dhabi. Later, [redacted] recanted, and [redacted] said he had seen some names of some Americans on some file jackets among the records in Abu Dhabi. b6 b7C

[redacted] WHITE & CASE, [redacted] BCCI in 1986 for unknown reasons. b6 b7C

After the NYDAO attorneys departed, a discussion ensued about whether a "prosecutive status memorandum" should be done with regard to the case against CLIFFORD [redacted] and if such a document was being sought to serve as the basis on which someone was going to decide whether to proceed with the investigation. It was agreed that AUSA [redacted] and I would advance the opinion to PDC [redacted] that it would be premature to create such a document at this point. b6 b7C

Re: BCCI/NY Records Review

The records review at BCCI/NY was thoroughly addressed in my memo date 2/5/92. The purpose of this memo is to update the status of said review.

As previously articulated the most pertinent records located at BCCI/NY are the NYSBD, 20000 series. These records have been totally reviewed. There are 254 boxes of records in this series.

A comprehensive review of NYSBD Inventory Sheets for records in the 9000 series through the 20000 series has been completed by the writer. As noted above, all boxes in the 20000 series have been reviewed. Based on the Inventory Sheet review, a selective list of boxes in the 9000 series through the 190000 series has been compiled for review.

On 3/2, 3/3 and 3/4/92, records selected from the 13000 series and 19000 series were reviewed. The review was conducted by SA's [redacted] b6 b7C

The writer will be in New York between 3/25 and 3/27/92. At that time, the Inventory Sheet review for the 5000 series through the 8500 will be completed. There are no records below the 5000 series. In addition additional records as selected will be reviewed. At the end of this period, a determination will be made as to the time/resource commitment needed to complete the record review at BCCI/NY.

It should be noted that there are 4,576 boxes of records at BCCI/NY.

Dear [redacted]

Thank you again for a most fascinating and enlightening story and an excellent presentation on October 27.

I have forwarded your speech to our Center for Applied Research to be processed as a working paper in International Banking. You and your colleagues, especially [redacted] b6 b7C put a lot of work into the paper and I am very thankful to you for that.

The luncheon was, we hope, an excellent beginning of a mutually productive association between BCCI and the Institute.

I am currently working on finalizing the program for the proposed conference in Spring 1983. I shall forward you an advance copy towards the end of this month. Please let me know when it would be convenient for us to have another meeting to discuss further plans.

With best regards,

Sincerely,

BRAZIL	P	14,318M
Non-related exposures represent bank credit/placements to private commercial banks, 14,318M.
Real GDP was unchanged in 1988, after growing 2.9 percent in 1987. In 1988, strong growth in exports and agriculture was able to offset a 3.2 percent decline in industrial production. Consumer price inflation accelerated to 934 percent, after reaching 366 percent in 1987. In 1988, the trade surplus surpassed $19 billion and was the largest ever. President Sarney announced new economic measures on January 15 including price controls, the elimination of the price indexation mechanism for wages, some privatization measures, public employment cuts, and controls and targets for the fiscal budget. The Brazilian Congress has approved some of these measures, but others, such as employment cuts and the privatization measures, may not be fully enacted. Since mid-January, authorities have held overnight interest rates at 25 to 30 percent monthly. Brazilian authorities are aiming to reduce the operational public sector budget deficit to zero in 1989. In June 1988, a term sheet was agreed to between Brazil and commercial bank creditors that rescheduled $62 billion in debt over 20 years, provided for $5.2 billion in new money, maintained $15.5 billion in short-term credit lines and included a menu of financing options including relending, new money bonds, and exit bonds. After a "critical mass" of bank commitments to the financing package was achieved, the IMF Executive Board approved an SDR 1.1 billion standby arrangement in late August 1988. The first (SDR 365 million) standby tranche was disbursed at that time, but Brazil will require a waiver to receive the next (SDR 31 million) tranche. The signing of the commercial bank refinancing package in late September and the November disbursement of $4 billion of the $5.2 billion new money package allowed Brazil to regularize payments and relations with bank creditors. At the end of July 1988, the Paris Club rescheduled $3.9 billion in

During the week of 3/2-6/92, 9 of 11 boxes of documents were received from Legat London, and on 3/11/92, the final 2 boxes arrived. The documents therein had been requested from the [redacted] by DOJ attorneys, who selected them from an index the [redacted] has provided relating to its evidence. The requests for the documents were handled through DOJ's Office of International Affairs attorney [redacted] who directed that the [redacted] response be made through London ALAT [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

I assigned three SAs and one FA to review the records prior to turning them over to DOJ, believing that to be the most efficient way to determine if additional investigation was possible or neccesary based on the contents of the records. The FA, in particular, was assigned to schedule out financial information appearing in a large group of memoranda already found in one of the boxes. At present the review is incomplete, due to prior travel commitments of the assigned SAs and FA. However, it now must be suspended indefinitely.

On this date I received a call from [redacted] at DOJ, who, along with [redacted] is coordinating, among other things, requests from Fraud Section attorneys and other USAOs for [redacted] records. ([redacted] was aware, from conversations I have had with her during the last few days, that we were trying to review these records prior to sending them to DOJ. She had even faxed me a copy of all requests made to the [redacted] thus far, for comparison with our copy of the [redacted] index.) In her call to me, [redacted] announced that she had spoken with DOJ Fraud Section Principal Deputy Chief [redacted] about our review. PDC [redacted] she reported, had told her he understood the procedure to be that the documents would be sent directly to DOJ, not the FBI, for inclusion in the "Aspen" system, and for her to ask me to bring the documents to her. b6 b7C

Therefore, I will deliver all boxes to [redacted] at DOJ today, and apparently will be unable to review their contents until the "Aspen" people are done with them.

Memorandum

To : SAC, WMFO (29B-WF-171994) (P) Date 8/20/91

From : SA [redacted] (C-5) b6 b7C

Subject: HIDDEN INTEREST;
MAJOR CASE 38;
FIF; FAG;
(OO: WMFO)

This memorandum addresses the review/reproduction of the BCCI/Washington, D.C. Representative Office records. Said records are in the custody of the New York State Banking Department (NYSBD), located at the former New York office of BCCI, 530 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York. b6 b7C

On 7/31/91, 42 boxes of the above mentioned records were moved from the law office of Cleary Gottlieb to the NYSBD. The move was coordinated by the writer with NYO Squad C-2 SSA [redacted] and AUSA [redacted] District of Columbia.

On 8/2/91, the records were briefly reviewed by AUSA [redacted] SA [redacted] and the writer. Two boxes marked "privileged documents" were copied by NYO SA [redacted]. Such was done after AUSA [redacted] discussed this with NYSBD Attorneys. SA [redacted] completed the copying on 8/5/91. b6 b7C

On 8/7/91, the copying of all the records was discussed with AUSA'S [redacted] AUSA [redacted] advised that he wanted all records copied. The writer strongly disagreed and stated that only those records germane to the investigation should be copied. AUSA [redacted] concurred after the writer added that he would insure all the records were reviewed to determine which records should be copied. b6 b7C

On that same date, the writer contacted numerous copy machine vendors in order to arrange for a rental machine to be placed at the NYSBD. This was coordinated through FBIHQ.

On that same date, the writer contacted Deputy Superintendent [redacted] NYSBD and SSA [redacted] to coordinate the review/copying project. b6 b7C

On 8/8/91 and 8/9/91, respectively, SA [redacted] and the writer reviewed the aforementioned records. In addition, the NYSBD Examiners recommended that other boxes should be reviewed, which were probably relevant to this matter. b6 b7C

On 8/8/91, the writer had numerous contacts with AUSA'S [redacted] and [redacted] Said AUSA'S were making arrangements with the Manhattan District Attorney to have the above records transported to the NYO to be copied. Ultimately an agreement was reached. The agreement only permitted records to be transported/copied in the presence of a representative of the DA'S office and only between the hours of 8:00AM and 4:00PM. It should be noted that the NYO was prepared to work around the clock to complete this project. The limitations placed on this project have seriously delayed completion of the copying. It should be further noted that the Manhattan DA'S office has been non-responsive to SSA [redacted] b6 b7C

On 8/9/91, 20 boxes of records were transported to the NYO and copying was begun.

On 8/13/91, SSA [redacted] provided the writer with the copies of the documents copied by SA [redacted] on 8/5/91. b6 b7C

On 8/16/91, SA [redacted] and the writer completed the review of the records. The writer was provided with copies of inventory sheets for all pertinent boxes of records and for all records listed in the 20,000 series by the NYSBD. Such records may also be pertinent to this matter. All inventory sheets have been reviewed and additional records will be reviewed/copied as a result thereof. b6 b7C

On 8/20/91, the writer made final arrangements with Delson Systems to rent a photocopy machine in furtherance of the reproduction of the records. The machine will be delivered on 8/21/91 to the office of the NYSBD.

It should be noted that the writer has maintained daily contact with the USAO and the NYO concerning coordination of the photocopy project. Set forth on the next page is a list of the box inventory numbers for records that have been moved to the NYO, records at the NYSBD that need to be copied and boxes that will not be copied.

On this date, DOJ [redacted] b6 b7C informed me that, on 8/19/91, a meeting occurred at the DOJ Fraud Section, conducted by [redacted] relating to the computerization of the document-universe in the BCCI cases. [redacted], who was the only person there associated with the captioned matter and who only found out about the meeting by accident, five minutes before it occurred, learned that DOJ's plan is possibly to "image" every document in every location associated with BCCI (i.e., in Miami, Tampa, the Cayman Islands, Washington, D.C., New York, London.....). The implementation of this plan is imminent, but the methodology is still to be ironed out. Apparently, DOJ is considering dispatching two-person, "case agent/prosecutor" teams to each location to "triage" (sic) the documents, dividing them by priorities for imaging.

Yet to be determined, apparently, is the source(s) of the "case agents."

I reminded [redacted] of our upcoming plan to move the documents from his office to the NVMRA, beginning Friday, 8/23/91, to begin the process of cataloguing and reviewing them. He expressed several concerns (which did not change our plans): how he and the [redacted] could get here to continue their own cataloguing/review process (in which we have not participated or even been consulted); how a newly-formed group of agents would be able to assimilate enough knowledge to meaningfully and efficiently review and catalogue the records, given the "extreme learning curve" involved. I assured [redacted] that the continuity of the records would be maintained and that sufficient facilities, background material and guidance would be given the reviewers to enable them to do their job. I also told [redacted] we expect all the attorneys involved in the case to be intimately involved in the review process. b6 b7C

On 9/16/91, SA [redacted], Tampa Division, notified me that the trip to Abu Dhabi and Pakistan by U.S. government representatives is going forward. Currently, those slated to go (per Tampa U.S. Customs SA [redacted] are Tampa [redacted] SA [redacted] Miami AUSA [redacted] someone from DOJ Office of International Affairs and someone from the FBI. b6 b7C b7E

SA [redacted] asked if I was aware that about 4,000 boxes of BCCI/Miami and BCCI/Tampa representative offices records were taken into custody some time ago (at least prior to or about the time of the money laundering trial) by the Federal Reserve and stored somewhere in the Miami area. About 60 boxes of records were reviewed, catalogued and used by the [redacted] USCS in the [redacted] trial and portions of another 110 were also reviewed, with some of those documents used in the trial as well. (The latter 170 boxes may have been seized when BCCI/Miami was searched in 1988.) b6 b7C b7E

According to SA [redacted] the Tampa [redacted] and USCS plan at some point in the near future to return to the 4,000 boxes documents. SA [redacted] will attempt to determine more about the nature, number and location of these records. b6 b7C b7E

An apparently-related piece of information came from AUSA [redacted] Washington, D.C., on 9/17/91, when he reported having heard that some 400-500 boxes of BCCI records exist somewhere in Florida, but are supposedly subject to the New York District Attorney's court order. This indicates that probably the Federal Reserve has or had the records and disclosed their existence to the New York District Attorney. b6 b7C

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The following represents key points in the Minority staff report related to the September 11th hearing dealing with the activities of Clark Clifford and Robert Altman at First American Bank and their relationship with BCCI:

1.) BCCI Account Activity at FAB - FAB maintained an extensive correspondent banking relationship with BCCI. A total of 47 BCCI branches or affiliates maintained accounts at FAB. An internal FAB memo indicates that from 1986 to 1990, 71% of incoming wire transfers to FAB were from BCCI-Panama. Also, FAB held an account code-named "Gloria" that was involved in curious wire transfer activity from South America.

2.) Telex from Sami to Naqvi - Telex concerning BCCI's interest in acquiring Financial General. Telex states "for presentation of the holding company application to FED our friend (believed to be Bert Lance) advised that we may retain Mr. Clifford as Chief Counsel ... Accordingly, I met Mr. Clark Clifford and explained to him our strategy and our goal. He was happy to know the details and has blessed the acquisition." Clifford denies meeting took place. However, there is absolutely no reason whatsoever to question the credibility of the telex and the facts contained therein.

3.) Clifford and Altman's memo to Abedi concerning NBG - Clifford and Altman both sent Abedi a memo highlighting the legal difficulties of BCCI's involvement with the National Bank of Georgia deal. The memo states in one portion: " A bigger problem, however, arising from BCCI's involvement in the transaction is that it might focus closer attention on the relationship between BCCI and CCAH." Clifford denies that he ever read the memo before sending it.

4.) BCCI's Americas Coordinating Committee - Meeting headed by FABNY employee where statements were made concerning BCCI's control of the First American group of banks. Altman attended the meetings at BCCI expense.

5.) Employment practices - As a matter of course all applicants for senior positions at First American were required to be interviewed by BCCI officials. This appears to be highly unusual.

6.) Ryback Letters - Exchange of letters between FED supervisory official William Ryback and Altman. FED letter inquires if BCCI has ever financed stock purchases in CCAH. Altman indicates that correspondence with BCCI shows that no financing provided to the original investors. Altman declines to mention $15M in loans to himself and Clifford to purchase CCAH stock. Stock later resold at $9.8M profit to Clifford and Altman. FED believes Altman misrepresented facts to Ryback.

7.) Clifford and Altman's stock deals - Clifford and Altman used a $15M loan from BCCI to purchase stock in CCAH beginning in 1987. Clifford and Altman bought the stock at $2216 per share and sold the stock in 1988 for $6800 per share. This price is the single highest price ever recorded for a share of stock in the annals of the FED. An independent valuation of the stock indicates a price of $3400 per share would have been reasonable. Clifford and Altman made $9.8M on the deal financed by BCCI.

8.) Certificates of Deposits - FAB held several CDs with BCCI or its affiliate ICIC. It is unclear why it would place funds in an offshore bank with BCCI's reputation 9.) BCCI Oversight of FAB Operations - Significant documentary evidence exists that BCCI exercised direct oversight over FAB operations. BCCI gave direction as to the choice of accountants and approved their billings. BCCI regularly reviewed FAB's operations. Clifford and Altman regularly traveled to London to confer with BCCI regarding FAB operations. For U.S. planning purposes BCCI appears to have considered FAB as a U.S. affiliate.

10.) BCCI International Conferences - Altman attended BCCI's annual conferences with top executives for several years running.

11.) Clifford letter to Abedi - Clifford sent a letter to BCCI head Aga Hasan Abedi indicating a desire to continue to pursue our "joint efforts." This appears to reference First American.

12.) Conflicts of Interests - Clifford and Altman regularly represented all parties in transactions involving First American. The law firm of Clifford & Warnke were counsel to BCCI, CCAH, CCAI, FAB, and each individual shareholder of CCAH. Also, Clifford and Altman were on the boards of all of these entities except BCCI. It is questionable whether independent legal judgement could have been exercised in these transactions.

13.) BAII Loan Application - Documents reviewed by Federal investigators at BAII in France appear to indicate that BCCI was acting as an agent for Clifford and Altman in soliciting loans to finance their CCAH stock purchases. BCCI had previously used BAII as a nominee for a loan granted to CCAH.

14.) Roundtrip of Funds - Altman sold his stock in CCAH to an Arab investor who paid out of a BCCI Grand Cayman account. Altman repaid his personal loan from BCCI to a Grand Cayman account of the bank. Federal investigators have called this a "roundtrip" of funds and have cause to believe that this may have been a sham transaction to erase BCCI debt while giving Altman the profits from his stock deal.

15.) Loan from Adham - Beginning in 1983 Sheik Kamal Adham loaned First American $20M. However, internal BCCI documents indicate that CCAH had requested the loan directly and BCCI structured the loan through Adham as a nominee. It would appear that Clifford and Altman should have had direct knowledge of any CCAH loan request.

16.) Investigative Interviews - Certain interviews done by Federal investigators indicate a belief that Clifford and Altman knew of the BCCI link with FAB. For example, a memorandum of interview with one witness states: "When we discussed the FED's theory that BCCI took control of FG through nominees he (the witness) said 'your're right ... but how are you going to prove it.'"

17.) Subordinated Debt Issue - Documents housed at BCCI's Abu Dhabi office indicate that BCCI conceived a 1988 subordinated debt offering by CCAH. The FED was seeking new capital for FAB and Altman urgently called BCCI for an injection of capital. BCCI responded with a telex outlining a subordinated debt offering to be structured through a BCCI subsidiary.

18.) Historical statements - Clifford and Altman made a variety of statements pursuant to CCAH's 1980 application to acquire FAB concerning the investors. Regulators are examining these statements to determine if they involved intentional misrepresentations.

19.) NBG Transaction - Documents obtained from BCCI's Abu Dhabi office indicate that Altman may have directed a legal strategy related to FAB's NBG acquisition to evade FED scrutiny of BCCI's role in the transaction. Memos indicate that Altman designed the deal so that FAB's option to acquire NBG would not be linked with a loan from BCCI and be considered an "integrated transaction" that would have to be disclosed to the FED.

20.) Centrust - BCCI had significant Centrust ties through the relationship of BCCI front man Ghaith Pharaon and David Paul. Pharaon bought the National Bank of Georgia from Bert Lance in the late 1970s and sold it to Clifford and Altman in 1986. Both transactions were financed entirely by BCCI. Pharaon and Paul had a meeting with Robert Altman on June 24, 1988 immediately before the two met with the FHLBB Chairman to seek regulatory relief for Centrust. Later it appears that Centrust and First American may have jointly conducted a due diligence concerning an acquisition of Lincoln Savings from Charles Keating. Finally, at a meeting with BCCI on October 2, 1989, Clifford indicated that Centrust was an acquisition candidate for First American. The Centrust-BCCI-First American link should be probed more deeply by the Committee.

21.) Moneylaundering Case - Undercover tape recordings of BCCI employees indicate that Altman was acting as their legal advisor and recommending that they leave the country to avoid service of process concerning the moneylaundering investigation. The tapes also state that BCCI owned FAB.

22.) BCCI Legal Defense Fund - Clifford and Altman managed a $30M defense fund for BCCI. Checks were processed through FAB and it is clear from BCCI Board minutes that Altman was involved in BCCI's legal strategy.

23.) Bert Lance - The role of Bert Lance in originally representing BCCI should be probed. BCCI bought the National Bank of Georgia from Lance and it appears that Lance was centrally involved in the BCCI plan to take over Financial General.

Introduction

On July 5, 1991 the offices of Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI) were seized in Europe, the United States and a number of other countries. On July 29, 1991, the Federal Reserve Board commenced enforcement proceedings against BCCI Holdings (Luxembourg), two subsidiary banks of BCCI in Luxembourg and the Cayman Islands and a Cayman Islands bank related to BCCI, for violations of U.S. banking laws. The Federal Reserve is seeking a $200 million civil money penalty and will act to permanently bar nine individuals from any involvement with U.S. banking organizations in the future. A New York County grand jury has also returned an indictment against BCCI, its related entities and two of its founders. The charges include defrauding BCCI depositors, falsifying bank records to hide illegal money laundering and various larcenies totaling more than $30 million.

The Federal Reserve's enforcement proceeding is based on evidence that BCCI illegally obtained control over several U.S. banking organizations through the use of "nominee" shareholders. The banks controlled by BCCI include First American Bankshares, Washington, D.C., the National Bank of Georgia, CenTrust Savings Bank, Miami, Florida and Independence Bank, Encino, California.

On September 5, 1991 the Tampa United States Attorney unsealed a second round of indictments against BCCI related parties. Capcom Financial Services, LTD., a BCCI subsidiary, is charged, as part of the BCCI international banking group, as being a Racketeering Enterprise under the RICO Act, 18 U.S.C. 1957, 1952. Swaleh Naqvi, Dildar Rizvi, Bashir Shaikh, Wilfredo Glasse and S.Z.A. Akbar who are all current or former BCCI officers, are charged with the commission of a pattern of racketeering activity involving money laundering through the use of foreign and domestic branches of BCCI. The indictment also alleges that Akbar used BCCI branches to hide and transfer approximately $23 million controlled by Manuel Antonio Noriega and his family. These acts occurred after Noriega was indicted for narcotics trafficking in the U.S.

This report will chronicle the history of BCCI and the means by which BCCI gained control of American banks and assess the activities of federal banking and law enforcement agencies.

The Origins of BCCI

In 1972 a Pakistani banker, Agha Hasan Abedi, fearing the imminent nationalization of Pakistan's banks, established the Bank of Credit and Commerce International in Luxembourg. Bank of America, desirous of increasing its banking ties in the Middle East, had a 30% stake in the venture. A BCCI subsidiary bank was established in the Cayman Islands while the bank's main operations were run out of the London branch. BCCI began an aggressive growth campaign and established branches throughout the Middle East, Africa, Latin America and Asia. By 1990, BCCI had more than $20 billion in assets, over 14,000 employees, and 417 offices in 73 countries.

In Pakistan, BCCI became part of the ruling establishment, acting as banker for influential officials and even lending to the government to overcome balance of payments problems. Under Abedi's direction, BCCI made loans to senior civil servants, offered scholarships and jobs to their children and gave a number of government officials jobs at BCCI. Pakistan's President, Ghulam Ishaq Khan, runs the BCCI Foundation, nominally a charity to benefit humanitarian projects in Pakistan. It has been reported that only a small portion of the Foundation's funds are used for humanitarian purposes and that it is mainly a cloak for Abedi's illicit activities.

BCCI's activities in Pakistan are illustrative of what the bank was able to accomplish in a number of other countries. In Peru, former President Alan Garcia is being investigated on charges of the improper use of Treasury funds with BCCI's assistance. Members of Argentine President Carlos Menem's family have been charged with laundering drug money through BCCI offices. The BCCI pattern of befriending public officials and promoting charities while engaging in shady banking practices has been discovered in a number of other countries, including the United States.

One of the main reasons BCCI was able to carry out its business undiscovered for so many years was the fact that it was so minimally regulated. Luxembourg and the Cayman Islands are known tax havens with extremely obliging bank supervisors. The BCCI corporate structure was specifically designed to circumvent the proper regulatory oversight of its activities. No central bank was involved. There were no consolidated examinations or audits.

Abedi's grand ambitions for his bank included establishing a foothold in the United States. In 1975, an attempt by BCCI to purchase Chelsea National Bank in New York was rejected by the regulators. BCCI was turned down because of perceived weaknesses in management and in their regulatory structure. Abedi, however, was undaunted and was quoted in 1978 as saying that Financial General Bankshares (FGB) would be an ideal place to establish operations in the U.S. (FGB was a multibank holding company with subsidiary banks in Washington, D.C., Maryland, New York, Tennessee and Virginia.) In the early 1980's, a senior BCCI official was informed by counsel that BCCI could not obtain Federal Reserve Board approval to acquire U.S. banks. Until 1990, Federal bank regulators assumed that BCCI was not involved in the ownership or operations of any American banks. Unfortunately, recent revelations have shown that BCCI has controlled a number of institutions in this country since at least 1982.

BCCI's Expansion into the U.S.

BCCI Acquisition of FGB

On November 9, 1977, at the suggestion of Bert Lance, Abdus Sami, a senior BCCI official, met with Jackson Stephens, an investment banker from Arkansas, to discuss the BCCI purchase of the National Bank of Georgia (NGB). Lance owned 12% of NBG. At that meeting, Stephens suggested to Sami that Financial General Bankshares might be a good investment for BCCI. From December of 1977 through February of 1978, four Middle Eastern investors, acting through Abedi and Sami, purchased almost 20% of the voting shares of FGB. The investors were Kamal Adham, a former Saudi intelligence chief, Faisal Saud Al-Fulaij, a Kuwaiti businessman, Abdullah Darwaish (as a representative of Sheikh Mohammed bin Zayed al Nahyan), and Sheikh Sultan bin Zayed al Nahyan (both Mohammed and Sultan are in the Abu Dhabi royal family).

On January 30, 1978, Sami sent a telex to Abedi regarding the acquisition of FGB. Sami referred to "BCCI's intention to acquire control" of FGB.[1] He states that "we have to be careful that our name does not appear as financier to most of them for this acquisition." Sami noted the need to keep each individual shareholder's stake under 5%, presumably in order to avoid SEC filing requirements and Bank Holding Company Act requirements. He also mentioned that, at the suggestion of Lance, he had retained Clark Clifford. "I met with Mr. Clark Clifford and explained to him our strategy and our goal.... He was happy to know the details and has blessed the acquisition."[2]

On February 17, 1978, Financial General filed suit in federal court against BCCI, Abedi, Lance and others, alleging violations of the Securities and Exchange Act by failing to make the required filings. On March 17, 1978 the SEC filed a separate suit against the same defendants. On that same day each defendant agreed to a consent judgement that included an injunction prohibiting any further SEC violations. As part of the consent order the four investors and ICIC Overseas (a BCCI subsidiary in the Cayman Islands) agreed to make a tender offer for all FGB shares, subject to regulatory approval.

On April 27, 1978 the federal district court in the FGB action issued a preliminary injunction against BCCI, Abedi and the other defendants. The court ordered the defendants, before buying any additional FGB shares, to rescind the prior purchases.

The court made the following findings:

1) The four BCCI clients relied heavily, if not exclusively, on the recommendations of Abedi and BCCI in deciding to purchase FGB shares;

2) Abedi, Sami, and other BCCI agents were actively involved in the purchase of FGB shares from existing shareholders;

3) In December 1977, BCCI's agents sought to purchase a percentage of FGB shares substantially in excess of any amount for which they had purchasers;

4) Abedi and BCCI recommended the purchase of FGB shares only to the four clients who later made purchases;

5) Two clients, Adham and Darwaish, gave BCCI broad authority, including the right to vote the shares; and,

6) Abedi, BCCI, their agents and the BCCI clients agreed to pool the voting power of the shares owned by the four BCCI clients with the voting power of FGB shares controlled by BCCI's agents to exert significant influence on the management of FGB.

In July and August of 1978, Credit and Commerce American Holdings (CCAH), Netherland Antilles, and Credit and Commerce American Investments (CCAI), Netherlands, were established as vehicles for acquiring shares in Financial General. CCAH and CCAI are essentially shell holding companies established to purchase FGB and to minimize taxes. In SEC filings, BCCI, Abedi and the four investors stated that BCCI would have no interest in CCAH. However, ICIC would own less than 5% of CCAH shares.

Also in July of 1978, Robert Altman, the attorney representing BCCI, Abedi and the investors, in a key maneuver effectively blocked opposing counsel in the FGB suit from gaining possession of Bank of America documents relating to BCCI. These records indicated that the relationships between BCCI and the four investors involved substantial existing loans to two of the investors and BCCI stock ownership by all of the investors. Additionally, one of the investors, Adham, was suspected of receiving large payments from the Boeing Corporation in order to obtain contracts in the Middle East.[3] This type of behavior led to the passage of the Foreign Corrupt Trade Practices Act.

On October 19, 1978 CCAH and CCAI filed an application with the Federal Reserve Board for prior approval under the BHC Act to purchase all of the voting shares of FGB. The 1978 application stated that approximately $70 million would be required to make the tender offer. That money was to be obtained from a limited number of investors in return for shares of CCAH. The application stated that the proposed individual investors have "substantial personal funds... the funds to be used by each of them to purchase the equity interest in CCAH will be provided from their personal funds and possibly personal borrowings... from one or more financial institutions (which would be unaffiliated with BCCI or any of its affiliates)... if personal borrowings are made, FGB shares will not serve as collateral for such borrowings." Robert Altman, as counsel, in a letter to the Federal Reserve stated that "neither BCCI nor any other organization related to BCCI contemplates owning any equity interest in CCAH." The CCAH shareholders were to be ICIC Overseas (4.5%), Adham (24%), Darwaish (24%), Fulaij (24%) and several other Middle Eastern entities.[4]

On February 16, 1979 the Federal Reserve Board rejected the application on the grounds that the hostile acquisition of FGB's Maryland subsidiary bank would violate Maryland law. The Maryland Attorney General issued an opinion stating that it was unlawful for a Maryland bank to have an affiliation to which the bank had not consented.

In April of 1980, Adham solicited proxies from FGB shareholders for the 1980 shareholders' meeting urging support for a resolution favoring a proposed tender offer by CCAH. The proposal was narrowly defeated. However, shortly thereafter, FGB management resolved its differences with the BCCI backed group and on July 25, 1980 an agreement was reached permitting a tender offer at $25 per share. Thus clearing the way for the group to buy FGB.

On November 25, 1980 CCAH again filed an application with the Federal Reserve Board. It stated that the $180 million needed to complete the acquisition would come from three sources:

1) Equity contributions to CCAH from Adham, Fulaij and Darwaish;
2) The sale of CCAH shares to three BCCI clients and other investors; and,
3) A $50 million loan from an institution not related to BCCI.[5]

The application stated that "no [CCAH] principal will retain any personal indebtedness in connection with this transaction ... funds to purchase their equity interest in CCAH will be provided from their personal funds." All applicants assured the Federal Reserve that there was no relationship between CCAH and BCCI, other than BCCI acting as investment advisor to Adham and Fulaij. Altman wrote to the Board stating: "[w]ith regard to the stockholders of CCAH, all holdings constitute personal investments. None are held as an unidentified agent for another individual or organization."[6]

In a March 12, 1981 letter from the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the OCC cited the representation of applicant's counsel that BCCI would not be involved in the financing or management of Financial General. The OCC letter said: "[t]his commitment is critical, both now and in the future, since such relationship with another financial institution would be a significant factor in appraising this application ... [A]ny enhanced direct or indirect affiliation or relationship between BCCI and Financial General would take on even greater significance in light of the fact that BCCI is not subject to regulation or supervision on a consolidated basis by a single bank supervisory authority."

On April 23, 1981 a hearing was held at the Federal Reserve. Adham stated: "There is ... no understanding or arrangement regarding any future relationship or proposed transactions between Financial General and BCCI ... I would like to assure you that each one [investor] on his own rights will not accept in any way to be a cover for somebody else ... We are doing it for ourselves." Altman said: "there is no connection between those entities [CCAH and CCAI] and BCCI in terms of ownership or other relationship." Clifford added: "There is no function of any kind on the part of BCCI ... I know of no present relationship, I know of no planned future relationships that exist ... "[7]

On August 25, 1981, the Federal Reserve, based on the representations of the applicants and their shareholders, issued an order approving the acquisition of FGB. On March 2, 1982, the New York State Banking Board approved CCAH's application to acquire FGB after CCAH agreed to divest FGB's New York subsidiary, the Bank of Commerce. On March 2, 1982 a CCAH tender offer of $33.80 per share was accepted. The purchase was final on April 16, 1982. Clifford became a managing director of CCAH and Chairman of the renamed First American Bank (FAB). Altman was also named a director of First American Bank and president of its direct parent company, First American Corporation (FAC). Clifford and Altman continued to act as attorneys for First American, FAC, CCAI, CCAH and BCCI.

The only regulator to urge that the CCAH application be denied was Sidney Bailey, Commissioner of Financial Institutions for Virginia. On December 31, 1980, Bailey sent a letter to the Federal Reserve stating that "[T]he application generates but leaves unanswered a number of concerns and questions including but not limited to, the ultimate source and nature of policies controlling the activity and operation of the banks involved, the soundness of such policies, and their consequences upon the continued soundness of the bank and the accessibility and responsibility of those finally responsible for making policy." [8]

BCCI's Nominee Arrangements

In December 1990, the Federal Reserve discovered that BCCI had controlled shares in CCAH since as early as 1982. The documents reflecting BCCI's control had been concealed from U.S. regulatory authorities and were maintained in BCCI's overseas offices, sometimes in the private offices of Abedi and Naqvi. At the time of the 1982 acquisition of FGB, BCCI controlled, by means of nominee arrangements, 25% or more of the voting shares of CCAH. The failure to disclose this ownership is a violation of the Bank Holding Company Act. BCCI had started financing these stock purchases in late 1977. BCCI's arrangements with the nominees included the following: loans to the individuals to purchase CCAH shares, in which the nominees were not liable for servicing or repayment of the loans; presigned, blank share transfer deeds; agreements with the nominees under which BCCI was authorized to sell shares and retain the profits for itself; agreements by BCCI to indemnify the nominees against any loss they might sustain in their investments; memoranda of deposit granting BCCI the power to vote the pledged shares; and, agreements to provide the payment of fixed profits and fees to shareholders for their services. After 1982, BCCI made a number of additional acquisitions through arrangements with the nominees. BCCI currently controls 60% of CCAH shares.

The transactions involving Sheikh Adham provide a good example of a nominee arrangement. On March 2, 1982, Adham acquired 19,050 shares of the new entity, CCAH, by trading in his existing FGB shares and paying an additional $13,110,118 in cash. Despite his prior representation before the Federal Reserve about the use of his own funds, Adham borrowed the $13,110,118 from BCCI.

On December 21, 1982, BCCI acquired 15,050 shares from Adham for $27,090,000, but kept them registered in Adham's name. The 15,050 shares were available to be sold by BCCI to selected buyers. BCCI booked the $27,090,000 as a loan to Adham from ICIC overseas and used the proceeds to discharge Adham's loan accounts at BCCI. In June of 1983, BCCI extended two loans to Adham to discharge the $27,090,000 loan from ICIC Overseas. These loans have never been serviced or repaid.

In 1983, BCCI purchased additional CCAH shares in the name of Adham in rights offerings and related transactions. At the end of 1983, BCCI controlled 26,319 CCAH shares in the name of Adham, 16.86% of CCAH shares. In 1986, BCCI acquired an additional 8,544 shares in a rights offering through Adham. BCCI (Caymans) advanced the $18,933,504 purchase price for the acquisition of the shares and pledged the shares to secure the loan. On August 2, 1987, ICIC wrote to Adham assuring him that his loans would be repaid from the sale of the pledged shares and that Adham would carry no personal liability for the loans.[9]

In 1987 and 1989 rights offerings, BCCI again acquired more shares in Adham's name. BCCI made the loans and the loans were collateralized with the shares themselves. In April of 1988, Adham granted ICIC full authority to obtain additional shares of CCAH in Adham's name. In return, ICIC agreed to indemnify Adham for any claims relating to outstanding loans and agreed that its only source of repayment would be the sale of the shares. None of the loans extended to purchase shares in the name of Adham has been repaid or serviced except through other loans from BCCI or ICIC.

A condition of the original approval of the sale of FGB was the injection of additional capital to be obtained from an institution not related to BCCI. An Arab-owned French investment bank, Banque Arabe et Internationale d'Investissement (BAII), loaned $50 million to CCAH, secured by a deposit from Adham. Adham concealed from the Federal Reserve the fact that BCCI was indirectly funding his deposit and thereby the BAII loan. In addition to the profit Adham realized in the 1982 sale of his shares to BCCI, he was paid $200,000 by BCCI for acting as its nominee. Through the use of Adham as a nominee, BCCI was able to control between 12% and 19% of CCAH shares. BCCI used similar nominee arrangements with Faisal Saud Al-Fulaij, A.R. Khalil, Sayed Jawhary and several companies controlled by the ruling families of the United Arab Emirates.

BCCI Involvement in First American Management

In 1983, in order to expand its banking presence in New York, First American acquired two branches from Bankers Trust in Manhattan that were added to the recently acquired bank, renamed the First American Bank, New York (FABNY). BCCI participated in the purchase of these branches.[10] Khusro Elley was in charge of the BCCI representative office in New York. He initially met with Bankers Trust representatives to purchase the branches for BCCI. He then negotiated on behalf of First American while still working as a BCCI employee. During the course of the negotiations, Elley told the Bankers Trust representative that if a higher bid price was required, his management in London might reconsider whether to bid at all.[11] At the time of his statement, First American had no office or representatives in London.

It is also apparent that BCCI, in violation of representations made in the Fed-approved application, participated in the selection of FABNY officers. Elley was hired in 1983 as FABNY's senior vice president. Prior to contacting Elley, Altman had discussed the position with BCCI President Naqvi who suggested that Elley be hired by FABNY.[12] Federal investigators allege Elley continued to receive financial benefit from BCCI while employed at FABNY. Federal Reserve investigators found that Elley was still on the BCCI pay roll. Aijaz Afridi, a long-time BCCI employee, was also hired by FABNY as executive vice president. During his tenure at FABNY, from July 1983 through May 1987, Afridi kept in close contact with BCCI, speaking almost daily with BCCI's London office. Afridi left FABNY when Abedi asked him to manage BCCI's operations in Spain. Additionally, Afridi and Elley, while working for FABNY, attended several of BCCI's annual conferences where BCCI senior management were brought together from all over the world. A number of other individuals who were seeking jobs or who were placed in FABNY had to be approved by Abedi and Naqvi.

BCCI monitored the operations of First American and other banks through its "Americas Coordinating Committee." Abedi ordered the establishment of the Committee in 1985 and its first meeting was held in New York on April 24, 1985. This meeting was attended by Afridi and Elley, FABNY employees. Afridi chaired the first meeting and described the Committee's purpose as "coordinat[ing] the efforts of different locations of BCCI and other institutions so that the President's [Abedi's] desire to have a totality in approach is achieved."[13] Officials representing each BCCI office participating gave summaries of their banks' business; Elley did so with respect to FABNY. Elley told the participants that "in America we are sitting on $7 billion dollars in assets and this is just the beginning."[14] Robert Altman also attended this meeting. At that time BCCI's U.S. agencies only held $800 million in assets. The inclusion of the assets of First American and National Bank of Georgia would have totaled $7 billion.

The second meeting of BCCI's "Americas Coordinating Committee" occurred in Miami on June 2, 1985. Afridi and Elley again attended. Mansoor Shafi, FABNY vice president, was designated as the contact person for any BCCI managers wanting to contact First American. In response to a request from the head of BCCI's Latin American region, Afredi said he would have two latin officers at FABNY forward the list of their contacts.

Additionally, Abedi acknowledged control of First American in April of 1987 in an address to BCCI's Far East Region Senior Executives in Hong Kong. He stated that "[y]ou are now within the First American Group of banks...."[15]

BCCI Accounts and Other Transactions at First American

A total of 47 branches, subsidiaries and affiliates of BCCI maintained U.S. dollar accounts at First American Bank of New York. FABNY also advised, confirmed and negotiated letters of credit originated by BCCI banks. An internal First American document dated August 9, 1990 revealed that the First American Banks, excluding New York and Georgia, showed hundreds of wire transfers to and from BCCI entities over the five year period from 1985 through 1990. A June 20, 1990, First American memorandum reviewing wire transfer activity from Panama during the period from February 1986 through February 1990 revealed that there were 687 incoming transfers totalling $46,126,971.00 and 361 outgoing transfers totalling $31,901,23.00. Seventy one percent of the incoming transfers were from BCCI-Panama. BCCI was indicted in Florida in October of 1988 for using the Panama branch and a number of other branches to facilitate the laundering of drug money. BCCI pleaded guilty to money laundering in February of 1990.

Additionally, the Minority staff uncovered the existence of an account by the code name "Gloria" in Argentina. According to internal bank documents, the account was allegedly for a foreign exchange house in Argentina. However, an internal audit showed that the mailing address for Gloria was in Montevideo, Uruguay and was not a legally registered entity in Argentina. The First American audit indicated that "Gloria" was used to cash U.S. checks for U.S. dollars in Argentina. The checks were then sent to the FABNY for deposit in the "Gloria" account, and then funds were subsequently wired to other U.S. banks and foreign banks. Significantly, unexplained wire transfers came from Panama into the "Gloria" account. Although the internal auditor concluded that "Gloria" was not being used to launder money, the minority staff will continue to investigate the true nature of the "Gloria" enterprise.

Clark Clifford and Robert Altman:

Knowledge of and Involvement in the BCCI Control of First American Bank

Despite Clifford and Altman's insistence they were duped along with the regulators, an examination of the documentary evidence available to the Committee strongly suggests that these two sophisticated Washington attornies should have known about BCCI's involvement in First American:

1) Sami Telex - Abdus Sami, a BCCI senior executive in 1977 and 1978, indicated in a telex to Abedi that each shareholder's stake must be kept under 5% to avoid reporting requirements and that BCCI must not appear as financier in the acquisition. He also mentioned that Clark Clifford had been hired to represent BCCI shareholders. "I met with Mr. Clark Clifford and explained to him our strategy and our goal.... He was happy to know the details and has blessed the acquisition." The 1978 application failed, but, Clifford and Altman remained counsels for the second attempt in 1980, when the attorneys assured the Federal Reserve that BCCI was not the financier and would play no role in the future operations of the bank.

2) Information on the Middle Eastern Investors - In July of 1978, Altman, as BCCI counsel blocked opposing counsel in the case of FGB v Lance, BCCI, et al from obtaining documents in London in the possession of Bank of America. Bank of America held a 30% interest in BCCI and was involved in its management up until 1980 when B of A sold its interest. The B of A records show that BCCI was involved with the Middle Eastern FGB investors in a manner that indicated that BCCI was far more than an investment advisor. Two investors, Adham and Fulaij, had substantial loans outstanding to BCCI. Additionally, Adham was suspected of receiving large payments from the Boeing Corporation in order to expedite contracts in the Middle East. It has been reported that Fulaij also received $300,000 from Boeing for obtaining a contract with the government of Kuwait.) These allegations did not deter Clifford from stating at the April 1981 hearing at the Federal Reserve: "I have the deepest respect for Sheikh Adham's character, reputation, honor and integrity. I am proud to be an associate of his... [t]hese men (the investors) because of the reputation they have in their business careers have already demonstrated a willingness to abide by U.S. law."[16]

3) Legal Strategy to Avoid FED Scrutiny - On May 8, 1986 Altman sent a letter to Naqvi along with a legal memorandum concerning the potential acquisition of National Bank of Georgia. In the memo, one particular option is discouraged because the application process might disclose the relationship between CCAH (First American's holding company) and BCCI. Also in the same letter, despite representations made in 1980 and 1981 by Clifford, Altman and the applicants that BCCI would not be a lender, Altman suggests that "[I]t would be appropriate if BCCI itself wished to consider being a lender" [so that First American could acquire NBG.][17] On June 17, 1986, it appears that Clifford sent the same legal memorandum to Abedi.

4) Legal Fees - BCCI paid all of the Clifford and Warnke billings for First American, CCAH, CCAI and BCCI. In response to a November 1981 letter from Clifford to Abedi, BCCI sent a check for $485,000 for legal fees related to the purchase of Financial General [March 19, 1981 to August 30, 1981]. In a February 5, 1986 letter from Altman to Naqvi, the legal bill owed for 1985 regarding First American and BCCI matters totaled $324,613.77. BCCI sent a check for that amount.

[16] Transcript of Federal Reserve Board hearing.

[17] Federal Reserve records, letter from Altman to Naqvi, May 8, 1986.

5) Americas Coordinating Committee - As part of the 1985 billings, BCCI was charged for legal preparation for and Altman's attendance at an international BCCI managers' conference in New York, on April 24, 1985. At that meeting, called the Americas Coordinating Committee, the acting chair was Afridi, at that time FABNY's executive vice president. Afridi described the purpose of the meeting as "coordinating the efforts of different locations of BCCI and other institutions so that the President's [Abedi's] desire to have a totality of approach is achieved." Afridi said that "our major task in the U.S. should be to build market share" for BCCI. An official representing each BCCI office gave a summary of that office's business. Elley did so regarding FABNY.

Also at the April 24, 1985 meeting, Elley told the BCCI managers that "in America we are sitting on $7 billion dollar assets and this is just the beginning." In April of 1985 BCCI's U.S. agencies held $800 million in assets. The assets of First American and National Bank of Georgia would have had to be added to reach the $7 billion figure. Statements by BCCI officers describing the relationship between BCCI and First American were also made at a number of other BCCI conferences and meetings which were attended by Altman. As First American officers and BCCI counsel, it would have been difficult for Clifford and Altman not to have been aware of these representations.

6) Employment Practices - It appears that Clifford and Altman were aware that BCCI violated representations made in 1980 and 1981 that BCCI would have no relationship with CCAH other than as an investment advisor to certain shareholders. BCCI, with Altman's knowledge, participated in the selection of officers for First American Bank of New York. Elley, a long-time BCCI employee, was hired to be FABNY senior vice president. Elley was hired at Naqvi's suggestion. In 1983, Afridi, the executive vice president and also a long term BCCI employee, was hired by Abedi during Fed interviews with former FABNY employees reveal that Afridi's tenure at FABNY, from 1983 through 1987, he was in contact with BCCI (London) almost daily. Before other senior officers were hired they had to go through two sets of interviews, one with Elley and Altman, and the other in London with Abedi, Afridi and Naqvi.

7) Ryback Letters - On December 13, 1989, William A. Ryback of the Federal Reserve Board wrote to Altman and asked him to "provide information on any loans extended to the original or subsequent investors [in Financial General/First American], either directly or indirectly, by BCCI or any of its affiliated organizations." Documents retained by BCCI in Abu Dhabi indicate that the Ryback correspondence was actively discussed by senior BCCI officials.

Altman responded on February 5, 1990 and stated that "we do not have access here to information regarding any financial arrangements that might exist between shareholders of [CCAH] and other financial institutions, including [BCCI]." What Altman failed to disclose and what is arguably a misrepresentation of a material fact was that Altman and Clifford borrowed $15 million from BCCI (Caymans) in 1986 and purchased 6742 shares of CCAH. In 1987 Clifford and Altman borrowed $3.45 million, again from BCCI (Caymans), and purchased another 1426 shares. The shares were purchased at book value in a rights offering. In 1988 they sold 4800 of the shares to another nominee shareholder for $32,640,000, a profit of $9.8 million after deducting interest and commission expenses.[18] Federal Reserve officials informed the Committee that Altman "unequivocally" should have reported all BCCI-financed CCAH purchases, including those of Clifford and Altman.

Altman wrote a second letter to Ryback on December 20, 1990, indicating that M.M. Hammoud may have pledged his CCAH stock to BCCI as collateral for BCCI loans. Altman again neglected to inform the Fed that he and Clifford obtained non-recourse loans from BCCI to purchase CCAH stock. Their stock was also pledged as collateral for their loans.

8) Stock purchases - The facts surrounding the Clifford-Altman stock purchases indicate that factors other tha "arms length transactions" and "market prices" may have been involved. The loans from BCCI were at the LIBOR rate, over two percentage points below prime. Altman and Clifford purchased their shares pursuant to the 1986 rights offerings at book value, approximately $2,200 per share, which was substantially below what the shares had been selling for. For a non-shareholder to purchase shares in a rights offering, existing shareholders have to waive their rights to participate. In the 1986 purchase, Clifford and Altman took the rights offering of a shareholder that had purchased stock at the full price the day before. For that shareholder not to take advantage of the rights offering just does not make sense. Finally, the stock was sold by Clifford and Altman at a price of $6,800 per share after 18 months. According to the Federal Reserve this is the highest price per share ever paid for a bank stock. A Price Waterhouse audit subsequently valued the shares at less than half of the value paid to Clifford and Altman. [19]

9) Investments with BCCI - In the mid-1980s BCCI began experiencing cash flow problems due to poor underwriting and non-payments. In 1986, the bank experienced a $150 million trading loss in government securities. Some believe that this loss may have beer as high as $450 million. Yet, in 1986 and 1987, First American and CCAH, under the direction of Clifford and Altman, purchased at least $74 million of CDs from BCCI's Cayman Islands affiliates. These CDs were uninsured and BCCI was not protected by the safety net of a central bank.

Even after BCCI was convicted of money laundering in February of 1990, First American and CCAH continued purchasing CDs from BCCI's Cayman Islands affiliates.

[19] Federal Reserve Records, Price Waterhouse audit.

In April of 1990, CCAH invested $444,000 in BCCI CDs and rolled over $2.5 million in maturing CDs. Similarly, in July of 1990, CCAH invested $447,000 with BCCI and rolled over an additional $1.75 million.

10) BCCI Financial Review - A memo obtained by Federal investigators from BCCI's Abu Dhabi office indicates that BCCI reviewed FAB's financial performance on a periodic basis. A memo from Shamid Jamil to S. Naqvi and K. Shoaib is entitled "Half Yearly Review of FAB." The memo begins, "Please find enclosed a review of First American Bank shares for the half year ended June 1984. The Bank has achieved the budgeted figure for deposits and exceeded that for loans." The memo then discusses certain financial information and closes by stating, "It is, therefore, apparent that First American Bank shares have failed to achieve their budget for the half year ended 30th June 1984, by US$ 1.56M. Perhaps Mr. Altman may require some assistance and guidance in enabling him to reach the budgeted income figures in the second half of 1984..." At the bottom of the memo is a hand written note, "Agha Saheb [Abedi] - I have since discussed the half-yearly result of FAB, with Mr. Altman to draw his attention to the area in which the group's income is falling behind budget, on a pre-tax income basis." Correspondence files held in Abu Dhabi indicate that Altman regularly submitted financial information to BCCI in order to evaluate FAB performance. This form of review by BCCI appears to demonstrate the level of control that they exercised over FAB and Altman. Also, it appears that Clifford and/or Altman were flying to London on a frequent basis to confer with BCCI officials on FAB operations.

11) BCCI Oversight of Operations - Memoranda retained in BCCI's Abu Dhabi office indicate that BCCI was intimately involved in directing Mr. Altman on many of the details concerning FAB's ongoing business. A memo dated July 7, 1982 from Shahid Jamil to Agha Hasan Abedi memorializes "Meeting with Mr. R. Altman and other tax lawyers in New York - 24-27 June 1982." The memo describes Jamil and Altman's meeting concerning BCCI's requirements for independent audits of CCAH and CCAI. It describes discussions concerning a wide variety of topics including litigation, office leasing, problem real estate and accounting matters. The memo states, "I discussed the budget of FGB with Mr. Altman and pointed out that the budget for the year 198[illegible] of $31.8 million barely exceeded the results for the previous year of $30.6 million. After discussing the need for leadership and vision in the operation and the need for FGB to earn enough profits to service its debt, Mr. Altman agreed that he would set about motivating the management of FGB ..." Jamil concludes the memo by indicating that he was "developing a simple system for monitoring monthly financial performance of the main FGB banks so that I can keep you informed of their progress." Other memoranda found in Abu Dhabi indicate that for U.S. planing purposes BCCI officials considered FAB as a BCCI affiliate.

12) Ernst and Whinney Relationship - Based presumably on Jamil's meeting with Altman discussed above, Ernst and Whinney was retained to audit CCAH and CCAI. However, Ernst & Whinney sent an engagement letter dated August 13, 1982 concerning the independent audit to BCCI directly and not to CCAH. The engagement letter references recent phone conversations with BCCI and appears to imply that the auditors considered that BCCI was the client as CCAH's parent. Additionally, several communications were reveiwed from CCAH files indicating that BCCI directly supervised the payments to E&W as well as to other professionals related to CCAH's Dutch registry.

13) Clifford Letter to Abedi - Clifford sent a letter dated March 4, 1983 to BCCI head Aga Hasan Abedi after back surgery indicating a desire to "again resume our joint efforts." This further evidences the close relationship between BCCI and FAB officials.

14) Conflicts of Interests - Clifford and Altman regularly represented all parties in transactions involving First American. The law firm of Clifford & Warnke were counsel to BCCI, CCAH, CCAI, FAC, FAB, and each individual shareholder of CCAH. Also, Clifford and Altman were on the boards of all of these entities, except BCCI. It is questionable whether independent legal judgement could have been exercised in these transactions. It should be noted that one of the more interesting documents reviewed during the Committee's investigation was a letter dated June 9, 1989 from Robert Altman, CCAH Managing Director to Robert Altman, shareholder! Moreover, inquiry should be made as to whether certain knowledge could be imputed to Clifford and Altman about their clients through this multiple representation and whether as directors of CCAH and FAB they had a duty to investigate the role of BCCI.

15) BAII Loan Applications - Federal investigators have been permitted to review certain files of BAII related to BCCI and its affiliates. One file reviewed entitled "1st American 1985" contained "Memo re loan to Clifford & Altman 12/29/85." The Investigator noted the contents of the file as:

"Other details requested by BCCI:"

1. No external lawyers in preparation of documentation.
2. Transfer of one borrower's debt to surviving borrower on death of the former.
3. No syndication of the loan.
4. No participation by BCCI in loan.

5. No put available from other shareholders.

Notes that security is illiquid but that market value if buyer found is twice book. Presumably the borrowers anticipate sale within 5 years.

Clifford and Altman initially went to BAII to finance their purchases of CCAH stock and this memo would seem to reflect this request. BAII never granted the loan to Clifford and Altman and the financing was instead provided by BCCI. This document appears to indicate that BCCI was acting as an agent for Clifford and Altman in obtaining these loans.

16) 1983 CCAH Share Subscription - A telex contained in BCCI's Abu Dhabi files dated November 1, 1983 from Imran Iman of BCCI to Mr. K.K. Elley of FABNY seems to indicate that BCCI was directly supplying $75 million in capital to CCAH. The text of the telex indicates that BCCI was going to provide the $75 million directly to CCAH and details regarding how these funds would be attributed to nominee shareholders would be worked out later by Altman. The telex states:

REFERENCE OUR TELEPHONE CONVERSATION OF YESTERDAY(.)

Amount totalling US$75,009,375.- is being credited value today to your account no 01020071 with State Bank of Albany ABA No. 0213-0001-9

I have discussed the matter at length with Mr Lesher(.) Mr Altman is concerned that the injection of capital should not take place prior to his discussion relating to change, if any, in the snareholders of CCAH(.)

It is, therefore, suggested that the above funds may kindly be received in an account to be called "CCAH" share subscription account" to accrue interest as on call deposits(.) At a later date of 10th or 15th November (to be determined by you and Mr Altman the funds may then be transferred into the account of CCAH(.) During the interim period (prior to the injection of capital into CCAH) Mr Altman will be able to resolve various matters relating to the shareholders(.)

You may like to discuss the above matter with Mr Naqvi(.)

17) Roundtrip of Funds - To finance his acquisition of CCAH shares, Altman personally borrowed approximately $6M from BCCI in 1986 and 1987 through non-recourse loans. In 1988, Altman sold his stock in CCAH to an Arab investor who funded the transaction through a BCCI loan wired to Altman from a BCCI Grand Cayman account. Altman immediately repaid these personal loans from BCCI with interest and commissions to a BCCI Grand Cayman account. Federal investigators have called this a "roundtrip" of funds and indicate that the transaction may be considered a sham transaction to extinguish Altman's indebtedness to BCCI on his stock loans. Federal officials believe that Altman's non-recourse loans from BCCI and the roundtrip of funds enabled Altman to acquire the profits of his stock deal with no risk.

18) Loan from Adham - Beginning in 1983, Sheik Kamal Adham loaned First American $20 million. However, internal BCCI documents indicate that CCAH had requested the loan directly and BCCI structured the loan through Adham as a nominee. A memo retained at BCCI's Abu Dhabi office states "Under the arrangement with his excellency Sheikh Kamal Adham, a major shareholder of CCAH, a short term loan of US$ 20 million was disbursed to CCAH by BCCI (Overseas) ltd, Grand Cayman." It would appear that Clifford and Altman should have had direct knowledge of any CCAH loan request.

19) Investigative Interviews - Pursuant to its order of investigation, Federal Reserve investigators have conducted a wide variety of interviews. One of the most telling may have been with a former FGB insider who was intimately involved with the 1982 takeover of FGB by CCAH. The memorandum of interview completed by Federal Reserve Board investigators stated, "When we discussed the FED's theory that BCCI took control of FG through nominees he (the interviewee) said 'you're right ... but how are you going to prove it.'"

20) Subordinated Debt - Telephone messages retained in BCCI's Abu Dhabi offices indicate that in mid 1988 the Federal Reserve was requiring that between $15 and $20 million of capital be injected into FAB. A May 10, 1988 phone message states: "Mr. Altman suggests that CCAH borrows the above amount ($15-$20M) from its shareholder(s) or from BCCI ..." Further a June 20, 1988 phone message to Naqvi states: "Mr. Robert Altman telephoned, he has to raise $15M before 30th June 1988, he wishes to speak to you, today if possible." Several days later Imran Iman of BCCI responds with a fax which states: "Reference our recent telephone conversation. The mode suggested is along the following lines: CCAH could issue floating rate notes (FRN) for 10 years, for an initial amount of US$ 15 million. The coupon rate is to be 2% above three months Libor (SIC). Initially, the entire issue would be purchased by Credit and Finance Corporation (one of our subsidiaries) for a period of one year." On June 28, 1988, CCAH issued $20 million in subordinated debt the entire issue of which was bought by Credit and Finance Corporation.

21) Management Direction from BCCI to CCAH -- Contrary to assertions from Altman and Clifford that BCCI did not direct board members of CCAH, staff discovered documents which indicate that BCCI officials were involved with the affairs of CCAH even to the extent that BCCI would draft letters from CCAH to independent auditors. A January 22, 1987 memo from Imran Imam (of BCCI's central office) to Mr. J.G. Lesher (of Clifford and Warnke) stated, "Enclosed are copies of the letter received from ADIA [Abu Dabi Investment Authority], and a draft reply to the letter. I shall appreciate if you would have the draft typed on CCAH letter-head after consulting Mr. Altman, and courier the letter to me to be sent by hand to ADIA."

The draft letter referenced above was dated "January, 1987," and it was addressed to Ernst & Whinney, Abu Dhabi, U.A.E. The final copy of a virtually identical letter was later sent on CCAH letterhead to Ernst and Whinney (Abu Dhabi), dated January 27, 1987, and it was signed by Robert Altman.

Several documents show BCCI's direction of CCAH affairs. For example, on September 21, 1984 Imran Imam sent a telex from London to Mr. G. Lesher, representing CCAI, stating, "Kindly arrange for CCAI to pay the sum of USDLRS 25,573.- to the investors and advise Mr. De Raaff to pass the appropriate entry in the sundry creditors account of CCAI."

Also, on April 30, 1984 Mr. Imran Imam sent a letter to Mr. Kees DeRaaff, Equity Trust Company, The Netherlands, stating, "I refer to my telex of 27th April and request you to forward all future invoices to Mr. G. Lesher of Clifford and Warnke in Washington, with relevant copies to the undersigned. I would be thankful if future invoices carry complete narration of the expenses that are incurred by the two Companies, irrespective of whether the invoices [SIC] from Ernst & Whinney or Equity Trust." A copy of the letter was sent to Mr. Lesher with a handwritten note from Mr. Imam: "This has reference to our conversation. Regards, Imran Imam." This appears to demonstrate direct BCCI control over CCAH's affairs.

22) Historical statements - Clifford and Altman as well as the Arab investors made a variety of statements pursuant to CCAH's 1980 application to acquire Financial General concerning the commitment that the Mid-east investors would be passive investors. Regulators are re-examining these statements to determine if they involved intentional misrepresentations. Such statements include:

a. Board hearing of April 23, 1981; statement of Clark Clifford:

"This investment on the part of these gentlemen can best be described as a passive investment. They do not intend to interfere with the operation of this property. They do not intend to sit on the Board of Directors. They do not intend to instruct the managers of Financial General or of the bank, how to conduct their business. They think it is an excellent investment. These investors are not bankers. They are businessmen. They do not feel qualified to operate banks or to give instructions as to how banks are to be operated. What they do wish to do, and what their plan is, to get the right people in to operate the property."

b. Board hearing of April 23, 1981; statement of Kamal Adham:

"I am aware that the staff of the Federal Reserve has generally questioned what managerial philosophy and approach we envision for Financial General and its subsidiaries if our tender offer is successful. Let me be clear on this point. The other members of the investor group and I have no intention of operating Financial General ourselves, setting policy for the company, or sitting on its Board of Directors. We consider this company to offer an attractive investment opportunity, but it is regarded entirely as a passive investment."

c. Board hearing of April 23, 1981; statement of Abdul Khalil:

"As Mr. Clifford and Sheikh Adham have advised you, I have no intention of taking any active part in operating this property, setting banking policies, or becoming a member of Financial General's Board of Directors."

d. Board hearing of April 23, 1981; statement of Sayed Jawhary:

"As Sheikh Adham has made clear about the intentions of our investor group, I do not intend to be involved in the affairs of Financial General personally. Instead, I shall rely on the expertise and judgment of the new management team and the new Board."

e. Board hearing of April 23, 1981; colloquy between Mannion and Clifford:

"Mr. Mannion: You do not envision Senator Symington being subject to opposing pressures by the individual investors whereby 50 percent would ask that he vote one way and 50 percent ask that he vote another way or some other proportional holding?"

"Mr. Clifford: It is inconceivable to me because of the understanding and even commitment that we have with the shareholders as to the manner in which they intend to treat the investment. They have informed us. We have proceeded on that assumption. They have abided by it. But [sic] they remain the passive investor, and that we will continue on with our task, replacing certain persons on the Board."

f. Letter of May 1, 1981 from Altman to Mannion, responding to questions submitted by Sidney Bailey, Virginia Commissioner of Financial Institutions:

"Question No. 21: It is assumed that the investors will retain control, directly or indirectly, over major policy-making functions. Should such policies as may be adopted prove detrimental in some respect to FGB and its subsidiaries, under what circumstances and to what extent will the sources of policy be accessible and amenable to regulatory agencies?"

"Answer No. 21: The question proceeds from an erroneous assumption. The Investors do not intend to direct policymaking or to establish major policies within Financial General, or its subsidiaries, after the acquisition has been completed. The sources of bank policy are to be the Boards of Directors and the management of each of the subsidiary banks with supervision by the management and the Board of Financial General."

g. Letter of May 11, 1981 from Altman to Mannion, responding to questions submitted by New York State Senator Manfred Ohrenstein:

"Question No. 7: What guarantees do the depositors and borrowers of Financial General Bankshares' two New York banks (Bank of Commerce and Community State Bank) have that this foreign cartel will exercise the same sound fiduciary judgment they have been accustomed to in dealing with these banks?"

"Answer No. 7: There is no 'foreign cartel' involved in this transaction. There is merely a group of investors who believe that the acquisition of Financial General is a sound investment. They do not intend to sit of the Board of Directors of Financial General or its subsidiaries, or to establish bank policies, or otherwise to operate the Company. The Financial General Board of Directors is to consist of able and distinguished Americans, and the new President and Chief Executive Officer of Financial General will be an outstanding and experienced commercial banker."

National Bank of Georgia

BCCI orchestrated the purchase of the National Bank of Georgia by a BCCI nominee from Bert Lance and arranged for its subsequent sale to CCAH/First American through a complex transaction designed to hide BCCI's interest from Federal Reserve scrutiny.

In 1977 due to severe financial problems Bert Lance sought to sell his interest in NBG. BCCI President Aga Hasan Abedi arranged for Lance to be bought out of NBG by BCCI shareholder and nominee Ghaith R. Pharaon. Pharaon paid double the market price for the stock and bought 60% of Lance's shares.[20] Abedi also arranged a $3.5 million credit line for Lance to repay other Lance debts. The affairs of NBG became completely dominated by BCCI over the next several years.

In 1986, Pharaon himself was experiencing financial difficulties. Federal investigators believe that BCCI made a decision that NBG had to be taken out of Pharaon's hands so that the franchise would not be attached by Pharaon's creditors. At this time FAB expressed interest in purchasing NBG.

Because Georgia interstate banking laws would not have legally permitted FAB's acquisition of NBG, it was necessary to structure a complex series of financial arrangements in order to complete the sale. As discussed above, Clifford and Altman both sent memos to BCCI indicating that the transaction should be structured so as not to invite unwarranted federal scrutiny of the link between BCCI and CCAH. The transaction began with a CCAH rights offering which was funded by loans to the investors from BCCI. CCAH ended up with $154 million which was then transferred to an account at BCCI's Grand Cayman branch.

An agreement was then reached whereby Pharaon would receive $220 million for the sale of NBG. [This money would presumably be used to pay off Pharaon's creditors, including BCCI] The $220 million was funded through a series of complicated transactions.

On December 18, 1986 CCAH paid Pharaon $80 million for an option to buy NBG that expired June 20, 1988. [CCAH could not directly acquire NBG due to Georgia law] Later on January 19, 1987, BCCI granted Pharaon a $140 million loan presumably to provide the remaining portion of the $220 million purchase price. The loan matured on the date that CCAH exercised its option at a price of $140 million. Pharaon secured the BCCI loan and the CCAH option agreement by pledging his NBG shares. BCCI held the shares as pledge agent.

BCCI documents retained in Abu Dhabi indicate that concerns were raised that the transaction could cause Federal Reserve scrutiny if it were presented as an "integrated" transaction. It appears that Altman wanted the NBG shares pledged to both BCCI and CCAH as a device to evade Federal Reserve review. A December 4, 1986 memo from S. Malik, BCCI legal division to S. Naqvi states:

> The reason for having two Pledge Agreements is that Mr. R. Altman feels that in the previous Pledge Agreement, the references to 'Loan Agreement' would have given the Federal Reserve cause to see the 'Loan Agreement'and possibly decide that an "intergrated transaction" was being entered into. Whereas now, with the two Pledge Agreements, the Federal Reserve will only see the Option Pledge, which contains no references to the Loan Agreement.

Further, a memo dated December 23, 1986 from Saleem Malik of the BCCI Legal Division to Swaleh Naqvi states that: "After consultation with Mr. Altman and Millbank Tweed, they advised that the Loan agreement be signed and dated in mid-January or early February 1987, as by then a reasonable period will have elapsed since signing the Option and the "integrated transaction" argument would not be successful. Accordingly, I hope to return to New York next year and have the Loan and Pledge Agreements executed ..."

Subsequently, the documents were executed, as described in the December 23, 1986 Malik memo, and Georgia law was modified through the efforts of lobbyists on the NBG payroll to permit CCAH to acquire NBG. CCAH used the monies obtained from the BCCI-funded 1986 subscription to purchase NBG in August, 1987. Pharaon paid off his loans to BCCI and NBG was safe from his creditors.

BCCI's Links with Centrust Savings

BCCI had significant Centrust ties through the relationship of BCCI front man Ghaith Pharaon and David Paul. Pharaon in 1986 sought to purchase securities of Centrust that would have given him a 28% ownership interest in the thrift. However, Pharaon reduced his purchase to slightly under 25% so as to avoid a presumption of control. Documents discovered in London by BCCI auditors indicate that BCCI financed this acquisition of Centrust shares.

Paul and Pharaon began a business and personal relationship some time in the mid-1980's and records indicate that the two acted as virtual partners. Examples of Pharaon's links to Centrust include:

1.) Intervention with the Federal Home Loan bank Board on Centrust's behalf. Pharaon had meetings with the Chairman of the FHLBB as well as senior regulatory officials in Washington concerning Centrust. Pharaon was seeking favorable treatment for the thrift from the regulators. Additionally, Pharaon or his attorney, Charles Jones had at least four meetings with regulatory staff of the Federal Home loan Bank of Atlanta. Also, Charles Jones attended meetings with Atlanta officials to discuss Centrust examination findings. This appears to be highly unusual behavior for an individual that is supposed to be a passive shareholder. Moreover, in one meeting with Atlanta officials Pharaon gave the 1986 National Bank of Georgia sale to FAB as an example of how he had the resources to recapitalize an institution. The implication appears to have been that Pharaon either had the personal resources or the ability to find a buyer for Centrust to bring fresh capital to the institution. It should be noted that regulators now believe that BCCI provided the capital to FAB for the NBG acquisition.

2.) Pharaon in conjunction with BCCI participated in a scheme with Centrust whereby $25 million of Centrust junk bonds were "parked" with BCCI subject to a buy-back arrangement. The junk bonds were part of a $150 million offering underwritten by Drexel Burnham Lambert. This transaction permitted Centrust to present a more favorable capital position to regulators during the 1988 examination. This "parking" scheme has been referred by the regulators to the Department of Justice for possible criminal prosecution.

3.) Documents indicate that at one time Paul and Pharaon had an agreement where Centrust would acquire 50% of Pharaon's insurance company. Paul and Pharaon appear to have had a definitive signed agreement but ultimately had to withdraw from the deal because regulators would not approve the transaction. It is interesting to note that certain correspondance between Pharaon and Paul are copied to BCCI. It is unclear why this was done.

4.) Paul and Pharaon jointly looked at several Florida and Georgia based banks and thrifts. Pharaon had additional meetings with regulatory officials in Atlanta concerning these acquisitions. This was over a time period that documents recovered from Abu Dhabi indicate that BCCI was actively looking for acquisitions in Florida.

5.) Based on CenTrust records, Paul and Pharaon appear to have been in personal or phone contact on an almost daily basis beginning in 1986. The amount of contact involved appears highly unusual for a "passive" shareholder. The two businessmen regularly vacationed with each other and were jointly pursuing several business deals around the world.

6.) The FHLBB examiners also believed that Pharaon had submitted phony offers on certain real estate held by Centrust with the intent of reducing the accounting losses that Centrust faced on the properties. Correspondence also indicates that at one time Pharaon was negotiating for the Centrust Tower, although it remains unclear if these negotiations were serious.

7.) A joint real estate project that Paul and Pharaon were considering that they called the "LA Soap Company land deal" indicates potential Centrust ties with BCCI affiliate Independence Bank. A February 9, 1988 memo from Pharaon employee Farid Djouhri to David Paul discussing the real estate project closes with the sentence, "Please note that Independence Bank said it wants to participate in this transaction."

Additionally, links exist between CenTrust and First American. Documents indicate that David Paul and Ghaith Pharaon met with Robert Altman at First American Bank directly before meeting with the FHLBB Chairman on June 24, 1988. Paul and Pharaon met with the FHLBB Chairman to seek regulatory forbearance for CenTrust. Paul had previously met with NBG personnel who continued working for the bank after it became FAB of Georgia. Interestingly, it appears that either Paul hired certain FAB employees or Centrust was using FAB to conduct a due diligence investigation of Charles Keating's Lincoln Savings. Pursuant to the due diligence, a decision was made that Lincoln was not an attractive acquisition candidate.

Finally, documents retained at BCCI's Abu Dhabi office reflect minutes of a meeting that occurred October 2, 1989 between BCCI personnel and members of the law firm of Clifford & Warnke including Clifford and Altman. The minutes indicate that Clifford listed Centrust as one of several institutions "who have expressed their interest in the merger with FAB." No indication exists that FAB went any further in this interest, but it should be noted that documents indicate that FAB and BCCI had been looking for Florida acquisitions since 1986.

BCCI acquisition of Independence Bank

The Fed alleges that BCCI, through Ghaith Pharaon, a major shareholder and customer, secretly acquired the $400 million Independence Bank of Encino, California. In 1985, Pharaon purchased the California bank for $23 million. Based on telexes, regulators believe that BCCI funded the acquisition and then went to considerable length to conceal its involvement. One telex reveals that BCCI transferred $8 million for the acquisition to Pharaon's account in Lamarche's BAII.[21]

Once the bank was acquired, BCCI took an active role in selecting Independence Bank's new management. Kemal Shoaib, a longtime BCCI employee, was appointed Chairman. While serving as Chairman, Shoaib continued to receive pension benefits and a subsidized mortgage from BCCI. Under his direction, deposits increased from $250 million to $1 billion. This growth was fueled by a heavy reliance on brokered deposits. The bank, in turn, invested heavily in real estate development. After receiving approval from California regulators, Independence Bank undertook numerous direct investment projects. Regulators now believe that the bank's investments went well beyond its legal limits.

Also, it is apparent that BCCI believed that Indpendence Bank was part of its banking family. In a letter to Abedi from Louis E. Saubolle, a BCCI employee in BCCI's California office, Saubolle discusses the potential acquisition of American Asian Bank. The letter states that "this bank (American Asian) and its network is a perfect compliment to the Independence Bank and the two will give us a base for future expansion throughout California as well as into Western American states."[22]

BCCI Money Laundering in Florida

In 1987, during the course of an undercover operation investigating narcotics trafficking and money laundering, Customs agents were directed to three BCCI offices in Florida: Tampa, Boca Raton and Miami. These BCCI offices laundered millions of dollars for the agents up until arrests were made and indictments were handed down in October of 1988. In September of 1988 in a taped conversation between Amjad Awan, a BCCI-Miami bank officer, and an undercover Customs agent, Awan made the following statements:

> "Last Friday, I was told that, ah, our lawyers, Mr. Altman was there, and he suggested to the bank that I should be immediately transferred from the U.S. to Paris. So, they duly transferred me on Friday to Paris." [In response to an attempt by a Senate Committee to subpoena Awan]
> "Our attorneys, are, they're heavyweights, I mean Clark Clifford is, is sort of the Godfather to the Democratic Party. Uh, you know, he's been the Secretary of State [sic], he's been Secretary of Defense. He's been in the White House since the time of Truman. He was Truman's legal counsel. He's like 80 years old, but he's all there. That's a very heavyweight firm."
>
> "We own a bank in Washington, its called First American. The holding company is in Washington, and there are 5 banks actually. First American of New York, D.C., Virginia,

1325015-000-7425

Maryland, Tennessee and Georgia. There's 6 banks, 6 large banks, they are $10 billion dollar banks. Bought out by BCCI about 8 years ago. Ostensibly in the name of some Arabs, who also happen to be our chairmen. And, BCCI was acting as our advisor to them, but truth of the matter is that the bank belongs to BCCI. Those guys are just nominee shareholders." [23]

The indictments in the BCCI case led to the conviction of five BCCI employees in Florida and two in the U.K. One individual has been extradited from England and is awaiting trial in Florida. BCCI also had to forfeit $14 million seized in Florida. To date, this is the largest forfeiture or fine obtained against a financial institution.

All of the legal fees for the defense of BCCI and its employees were paid out of a Clifford & Warnke firm account at First American Bank. Wire transfer and account records from FAB indicate that over $22 million was sent to the Clifford & Warnke account to pay for BCCI's legal defense in the money laundering case. It is estimated that over $30 million was spent by BCCI to defend the bank and its employees. Altman flew to Paris in 1990 to inform the BCCI Board of Directors about the BCCI (Florida) plea bargain and a cease and desist order included in that agreement.

Political/Charitable Activities of BCCI

BCCI's practice of gaining legitimacy through political contacts and charitable contributions was also applied in the United States. Shortly after leaving his post as U.S. Ambassador to the U.N., Andrew Young was approached by BCCI to provide names of potential customers in southern Africa and Central America. In return, BCCI promised to give Young's trading company, Andrew Young Associates, an annual retainer of $50,000. In the early 1980's, the firm took out a $74,000 term loan and a $125,000 line of credit with NBG. An October 1983 internal loan review of the two credits reveals:

> Andrew Young Associates, Inc. is a small illiquid, unprofitable, infinitely leveraged company which has not yet achieved the revenues levels [sic] that it had expected. As a result of the aforementioned and NBG's under-collateralized position, the analyst believes that unwarranted credit risk may have been undertaken in extending credit to the company.

In August of 1985, the credits were put on NBG's past due list. Shortly after this, BCCI took over the firm's line of credit and increased it to $175,000. In early 1989, the outstanding balance of $160,000 was forgiven by BCCI. Mr. Young's partner, Stoney Cooks, contends that BCCI had not paid the trading company its annual retainer and that forgiving the loan was payment for past services.

State politicians also benefitted from BCCI's largesse. In 1987, BCCI wanted to purchase the National Bank of Georgia from Pharaon. The acquisition was prohibited by a Georgia reciprocal banking law that did not include Maryland and Washington D.C., where First American operated. BCCI paid two Georgia lobbyists, one being Pharoan's lawyer, $1.25 million to get the state law changed. The legislature subsequently voted to include Maryland and D.C. The U.S. Attorney in Atlanta is currently investigating allegations that Georgia legislators accepted favors in return for voting for the bill.

In 1982, Bert Lance introduced Abedi to former President Jimmy Carter. After this meeting, Carter's world charity organization, Global 2000, would receive $8 million from BCCI and $2.5 million from the Abu Dhabi Investment Authority which controls BCCI. The Carter Center at Emory University also received $800,000 from Abedi. In 1986, Carter and Young traveled on Abedi's personal 727 on a five day tour of Africa. Furthermore, Carter and Young knew Abedi personally and were invited to his elaborate parties on his estate outside of Savannah.

Involvement of the Federal Agencies

BCCI was able to circumvent Federal Reserve Board restrictions involving the purchase of a number of American banks and was able to disguise its ownership for over 10 years. The bank fraudulently hid huge losses and even outwitted a multinational group of regulators that was organized several years ago to try to get a clearer picture of the bank's activities. BCCI was not shut down until July 5, 1991. At the time of the bank's closing, the Bank of England stated that "the culture of the bank is criminal." Questions arise as to why U.S. regulatory and law enforcement agencies did not act sooner.

The Federal Reserve

The 1978 application and the subsequent litigation involving the purchase of Financial General revealed that the investors owned BCCI stock, relied on Agha Hason Abedi for guidance and had outstanding loans to BCCI. Internal Bank of America documents entered into evidence in the 1978 SEC case alleged that BCCI made millions of dollars in high risk loans to insiders. The SEC was also aware that Adham and Fulaij had received bribes to facilitate aircraft purchases in the Middle East. A Pakistani government document from the 1978 SEC case detailed cash payments by Abedi of more than $2 million to Pakistan's Prime Minister. BCCI's reputation was sufficiently tarnished by the late 1970s such that B of A sold its 30% share in the bank and most major European banks refused to do business with BCCI. Also in the late 1970s, the Bank of England refused to grant BCCI a full-service banking license (because the bank officials would not produce records justifying rapid growth) and the New York bank superintendent blocked efforts to acquire the Chelsea bank.

The Fed approved the Arab investor group's second application in 1981 after an extensive investigation and a hearing. It had not changed markedly from the 1978 application except for the promise that BCCI would not be the financier for any Financial General shares and the personal assurances of Clifford and Altman that the investors were men of high integrity and were not fronts for BCCI. Federal Reserve officials maintain that there was nothing concrete that would have justified denying the application. They maintain that although there was not a requirement that the investors had to be certified as persons of good character, the standard was that they had to find that the applicants were not disreputable. A major factor in the approval of the application appears to be the assertions of Clifford and Altman that BCCI would have no role in the financing or the management of the bank.

The first time that the Federal Reserve became aware of possible illegal activity in BCCI was on April 22, 1987 during an examination by the Atlanta Reserve Bank of BCCI's Miami agency. On May 15, 1987, the Atlanta Reserve Bank made a criminal referral to the U.S. Attorney in Tampa and the FBI concerning money laundering at BCCI's Florida agencies. On June 5, 1987, the Federal Reserve Board staff sent the May 15 criminal referal to the IRS.

In September of 1988, the Board staff was asked to provide assistance to a Tampa IRS agent investigating money laundering in BCCI's agencies. The agent declined to do the paperwork to obtain a detailed Fed employee because of the workload associated with the planned arrest and indictment of the BCCI suspects in early October. After the BCCI indictment on October 9, 1988, Federal Reserve and State authorities coordinated the examination of all of BCCI's U.S. agencies. The Atlanta and New York Reserve Banks found evidence of money laundering in BCCI's New York and Boca Raton agencies.

On October 19, 1988 the Fed staff discussed the BCCI indictment with the Bank of England. Regulators in Hong Kong and the Cayman Islands were also contacted. Fed staff also met with BCCI representatives regarding the asset seizure and the indictment on October 20. On October 25 the Atlanta Reserve Bank discovered additional evidence of money laundering in the Boca Raton agency and made a criminal referral to the U.S. Attorney for Miami. On October 31, 1988, the New York Reserve Bank and the New York State banking regulator made criminal referrals regarding BCCI to the U.S. Attorney in New York and Tampa.

In November of 1988 the New York Reserve Bank sent a letter to the Miami U.S. Attorney regarding money laundering in BCCI's Boca Raton office. The New York Reserve Bank also briefed Assistant U.S. Attorneys, FBI agents and IRS agents in the Southern District of New York concerning BCCI money laundering. The Reserve Banks subsequently reported the findings of the coordinated examinations to the Federal Reserve Board staff, which then began drafting cease and desist orders against BCCI for violations of the Bank Secrecy Act.

During the late 1980s, because of perceived irregularities in the European branches of BCCI, a "college of supervisors" was created to try to gain a more accurate picture of BCCI operations. The college consisted of bank regulators from England, the Cayman Islands, Luxembourg and several other European countries. The college attempted to create a consolidated picture of BCCI. Because BCCI's American operations were thought to be limited to several non-deposit-taking agencies, the Federal Reserve did not participate in the college.

The question of the possible control of First American by BCCI was first raised on December 27, 1988. An IRS agent in Tampa, David Burris, contacted a Fed staff member, William Ryback, for information on the 1980 CCAH application and hearing. Burris also asked Ryback a hypothetical question as to what the Fed would do if four or five witnesses would testify that they heard from BCCI officials that BCCI owned First American Bank. Ryback responded that documentary evidence would probably be needed before the Fed could act. On December, 29, 1988, a Richmond Federal Reserve staff member received a call from a reporter inquiring about the ownership of First American. The reporter referred to an affidavit filed by an FBI agent that quoted a BCCI employee.

In January of 1989, the Richmond Reserve Bank conducted a special investigation of BCCI and CCAH. All of the First American Banks were asked to report on transactions with BCCI. CCAH management was also questioned on BCCI links. The Richmond Reserve Bank filed a report one month later stating that no evidence was found of irregular or significant contacts between BCCI and First American. The report also found no evidence that CCAH failed to adhere to its commitments.

On May 2, 1989, the Tampa U.S. Attorney subpoenaed the records relating to BCCI and CCAH. On May 31, Board staff met with Tampa prosecutors. The prosecutors did not divulge any of the content of the transcripts involved in the then pending BCCI prosecution. The Fed staff agreed to return to Tampa when the criminal investigation was completed.

On June 2, 1989 the Federal Reserve Board asked the Reserve Banks to conduct coordinated safety and soundness examinations of all BCCI offices.

On June 12, 1989, the Tampa U.S. Attorney subpoenaed records involving BCCI, CCAH, NBG, First American and Independence Bank from the Reserve Banks at Richmond, Atlanta and San Francisco.

On August 17, 1989, an Assistant District Attorney from New York County told the New York Reserve Bank about an unnamed informant's report that BCCI controlled First American and that BCCI was inadequately capitalized. The Assistant D.A. did not provide any further information. In August and September, the New York Reserve Bank investigated the allegations involving First American and BCCI.

On October 5, 1989 at a meeting in Switzerland, a Fed staff member asked the Luxembourg bank regulator about BCCI and CCAH. The Luxembourg supervisor responded that there had been BCCI loans to CCAH shareholders since 1985. Following upon this, on December 13, 1989, William Ryback wrote to Altman and requested information on any BCCI loans to the original or subsequent investors in CCAH. Altman responded on February 5, 1990, stating that he did not have access to the requested information and attached a Naqvi letter stating that no CCAH shareholder had borrowed from BCCI or used CCAH stock as collateral.

On January 16, 1990 the Tampa prosecutors sent a copy of the BCCI plea bargain to the Federal Reserve. The Fed was not sent earlier drafts or given an opportunity to comment. BCCI pleaded guilty in Tampa on February 5, 1990.

On February 7, 1990, Fed staff and New York Reserve Bank staff met with IRS investigators in Tampa. The IRS agents state that they believed that CCAH and BCCI were part of the same corporate family. The agents also stated that the BCCI employees that supplied this evidence may be of questionable veracity. During March and April of 1990 Fed staff attempted to contact an IRS informant but was unsuccessful.

First American continued to maintain its independence from BCCI. On March 15, 1990, a letter from Kamal Adham to Altman is forwarded to the Fed. The letter states that Adham's shares were not financed by BCCI. On May 8, 1990, Fed staff met with Altman. Altman again denied any tie between BCCI and CCAH. Continuing the investigation, on May 11th the Cayman Islands regulator was contacted about BCCI and CCAH shareholders. The Cayman supervisor stated that he did not have any records indicating a relationship between CCAH and BCCI.

On June 6, 1990, the Fed received Price Waterhouse BCCI audits from the Bank of England. This is the first credible source that indicates that nominee arrangements might exist.

On June 11, 1990, BCCI sent a letter to the Federal Reserve Board stating that it intended to close all U.S. BCCI offices except New York. On June 12th the New York Reserve Bank suggested BCCI cease all operations in the U.S. On July 11th BCCI was instructed not to shift any assets to the New York agency without prior notice.

On June 27, 1990, the Federal Reserve and the New York County DA's office reached an agreement on the sharing of information regarding BCCI. From August 1990 until the present Federal Reserve staff has been meeting with New York State prosecutors. (The New York D.A. indicted BCCI on July 29, 1991, and also charged Abedi and Naqvi.)

From August 1990 through November 1990, the Federal Reserve

continued its efforts to obtain documents from BCCI and from Luxembourg regarding CCAH shareholders. In late October, the Fed was told by the New York D.A. that a confidential Price Waterhouse report confirmed BCCI control of First American. On November 26, 1990, during a meeting with the Fed, BCCI counsel objected to the sharing of the Price Waterhouse report.

However, on December 10, 1990, a Fed staff member was able to review the Price Waterhouse report in London. The report indicated that there were a number of outstanding, non-performing loans made to CCAH shareholders. The report also stated that BCCI held the CCAH stock as collateral. On December 21, 1990, Fed staff met with BCCI counsel. The Fed was informed that investors in Abu Dhabi had purchased 77% of CCAH stock and that BCCI counsel discovered that substantial amounts of CCAH stock have been pledged to BCCI as collateral for non-performing loans. Also on December 21, the Fed received a letter from Altman clarifying his response to the December 13, 1989 letter from Ryback. Altman stated that he became aware that in 1986 M. Hammoud used CCAH shares as collateral for BCCI borrowings. Altman again neglected to mention his and Clifford's borrowings from BCCI.

In early January of 1991, the Fed obtained information from BCCI counsel that eight CCAH shareholders had outstanding loans of $1.7 billion, secured by the CCAH stock. The Federal Reserve Board ordered a formal investigation on January 2, 1991. On January 10 the Fed staff met with Justice Department officials concerning BCCI. On January 14, all CCAH records in the U.S. were subpoenaed by the Fed. BCCI counsel met with the Fed staff to describe documentary material in BCCI's files relevant to the nominee arrangements. On January 22nd, the Fed sent a proposed cease and desist order to BCCI and made criminal referrals to the Justice Department.

During late January of 1991 the Fed staff met with the Justice Department and the federal and state bank regulators to brief them on the BCCI. During February and March witnesses were interviewed and deposed. On March 4, 1991 the Fed and the New York Banking Department issued an order requiring BCCI to divest its interest in CCAH.

From March 14 - 21, 1991, Fed staff interviewed witnesses and obtained documents in Abu Dhabi. On March 27, the Richmond Reserve Bank notified First American Bank of New York that its relationship with BCCI must be terminated by the end of 1991.

On April 3, 1991, the Fed sent a proposed cease and desist order to Independence Bank. Discussions were held with the FDIC San Francisco office regarding relationships between Independence Bank and BCCI. On May 7, 1991, the Fed and the California Banking Superintendent issued an order requiring the divestiture of Independence Bank. The Fed also made criminal referrals to the Justice Department regarding the National Bank of Georgia and Independence Bank.

On July 5, 1991, all BCCI offices in the U.S. were seized. On July 12th, the Fed issued a notice against four individuals associated with the acquisition of Independence Bank by Pharoan. The D.C. U.S. Attorney requested a deferral of civil money penalty action against the individuals. On July 25, 1991 the Fed staff met with Justice officials and the D.C. U.S. Attorney. On July 29, 1991, the Fed issued a notice against BCCI and nine individuals to prohibit them from engaging in the practice of banking in the U.S.

The Federal Reserve appears to have acted in a timely manner to investigate suspicious activity starting in 1987. Could the Fed have done a better job ten years ago investigating the investors in Financial General? Did it simply rely on the assurances of Clifford and Altman? The circumstances surrounding the 1980 application indicate that the Fed examined the financial statements of the investors, but did not consider other relevant information. One of the weaknesses of the application process is that the Fed does not have the direct access to certain information, especially intelligence data, that is routinely available to other federal agencies. It should be noted that the nominee arrangements for the ownership of First American were kept hidden by Abedi and Naqvi until the records were seized pursuant to a search warrant by the Bank of England. Still, a retrospective analysis of the 1980 application indicates that the Fed may have placed too much reliance on the assertions of

The Treasury Department/Customs Service

The former Customs Commissioner, William von Raab, has alleged that the BCCI plea bargain was too weak and that BCCI escaped further scrutiny after the 1988 Florida money laundering indictment because if its "influence team working up and down the Eastern seaboard." Robert Mazur, the former Customs agent who taped conversations with Amjad Awan, is said to have urged his superiors in Customs to pursue the allegations of BCCI control of First American. Mazur has since left Customs and joined the DEA.

A Minority staff investigation in Tampa, Florida, did not uncover any evidence to substantiate these allegations. The Assistant U.S. Attorney that handled the BCCI plea bargain appeared to have obtained the best possible deal for the government. Because of the court in which the case was pending, if the case had gone to trial a much smaller fine than $14.7 million was likely. Additionally, the first count in the indictment, the conspiracy to traffic in narcotics, was likely to be dismissed by the judge because the only evidence to prove that count was money laundering. (In the later trials of the six BCCI employees, the same conspiracy counts were dismissed by the court.) Officials in Florida stated that there was no evidence of influence peddling and that Clifford and Altman were not part of the plea negations or the court appearances. Furthermore, Customs officials deny that Mazur ever requested an additional investigation of BCCI or that there were inadequate resources to investigate BCCI. Customs officials indicated that the First American ownership question was referred to the Federal Reserve as the proper federal authority to conduct the investigation. One dissenting voice found in Tampa was the former U.S. Attorney, Robert W. Merkle. Merkle had left office prior to the BCCI indictment but he indicated that he would have pursued BCCI more aggressively, possibly indicting the bank under RICO.

Conclusion

This preliminary report summarizes BCCI's activities in the United States, and specifically focuses on the actions of Mr. Clifford and Mr. Altman vis a vis First American Bank and BCCI. Having reviewed thousands of documents related to First American and BCCI, the minority staff is dismayed that Mr. Clifford and Mr. Altman were unable to discern BCCI's ownership of First American. The report notes BCCI was clearly a bank which engaged in massive deception of U.S. regulatory authorities in a number of areas, such as ownership, money laundering, etc. Yet many questions during this investigation remain unanswered. Unquestionably, future hearings and further investigation of BCCI are warranted.

drug trafficking, Noriega money laundering, the activities of a BCCI-related company named Capcom Financial Services, and BCCI's possible stealth ownership of other financial or non-financial institutions. But the Subcommittee staff is also troubled by the 1991 concerns raised most vividly by the lead Assistant U.S. Attorney in Tampa and the Agent who resigned from Customs. Every possible lead -- not just the most blatant -- should be pursued.

evidence needed to effectively prosecute law violators, state banking regulators have a need to know about criminal activities that can undermine the safety and soundness of financial institutions licensed to operate in their communities.

ONGOING INVESTIGATIONS

Based on Assistant Attorney General Mueller's briefing to Chairman Schumer in late July, there are now far more people and resources being assigned to the continuing BCCI-related investigations in four separate U.S. Attorney's offices. It is clear that investigations are now active where Federal authorities can apply what they have learned from their mistakes with BCCI in the past. BCCI itself is making referrals as part of its continuing obligation under the Tampa plea agreement. The IRS alone, for example, has received more than 70 referrals on BCCI customers following the plea. The DEA is pursuing leads on hundreds of suspected BCCI customers abroad through the voluntary cooperation of seven countries. The DEA has also been able to seize approximately $90 million in BCCI accounts overseas, New York and Miami, reflecting money tried to Medellin drug kingpin Rodriguez Gacha.

The information obtained by Federal authorities is wide-ranging, involving BCCI customers, other BCCI officials, global

On February 16, the Chief wrote back declining a meeting but apologizing if his letter of February 13 was misunderstood and stated:

> "The Department ... is not requesting that you permit BCCI to be licensed. The sole purpose of my letter was to indicate that, if you allow BCCI to continue in business, there may be occasions where the Department of Justice may request BCCI ... to make or continue a banking relationship with customers who are subjects of criminal investigations."

The Chief did inform the Subcommittee staff that he had called the New York and California regulators to clear up the possible confusion. Without access to the relevant documentation, which has been requested, it is not possible to tell what decisions, if any, concerning BCCI branches in New York and California may have been made in response to these directives from Justice.

What is clear is that the coordination between components within Justice, let alone with state regulators, was poor at best. The Customs supervisor in Tampa even felt compelled to alert the Tampa U.S. Attorney to the meddling by the Justice officials in Washington. While there is a clear need to protect the integrity of undercover investigative operations and preserve copies of the February 13 letter to Lewis, requesting the same reprieve for BCCI in those states. All three letters were apparently written after the Chief met with counsel, who sought to keep BCCI's various branches open. Like the Florida Comptroller, New York and California regulators were initially confused about the mixed signals from Justice.

The Florida Comptroller sought a clarification from the Chief because his request stood in direct contradiction to statements to the banking commissioner from the U.S. Attorney in Tampa. The prosecutor had made it clear to the Comptroller that the plea agreement did not preclude regulatory action by the State of Florida. The U.S. Attorney's Office was unaware of the Chief's letter, a copy of which was sent to BCCI's lawyer but not to the U.S. Attorney.

The Florida Comptroller wrote to the Chief on February 14 requesting a meeting to resolve the conflicting recommendations he received from the Chief and the Florida prosecutor. The Florida Comptroller Lewis pointed out that Florida law requires banks to have complied with all requirements of the law, and that the renewal of a banking license not be detrimental to the public interest.

case. The Subcommittee staff has been told by one law enforcement official that BCCI has "dug in its heels" on producing documentation.

MIXED SIGNALS TO STATE REGULATORS

Certain puzzling communications between the Justice Department and state banking regulators show Federal law enforcement agencies must do more in the way of sharing information and coordinating enforcement activities. The informal task force overseeing Justice's multi-pronged attacked on BCCI could be the vehicle for such coordination.

The continued lack of coordination was illustrated when the Florida Banking Commissioner's attempt to close BCCI in Florida and was briefly delayed when Chief of Justice's Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs Section chief, wrote a letter dates February 13, 1990 to the Comptroller saying:

> "There may be customer accounts at BCCI which the Department of Justice would to like to open or maintain. We are therefore requesting that BCCI be permitted to operate in your jurisdiction."

Equally disturbing is that Justice's Narcotics Section Chief also sent to New York and California banking regulators verbatim

Racketeering Section in the Criminal Division of the Justice Department. In the meeting, the defense attorneys requested that he not approve any attempt by the prosecutors to charge a violation of RICO in a superseding indictment. Apart from the stigma that accompanies a racketeering charge, RICO includes sweeping forfeiture provisions, which arguably could have been used by the prosecutors to put BCCI out of business.

The Tampa prosecutors have said that the RICO decision was made in Tampa and concurred with by Washington. Addition of the RICO count would have added another layer of complexity to an already massive case, and the indictment already alleged a drug conspiracy, entitling the prosecutors to criminal forfeiture of all seized assets. On the other hand, a RICO count conceivably could have pressured BCCI in plea negotiations by threatening forfeiture of assets from the entire BCCI enterprise.

To some extent, the government's gains from accepting the plea agreement cannot yet be fully evaluated. Provisions of the plea agreement require BCCI's continuing cooperation in other criminal investigations. The degree to which BCCI's assistance has aided thus far the prosecution of Manuel Noriega and other ongoing criminal cases and investigations cannot be determined. If the cooperation has not been as substantial as contemplated at the time of the plea agreement, questions should again be raised about the wisdom of permitting BCCI to plead out of the Tampa suggestion that the Justice Department had sold its case against BCCI "down the river" evidences a misperception about the actual terms of the plea agreement and little, if any, knowledge of Judge Hodges' prior opinion and ultimate ruling in the individual defendants' trial. On the other hand, a justifiable concern may exist as to the extent of information in the possession of the prosecutors at the time of the plea; further inquiries by the Subcommittee will focus on whether, given sufficient resources, a broader case against BCCI might have been able to be made. Clearly, as the AUSA's 1991 memorandum makes clear, there was still the need even then to properly review all the seized documentation.

If there is a clear criticism now of the Tampa prosecution, it would be the decision not to charge BCCI with violating federal racketeering laws. BCCI's money laundering activities would appear to have been legally sufficient to support such charges. Had charges been brought under the Racketeering Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO), BCCI may have faced forfeiture of the operations of its subsidiaries; regardless of whether such a forfeiture would actually have been imposed, the threat of such a penalty might have had a powerful effect on the terms of a plea agreement.

Prior to the issuance of the second superseding indictment, attorneys for BCCI approached the head of the Organized Crime and office in Tampa was controlled or directed by any higher-level Department of Justice officials in negotiating the plea with BCCI or in accepting the approximately $15 million forfeiture (the amount of the seized assets plus accrued interest). Although the Senior Deputy Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division in the Department of Justice approved of the plea's terms before its acceptance by the United States Attorney in Tampa, the plea appears to have been wholly the product of negotiations between the First Assistant United States Attorney in Tampa, the Chief of the Criminal Division in that office, and attorneys for BCCI. The front-line Customs and IRS agents who had expended enormous efforts and, in some cases, taken on great risk to bring BCCI to justice, ultimately approved of the agreement entered into by the prosecutors.

There appears to be little merit to the charge that the plea agreement insulated BCCI from further prosecution by the Justice Department and its United State Attorneys offices. The plea agreement plainly binds only the United States Attorney's office for the Middle District of Florida, and that office only with respect to further prosecution of the convicted BCCI subsidiaries based on information known to the United States Attorney's office at the time. Indeed, a Miami lawyer defending BCCI in another case expressed frustration that the Tampa defense lawyers had not secured a global prohibition on future prosecutions against BCCI. In other words, the Subcommittee staff believes that the cases. That is not atypical, for often the government is outnumbered by defense counsel. The paucity of resources allocated by Customs probably played a far greater role in what the Tampa prosecutors were able to develop for trial. Ultimately, however, the prosecutors in Tampa accomplished their primary mission of obtaining convictions of BCCI's two leading subsidiaries and six individual defendants.

Questions have also been raised about why the United States Attorney's office in Tampa could not have built a case similar to that which has been recently indicted by the District Attorney for New York County, Robert Morgenthau. The leads upon which that indictment was based, however, were developed over the course of more than two years through the commitment of substantial resources, and primarily by working in conjunction with the Federal Reserve Board. Serious constraints on the resources available to the Tampa prosecutors made it impracticable to attempt to expand the scope of their investigation in 1989 beyond the already wide-ranging charges they had brought against BCCI, ten of its officers, and several related individuals and entities. There is reason to believe that those resource concerns were eventually addressed and now may lead to further BCCI-related prosecutions.

The Subcommittee staff has found no credible evidence to date to support the theory that the United States Attorney's impose a fine of $28 million appeared minimal to the prosecutors under the circumstances: the largest fine previously imposed in a money laundering case had been $5 million, and the court's prior rulings indicated that it was unlikely to impose such a harsh fine on BCCI. Although BCCI arguably presented a unique case in that the prosecutors possessed evidence of a high-level corporate policy of accepting deposits of drug proceeds, the prosecutors' eagerness to try an international bank was tempered by Judge Hodges's reputation for moderation in sentencing white collar defendants.

Recent criticisms that the plea agreement was unduly lenient would appear to be inaccurate. In fact, the Subcommittee believes that the prosecutors negotiating the plea showed admirable resolve under the circumstances in refusing to return to BCCI any of the over-$14 million seized at the outset. On balance, the staff believes that the Tampa prosecutors did a creditable job in view of the resources they had available. While the bulk of the requested documents have yet to be produced, no evidence has yet been uncovered that would indicate that so-called "influence peddling" affected the outcome in Tampa, although the overwhelming effect of the numerous attorneys hired by BCCI -- over 50 lawyers from 20 different firms reportedly played a role in the case, incurring fees of approximately $35 million -- may well have prevented a fuller development of evidence that could have been used in related notice" that it would not be able to convict BCCI as a drug conspirator "solely by evidence adduced at trial that defendants may have laundered drug proceeds." The Court acknowledged that a substantial body of legal precedent would have supported a drug conspiracy conviction based on such evidence, but ruled that when Congress made money laundering a separate crime in 1986, it effectively precluded convictions for both money laundering and drug trafficking when those charges are based on the same evidence. Later, during the trial of the individuals, Judge Hodges did indeed dismiss the drug conspiracy count against each defendant.

In effect, the Court's ruling created considerable doubt as to the amount of any fine that the government could succeed in imposing on BCCI had it gone to trial. BCCI's money laundering activities all predated the effective date of the enactment of laws permitting the forfeiture of assets used in a money laundering operation; as initially enacted, the penalty provisions were interpreted as permitting only the forfeiture of the gross receipts from money laundering activities, which in this case was approximately 1.5 % of the money laundered, or approximately $250,000. Hence, the maximum criminal penalty that BCCI would have faced had it been convicted after trial would not have been a forfeiture, but a fine of approximately $28 million--twice the amount of money laundered through BCCI during Operation C-Chase. The prospects of actually persuading the court to trafficking conspiracy, the seized assets were subject to criminal forfeiture, and the prosecutors were confident that they could sustain a drug conspiracy conviction against BCCI. Accordingly, they rejected defense proposals under which BCCI would have agreed to pay fines of substantially less than the amount seized and plead guilty to charges of conspiracy to launder money and evade taxes and to substantive money laundering charges.

In essence, based on interviews conducted to date, the dispute between the defense attorneys and the prosecutors, which became heated at times, centered on whether BCCI was properly characterized as a drug trafficker, as opposed to a institution guilty of an arguably more technical, regulatory, "white-collar" money laundering offense. While the defense attorneys were anxious that BCCI not be stigmatized as a "drug dealer," the strong view of the prosecutors was that such a characterization was entirely justified in view of BCCI's role in facilitating international drug trafficking. BCCI's refusal to plead guilty to the drug conspiracy charge effectively deadlocked the plea negotiations in late 1989.

A December 5, 1989 ruling by presiding U.S. District Judge W. Terrell Hodges, however, had an apparently dramatic effect on the relative bargaining position of the government and BCCI's defense lawyers. The Court stated that "the Government is put on remember that many of the seized records were reviewed approximately six to eight months after the October, 1988 arrests. (Again probably after the filing of the final indictment.)

The Subcommittee staff believes that the Tampa prosecutors and the Agent, in conjunction with other dedicated Customs and IRS agents, managed under adverse circumstances to review the evidence thoroughly for the purposes of trial. The failure to use the evidence for other law enforcement purposes, and perhaps to broaden the case against BCCI, appears to have principally been the product of internal strife which resulted in inadequate resources, unreviewed evidence and an ill-timed determination on when to conclude C-Chase.

EVALUATION OF PLEA AGREEMENT

Attorneys for BCCI first seriously approached the prosecutors in Tampa about a possible plea agreement in the late fall of 1989. The negotiations focused principally on whether BCCI would plead to a drug conspiracy and on the amount of a fine or forfeiture that BCCI would agree to pay; over $14 million--the amount of money directly laundered through BCCI--had been seized when the indictments were unsealed in October 1988, and the prosecutors were not inclined to return any of those assets. Because BCCI had been charged with one count of a drug him unfairly and continuously, including threatened transfers. (The supervisor in Tampa disagrees with all of the above points.)

These problems were also reflected in "a road-map" memorandum that the lead prosecutor wrote on January 30, 1991 to other Justice colleagues on how to continue the investigations arising from the Tampa cases. The copy of the memorandum provided the Subcommittee staff is largely redacted but is telling nonetheless. The AUSA noted the following concerns: first, whether Customs would support the investigation; second, the need for additional resources was still critical because of the past inadequate review of evidence, and third, the record review should be undertaken immediately by the most knowledgeable agents because there had yet to be a thorough examination of the records seized in October 1988.

Although it is not atypical for there to be less than adequate resources in law enforcement cases, we are troubled by this persistent pattern. Whether this was in fact a "personality clash" between the Agent and the supervisor in Tampa or the consequence of decisions by other higher-level Customs officials is unclear at this point.

We do know that the former Assistant Customs Commissioner for Law Enforcement denies ever knowing of the repeated requests for resources by the Agent or the Tampa prosecutors. He does "affect[ed] future prosecutions." It is important to note that there were two superseding indictments (the second indictment was on May 5, 1989) following the initial indictment in early October 1988. Accordingly, evidence reviewed after May 1989 was outside the scope of the final indictment. The AUSA does feel that the document review improved in the summer of 1989 when a new IRS agent was put on the case.

Ultimately, the Customs Agent, a highly respected individual who has received numerous awards including two letters of Commendation from former Customs Commissioner von Raab and current Customs Commissioner Hallet in 1989 and 1990, resigned from Customs because of his great concerns.

The Agent sent his resignation notification letter to Customs Commissioner Hallet on April 3, 1991. The letter was provided to the Subcommittee staff with minor deletions. The Agent noted the following concerns: first, the change in the Customs supervisors in Tampa dramatically affected the C-Chase Operation; second, more defendants and seizures of drug proceeds could have occurred had more resources and priority been given to the case; third, the Agent and others made numerous requests over three years to the SAC Tampa to no avail; fourth, the concerns raised by the Agent had been misunderstood to such a degree that the Tampa Customs supervisor felt he was attacking her personally; and fifth, the supervisor had responded by harassing point, the Government was threatened with sanctions by both the federal judge and magistrate handling the case.

- The Agent who led the undercover operation and who testified for some 54 days during the trial of the BCCI officials "repeatedly requested" in writing more support, citing the "dramatic need for additional resources," but was repeatedly rebuffed by the Customs Supervisor in Tampa. This internal warfare unfortunately continued until this year and is clearly documented in two redacted documents provided to the Subcommittee staff. The Customs supervisor in Tampa, however, while acknowledging that transcription was "a major problem" felt that she had asked for more resources and that there was adequate coverage in general.

- The records seized in October 1988 following the arrest of BCCI officials were not thoroughly reviewed. The records were estimated by the AUSA to consist of almost "60 small banker boxes," "2 large lateral files," and "4-5 large banker boxes." These boxes contained much information and further leads but much was, in the Agent's word, "at best glanced at." The AUSA stated that "there was not a satisfactory review of evidence" nor was there "a detailed review of records other than their utility at trial." The Agent stated that "potentially important boxes" were not reviewed and that "certain documents," if adequately examined, could "have broadened the scope at trial" as well as first place. (Their view is not universal. Both the Tampa supervisor and the former Assistant Customs Commissioner for Law Enforcement felt it was appropriate "to maximize the publicity for Customs.")

Both the Agent and the AUSA cited the following examples of ways in which their work was hampered by lack of sufficient resources:

- Hundreds and hundreds of numerous invaluable undercover tapes were made during C-Chase, but were not transcribed in a timely fashion. Soon after the arrests, it became apparent that the "transcription process" was not "proceeding apace," according to the AUSA, and became "a real problem." Given the "thousands" of recorded phone conversations and "over a hundred" meeting tapes (the Government's opening statement in the BCCI officials' trial refers to "148 face-to-face meetings" and "about 2,000 telephone calls"), this delay significantly affected both the undercover operation and the trial preparation.

- There was an additional problem of translating conversations from Spanish and various dialects of Urdu into English. In fact, many tapes were not transcribed until well after the indictment and virtually on the very eve of the discovery deadlines for production to defense counsel mandated by the court. At one

The Agent was also frustrated by the nature in which the timing of the takedown decision had been made without adequate input from the undercover team. The timing decision is usually a collective decision arrived at after a full traditional review committee examination.

The Customs supervisor does not recall exactly when the decision had been made to close down the operation. She does recall the timing decision being "kicked around" prior to February 1988 but said that the final decision was not made until the summer of 1988. At that time problems arose in a number of the seven cities participating in C-Chase which raised strong concerns about the possible public disclosure of the undercover operation.

As planned, C-Chase culminated in the October 1988 arrests of BCCI officers and other money launderers nationwide. The Tampa arrests of the officers occurred at a sting "bachelor party," complete with network T.V. cameras. In addition to BCCI officers, two leading subsidiaries of BCCI were indicted for drug, tax, and money laundering conspiracies, and over $14 million of their assets were frozen.

Both the AUSA and the Agent felt that officials at Customs had put more effort into showcasing the arrests than they had into ensuring that the operation had the needed resources in the

Realizing the implications of these developments, the AUSA overseeing the case began in January 1988 to devote a substantial portion of his time to preparing the first-ever money laundering indictment against an international bank. The Customs Agent was not surprised that a bank had entered the C-Chase picture and regarded BCCI's involvement as "no accident." Shortly after his meetings with BCCI banking officials in Miami in January 1988, the Agent realized that BCCI was "too highly polished" in its illegal scheming.

Ironically, almost concurrent with the realization on the part of the Customs Agent and AUSA that criminal activity may have been BCCI "corporate policy," decisions were already being taken to prematurely conclude the undercover operation. Both the AUSA and the Customs Agent recall hearing as early as February 1988 (only one month after the Agent had first met with high-level BCCI officials) that the supervisor of the Customs office in Tampa had decided to "takedown" and close out the C-Chase operation in the fall. The Agent remembers being told "October." The Agent felt that the October deadline affected his ability to "get" more high-level traffickers and BCCI officials. For example, he was particularly interested in meeting with two representatives who were close to Pablo Escobar, the head of the Medellin cartel. He had also scheduled a separate meeting with BCCI's chief executive officer. Neither meeting took place because of the established deadline.

officials did not allocate adequate resources to the investigation and imposed a prematurely determined deadline on when the investigation would be concluded. Customs bears principal responsibility for this lack of resources because it headed the multi-agency team in Tampa. Justice, however, also could have done more to demand more support. If there is any "conspiracy" that would necessarily have to be confirmed by witnesses or documents not yet made available to the Subcommittee staff.

Over a year into the undercover operation, the agents and prosecutors conducting C-Chase began to sense that a strong criminal case could be developed not only against individual money launderers but against a major international bank. In late 1987, BCCI began to emerge not merely as the bank of choice of the money launderers and drug traffickers, but as an active and eager participant in a scheme to facilitate drug trafficking. Over the next several months, the agents increasingly gathered most alarming evidence of a policy at the highest levels of BCCI to take in deposits with, at best, indifference to whether they might constitute the proceeds of illegal activities. Most shockingly, high-level bank officers began to counsel the undercover agents on sophisticated means of making the source of their deposits untraceable.

received substantial prison sentences. The indicted BCCI subsidiaries pleaded guilty several weeks before the trial of the officers and agreed to forfeit approximately $15 million, to cooperate with the government in the upcoming trials and other investigations, and to conduct themselves under terms of probation tied to a June 1989 Federal Reserve consent order.

Critics of Operation C-Chase and the subsequent prosecutions have questioned the apparent failure of the prosecutors to build a more formidable case against BCCI and to pursue higher level officers. Particular criticism has been leveled at the plea agreement, as inadequate to punish and deter BCCI's corporate policy to act as a full-service bank for international criminals and miscreants.

In-depth interviews with both the Assistant U.S. Attorney (AUSA) in charge of the Tampa cases and the lead undercover Customs Agent on Operation C-Chase provided many examples of ways in which inadequate resources from Customs impeded the undercover operation, and the prosecutions.

Our interviews with key personnel involved in both C-Chase and the subsequent prosecutions indicate that the failure to realize the full potential of this investigation was attributable not to an amorphous "conspiracy," nor to shortcomings of the prosecutors, but rather to the fact that Customs management channel" for further money laundering. Justice rejected this request because it did not want to jeopardize its prior indictment of BCCI in the Tampa case, which occurred in October, 1988.

INADEQUATE RESOURCES DEVOTED TO OPERATION C-CHASE

Thus far, the only major criminal cases brought against BCCI in the United States are the so-called "Tampa Cases" brought by the United States Attorney's office for the Middle District of Florida.

The Tampa prosecutions of two of BCCI's main subsidiaries and five bank officers grew out of Operation C-Chase, an over two-year Customs undercover operation formulated in principal part in the summer of 1986 by the Customs agent who was to become the head undercover agent in the operation. As originally planned, C-Chase was to be a nationwide effort to track the flow of drug proceeds from collection points in various United States cities, through suspected Colombian money laundering organizations, and, ultimately, into the hands of major drug traffickers.

The cases ended with the conviction of five BCCI officers and several money launderers and individuals with close ties to the Medellin cartel. Some were tried; others pleaded guilty; all Because India did not have a tax-sharing treaty agreement with the United States, India's allegations were handled as a "request for law enforcement assistance" but not pursued, and there was no further follow-up.

- In Washington, the IRS National Office and the Manhattan district of the North Atlantic Region received a criminal referral from the Federal Reserve on June 5, 1987, concerning suspect cash transactions and irregular activities in BCCI Miami and Atlanta accounts.

- In St. Louis, IRS in 1988 worked on a money laundering investigation of Jerry Lee Harvey. The government established that Harvey had utilized BCCI accounts in Panama and the Cayman Islands as part of his massive illegal scheming estimated at over $60 million.

- In Oklahoma City, IRS in February 1989 worked on the investigation and conviction of a "$1 million plus" money laundering scheme by a heroin dealer who used BCCI accounts in New York and Hong Kong.

- In Dallas, the IRS district office in early 1989 requested permission to conduct its own undercover investigation of BCCI's Miami office. In a major undercover operation in Dallas, Sadruddin Alani offered BCCI Miami accounts as "an additional

• In Chicago, a joint IRS/DEA drug trafficking and money laundering undercover operation resulted in the indictment of Shaid Rikey, a Chicago-based BCCI employee on charges of conspiracy, mail and wire fraud and failing to file cash transaction reports. The indictment was eventually dismissed on technical grounds. But by that time, BCCI had been deterred from pursuing an application for an Illinois banking license, and the Justice Department had encountered significant delay by BCCI in responding to subpoenas for its financial records. Despite all the time invested, and strong indications that something was amiss at BCCI, the entire matter appears to have been dropped.

• In Los Angeles, IRS received a referral from DEA in 1986 on a large-scale Iranian heroin trafficker, Satter Nadjmehchi. In a meeting with an undercover DEA agent and a representative of the BCCI branch in Los Angeles, Nadjmehchi bragged that "he would conceal and launder accounts at a foreign bank." The IRS issued a $9.5 million "jeopardy assessment" against his property (which he contested), but there was no resulting criminal investigation.

• In Washington, representatives of the Government of India provided IRS in 1986 with evidence of an alleged multi-million dollar money laundering scheme. The Indian Government, through the assistance of a retained investigating firm, provided documents to the IRS showing that the scheme was furthered through different BCCI accounts in a number of countries.

from Jordan to Guatemala -- financed by letters of credit opened at BCCI-Miami.

The August indictment against Bilbeisi was apparently aided by a criminal referral from the Federal Reserve in November 1988 to the IRS, about possible Bank Secrecy Act violations by BCCI. The referral described suspicious deposits of checks and money orders into accounts through the Boca Raton and Miami offices of BCCI. After deposit, the funds were wired to Panama.

Bilbeisi could still face prosecution on other charges.

d. In Washington, the DEA review of files has, so far, revealed 125 cases that have been identified "as having something to do with BCCI." Most of the cases are undercover money laundering storefront operations which lead to warrants to seize BCCI bank accounts containing suspected drug proceeds. In other words, DEA undercover agents in storefronts all over the country knew, as a matter of course, that BCCI is the place to launder drug money. DEA also uncovered three cases involving BCCI officials.

Other instances of strong leads left dangling around the country are the following:

c. The Customs Service learned in 1983 that Jordanian arms dealer Munther Bilbeisi, one of the largest customers of BCCI's South Florida office, was using fraudulent bills of lading and cargo manifests to carry out a massive illegal coffee smuggling scheme. Any reasonable investigation into Bilbeisi's operations would have uncovered that Bilbeisi's coffee business had established a financial relationship with BCCI in 1983, and that BCCI had issued phony letters of credit from 1983 to 1986 to finance the smuggling.

The Justice Department failed to bring an indictment against Bilbeisi until August 1991 -- after the expiration of the five-year statute of limitations on most of the coffee smuggling matters. Bilbeisi is charged only with tax evasion. BCCI has not been charged -- even though BCCI's own counsel had determined by November 1990 in its own internal review that BCCI had played an indispensable role in providing letter-of-credit financing without questioning the irregularities in the coffee shipments.

The delay in indicting Bilbeisi occurred despite warnings to Federal prosecutors in Miami from counsel representing certain underwriters at Lloyd's of London, which was pursuing an insurance fraud case against Bilbeisi, that Bilbeisi had repeatedly violated customs laws from 1983 to 1986. Bilbeisi's personal assistant and counsel tipped Customs that Bilbeisi might have attempted to broker illegal sales of helicopter gunships

Based on considerable information gleaned from Mr. Rehman over the next 18 months and IRS' own investigative efforts, the Criminal Investigative Division Special Agent (now a Group Manager in IRS Miami Office), recommended that IRS launch an undercover operation directed at BCCI. This request was approved by her supervisors but was denied by higher-echelon officials in the IRS District office, despite three attempts to gain approval during the period January through March 1986. The IRS Group Manager requesting the undercover operation sought the advice of senior IRS officials at a Criminal Investigative Group Manager's conference and was told that she was fighting a losing battle.

b. In December 1988, an IRS special agent in Tampa offered to direct a senior official of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington, to five or six former BCCI officers who could testify about BCCI secret ownership and control of First American Bank in Washington. He showed little interest in the proffered evidence, telling the agent he would need documentation of any such allegations in order for the Federal Reserve to take action. The agent did not understand why the evidence he had offered, which might have been sufficient for criminal charges, was insufficient for the Federal Reserve. The Federal Reserve ultimately made a criminal referral on these same allegations on its own -- but not until two years later, in January 1991.

For instance, the IRS has thus far identified for the Subcommittee staff 15 separate matters involving BCCI from 1984 to present, that may involve criminal activities. Of this number, ten were referred to the Justice Department for criminal action, with seven resulting in indictment. The three other matters are presently part of separate ongoing grand jury investigations. Various Federal authorities, such Customs and DEA, knew of BCCI's possible involvement in criminal activities from 1983 on.

Among the Subcommittee staff's findings:

a. Most startling is the IRS' refusal to begin an undercover investigation of BCCI despite persistent requests by Criminal Investigation Division personnel in Miami who acquired considerable information about BCCI's involvement in criminal activities over which the IRS had law enforcement jurisdiction. Former BCCI employee Aziz Rehman was interviewed by IRS Special Agents in IRS' Miami office in April 1984 shortly after he was fired by BCCI for refusing to transport large volumes of currency which he believed to be in violation of existing federal laws. He provided them with documentation of deposits to a non-existent BCCI branch in Nassau Bahamas and described his role as a former courier for large cash deposits to BCCI accounts of "customers" and other banks.

and its officials during and since the resolution of the Tampa cases in 1990.

WIDESPREAD FEDERAL KNOWLEDGE OF BCCI

It is clear that Federal authorities had scores of contacts concerning BCCI dating as far back as 1983. Despite the fact that BCCI was cropping up repeatedly in a variety of places and in an array of questionable activities, no one in the law enforcement community noticed the pattern. In fact, on at least two occasions, high-ranking officials squelched actions recommended by rank-and-file investigators that might have transformed the government's isolated brushes with BCCI in the United States into a full-scale investigation of a criminal enterprise of international proportions.

Time and time again, the front-line crimefighters did the job but their colleagues elsewhere or bosses never got the news. That might not have happened had there been a mechanism in place to ensure a sharing of information between agencies or a flow of information upward to decisionmakers. The government had enough information on BCCI by the mid-1980s to have put BCCI on the most wanted list. When the Tampa prosecutors and investigators finally cornered BCCI they did so without any advance notice. They had to be told by a drug trafficker -- not by a law enforcement official.

were present in meetings with Federal officials, and they were conducted subsequent to debriefings by other Federal law enforcement officials.

Justice and Treasury are to be commended for arranging the requested briefings and interviews. Though the rigidity of the interviewing process may have affected certain interviewees' demeanor, no interviewee has declined to answer a question except when they related to ongoing investigative or tax-related matters. However, there have been delays in delivering the great bulk of the requested documents to the Subcommittee staff, and when delivered they have been in redacted form, in order, according to Justice and Treasury, to protect ongoing investigations or the identity of law enforcement officials.

The staff has requested further briefings, information and documentation on BCCI, its employees or ex-employees, BCCI customers and BCCI banking accounts.

The bulk of the Subcommittee staff's information has necessarily been gleaned from interviews with law enforcement and non-government sources. Despite the lack of documents that would expand upon and corroborate oral information, certain conclusions can clearly be drawn from the information already derived about the government's knowledge of BCCI and its actions and about the government's performance in investigating and prosecuting BCCI

BACKGROUND OF INVESTIGATION

In late July, Robert S. Mueller, the Assistant Attorney General for the Criminal Division, offered to present an overview of the Department of Justice's past and current investigations of BCCI to Chairman Schumer and Subcommittee counsel, Jim Rowe. This briefing occurred on July 29, 1991. Following the briefing, Chairman Schumer requested the Subcommittee staff to investigate the nature and extent of the government's knowledge about BCCI among Justice and the various law enforcement agencies with which it generally coordinates its activities. During the August district work period, Subcommittee staff requested and received background briefings in Washington and Florida by officials of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and U.S. Customs Service, both arms of the Department of Treasury, and the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), an arm of the Department of Justice, as well as Justice Department prosecutors involved in the Department's investigations and prosecutions of BCCI matters in Miami and Tampa. Subcommittee staff also interviewed former law enforcement, state banking regulatory officials and other knowledgeable individuals.

Though the interviews conducted for the purposes of this investigation were not under oath, the information obtained is, for the most part, considered highly credible. The interviews were coordinated by Justice and Treasury, whose representatives

INTRODUCTION

The Subcommittee's investigation has focused on what the Federal law enforcement agencies knew about the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI) and when they knew it, and how those agencies have performed thus far in investigating and prosecuting BCCI.

As described in detail in the sections that follow, the treatment of information about BCCI by the various law enforcement agencies involved throughout the 1980s is a classic case of many of the most often-cited stereotypes about large bureaucracies: lack of coordination, issues and functions slipping between the cracks, turf battling, little, if any, information sharing and inability to see the forest for the trees.

There is no doubt that BCCI was and is an institution whose activities have been well known to Federal law enforcement personnel throughout our government, in many parts of the country, for quite some time. As one official said, BCCI was "on the list of usual suspects," for various illegal activities. Much more could and should have been done to put it out of business, sooner rather than later.

Writer's Papers Shed Little Light on His Death

Casolaro Sought to Prove 'Octopus' Theory Encompassing Hostage Delay, Inslaw, BCCI

By Gary Lee
Washington Post Staff Writer

Ever since Joseph Daniel Casolaro's death was described by relatives and friends as a possible murder because the writer "knew too much" about an alleged government conspiracy, authorities and journalists have tried to pinpoint what it was that he knew and why he might have been killed for it.

But neither the summary Casolaro wrote of his research nor analyses of his notes and papers provided by his family to journalists from ABC News and Time magazine have provided clues of what would have put the Fairfax City writer in danger, although his family claims that notes Casolaro carried with him are missing.

At least one New York publisher rejected Casolaro's book proposal as too vague and sources said several others also passed on it.

Casolaro, 44, was buried in Arlington Friday. Authorities say the evidence still points to suicide.

The writer had spent nearly a year researching a link between several allegations: that associates of Ronald Reagan acted to prevent an "October surprise" release of U.S. hostages in Iran to help Reagan defeat Jimmy Carter in the November 1980 election and that the Justice Department stole software from Inslaw, a Washington based computer firm.

The link between these unproven events, according to Casolaro's account and those of several of his friends, was a small group of shadowy figures that Casolaro called the "octopus."

The "octopus," which Casolaro believed was led by an associate of former attorney general Edwin Meese III, allegedly sold the stolen software and other contraband, and used the funds to finance, among other things, the promises made to Iran preventing an "October surprise."

Casolaro also held that the Bank of Credit and Commerce International, under investigation in many countries for fraud, was a conduit in the operations.

On Aug. 8, Casolaro went to Martinsburg, W. Va., where he told relatives and friends he was going to meet a key source in his investigation.

West Virginia police and medical authorities, called after Casolaro's body was found in the Martinsburg Sheraton, originally ruled the death a suicide but reopened the case after relatives, angry that the body had been embalmed before they were notified of his death, demanded it.

Authorities also said they reopened the case after learning of the focus of Casolaro's research.

An autopsy supported the preliminary suicide finding, authorities said in a Thursday news conference, but they are conducting further investigations.

Casolaro's associates said he was a strong investigator and reporter and that is why they believe he was killed in the course of researching his book.

"When he got a good story, he was like a dog with a piece of steak," said Betty Borsage, editor of Washington Crime News, a small-circulation, Arlington-based newsletter where Casolaro worked. "He would not stop gnawing until he was finished."

But associates could produce few examples of his investigative articles.

A review of several boxes of his notes and [illegible] by a team of investigative reporters from ABC News yielded little to substantiate Casolaro's octopus theory, an ABC spokesman said. He said most of the material was newspaper and magazine clippings and other publicly available documents.

"He had some strong contentions," said Jonathan Beaty, a veteran investigative reporter for Time who held several conversations with Casolaro about his work, including one three weeks ago. "But it was always difficult to determine whether he was really on to something."

Editors at Little, Brown & Co. had asked Beaty to examine Casolaro's work and recommend whether they should finance a book proposal he had submitted. The New York publisher rejected the proposal, an editor there said.

Over the past eight to 10 months, Casolaro undertook a wide-ranging investigation for his book that included several conversations a week with Inslaw co-owner William Hamilton and a visit to rural Washington state to interview Michael Riconosciuto, a computer specialist who claims to have been hired to modify what turned out to be the stolen Inslaw software. Riconosciuto has been in jail since last March on drug-related charges.

Recently, Casolaro gave several of his contacts the impression he was nearing a breakthrough.

In a telephone call a couple of weeks ago, "he said he had narrowed the list of people [involved in the octopus] to about 10," said Ray Lavis, a California-based computer specialist used by Casolaro as a source. "He said they were controlling the world," Lavis added in a telephone interview.

In late July, Casolaro called reporter Don Devreaux in Phoenix. "He seemed almost breathless," Devreaux said, "as if he was on to something."

He recalled being invited to several of NBG's social functions while he lived in Atlanta. One such occasion was in 1984 when NBG owner, GHAITH PHARAON, threw a large party at the old BOBBY JONES Mansion in Atlanta, Georgia. He recalled that this party was attended by approximately 900 people. He recalled asking [redacted] how NBG could afford such a lavish party, and [redacted] explained that it was because NBG did not advertise. b6 b7C

[redacted] introduced [redacted] to Mr. AGHA HASAN ABEDI, the president of BCCI. He recalled that this meeting took place at the RITZ CARLTON HOTEL in Atlanta, Georgia, sometime around 1985. facilities, to give the bank "an American look." ABEDI told him in the meeting about the benevolence of his bank, explaining that any time there is a disaster in the world, particularly the third world, BCCI was there to provide assistance. He told [redacted] that there were great opportunities for advancement because of the rapid growth that the bank was undergoing. b6 b7C

Prior to going to work for BCCI, [redacted] met with PHARAON at his estate in Richmond Hill, Georgia. He traveled to Richmond Hill with [redacted]. He recalled that PHARAON questioned him about his treasury experience with EQUITABLE. [redacted] could not explain why it was necessary for him to meet with PHARAON, and did not know exactly what this experience had to do with his being hired by BCCI, if anything. b6 b7C

He was hired by BCCI in July, 1986, to work in their regional office in New York City. He said that one reason that he accepted this job was because he wanted to return to his home in New York. At the time he was hired, he attended a six month training seminar at Pace University in Westchester County, New York. Immediately thereafter, he began to work at the New York Office. He recalled that he was given no specific responsibilities, and had no idea what his duties were to be. He recalled spending some time trying to solicit international business for the bank, that is, import-export business. He eventually went into the Human Resources Department of BCCI, where he began trying to consolidate agencies, i.e., representative offices of the bank.

[redacted] recalled that his supervisor at BCCI was [redacted] was a Pakistani, and wanted to get rid of the Americans that were working in the bank. For that reason, he did not like [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that there came a time when the officials of NBG were trying to change the name of the bank to FIRST AMERICAN BANK. This name change required a change in the Georgia banking law. person to contact these legislators to convince them to vote for the change in the Georgia law. At first [redacted] told [redacted] that he did not want to get involved in this. He recalled that [redacted] called him again a short while later and told [redacted] that this was very important, that they really needed him to help. He agreed to do this. [redacted] said that when [redacted] used the term "we", he understood that to mean BCCI. He said that he knew PHARAON was a member of the board of BCCI and also that he owned NBG, so therefore, he knew that there was a relationship of some sort between the two banks. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that he and [redacted] traveled to Atlanta by air, arriving at approximately midnight, just prior to the vote in the Georgia legislature. [redacted] recalled that he stayed in his home which he still owned in Atlanta at that time. When he got to Atlanta, [redacted] told him to stand by and they would call him when they needed him to take specific action. He recalled that he waited in his house for two days and finally [redacted] called him and told him that it was not necessary to do anything, that the bill had been approved by the Georgia legislature. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that he was told that there was a lobbyist in Georgia working on the change in the Georgia law. [redacted] said during the time he was in Atlanta, he stayed at his home at [redacted] in southwest Atlanta. He said that he did not speak to anyone in the Georgia legislature, or anyone else about the lobbying effort. He said that he and [redacted] had not had any further discussions regarding his assistance on this after the second telephone call. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that approximately six months after the Georgia law was changed, he heard from someone in BCCI's London Office about a party at PHARAON's estate in Richmond Hill, Georgia. This party was held sometime after the Georgia law was changed. PHARAON was overheard pointing out an individual at his party and commenting to the effect that "we" had to pay him over a million dollars for the legislation. [redacted] said he did not know who this person was that PHARAON was referring. b6 b7C

[redacted] said that he is familiar with a BCCI employee named [redacted]. He described [redacted] in the New York Office of BCCI. He said that to his knowledge, [redacted] had no involvement in the Georgia lobbying effort. b6 b7C

[redacted] said that he felt uneasy about the Georgia lobbying effort and was concerned about being "implicated" himself. He explained that after hearing the PHARAON quote about the payment of one million dollars to the individual at his party, he began feeling uneasy. He recalled talking to [redacted] the [redacted] to Georgia Governor JOE FRANK HARRIS. He had met [redacted] when he had previously lived in Atlanta, and he discussed the Georgia lobbying effort for NBG with PERDUE. He recalled that [redacted] was familiar with the lobbyist that worked on this legislation for NBG. [redacted] could not recall the name of this individual, but he said that [redacted] described him as "the sleaziest guy in Georgia." b6 b7C

[redacted] also recalled hearing talk that Georgia Speaker of the House, TOM MURPHY, and the lobbyist had an apartment somewhere in the state of Florida, and that is where the deal was made to get the Georgia legislation approved. [redacted] said that he could not be more specific than this, and repeated that this was merely talk that he had heard in the BCCI offices. He could not recall who made these comments. b6 b7C

[redacted] said that after the trip to Atlanta, his relationship with [redacted] deteriorated. He started asking questions about the trip to Atlanta, and why [redacted] had asked him to go there and then did not use him as he originally stated that he would. He said that he has had very little contact with [redacted] since that time, and he now understands that [redacted] is living in Pakistan. b6 b7C

[redacted] said that he met [redacted] in New York City in 1974 when he saw [redacted] and CORETTA KING on a New York street corner. He recalled that he had been an admirer of [redacted] and he walked up and introduced himself at that time. He said that he saw him again in New York at the 1976 Democratic Convention. He recalled that when he was living in Atlanta, while working at EQUITABLE, [redacted] asked him to take a look at the plans for Underground Atlanta. He recalled that the city of Atlanta was having trouble getting this project off the ground, and they asked [redacted] to look at it from a business standpoint to see if he could make any recommendations. [redacted] recalled that he did recommend that they fire some of the people that were involved in the project. He recalled that the city made these changes and the project was improved. b6 b7C

[redacted] later learned that [redacted] had entered into a consulting agreement with BCCI. He did not know how he became aware of this, but he recalled sitting in on a meeting at the London offices of BCCI between [redacted] and [redacted] This discussion concerned BCCI wanting an introduction to Nicaraguan leader, DANIEL ORTEGA. He later learned that [redacted] accompanied some BCCI employees from the Miami office to Nicaragua to make the introduction to ORTEGA. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that [redacted] told him that BCCI had reneged on paying him a consulting fee. He also was aware that YOUNG had a loan from NBG. He said that he did not know what happened on this loan, but he heard that the [redacted] loan was sold by NBG to BCCI. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that when he lived in Atlanta, he got involved with [redacted] on the State Agricenter Project. He was appointed to this project by then Governor HARRIS and he helped plan the project which was constructed in Perry, Georgia. During this project, he became familiar with some of the members of the Georgia legislature by name, but did not know any of them well, and certainly did not know any of them personally. [redacted] repeated that he never talked to any member of the Georgia legislature about the NBG name change. b6 b7C

facilities, to give the bank "an American look." ABEDI told him in the meeting about the benevolence of his bank, explaining that any time there is a disaster in the world, particularly the third world, BCCI was there to provide assistance. He told [redacted] that there were great opportunities for advancement because of the rapid growth that the bank was undergoing. b6 b7C

Prior to going to work for BCCI, [redacted] met with PHARAON at his estate in Richmond Hill, Georgia. He traveled to Richmond Hill with [redacted] He recalled that PHARAON questioned him about his treasury experience with EQUITABLE. [redacted] could not explain why it was necessary for him to meet with PHARAON, and did not know exactly what this experience had to do with his being hired by BCCI, if anything. b6 b7C

He was hired by BCCI in July, 1986, to work in their regional office in New York City. He said that one reason that he accepted this job was because he wanted to return to his home in New York. At the time he was hired, he attended a six month training seminar at Pace University in Westchester County, New York. Immediately thereafter, he began to work at the New York Office. He recalled that he was given no specific responsibilities, and had no idea what his duties were to be. He recalled spending some time trying to solicit international business for the bank, that is, import-export business. He eventually went into the Human Resources Department of BCCI, where he began trying to consolidate agencies, i.e., representative offices of the bank.

[redacted] recalled that there came a time when the officials of NBG were trying to change the name of the bank to FIRST AMERICAN BANK. This name change required a change in the Georgia banking law. [redacted] called from the London office of BCCI at that time. He told [redacted] that there were forty eight black members of the Georgia legislature, and they needed a black b6 b7C person to contact these legislators to convince them to vote for the change in the Georgia law. At first [redacted] told [redacted] that he did not want to get involved in this. He recalled that [redacted] called him again a short while later and told [redacted] that this was very important, that they really needed him to help. He agreed to do this. [redacted] said that when [redacted] used the term "we", he understood that to mean BCCI. He said that he knew PHARAON was a member of the board of BCCI and also that he owned NBG, so therefore, he knew that there was a relationship of some sort between the two banks. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that he and [redacted] traveled to Atlanta by air, arriving at approximately midnight, just prior to the vote in the Georgia legislature. [redacted] recalled that he stayed in his home which he still owned in Atlanta at that time. When he got to Atlanta, [redacted] told him to stand by and they would call him when they needed him to take specific action. He recalled that he waited in his house for two days and finally [redacted] called him and told him that it was not necessary to do anything, that the bill had been approved by the Georgia legislature. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that he was told that there was a lobbyist in Georgia working on the change in the Georgia law. [redacted] said during the time he was in Atlanta, he stayed at his home at [redacted], in southwest Atlanta. He said that he did not speak to anyone in the Georgia legislature, or anyone else about the lobbying effort. He said that he and [redacted] had not had any further discussions regarding his assistance on this after the second telephone call. b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that approximately six months after the Georgia law was changed, he heard from someone in BCCI's London Office about a party at PHARAON's estate in Richmond Hill, Georgia. This party was held sometime after the Georgia law was changed. PHARAON was overheard pointing out an individual at his party and commenting to the effect that "we" had to pay him over a million dollars for the legislation. [redacted] said he did not know who this person was that PHARAON was referring. b6 b7C

[redacted] said that he is familiar with a BCCI employee named [redacted]. He described [redacted] in the New York Office of BCCI. He said that to his knowledge, [redacted] had no involvement in the Georgia lobbying effort. b6 b7C

Continuation of FD-302 of [redacted], On 8/28/91, Page 4 b6 b7C

[redacted] said that he felt uneasy about the Georgia lobbying effort and was concerned about being "implicated" himself. He explained that after hearing the PHARAON quote about the payment of one million dollars to the individual at his party, he began feeling uneasy. He recalled talking to [redacted] to Georgia Governor JOE FRANK HARRIS. He had met [redacted] when he had previously lived in Atlanta, and he discussed the Georgia lobbying effort for NBG with PERDUE. He recalled that [redacted] was familiar with the lobbyist that worked on this legislation for NBG. [redacted] could not recall the name of this individual, but he said that [redacted] described him as "the sleaziest guy in Georgia." b6 b7C

[redacted] also recalled hearing talk that Georgia Speaker of the House, TOM MURPHY, and the lobbyist had an apartment somewhere in the state of Florida, and that is where the deal was made to get the Georgia legislation approved. [redacted] said that he could not be more specific than this, and repeated that this was merely talk that he had heard in the BCCI offices. He could not recall who made these comments. b6 b7C

[redacted] said that after the trip to Atlanta, his relationship with [redacted] deteriorated. He started asking questions about the trip to Atlanta, and why [redacted] had asked him to go there and then did not use him as he originally stated that he would. He said that he has had very little contact with [redacted] since that time, and he now understands that [redacted] is living in Pakistan. b6 b7C

[redacted] said that he met [redacted] in New York City in 1974 when he saw [redacted] and CORETTA KING on a New York street corner. He recalled that he had been an admirer of [redacted] and he walked up and introduced himself at that time. He said that he saw him again in New York at the 1976 Democratic Convention. He recalled that when he was living in Atlanta, while working at EQUITABLE, [redacted] asked him to take a look at the plans for Underground Atlanta. He recalled that the city of Atlanta was having trouble getting this project off the ground, and they asked [redacted] to look at it from a business standpoint to see if he could make any recommendations. [redacted] recalled that he did recommend that they fire some of the people that were involved in the project. He recalled that the city made these changes and the project was improved. b6 b7C

[redacted] later learned that [redacted] had entered into a consulting agreement with BCCI. He did not know how he became aware of this, but he recalled sitting in on a meeting at the London offices of BCCI between [redacted] and [redacted] This discussion concerned BCCI wanting an introduction to Nicaraguan leader, DANIEL ORTEGA. He later learned that [redacted] accompanied some BCCI employees from the Miami office to Nicaragua to make the introduction to ORTEGA.

b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that [redacted] told him that BCCI had reneged on paying him a consulting fee. He also was aware that YOUNG had a loan from NBG. He said that he did not know what happened on this loan, but he heard that the [redacted] loan was sold by NBG to BCCI.

b6 b7C

[redacted] recalled that when he lived in Atlanta, he got involved with [redacted] on the State Agricenter Project. He was appointed to this project by then Governor HARRIS and he helped plan the project which was constructed in Perry, Georgia. During this project, he became familiar with some of the members of the Georgia legislature by name, but did not know any of them well, and certainly did not know any of them personally. [redacted] repeated that he never talked to any member of the Georgia legislature about the NBG name change.

The purpose of this memorandum is to report the results of my trip to Grand Cayman, BWI, 9/9-12/91. The main purpose for the trip was to gain access to and to survey records presently in the custody of the provisional liquidator of BCCI and ICIC in the Cayman Islands (CI), Deloitte Ross Mohastsu (DRM) of Canada (an affiliate of Touche Ross).

In addition to myself, the investigative party consisted of: [redacted] of DOJ Fraud; [redacted] Aspen Systems Corporation (computer consultant to DOJ); [redacted] London [redacted]; [redacted] and [redacted]. We were met at the CI Airport by [redacted]. b6 b7C b7D

pp. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6

The [redacted] officials informed us that a meeting had been arranged with the CI's Attorney General Richard Ground for 9/10/91, after which, in order to have any access to the BCCI records, it would be necessary for each of us to be sworn as a [redacted] of the [redacted]. b7D

On 9/10/91, we met with Attorney General (AG) Ground in regard to the CI's stance toward our request for access to the records of BCCI. AG Ground said the executive counsel (Exco) of CI had agreed to meet with attorneys [redacted] and the two computer specialists from our group later that day. Exco is the local cabinet of the governor of the CI and is comprised of four elected and three appointed officials, chaired by the governor. According to AG Ground, the concerns of the Exco were what we b6 b7C wanted to do, and how we wanted to do it, with regard to the BCCI records, and what safeguards against unwarranted disclosure, particularly with regard to the U.S. delegation, could be articulated to the Exco.

With regard to the records, AG Ground said that a Canadian computer firm was working for the provisional liquidator (DRM) and was scheduled on 9/11/91 to see how many of BCCI's records were in the system and how much was on paper. AG Ground further informed us that DRM's [redacted] at CI, [redacted] would be meeting with us later in the day. b6 b7C

As part of the CI's regulatory action against BCCI, the entity known as ICIC was also seized. Several ICIC entities existed in the CI, with one of those entities, ICIC (overseas) (ICIC(O)) being a registered bank in its own right. The other entities were non-banking companies believed to have been operated by and from ICIC(O). Therefore, ICIC(O) was placed under the jurisdiction of DRM, while on 7/5/91, AG Ground sought and was granted a preliminary injunction preventing the other ICIC-related entities from disposing of assets. Since that time, some shareholders have asked for access to documents and other transactions, but none has challenged the injunction. The entities enjoined were: Financial Controls (Cayman), Limited; Financial Portfolio (Cayman) Limited; Financial Measures (Cayman) Limited; ICIC Apex Holdings, Limited; ICIC Holdings, Limited; ICIC Investments, Limited; ICIC Foundation (Cayman); ICIC Staff Benefit Fund/Trust. AG Ground was unsure whether the last entity, ICIC Staff Benefit Fund/Trust, was actually two.

[redacted] from [redacted] informed AG Ground that recent Price Waterhouse (PW) reports show extensive use of the Cayman entities in nominee transactions and that, therefore, the CI possibly has an investigative/prosecutive interest. AG Ground reported that he knew of no apparent losses incurred within the CI. b6 b7C b7D

In regard to the liquidation of BCCI, AG Ground reported there are negotiations ongoing with the royal family of Abu Dhabi toward a restructuring of BCCI. AG Ground stated his personal belief that the restructuring effort would be unsuccessful, and would certainly be so if he were ordered to wind up the corporation. The overall [redacted] of Touche Ross in Luxembourg, had encouraged restraint on the part of the various governments, and had successfully sought an adjournment of liquidation hearings until December 1991. b6 b7C

After the meeting with AG Ground, our group met with [redacted] of DRM. With regard to the records of BCCI, White said that five years of BCCI's computerized accounting records were backed up on between 50-60 tapes. He advanced his opinion that it could take a month to download those b6 b7C tapes onto the system and create a data base. With regard to ICIC, [redacted] said that four or five years of records already had been downloaded to the BCCI system, as had the records of Credit and Finance Corporation, Limited (CFC). b6 b7C

The physical records of BCCI and ICIC are located in three different places: The BCCI offices; the ICIC offices; and a warehouse. [redacted] acknowledged that since assuming control in July 1991, their efforts had been directed at locating and securing control over the assets of the corporations; an effort which had precluded an examination of the historical records in the various locations. b6 b7C

With regard to the warehouse location, there apparently was a computer at the warehouse used for cataloguing records at that location. DRM has the information from that computer. The warehouse itself is "very large" and full of documents, the ages of which are unknown to [redacted] He was aware that, prior to July 5, in response to a subpoena from the United States concerning Clifford and [redacted], about six people had been working in the warehouse putting together various records. b6 b7C

With regard to the storage area in BCCI, most of it is located in the basement of the building in which BCCI occupied approximately 10,000 square feet of space. The office area, which is on the second floor of that building, housed what current records seemed to be available. The basement area, which also had not been inventoried, contained not-so-current records.

All of the computer systems located in any of the offices had been backed up on the first day of DRM's arrival. DRM took control of BCCI and ICIC(O) at 7:00 a.m. on 7/5/91, prior to the arrival of any employees.

According to [redacted] there apparently are some missing files and records. By comparison of the list of records from the liquidator in London and their own list in the CI, White noted that related records do not seem to be present in both locations. b6 b7C

DRM has had access to the work of PW as set forth in the "sandstorm" report (i.e., the audit report done by PW in 1990).

The computer system used by BCCI was an N.C.R. system consisting of some 20 or 30 PCs.

In response to our request that the computer specialist be given an opportunity to view the warehouse prior to the meeting with Exco, [redacted] agreed to allow [redacted] b6 b7C

1325015-000-7518

[redacted] a superficial look at the facility in order to estimate what mass of documents was there. On their return, [redacted] reported to the rest of us their estimation that the building contained somewhere between 2 million and 3 million documents which, according to DeVanna, would take ten scanners approximately three or four months to image. While on the premises, the three noted an area apparently used by PW in compiling its report. This area seemed to contain approximately 300,000 documents. Overall, they reported the cabinet designations were "interesting" and definitely required further and closer examination. The physical layout of the facility was a two-level room, approximately 40 feet by 50 feet. The second level seemed to consist mostly of credit vouchers.

During the afternoon of September 10, attorneys [redacted] and [redacted], and computer specialists [redacted] met with the Exco. They reported back to the group that the Exco had agreed to allow our further survey of the records, but not the copying or the collection of any information from those records.

b7C

On 9/11/91, our group met with CI [redacted] who reported why and how the CI government had taken over BCCI and ICIC(O). On 7/5/91, the CI government appointed a [redacted] to take control of the facilities and operations of three banks: BCCI (Overseas); CFC; and ICIC(O). Court orders were also issued to restrict the operations of another eight (possibly nine) other entities. [redacted] had yet to determine whether ICIC Staff Benefit Fund might be the same as ICIC Staff Benefit Trust. [redacted] provided us with a copy of the order.

b7C

Since taking control of those entities, [redacted] had become aware of another entity that was either affiliated or associated with them: Lhasa Holdings. Lhasa, a CI company, was possibly owned by Ghaith Pharaon. The [redacted] of ICIC Holdings, [redacted] told [redacted] that Pharaon was a nominee through Lhasa in the ownership of 70 percent of the shares of Finance and Investment International Limited (FIIL) for ICIC Holdings. [redacted] has seen a document purporting to be Pharaon's nominee agreement with ICIC Holdings. Although this document was not complete and was somewhat non-specific, it seemed to corroborate what [redacted] told him. To date, no one had come forward to seek a return of, or access to, the books and records of ICIC Holdings.

b7C

[redacted] came to see [redacted] on or about 7/12/91, and began by telling [redacted] that, at one time, ICIC(H) was a large debtor of ICIC(O). [redacted] suggested that [redacted] consider allowing [redacted] to call in the assets of ICIC(H), e.g., Attock Oil, various securities transactions in New York, and contracts in Nigeria. Then, operating from "ICIC House" under the [redacted] would continue the operation of

b6

1325015-000-7519

these assets, relinquishing the proceeds of that activity to [redacted]. This, [redacted] told [redacted] would prevent dissipation of assets. An affidavit to this effect was presented to [redacted] (phonetic), the CI inspector of banks. With [redacted] approval, [redacted] agreed to amend the court order and allow the operation of ICIC(H). However, it was not long before [redacted] came to [redacted] and reported he was having a problem supervising [redacted] activities and accepting the contingent liabilities which might fall to the liquidator. Therefore, [redacted] asked that [redacted] revert to the original order, which was done by means of a second amendment. b6 b7C

[redacted] may know the whereabouts of Dossani. b6 b7C

There was a third amendment to the order (the first two having to do with the ICIC(H) operation) which concerned a $500 million transaction in the United States for the account of ICIC Investments (ICIC(I)) that apparently had yielded a profit of more than $20 million. An investment firm named Oppenheimer was holding that profit. The amendment was to allow the payment of that profit into ICIC(I).

The injunction against the various companies was based on prima facie evidence that criminal acts had occurred in the CI. There have been no challenges to the injunction, nor have there been any claims by anyone to be a shareholder of the various enjoined entities. In [redacted] opinion, each accession to the injunction strengthens the CI's position with regard to its enforcement. b6 b7C

Concerning Lhasa and the other entities involved in the injunction, the CI government's position has been to ask [redacted] to petition the court to wind up all of them. [redacted] believes that the financing of "upstream companies" by ICIC(O) possibly put control over those companies in the hands of the CI government through its hold over the affairs of ICIC(O). b6 b7C

One person, [redacted] has come forward to [redacted] claiming to be [redacted] of the shareholders of ICIC(I) and seeking records. [redacted] presented what purported to be a power of attorney and said he was represented by Bruce Campbell and Company, which [redacted] knew to be Campbell Corporate Services, a company on the CI which provides directorship services for off-shore entities. [redacted] had never heard of [redacted] prior to that occasion, and the matter is still pending. b6 b7C

The filings for the various entities associated with BCCI on the CI can be found in the corporate registry.

After our meeting with [redacted] we met with the [redacted] who told us he had received and accepted the authorization of the CI executive council for b6 b7C

our preliminary survey of the amount and type of records under his control. He also informed us that DRM's [redacted] would be returning to the CI the following day. Although [redacted] assured us we would have access to all record-storage sites, we would be held to conformity with the Exco's mandate; that we could assess the number and type of documents present, but not copy or otherwise gather any information from them. b6 b7C

The first site we surveyed was the warehouse: a free-standing, concrete-block structure, measuring approximately 40 feet by 50 feet on the outside. Inside, we found that the building housed records, stored (about 50-50) in banker's boxes or on open, metal shelves on the first floor and on shelves on the second level. Physically, the entire first floor was used, except for an area, measuring about 15 feet by 15 feet, with desks where it appeared, from the records present, that Price Waterhouse had been working on its audit reports. The second level of the building included a small office, and platforms which ran the length of two walls and out about 15 feet. Our estimate was that somewhere between three and four million documents were stored there, and that they primarily were ICIC(O) records.

Noted among the records was the presence of files on CCAH, Clark Clifford, [redacted], Ghaith R. Pharaon, Interedec, [redacted] b6 b7C

"ICIC House" was found to be a three-story structure, the second and third floors of which essentially were devoid of furniture. On the first floor, which housed the bank known as ICIC(O), a vault containing the bulk of the records remaining at the site was surveyed. As in the warehouse, numerous pertinent references were seen. It was estimated that approximately 500,000 documents remained at this location. Some of the records, we were told, had been transported by DRM to the BCCI office for ease of acquisition.

At BCCI, which was located on the second floor of a large building in the center of George Town, we met with DRM [redacted] prior to our survey of the records. [redacted] informed us that, currently, DRM employs about six or seven former BCCI employees, who, after being interviewed and evaluated by DRM, were hired to assist in DRM's efforts to locate and secure control over BCCI's various assets. [redacted] agreed to provide a list of the current and former officials of BCCI, CFC (about six people) and ICIC (about eight people). The [redacted] BCCI was [redacted] and the [redacted] was [redacted] Caymans b6 b7C

BCCI's offices were located on one floor of the building, while archival storage was maintained in the basement of the building. According to [redacted], no inventory of the records in any of the locations had been done. When DRM took over all of the facilities at 7:00 a.m. on 7/5/91, the buildings were secured and access controls were established. One of the first steps taken was to back up all of the information on the computers and to thereafter limit access to them. b6 b7C

On 7/31/91, DRM terminated all of the employees of BCCI and its affiliated entities, then rehired approximately 50 percent of them. Those rehired were selected after interviews by DRM personnel specialists and a review of local police records.

The primary, active storage area in BCCI was a main-floor filing room with a vault. Stringent controls to prevent record removal and destruction were placed on that facility.

During our survey of the BCCI records storage we noted that, in the vault/filing room, there were numerous, pertinent filing designations. Of particular interest were five 5-drawer filing cabinets containing what [redacted] said were loan files, each in separate accordian folders. Opening one of the drawers, I noted folders labeled "Clark Clifford" and [redacted] However, I was prevented by [redacted] from viewing the contents of those folders. b6 b7C

In the archival storage area of the basement, computerized and references to microfilmed records were found, in addition to a large area housing the personal files of various officers within the bank. It was estimated that, within BCCI's offices and basement storage areas, approximately 1.5 million documents exist.

NOTE: WITH ADDED ID DATA

On 9/16/91, we attended a meeting at DOJ Fraud with WDC AUSA , DOJ , Denver (formerly Tampa) AUSA , Tampa SA , Oakes, Miami Tax Division AUSA and DOJ . The purpose of the meeting was to gather known information about those persons shown on the attached list (received from DOJ Fraud Section Deputy Chief on 9/9/91) who were arrested last week in Abu Dhabi. The information will be used by Assistant Attorney General (AAG) Robert Mueller, Deputy AAG and Deputy Chief on their upcoming trip later this week to Abu Dhabi and Pakistan, where they plan to negotiate for access to, or extradition of certain people on the list, and for access to and copies of BCCI records. The three-man party, known as the "process team," will pave the way for a group called the "substance team," which will follow in about two weeks and will consist of a representative from each of the groups investigating BCCI-related cases.

The meeting resulted in a prioritization of the names on the list and a list of documents to be requested. The prioritization was accomplished by consensus, based on what was known about each person, a summary of which appears below.

From: [redacted]

Re. "Hidden Interests" Correspondence received from U.S. Embassy
Reference 29B - WF - 171994

Enquiries have been made at Lloyds of London (Mr [redacted] and [redacted] Cargo Claims, telephone 071-623-7100 extension [redacted]) regarding this matter.

b6
b7C

The "Time" magazine article in question, (July 29, 1991 edition - page 23) concerns litigation currently taking place in the U.S.A. between Lloyds of London and [redacted] a Jordanian with extensive business interests in the U.S.A.

b6
b7C

Briefly, [redacted] is in dispute with Lloyds of London over two insurance claims he has made against Lloyds policies.

b6
b7C

The first concerns a "robbery" of 2½ million dollars from [redacted] home at the Sanctuary, Boca Raton, Florida during 1986, and the second a "stolen" coffee shipment in 1987.

b6
b7C

Lloyds of London allege fraud on the part of [redacted] in respect of both matters, and have refused to pay out on the insurance polices.

b6

Lloyds have instructed a U.S. attorney, James F. DOUGHERTY II, 1301 Dade Boulevard, Miami Beach, Florida, 33139. (Telephone 305-531-7300, Facsimile 305-532-2435) to act for them in this matter.

It is apparent that DOUGHERTY has amassed a vast amount of intelligence on [redacted] and his connections with B.C.C.I. Miami, and that he may have been endeavouring to interest the authorities there in the results of his work.

b7C

The only B.C.C.I. [redacted] connection I have been able to establish is the production by [redacted] of certain B.C.C.I. cheques to evidence a bona fide transaction underlying his coffee claim. These cheques are believed to be in the possession of DOUGHERTY.

I understand that DOUGHERTY seeks a "Declaratory Judgement" on these matters before Judge Marcus, Southern District Court of Miami on 22.9.91 (Reference 88.0125.CIV).

My own view is that DOUGHERTY has been speaking to "Time" magazine journalists, and the relevant section of the July 29, 1991 article is the result.

It is suggested that DOUGHERTY may be an appropriate source of detailed information, and I ask that a copy of this report be forwarded to Assistant Legal Attache [redacted] Legal Attaches Office, Embassy of the United States of America, 24, Grosvenor Square, London W1A 1AE, for action. b6 b7C

FRED CHARLES IKLE - [illegible]

Captioned individual, who you advised was born August 21, 1924, at Seneden, Switzerland, and resides at 1467 Amalfi Drive, Pacific Palisades, California, has not been the subject of an investigation conducted by the FBI.

Our files, however, reveal that during a security-type investigation conducted by the FBI in 1969, a 236-page program for the Second National Conference of The Congress of Scientists on Survival, Inc., which also is known as the Scientists on Survival (S.O.S.), held June 14-16, 1963, at New York, New York, listed one Fred C. Ikle, Center for International Affairs, Harvard University, as being the Chairman of the panel on Effective Methods of International Negotiations. The S.O.S., allegedly a Communist Party (CP) front, was organized in 1961 in New York City "to use revelant scientific disciplines in a positive program for world disarmament peace." The investigation was directed solely toward establishing the extent of possible CP infiltration of the S.O.S., and no further derogatory information concerning captioned individual was developed. (100-442365-20)

During a security-type investigation conducted by the FBI in 1972, captioned individual was determined to have resided at 1467 Amalfi Drive, Pacific Palisades, California, since March 7, 1968, and was employed by the Rand Corporation in Santa Monica, California. On several occasions Ikle was interviewed by the FBI concerning the Daniel Ellsberg case but no derogatory information was developed involving Ikle. (100-46[illegible]49-3)

The central files of the FBI, including the files of the Identification Division, contain no additional pertinent information concerning captioned individual based upon background information submitted in connection with this name check request.

A full field investigation has been initiated on Fred Charles Ikle and the results will be forwarded to you upon completion.

Per request of [redacted] Staff Assistant (Security).

1325015-0008190

International Credit and Investment Company (Overseas) Limited (ICIC Overseas) - Was a foreign bank established under the laws of the Cayman Islands.

The major defendants in this matter were:

AGHA HASAN ABEDI - Founder of BCCI. Former Director and President of BCCI Holdings. ABEDI was a principal of BCCI Holdings, BCCI Overseas, BCCI SA and ICIC Overseas. Now deceased.

[redacted] of BCCI Holdings, BCCI Overseas, BCCI SA and ICIC Overseas. Described as [redacted] at BCCI. [redacted] BCCI after ABEDI's illness in 1983. b6 b7C

GHAITH PHARAON - A nominee (straw purchaser) for BCCI regarding the illegal purchases of Independence Bank of Encino and the National Bank of Georgia. PHARAON also illegally purchased subordinate debentures from Centrust Saving Bank, Miami. PHARAON was a Saudi Arabian businessman and shareholder in the BCCI Group.

Background of the investigation:

The BCCI "scandal" was a world wide scandal. It was one of the largest commercial frauds and the largest bank failure in history. The fall of BCCI resulted in almost 12 billion dollars in depositors' moneys being lost and it left some 250,000 unpaid creditors around the world. Thousand of families lost their life savings in the bank's collapse.

Within the United States, BCCI's fraudulent activities, caused the closure of two banks.

In 1985, BCCI, using straw purchasers, secretly acquired the Independence Bank of Encino, California. The concealment of this secret agreement was a violation of the federal regulations and enabled the Independence Bank to obtain insurance protection fraudulently from the Federal Government, backed by the funds and security of the United States. BCCI Officers used wire communications in order to transmit information to further the scheme.

Through deceptive stock purchases by the BCCI Group, Abedi, [redacted] and Pharaon, the BCCI Group acquired and maintained control and influence over the National Bank of Georgia. b6 b7C

b7D

In January 1988, Pharaon (a fugitive in this matter) participated in a conspiracy with BCCI and its principal officers to defraud the U.S. Government and individual investors. Pharaon used BCCI to facilitate a fraud by manipulating the financial market for a subordinate debenture offering issued by the Centrust Savings Bank in Miami, Florida. When Centrust issued the subordinate debenture, Centrust had secretly agreed with Pharaon to buy back the $25 million subordinate debenture originally purchased by Pharaon. Thus making it appear that the offering was fully funded. In reality, the subordinate debentures were bought by Centrust which wanted the issue to appear to be popular in order to inflate the price artificially and thus bring in more funds to the bank. Pharaon purchased the subordinate debentures with funds he had received from BCCI.

Prosecution:

On November 15, 1991, a U.S. Grand Jury in Washington, D.C., filed an indictment, charging the below listed individuals and entities with the following: 1) Title 18 U.S.C. 371 (Conspiracy); 2) Title 18 U.S.C. 1343 (Wire Fraud); 3) Title 18 U.S.C. 1962d (Racketeering Conspiracy); and 4) Title 18 U.S.C. 2 (Aiding and Abetting). There were several superseding indictments which followed.

The entities indicted were:

BCCI Holdings
BCCI SA
BCCI Overseas
ICIC Overseas

The individuals indicted were:

AGHA HASAN ABEDI
[redacted]
GHAITH PHARAON

b6
b7C

Results of the investigation:

In December of 1991 the BCCI Group and ICIC Overseas plead guilty to the charges in the November indictment. The action successfully resolved all United States charges against BCCI Group and ICIC Overseas. It forfeited all of the BCCI Groups assets in the United States and required full BCCI Group cooperation in the ongoing investigation.

There were four key elements to the plea agreement:

1) BCCI Group and ICIC Overseas plead guilty to the original and the superseding charges filed in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia. The charges accused BCCI Group and ICIC Overseas of violating the RICO statute through conspiring to commit racketeering acts involving fraud, money laundering, tax evasion and conspiracy. Specifically, the BCCI Group was charged with secretly acquiring control and influence over First American Bank of Washington, D.C.; The Independence Bank of Encino, California; and the National Bank of Georgia. The racketeering conspiracy also included allegations of fraud in the sale of the subordinate debentures of Centrust Savings Bank of Miami.

2) The BCCI Group and ICIC Overseas further plead guilty to charges which had been filed by the District Attorney's Office in the Supreme Court of New York County. As part of the plea, BCCI Group agreed to pay a $10 million fine to New York State.

3) The plea agreement also required the BCCI Group to forfeit all of its assets in the United States to the Federal Government.

4) The final element of the plea agreement related to the cooperation that the BCCI Group was to provide in the ongoing investigation. The BCCI Group was to provide full access to documents and witnesses.

AGHA HASAN ABEDI - While he was indicted, he was never arrested nor did a trial take place. Abedi was residing in Pakistan and being protected by the Pakistani government. He has since passed away.

[redacted] was brought to the United States and plead guilty to Count One, Conspiracy, Title 18 U.S.C. 371, Count Two, Wire Fraud, Title 18 U.S.C. 1343, and Count Three, RICO Conspiracy, Title 18 U.S.C. 1962, of the Superseding Indictment.

b7C

GHAITH PHARAON - Pharaon is still a fugitive. Should Pharaon be arrested and extradited to the United States either a trial or plea agreement will be undertaken. Currently all of Pharaon's assets within the United States are frozen. There is currently an ongoing negotiation for a settlement between the United States and Pharaon.

WFO considers the lead covered.

Synopsis: Case status report and re-assignment request.

2000 Case STATUS

In January 1988, PHARAON participated in a conspiracy with BCCI, and its principal officers, to defraud the U.S. Government and individual investors. PHARAON utilized BCCI to facilitate a fraud by manipulating the financial market for subordinate debentures issued by Centrust Savings Bank (CSB) in Miami, Florida. When CSB issued the subordinate debenture offer, CSB had secretly agreed with PHARAON to buy back the $25 million worth of subordinate debentures purchased by PHARAON. Thus making it appear that the subordinate debenture offering was fully funded. In reality, the subordinate debentures were bought by CSB which wanted the issue to appear popular in order to inflate the price artificially. PHARAON originally purchased the subordinate debentures with funds he had received from BCCI.

An arrest warrant was issued on November 15, 1991, as a result of an indictment, by the judicial authorities in the District of Columbia, United States, for: conspiracy to commit wire fraud; wire fraud; and racketeering conspiracy. PHARAON was also indicted on Federal Charges stemming from his banking ties in Miami, Florida and Atlanta, Georgia. PHARAON was indicted on state/local charges in New York.

PHARAON is known to live in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia and to travel throughout the Middle East and Mediterranean. However, it is believed PHARAON is spending more time in Syria. PHARAON has business interests in the Middle East, United States and elsewhere. Currently all his assets in the United States are frozen and there is a claim, by various enforcement agencies, against PHARAON's U.S. assets for about $110 million.

PHARAON often travels via his private yacht `LE PHARAON'. PHARAON is known to have traveled via commercial air lines in the past.

The yacht has been spotted at the port in Limassol, Cyprus on several occasions, having been boarded by the Cyprian Law Enforcement Authorities on a couple of occasions. Each time PHARAON was not aboard. The yacht has also been spotted, throughout the years, at the port in DuBai.

Previous attempts to detain and extradite PHARAON have failed due to his location and/or his stature within the Middle East Community.

In October of 1999, discussions took place between the Department of Justice (DOJ), the U.S Federal Reserve, District Attorney's Office of New York City (DANYC), the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI) Liquidators, and the lone remaining indicted fugitive, GHAITH R. PHARAON.

On 10/19/99, the writer had a telephonic conversation with [redacted] DOJ - Fraud Section regarding the status of PHARAON. [redacted] advised there is a proposal on the table, from the civil side, wherein PHARAON would pay a sum of $250,000,000.00 to: the BCCI Liquidators; the U.S. Federal Reserve; and DANYC. The above three entities wanted to know how DOJ would view such an agreement, specifically would DOJ still pursue a criminal prosecution of PHARAON or would DOJ negotiate plea with PHARAON. b6 b7C

PHARAON's attorney requested, if the proposed agreement was accepted, that the U.S. Government agree not to have PHARAON extradited from anywhere in the world, but it would be understood that the criminal charges would still be pending. DOJ advised that would not be possible.

[redacted] b5

DOJ contacted the relevant U.S. Attorney Offices concerning PHARAON for their input. DOJ contacted WFO to do the same. DOJ requested that FBIHQ be contacted concerning the matter.

[redacted] b5

Thus, at this time no deal was been made and PHARAON remains a fugitive.

Attached is a list of relevant telephone numbers. DOJ Attorney [redacted] has been the writer's main point of contact for the past two years. Sometime the liquidators have provided information concerning the whereabouts of PHARAON, as they deal with his attorney on a regular basis. b6 b7C

There is a significant amount of documents to be returned or destroyed in this matter. The Federal Reserve took possession of numerous boxes of evidence, the contact at the Federal Reserve was [redacted] b6 b7C

There were at one time approximately 3000 boxes of evidence at the Federal Reserve Office in Miami, Florida. The Subfile Sub H contains the bulky sheets.

Some of the closed subfiles are boxed in the locked storage room on the ninth floor, the IMA knows the location.

Due to the pending transfer of the case agent, it is requested that the above captioned matter be re-assigned. The writer will be available to assist if there are any questions. The writer could also transfer pertinent case write ups to the new case agents directory.

X WANTED PERSONS ____ STOLEN GUNS

Validation is the process by which the entering agency confirms that each NCIC entry is accurate, complete, and still outstanding or active. Each month, WFO receives a printout of records from its state Control Terminal Agency (WALES/MPD). Inaccurate or incomplete data entered into NCIC could lead to the false arrest of an individual.

The attached computer printout contains all records on file in NCIC which were believed to have been entered by your squad in the month of NOVEMBER

Please make sure the entries are current and accurate. Any entry which is not current or accurate should cleared, canceled,or modified. A printout showing your action taken must be placed in the case file.

Please sign this form and return to writer. Do not put the original in your file although you may make a copy of it for your file if you wish. Make the appropriate notation on your FD-487 "NCIC Activity Log", which should be stamped "NCIC".

Please indicate action to be taken by the WFO Communications Center by placing a check mark in one of the spaces below.

Dear Attorney General,

That certainly sounds a lot nicer than the "Dear John" letter I was happy to tear up once you got confirmed. Congratulations on getting through the process! It was tough to watch but you went in an honorable gentleman and emerged the same.

Besides the heartfelt congratulations, I'm asking you to personally look into this matter of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) probe (see the attached four-part series [redacted] on my staff wrote). It is a most troubling news account -- 100% accurate I might add -- about what the RCMP was looking into. And doing so under cover of secrecy. b6 b7C

We've been told that FBI in Washington has mounted a quiet investigation, e.g. requesting agents in the Los Angles Field Office to interview people the RCMP contacted. Needless to say we are as curious about what's going on as is the FBI and some folks on Capitol Hill.

What's especially troubling about the series is that [redacted] was able to verify some key portions of [redacted] strange stories. And if these were correct, other portions might be to; this would be most unfortunate needless to say. b6 b7C

From a journalistic perspective I'm only interested in what the RCMP found and whether any corruption existed (or exists) in the U.S. government. From a personal perspective [redacted] I'd say that [redacted] Inslaw, certainly are due something; even one of the former DOJ lawyers handling the so-called Reno report in 1994 says that. b6 b7C

Anyway, I know this matter has been poured over several times. But this series clearly establishes that very serious evidence has been overlooked and/or dismissed when certainly it should not have been. I'm asking you to have the matter reopened and that information gleaned from the FBI, the U.S. Customs Service, [redacted] and info we've collected be looked at by someone with as much honor as yourself. Let's get to the bottom of it all. b7D

Ahead of time, many thanks for assisting on this matter and for having helped Insight so [redacted]t. Until next we may speak, God bless. b6 b7C

PS - There's a fella named [redacted] you should speak to, despite having worked for Eric Holder as the [redacted] and was appalled at what went on prior to you joining the department. A straight shooter as ever I've seen; someone you should meet and get an unfiltered briefing about the department. b6 b7C

Title: HIDDEN INTERESTS
FIF
FAG

Synopsis: To announce a coordination meeting to be held in Washington, D.C. on 5/3/01.

Details: As receiving offices are aware, the FBI has several investigations involving Ghaith Pharaon, who is currently a fugitive and believed to be residing at his home in Saudi Arabia. Pharaon has, through his attorney, attempted to negotiate with the Department of Justice (DOJ) for a way to mitigate his exposure from these many investigations. To date, DOJ has rejected his offers. In order to better coordinate the FBI's efforts to locate and apprehend Pharaon, the FCS will host a one-day conference on 5/3/01 in Washington, D.C. for all interested parties to discuss issues related to the many investigations as well as strategies to locate Pharaon.

Major case #38

Synopsis: Request of bulky technician

Administrative: EC dated 6/25/01 from [redacted] captioned: "EVIDENCE CONTROL MATTER; PICKETT STREET LOCATION," 66F-A2516. b6 b7C

Details: On 7/11/2001, this writer spoke with [redacted] Evidence Control Center, x 3347, concerning her request to move evidence. [redacted] advised that the Pickett Street storage facility was never properly designated as a evidence storage facility. She was in the process of removing all items stored at that location and that was the purpose of the above communication. [redacted] requested the items identified in this communication, be picked-up and removed by the case agents. b6 b7C

This communication refers to items held under file number 29B-WF-171994. This writer asked [redacted] if she was aware that this was a pending case and she replied that she did not know this. b6 b7C

[redacted] was asked why it was necessary to have the case agent retrieve these items, sign them out, transport them and sign them back in. It was pointed out to her that any entry made in the chain of custody was subject to scrutiny by the defense and superfluous entries should be avoided. [redacted] advised that evidence technicians are prohibited from transporting any evidence and that agents must transport these items. When asked on what authority she based this decision to have agents trasnport these items, [redacted] said she would refer this writer to her program manager. b6 b7C

[redacted] worked at Ruddock for one year and than returned to [redacted] to work at the MAP. He left MAP and went to work for Barklays Bank Europe for a short time. He again returned to [redacted] as the [redacted] In 1973, Pakistan nationalized the MAP and appointed [redacted] Consultant to the National Bank of Pakistan. [redacted] supervised the nationalization of thirteen insurance companies. He was than appointed Director of the Industrial Board of Pakistan. [redacted] was not happy with this appointment. He did not want to be a government servant. After two days [redacted] had this appointment rescinded and he returned to his position as Adviser to the National Bank of Pakistan. The bank was nationalized in 1973. [redacted] remained at the National Bank of Pakistan until 1974. At that time, he went to Saudi Arabia to start a joint venture between the National Bank of Pakistan and Saudi Arabia. In mid 1976, [redacted] started the Bank of Algezira. This was the first joint banking venture with the Saudi's. [redacted] worked closely with the Saudi's between October, 1974 and December, 1976. In January, 1977, [redacted] started to work with the Bank of Commerce and Credit, International (BCCI).

[redacted] knew ABEDI between 1963 and 1969 at the United Bank. [redacted] was a fairly junior officer and did not have much contact with ABEDI. When he left in 1969, ABEDI left the door open for [redacted] to return to the bank. ABEDI approached [redacted] in 1973 about joining BCCI. [redacted] declined at that time.

BCCI wanted to get into Saudi Arabia and was unsuccessful at doing so. ABEDI kept approaching [redacted] to join BCCI. [redacted] was not interested. He had his own problems and wanted to move to North America or Europe. ABEDI hired talented people. [redacted] was one of these people.

At the end of 1976, BCCI moved it's head office from ABU DHABI to London. [redacted] joined the bank and was given no particular job. ABEDI had no specific structure. The Bank of America (BOA), the worlds largest bank and Sheik ZAYED the worlds richest man were behind the bank. These were attractive considerations in [redacted]S decision to join BCCI.

[redacted] started the Human Resources Division in London. Prior to this no records were maintained. Everything had been done on an "ad hoc" basis. [redacted] had no experience in the area of human services. He put together a Human Resources system. [redacted] also devoted time to setting up Exchange Agencies (Bureau de Change). [redacted] devoted 60% of his time to Human Resources and 40% to the Currency and Exchange Division. [redacted] wanted to spend 100% of his time on Currency and Exchange matters. Money changers were very attractive to [redacted] He was told to concentrate on Human Resources. [redacted] was not happy with his job and wanted to leave BCCI. The pay was about 1/3 of what he previously made and he did not like his job.

As a result, ABEDI sent [redacted] to Canada as the [redacted] was the [redacted] spent most of his time in London. BCCI had one office in Toronto, Canada when [redacted] arrived. While he was there, they expanded to four offices. BCCI received approval to become a licensed bank in Canada. BCCI Canada was 50% owned by BCCI and 50% owned by [redacted] described [redacted] as a Canadian citizen with a checkered background. When it was converted to a bank it was owned 100% by BCCI. During his tenure at BCCI Canada, [redacted] suggested to [redacted] that BCCI should expand into the Caribbean, specifically into Jamaica. [redacted] EDWARD SIAGA, Prime Minister of Jamaica. [redacted] had a residence in Toronto, Canada. At about the same time, [redacted] in Atlanta, Georgia recommended that BCCI consider buying a branch of Citizen and Southern Bank (C & S), located in Jamaica which was for sale. [redacted] went to Jamaica to negotiate the deal. They met with the Governor of the Central Bank, [redacted] They told [redacted] that they wanted to open a branch in Jamaica because of trade and entrepreneurial interests.

through. A second attempt was made to purchase a good bank in Spain. Spain would not allow a foreign bank to purchase the Spanish bank. The deal did not go through. [redacted] would have been appointed the [redacted] of this bank. b6 b7C

[redacted] had been travelling like crazy and in February, 1982, he was asked to help an elderly BCCI official, [redacted] set up the Miami office. After three days [redacted] returned to Pakistan. He refused to stay in Miami. In the meantime the Spanish deal did not proceed. In June, 1982, [redacted] told [redacted] that he was to stay in Miami. [redacted] was in charge of the western hemisphere for BCCI. He was stationed in London. [redacted] was the head of the Planning Division, which included expansion and profitability. b6 b7C

By mid 1982, [redacted] was more settled down in Miami. He had no designation but he was [redacted] in Miami. In the meantime, [redacted] established an office in Kingston, Jamaica. On August 11, 1982, [redacted] opened the Miami banking agency of BCCI. During mid 1982 and 1983 BCCI expanded throughout the Caribbean. [redacted] was also put in charge of offices in Venezuela and Panama. b6 b7C

[redacted] was appointed [redacted] Latin American Region (LACRO). They were in a state of flux in 1983 and 1984. There was confusion over who was responsible for what between [redacted] was not in favor of making the Colombian acquisition. He was also against a joint venture in Peru. Because of [redacted]s opposition to these acquisitions [redacted] was put in charge of them. [redacted] referred to this as the "goonda criminal element." b6 b7C

In April, 1984, they split into two regions. The Miami/Caribbean region was under [redacted] and the LACRO region under [redacted]. The Miami office opened a representative office in Houston to do business with high tech and energy companies. The Houston office was closed in 1989. b6 b7C opened and was conducting other bank business he had no authority to perform. An example given by [redacted] was how [redacted] would open a million dollar account and not provide the identification for the customer. [redacted] would not accept deposits without the proper identification being provided. b6 b7C

[redacted] was involved in bringing in big money deposits. Such were for questionable accounts. This was the culture that had developed within BCCI. Young guys like [redacted] and [redacted] generated questionable deposits. All diligence and prudence were dropped. b6 b7C

In 1985, ABEDI launched a worldwide program called "the External Market Place" (EMP). This came about because a Strategy Group of 12 members recommended to ABEDI that he cut back operations and fire a number of employees because expenses were getting out of hand. Members of the group included [redacted] by this time was at Independence Bank. ABEDI'S philosophy was not to fire anyone. His solution was the EMP. The program called for the use of excess employees to generate deposits/business in other parts of the world. There were two types of deposit solicitation. They were institutional solicitation, which was very good and individual solicitation which was very bad according to [redacted] The theory was good if people were properly trained and planned well. b6 b7C

Deposits came in with no control. Customers could decide to move deposits wherever they wanted to. A competition to attract business was created which opened the door for money laundering. [redacted] objected that BCCI did not care enough about good banking practices. With hindsight, [redacted] stated that what took place was money laundering. Such laundering was not planned. It just happened and people did not care. In mid 1986, [redacted] went to ABEDI and told him he wanted to resign. b6 b7C

[redacted] discussed transactions [redacted] attempted to make with Eastern Airlines (EAL) through the Miami office. [redacted] was opposed to such transactions. [redacted] wanted to issue a standby letter of credit. This would have violated BCCI'S license. BCCI could not do business with a corporation. EAL would open accounts with BCCI in Spain, Columbia and Jamaica. BCCI and EAL set up a joint finance committee in Columbia. They were attempting to begin a fly now pay later program. EAL was a credit risk. EAL funds would be deposited in BCCI accounts. The Colombia part of b6 b7C

the deal was coordinated by LACRO. EAL deposited $12,000,000 with BCCI and BCCI issued the standby letter of credit. This happened while [redacted] was away from Miami. It was done by [redacted] b6 confronted [redacted] upon his return to Miami. Money was converted b7C from pesos in Colombia to dollars and was deposited in BCCI at Miami for 30 to 90 days per agreement.

In February, 1987, [redacted] (LACRO) wanted to issue a b6 letter of credit on behalf of EAL with Visa to free up credit b7C card receipt money. In return EAL would deposit $12,000,000 in BCCI for no charge. [redacted] would not go along with this transaction. He was concerned that a commitment was issued with a lack of diligence. [redacted] dealt with [redacted] from EAL. [redacted] stated that he dealt with officials at EAL that were three levels higher than [redacted]. This deal was not done at that time. [redacted] believed that after he left Miami this deal took place.

Following the EAL matter and the standby letter of credit, [redacted] went to ABEDI. He told ABEDI he could not take any b6 more and wanted out. There was no due diligence. [redacted] was b7C complaining that [redacted] did not know banking, which was causing [redacted] problems.

At this point in time [redacted] was in charge of b6 the Americas. [redacted] addressed the above problems with [redacted] b7C [redacted] did not understand. [redacted] described [redacted] as being incompetent. He termed [redacted] as being "mentally bankrupt."

With regard to the deposit situation, [redacted] advised b6 that they had no idea who account holders were. BCCI was open to b7C abuse and they should not have placed themselves in that position. BCCI Miami was not looking clean, at that time, to the regulators. [redacted] used to warn [redacted] that he would get in trouble some day.

In April or May, 1986, a BCCI Official from Chicago was arrested in the BCCI office there. He was charged with money laundering involving a transaction in Miami.

At the BCCI annual meeting held at Luxembourg in May, 1986, [redacted] first learned of the BCCI treasury loss. After b6 hearing about the treasury loss [redacted] asked [redacted] about the b7C story [redacted] wanted to tell concerning the loss. A thirty minute meeting was held in the hotel lobby to address the loss. The meeting was attended by [redacted] b6

b7C

[redacted] was [redacted] at BCCI. He took b7C over from [redacted] The meeting continued over dinner. [redacted] explained the treasury loss as being attributable to a change in the accounting standards. The accountants had changed the games on them causing a liquidation of positions. The result was a loss on the books of $365,000,000. $150,000,000 of the loss had been subvented by a shareholder. The impression given to [redacted] was the shareholder was [redacted] During the dinner [redacted] discussed his plans for the treasury.

After the Chicago situation surfaced [redacted] was very b6 concerned about money laundering. He set up training and controls b7C to deal with money laundering at BCCI in Miami.

The tension between [redacted] and the LACRO division was b6 intense. [redacted] went to ABEDI and told ABEDI that he could not b7C take any more. There were no internal controls or compliance.
[redacted] warned that BCCI people would be in jail as a result.
[redacted] than resigned. ABEDI insisted that [redacted] withdraw his resignation. [redacted] was given a promotion to a global position.
[redacted] wanted to stay in the United States. ABEDI appointed him to a global position stationed in New York. This meeting took place on August 12, 1986. [redacted] was very much subdued after this and controls were put in place at BCCI Miami.

[redacted] recalled that in the first half of 1984, ABEDI b6 called him at home and asked [redacted] if he knew United States b7C Senator PAULA HAWKINS. [redacted] met her once. ABEDI wanted [redacted] to meet Senator HAWKINS. It was very important. [redacted] set up a meeting through Assistants to the Senator. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss statements made by Senator HAWKINS. She had been in Pakistan and had met with General ZIA. Senator HAWKINS apparently discussed stopping the flow of drugs from Pakistan to the United States. She mentioned that she had information that a Pakistani bank located in the Cayman Islands was involved in money laundering. Following that meeting ZIA called ABEDI who in turn called [redacted] met briefly one morning with Senator HAWKINS. He discussed how her statement hurt BCCI. [redacted] assured the Senator that BCCI would fully cooperate.
The bank was a guest in the United States. The Senator's expression completely changed and she asked [redacted] if they could reconvene the meeting at 3:00PM that afternoon. She had to leave at this point to meet with the President. The 3:00PM meeting was canceled and rescheduled for the following morning. When [redacted] arrived the next morning he was met by a battery of officials. There were representatives from the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA), Department of Justice (DOJ), State Department and Senator HAWKINS and members of her staff. [redacted] was told that BCCI was not under investigation. He commented that this was what was told to ZIA. Senator HAWKINS told [redacted] that the State Department would follow up by sending ZIA a letter advising that BCCI was not under investigation. Senator HAWKINS was looking at the flow of drugs. b6 b7C

In February, 1987, [redacted] went to New York. BCCI became one region in the United States. [redacted] was placed in charge. The New York and California offices were a failure. One of [redacted] S functions was to evaluate BCCI representative offices in the United States. For years [redacted] lobbied for BCCI to establish a direct presence in the United States by either forming a bank or by upgrading New York or California to full bank status. [redacted] worked as [redacted] in the United States from February, 1987, until 1989. He reiterated that he wanted to establish a full banking presence in the United States. Canada was made a part of the United States region, which was also referred to as the North American region. LACRO remained separate from the North American region. b6 b7C

With respect to the Financial General Bankshares (FGB) takeover, [redacted] commented that everyone in BCCI knew that BCCI was buying FGB. In meetings ABEDI discussed his "future vision" of having one bank in Europe and one bank in the United States. [redacted] recalled hearing this future vision as early as 1979. ABEDI never discussed operational details for this with [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] was not aware of the nominee arrangements made for the FGB purchase. [redacted] heard that there was nominee ownership in Nigeria and Egypt. [redacted] believed that the [redacted] ownership interest in BCCI Canada may have been a nominee arrangement. b6 b7C

In November, 1985, BCCI decided to buy a bank in Florida and to make Florida their home state. There was a BCCI conference in Florida and 160 people attended. [redacted] looked at banks in Florida that they could purchase. Because of the treasury loss in early 1986, BCCI was prevented from making an open purchase of a bank. A decision was made to buy a bank in b6 b7C

Florida through nominee shareholders. [redacted] discussed this topic with [redacted] By using nominee shareholders BCCI'S balance sheet would not become an issue before the Federal Reserve Bank.

[redacted] took minutes of meetings he had with [redacted] concerning the purchase of a Florida bank. He also had diaries which would point to dates he met with [redacted] came to Miami at least three times regarding the Florida bank purchase. Meetings took place in the Miami BCCI office, at Eagle National Bank and at Miami National Bank. On these occasions [redacted] came to Miami by himself. The banks they considered purchasing were Eagle National Bank and Miami National Bank. The Eagle deal fell through when the Eagle parent company in Colombia changed ownership.

[redacted] participated in discussions addressing the nominee purchase of a Florida bank. Nominees mentioned included [redacted] spoke with [redacted] on the telephone about the nominee ownership in [redacted]S presence. [redacted] heard [redacted]S part of the conversation. [redacted] sent file copies of PHARAON documents regarding the Independence Bank purchase. Said file would serve as a model of how the nominee purchase should be done. [redacted] had a copy of the file and [redacted] had a copy. [redacted] did not recall if he gave a copy to [redacted] or if [redacted] gave him a copy. [redacted] did recall that he and [redacted] did exchange the file.

[redacted] described [redacted] as being the eyes and ears of ABEDI in the United States. Every time ABEDI discussed expansion and bank development he would consult with [redacted]

[redacted] had nothing to do with loans to the shareholders of CCAH. He had nothing to do with filings to the Federal Reserve Bank.

[redacted] reviewed a letter he had written to [redacted] It dealt with joint BCCI/FAB marketing. [redacted] stated that BCCI was helping FAB to market and grow. Any business that BCCI could not handle was passed along to FAB. [redacted] was told by a former head of BCCI'S International Division, AKHTAR ANIS (deceased), that FAB was part of BCCI. Between 1/3 and 50% of BCCI'S foreign exchange business went to FAB. BCCI officials including ABEDI, [redacted] and ANIS described BCCI and FAB as one and the same entity. BCCI had to market for FAB. [redacted] recalled that at one meeting in Miami ABEDI discussed a complaint made to him by [redacted] that FAB was not getting enough business from BCCI. b6 b7C

[redacted] attended a meeting in Washington, D.C., at the FAB office. Present with him were [redacted]. The topic of discussion was how BCCI and FAB could do business together. BCCI could market in Florida for mortgage business and deposit business for FAB and FAB could get commercial business for BCCI. The underlining theme was that BCCI and FAB were one and the same bank. b6 b7C

[redacted] went to the Brazilian Embassy with [redacted] a FAB official, to market on behalf of FAB. [redacted] described FAB as being our (BCCI) bank. The sales pitch and the selling point was that FAB and BCCI were a banking network. b6 b7C

[redacted] pointed out that CLARK CLIFFORD and [redacted] were placed as CCAH officers without having to meet the CCAH shareholders. b6 b7C

The decision for FAB to purchase the National Bank of Georgia (NBG) was made by ABEDI. In November, 1985, meetings were held over a two day period in Miami. Both CLIFFORD and [redacted] met with ABEDI in Miami. b6 b7C

It was [redacted]'S opinion that the reason for the sale of NBG was that ABEDI wanted to get GHAITH PHARAON out. PHARAON had serious financial problems worldwide. Thirty five banks were involved in PHARAON'S overseas default involving $300,000,000. b6 b7C

CLIFFORD and [redacted] met with ABEDI and [redacted] in [redacted]S office at BCCI MIAMI. [redacted] was not involved in that meeting but watched it through the office window. Immediately following the meeting, ABEDI called [redacted] and [redacted] into the office. ABEDI informed them of his decision that FAB would purchase NBG. ABEDI set the purchase price and conditions of the sale. ABEDI and [redacted] than told [redacted] that he would go to NBG. [redacted] had been transferred from NBG back to BCCI London. ABEDI wanted [redacted] to go from FAB to NBG. [redacted]'S salary was paid by FAB. b6 b7C

 b6 b7C

[redacted] was unhappy with [redacted] going from FAB to NBG. [redacted] also questioned why he was being sent to NBG if he was just going back to FAB. b6 b7C

[redacted] wanted to purchase a bank in Florida. ABEDI disagreed with [redacted] on this point. [redacted] told [redacted] several times to look for a bank in Florida that FAB could purchase. ABEDI did not permit this. b6 b7C

With regard to the purchase of NBG by FAB, [redacted] several times later told [redacted] that ABEDI pushed him to buy a lemon. [redacted] referred to NBG as "a can of worms." [redacted] felt maneuvered or pushed into buying NBG. [redacted] hated that acquisition with a passion. b6 b7C

[redacted] was not involved with the deal itself. He believed that the [redacted] purchase of BCCI/CCAH stock was separate from the NBG takeover. This was due to the time frame of both events. b6 b7C

[redacted] discussed some of the officials who were sent from BCCI to American banks. These officials included [redacted] went from BCCI to NBG and back to BCCI. [redacted] went from BCCI to NBG. [redacted] went from BCCI to Independence Bank. [redacted] went from BCCI to FABNY. [redacted] returned a few years later to BCCI. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that within BCCI, NBG was considered "our bank," and FAB was considered "our bank." Independence Bank remained at arms length from BCCI. [redacted] kept Independence Bank totally independent from BCCI. This was from the standpoint that no BCCI employees were placed there. [redacted] knew that Independence Bank was owned by BCCI. b6 b7C

ABEDI did not tell [redacted] that he sent the above named BCCI officials or other BCCI officials to the American banks, including FAB, NBG and Independence Bank. [redacted] was under the impression that [redacted] asked ABEDI to send him to New York. [redacted] told [redacted] that ABEDI sent him to FABNY. [redacted] stated that he and [redacted] were part of a group of 12 individuals who had a meeting with ABEDI in 1985. Following the meeting ABEDI transferred [redacted] back to BCCI London from FABNY. b6 b7C

[redacted] has met PHARAON. Their contacts were mostly on a social basis. In one business situation, [redacted] arranged meetings for PHARAON with the Prime Minister of Trinidad. PHARAON wanted to open an ammonia plant there.

b6 b7C

In the third quarter of 1988 [redacted] travelled from London to Washington, D.C. for a meeting with [redacted] The meeting took place in [redacted]'S office at Clifford and Warnke. [redacted] and [redacted] met with [redacted] in regard to a BCCI presence in California. At the end of the meeting [redacted] asked [redacted] if CLIFFORD was in his office. [redacted] wanted to pay a visit to CLIFFORD. [redacted] took [redacted] and [redacted] into CLIFFORD'S office. CLIFFORD greeted [redacted] warmly and stated [redacted] it's good to have you back. Now we will start telling lies all over again." No business was discussed at that time with Clifford. [redacted] commented that the statement made by Clifford captured the essence of everything in this matter.

b6 b7C

By way of background concerning [redacted]'S relationship with CLIFFORD and [redacted] advised that [redacted] ran the New YORK representative office of BCCI. [redacted] had been involved in the FGB takeover and worked closely with CLIFFORD and [redacted] As an aside, [redacted] commented that prior to [redacted] running the New York representative office of BCCI, it had been run by [redacted] was the first BCCI official who did business with [redacted]

b6 b7C

ABEDI always told [redacted] and others that they should never visit the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (BGFRS). [redacted] had told ABEDI that the BGFRS did not want them to contact them. ABEDI agreed with [redacted] that [redacted] would handle all contacts with the BGFRS. After the Tampa indictments [redacted] met with [redacted] at the BGFRS. This was between October, 1988 and February, 1989. [redacted] learned that the BGFRS was upset that BCCI never maintained contact with them. This was a direct contradiction to what [redacted] led ABEDI to believe.

b6 b7C

[redacted] was pushing for BCCI to set up a home state bank in Florida. Other possible home states were New York and California. As part of his effort, [redacted] had prepared a takeover analysis. [redacted] told ABEDI that there was no way the state of Florida would agree to a home state bank for BCCI in Florida. [redacted] went to Florida Governor GRAHAM and [redacted]. [redacted] told them he understood that BCCI would not be welcome in Florida. Governor GRAHAM and [redacted] advised that this was not so, that BCCI would be welcome in Florida. [redacted] came to London in December, 1985. He met with the BCCI Board of Directors and gave them an invitation for BCCI to bank in Florida.

[redacted] wanted to have a BCCI presence in the United States. He believed that [redacted] was opposed to that and that [redacted] wanted BCCI out altogether. Anytime there was talk with ABEDI about upgrading any place in the United States from agencies to banks, ABEDI would speak to CLIFFORD and [redacted] Such efforts always died.

After the indictments, [redacted] maintained close contact with [redacted] Right after the indictments, [redacted] took a "whirlwind tour" to meet with regulators. He wanted to insure them of the banks liquidity, desire to cooperate and resolve the situation. [redacted] met with federal and state regulators from New York, Washington, D.C., San Francisco and Tallahassee, Florida. [redacted] would brief [redacted] about said meetings. [redacted] would than brief [redacted] and in so doing he would turn the facts around. [redacted] would then tell [redacted] what [redacted] said whereupon [redacted] would challenge such representations. [redacted] stated that after the indictments [redacted] and [redacted] screwed up the case. He cited an example of working on a memorandum of understanding (MOU) with the state of Florida to permit BCCI to remain open. [redacted] did not act on said MOU.

[redacted] had no knowledge of CLIFFORD and [redacted]'S CCAH stock purchase.

[redacted] had no knowledge of bribes paid by BCCI in Florida or New York. [redacted] was aware that the Peruvian government maintained a bank account with BCCI at below the market rate. He deduced that a payoff had to be made to keep this account at below market value interest. [redacted] sensed that the amount of the payoff would have been the difference between the market value and below market value interest rates. [redacted] heard gossip that payoffs were made in Georgia. They may have been masked as campaign contributions. [redacted] did not have direct knowledge of payoffs in Peru or Georgia.

[redacted] hired [redacted] as a reward for helping BCCI with the Georgia legislature. [redacted] had connections with the state legislature. [redacted] characterized [redacted] as being a misfit.

In [redacted]S opinion, it looked like [redacted] had a loan with BCCI that he couldn't pay back. The loan was converted to contributions.

[redacted] had no knowledge of any Capcom/BCCI dealings.

In 1988, [redacted] told [redacted] that PHARAON was buying 18% of Centrust. This did not seem like a BCCI deal. BCCI people were not involved in the deal.

[redacted] reviewed a memorandum that he prepared, to the file, on May 7, 1986. This followed a meeting in Luxembourg. It stated that [redacted] would be used as the nominee to purchase the Miami National Bank.

In January or February, 1982, [redacted] was the head of Security Pacific Bank. ABEDI met with [redacted] in New York. ABEDI interviewed [redacted] for the position of President at FABNY. [redacted] had dinner with [redacted] after the interview with ABEDI, which took place at the Helmsley Palace Hotel. [redacted] had a stroke and remained at Security Pacific.

When [redacted] was hired, he had to be approved by ABEDI. Decisions concerning FABNY were always made by ABEDI. The FABNY office space was rented by ABEDI. A group went to see the premises with ABEDI. [redacted] were part of the group. ABEDI told [redacted] you should keep this, change that, etc. ABEDI was providing ideas about the space. ABEDI signed the lease for the property.

[redacted] teased [redacted] about FABNY by telling him "if you cannot make a profit at FABNY with $80,000,000 in capital turn it over to me and I'll do it." [redacted] responded by complaining that he had to pay $10,000,000 in rent thanks to MR. ABEDI.

The term "RAF" (rent a face) was coined by [redacted] in 1986. [redacted] sat at desks at BCCI London near the elevator. They considered themselves to be RAF'S. There were two empty desks on either side of them. They joked that these desks were for CLIFFORD and [redacted] The insinuation was that CLIFFORD and [redacted] were RAF'S. [redacted] was hired at BCCI as the head of Public Relations. He was another RAF.

 b6 b7C

[redacted] did not consider [redacted] to be an RAF. He was hired to run FABNY. Since ABEDI hired [redacted] did not accept him and always interfered with [redacted] hated [redacted] b6 b7C

ABEDI wanted coordination between BCCI, FAB and NBG in the United States. ABEDI wanted a coordinated effort, one entity, one network. There was a joint marketing agreement between BCCI and FAB.

[redacted] reiterated that decisions concerning BCCI becoming an approved bank or to remain an agency had to be approved by [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] reviewed Coordinating Meeting Minutes for a meeting in Miami. [redacted] convened that meeting. [redacted] had no certain knowledge that CLIFFORD and/or [redacted] were aware of the existence of the committee. b6 b7C

There was a Regional BCCI conference in Miami in November, 1985.

[redacted]'S own impression all along was that using nominees in the FGB takeover was the brain child of CLIFFORD and [redacted] not ABEDI. This was BCCI'S first effort in a developed country. b6 b7C

[redacted] was the head of BCCI California. [redacted] found Independence Bank. It was owned by a Chinese group. [redacted] had previously been the BCCI Hong Kong Manager. [redacted] and [redacted] negotiated the Independence deal. b6 b7C

SHOAIB was under the impression that the Federal Reserve would not allow BCCI to be involved with Independence Bank for it's first five years. After that five year period BCCI would be permitted to be involved with Independence Bank.

[redacted] expected that SHOAIB would go on the Board of Directors of FAB. However, at his choosing, SHOAIB went to Independence Bank. b6 b7C

Prior to the time [redacted] was transferred from Miami to New York, the transfer was discussed by [redacted] always conceived that someday BCCI and FAB would merge. b6 b7C

 b6 b7C

[redacted] was in San Francisco talking on the telephone with [redacted] when he learned that [redacted] had resigned from BCCI. [redacted] sent word that [redacted] should call him. [redacted] called and attempted to get him to un-resign. [redacted] had [redacted] come to New York to stay with him for a few days and to talk. [redacted] would not work for [redacted] because [redacted] was a tough boss but they were friends and [redacted] could talk to him. [redacted] and [redacted] had been subpoenaed to testify before the Senate. [redacted] contacted [redacted] in New York and told [redacted] that [redacted] advised that [redacted] should not testify before the Senate. [redacted] and [redacted] were advised to leave the country and not come back. [redacted] recommended against this in discussions with [redacted] went to a lawyer, who like [redacted] advised [redacted] to testify. [redacted] did testify. b6 b7C

After the indictments [redacted] fought with [redacted] to fire [redacted] as a lawyer. [redacted] stated that [redacted] was the wrong guy to handle the case. [redacted] told [redacted] that they had to get rid of the case before regulators really took a look at BCCI and found out that there were no internal controls. [redacted] did not accept this warning and elected to fight the case. b6 b7C

In February or March, 1990, the death knell came for BCCI. There was a drug arrest at JFK International Airport. A deposit slip from BCCI New York was found. The account was an account at BCCI Panama that contained no identification or address.

WANTED BY THE U.S. FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION and THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

Gaith Rashad PHARAON

DESCRIPTION: Born on September 7, 1940, in Saudi Arabia, Gaith Rashad Pharaon is a white male, 175 centimeters in height and weighing 113 kilograms. He is of stocky build with thinning black hair, graying at the temples. He normally wears a small pointed beard, but has been seen with only a moustache.

Pharaon is a citizen of Saudi Arabia and travels on a Saudi passport. He speaks Arabic, French, English, and some Greek. He smokes cigars, and wears traditional Arab clothing when in Saudi Arabia. In other countries, he usually wears Western-style business attire.

Pharaon owns a yacht named "Le Pharaon" with a picture of the Egyptian Sphinx painted on the stern. Its home port is believed to be London, although there is no indication that this yacht has been there in many years. Since 1992, Pharaon has traveled through Europe, North Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America, and Asia.

Pharaon is extremely wealthy and has numerous contacts within governments around the world. His son competes in international speedboat races and there is a possibility that he occasionally watches those races.

CASE DETAILS:It was one of the largest commercial frauds and the largest bank failure in history. The fall of the Bank of Credit and Commerce International, or B. C. C. I., took almost twelve billion dollars in depositors' money and left some two hundred fifty thousand unpaid creditors around the world. Thousands of families lost their life savings in the bank's collapse. B. C. C. I. officials and their agents are charged with bribing bank regulators and central bankers in Pakistan, Nigeria, Morocco, Senegal, Tunisia, Ivory Coast, Congo, Zambia, Argentina, and Peru. In some cases, B. C. C. I. funds were used to defraud lending agencies, including the International Monetary Fund.

In the United States, B. C. C. I. illegally purchased American banks and defrauded American investors and the U. S. Government. A key figure in the B. C. C. I. conspiracy was Gaith Rashad Pharaon. On November 15, 1991, a U. S. court in Washington, D. C., issued an arrest warrant for Pharaon, charging him with fraud, conspiracy, and racketeering.

If you have information concerning Pharaon, you should contact the nearest U.S. embassy or consulate. The identity of individuals who furnish information will be kept in strict confidence. If appropriate, the U. S. is prepared to protect informants by relocating them.

the Van Lent Feadship Le Pharaon

The 55 meter LE PHARAON was launched in 1989 for her Saudi owner. Typical for a yacht destined for the hot sun of the Red Sea is the lack of sundecks or the complete shade provided for the sundeck. She is rarely seen outside the Middle East but I had the chance to see her at Port Camille Rayon at Golfe Juan in September 1993 when I took this photo. Her owner is also a repeat client

Per telephonic conversations between ALAT [redacted] and b6
SA [redacted] ALAT [redacted] has outlined the information obtained by b7C [redacted] and has discussed the plans to stop the b7D yacht after it leaves Wewelsfleth to search for Pharaon. German regulations require the yacht be taken by a local ship pilot from the wharf. ALAT [redacted] advised that [redacted] had shown pictures of Pharaon to the ship pilot who had taken the yacht for a "test run" on April 28, 2003. In the ship pilot's opinion, the photographs matched the description of an older gentleman seen on or near the yacht. The latest available information indicated the yacht would be taken for one additional "test run" before leaving Wewelsfleth. The final departure date has not been determined, but may be as early as May 2, 2003.

SA [redacted] has informed ALAT [redacted] that past attempts to locate and apprehend Pharaon on the yacht have been unsuccessful. However, based on the information from the ship pilot and the willingness of German authorities to stop and search the yacht, the possibility exists that Pharaon may be apprehended. Even if Pharaon is not located on or near the yacht, [redacted] which may aid in apprehending Pharaon. b6 b7C b7D

Armed and Dangerous statement added to reflect that during past boardings of the yacht, it was noted that firearms, to include shoulder-fired weapons, were stored on the yacht.

There are two likely departure scenarios for the yacht:

NOTE: The yacht is required to have a pilot to depart the wharf to pass through the lock into the Elbe River. The wharf must request the pilot 1-2 days ahead of time to schedule his help to move any vessel. [redacted] b7D

1. After the test run, the yacht immediately tries to leave for the North Sea. In this situation arrangements must be made for the pilot to leave the yacht on the Elbe River or the yacht makes the test run without a pilot. [redacted] b7D

2. The pilot will be scheduled to assist the wharf move the yacht out of dock and through the lock for its test run. Afterwards, the pilot will be requested to return on another day to again move the yacht through the lock for its final departure.

[redacted] b7D

The yacht can only move during a high tide, currently around 1:00 - 5:00 p.m., while the current is moving in. This limited time frame will make it more difficult for the yacht to undergo a test run and leave immediately if the pilot is present. The unidentified elderly man seen with the yacht has already been with the ship almost a week and may stay in Germany until the yacht leaves. [redacted] Legat remain on standby to b7D

Case ID #: 29B-WF-171994 (Pending)

Title: HIDDEN INTERESTS;
OO:WF

Synopsis: Request authority to establish a $250,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of Ghaith Pharaon.

Reference: 29B-WF-171994 Serial 905

Details: As background, captioned matter was an investigation of the secret ownership interests in U.S. financial institutions by the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI). The collapse of world-wide BCCI was the largest bank failure in history.

Ghaith Pharaon participated in a conspiracy with BCCI and its principal officers to defraud the U.S. Government and individual investors. As part of the conspiracy, BCCI used Pharaon to secretly acquire the Independence Bank of Encino, California in 1985. Although Pharaon was the purported purchaser, BCCI and Pharaon had an agreement whereby 85 percent of the Independence Bank stock, with its voting rights, was pledged to BCCI.

At no time were state and federal regulators informed of the agreement between BCCI and Pharaon, or of BCCI's true interest in acquiring Independence Bank. The concealment of the agreement was a violation of federal regulations and enabled Independence Bank to obtain deposit insurance protection from the U.S. Government.

As an additional part of the conspiracy, BCCI officials assisted Pharaon in facilitating a fraud by manipulating the financial market for an offering of subordinate debentures issued by Centrust Savings Bank (CSB) in Miami, Florida. In January 1988, Pharaon acquired approximately 25 percent of the stock in CSB. During the same year, CSB received regulatory approval to raise capital by selling 150 million dollars worth of subordinated debentures. Within a few days prior to the issuance date, CSB had not found subscribers for all the debentures. Pharaon and CSB made an agreement wherein BCCI would purchase 25 million dollars worth of debentures, thus ensuring the debenture offering would appear to be fully subscribed.

The purchase by BCCI was not a bona fide purchase as BCCI's funds were never at risk. Approximately eight weeks after the issue date, CSB repurchased the debentures from BCCI, at full value plus interest, per the stated agreement. Pharaon and CSB used BCCI to artificially inflate the demand for the debentures and thereby deceived investors as to the true value of the notes.

Since Pharaon's indictment on wire fraud and racketeering offenses in November 1991, the FBI has expended a great deal of effort attempting to locate and arrest Pharaon. One part of that effort throughout the years has been the tracking of the "Le Pharaon," a yacht owned by Pharaon. [redacted] b7D

[redacted] b6 b7C has come forward offering possible information about Pharaon's whereabouts. [redacted] claimed he had a source who could provide the global positioning satellite (GPS) coordinates of the yacht and information on when Pharaon could be expected to be onboard. [redacted] advised he would provide the information in return for a reward. Although [redacted] did not mention the identity or occupation of the source, it is most likely a crew member of the Le Pharaon. Washington Field believes the information [redacted] may provide represents the best opportunity to locate and arrest Pharaon.

[redacted] b6 b7C did not state the amount of reward money he would accept in return for information about Pharaon. However, as Pharaon is extremely wealthy and has influence in the Middle East, the establishment of a significant reward may be the impetus needed for an individual close to Pharaon to provide information on his current whereabouts.

It is requested that up to $250,000 be authorized for payment to a source(s) for information leading to the arrest of Ghaith Pharaon.

Synopsis: Response to Washington Field (WF) request for $250,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of Ghaith Pharoan.

Details: Reference is made to the captioned serial and 12/18/2003 telcalls to SSA [redacted] and SA [redacted] b6 b7C. In the captioned serial, WF requested authority to offer a reward of up to $250,000 for information leading to the capture of Ghaith Pharaon, the last remaining fugitive in the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI) matter. The collapse of world-wide BCCI was the largest bank failure in history.

It is requested that WF provide a follow on request to the FIFU with a name and identifying information for the individual providing the information and justification for the reward. It should be noted that any reward of $100,000 and above requires the personal approval of the Attorney General.

Title: HIDDEN INTERESTS;

Synopsis: Contact with [redacted] U.S. Department of Justice, Fraud Section. b6 b7C

Details: As background, on September 24, 2003, ALAT [redacted] telephonically contacted writer and advised that an individual had come forward offering information which could lead to the arrest of Ghaith Pharaon. The individual inquired about the availability of a reward for such information. b6 b7C

On September 25, 2003, writer telephonically contacted [redacted], DOJ Fraud Section, to discuss the establishment of a reward for information leading to Pharaon's arrest. [redacted] advised he was interested in the idea and would make inquiries about how to establish a reward and re-contact writer. b6 b7C

On October 21, 2003, writer left a message on [redacted]'s voice mail, requesting a status on his efforts. On October 24, 2003, [redacted] contacted writer and advised he had "kicked around" the idea of a reward with other prosecutors in the Fraud Section. If Pharaon is eventually arrested, the initial prosecution would be handled by AUSA [redacted] Economic Crimes Section, U.S. Attorney's Office, Miami, Florida. [redacted] placed a call to [redacted]'s office to discuss the reward matter, but [redacted] was out of the office until the first week of November 2003. b6 b7C

On November 6, 2003, SSA [redacted] Squad C-2, Miami Division, contacted writer regarding Pharaon. SSA [redacted] had been contacted by AUSA [redacted] who conveyed to SSA [redacted] that she would veto the idea of allowing Pharaon to pay a fine to settle the criminal charges. Writer explained to SSA [redacted] that the issue was the establishment of a reward and not Pharaon's b6 b7C offer to pay a fine. Writer provided SSA [redacted] with a brief summary of the information provided by Legat Berlin and that the individual had inquired about the existence of a reward for such information. Writer explained that Washington Field was using the individual's inquiry as the basis for requesting the establishment of a reward for information leading to Pharaon's arrest. As Pharaon is extremely wealthy, the establishment of a reward may be the incentive needed for an individual close to Pharaon to provide information leading to his arrest. SSA [redacted] concurred with writer's attempt to establish a reward. b6 b7C

On November 12, 2003, [redacted] returned writer's call and advised that although he believes the establishment of a reward is warranted, DOJ does not have a central fund from which reward money could be offered. Writer advised [redacted] that he would pursue the establishment of a reward with FBIHQ. b6 b7C

The above computer evidence is currently in ECR. In a Division-wide effort to free up space in ECR, all computer evidence has been reviewed for disposal potential. In order to legally dispose of it, you must either:

1. Forfeit it - unless you already have forfeiture proceedings pending, your time limitation has expired for this option;
2. Return it to the owner;
3. Abandon it - a legal process by which the owner can not be identified or has chosen not to claim the property;
4. Make a determination that the FBI is the true owner and there is no evidentiary value (e.g. a mirrored hard drive or downloaded data onto a FBI disk).

In an effort to help you eventually dispose of this evidence, WFO will be conducting a massive abandonment project. Even if the item is not ready to be disposed of, we still have the ability to seek an abandonment declaration which will allow you to legally dispose of the evidence at a later date. In order to accomplish this, you are required to review your case file and provide the following information on the above 1B exhibit:

1. Is the evidence ready to be disposed of? No, captioned matter is a pending investigation of the BCCI bank scandal.
2. Do you know the true owner (if not, go to #4)?

3. Name and address (include zip code) of owner (so he/she can be notified that unless they claim, their evidence will be disposed of):

4. Is there either child pornography or classified material on the evidence? Classified material is contained on the diskette.
5. Would you like the Admin Div to include it in the abandonment project? No

6. If not, how do you intend to dispose of it? The evidence will be destroyed after the remaining subject, Ghaith Pharaon (fugitive) is arrested and prosecuted.

Synopsis: Document disposition of 29B-WF-171994-1B21, further identified with Barcode number E0423668.

Reference: 29B-WF-171994 Serial 918

Details: As background, the above-described evidence is one of thirty-three (33) boxes of evidence seized during a search of Ghaith Pharaon's residence and business in 1992, and subsequently maintained as serial 1B21.

In January 2006, through writer's research of the transfer of evidence maintained as 1B21 (see referenced serial), it appeared the entire contents of 1B21 was transferred to the Federal Reserve in October 1997. However, the disposition of one box of the production, identified with barcode number E0423668, was not clearly identified in ECC. Attempts to verify this box of evidence is in the possession of the Federal Reserve have been unsuccessful.

Washington Field's Evidence Control Center (ECC) does not possess this item in their inventory. Writer conducted a search of the squad area for the missing item, with negative results. Therefore, it is requested that 29B-WF-171994-1B21, further identified as Barcode number E0423668, be considered "lost" and that ECC reflect that disposition in ACS.

Title: EVIDENCE MATTER

Synopsis: Document disposition for evidence item further described as 29B-WF-171994-1B39 (Barcode# E0577090).

Administrative: Reference e-mail from SET [redacted] to SA [redacted] dated April 9, 2006, subject: Evidence matter. b6 b7C

Details: On April 9, 2006, per referenced e-mail, SET [redacted] b6 b7C advised that the Evidence Control Center (ECC) could not locate an evidence item maintained as 29B-WF-171994-1B39 (Barcode# E0577090) and requested writer submit an EC stating the disposition of the item as lost.

A review of ACS revealed the item was placed into storage at Washington Field's ECC by former Evidence Technician (ET) [redacted] on July 22, 1993 and last inventoried on September 30, 1995. There are no entries on the chain-of-custody to indicate the item was ever removed from the ECC. However, during the last ECC inventory conducted on October 26, 2005, the item could not be located. b6 b7C

Therefore, it is requested that 29B-WF-171994-1B39 (Barcode #E0577090) be considered lost and that ECC reflect that disposition in ACS.

During the course of [redacted] investigation of the Liberty Bank, [redacted] matter, [redacted] learned Saudi Sheik [redacted] made arrangements to provide [redacted] a $5 million down payment for the purchase of airplanes, from "the enterprise" which were used to fly guns to Nicaragua and drugs to the U.S. The planes were used by "the enterprise" for the re-supply operation. A former Merrill Lynch stockbroker from London, [redacted] who handled [redacted] accounts, told [redacted] she was in Saudi Arabia, in the tent, with [redacted] and [redacted] when these arrangements for the payments were made. Later, [redacted] wanted a position with [redacted] firm however, [redacted] said he didn't hire her as he didn't fully trust her. [redacted] currently resides in the Miami, Florida area. b6 Per ICE b7C

Eastbrook borrowed $138 million with at least [redacted] name used as collateral. The purpose of the loans were to finance Eastbrook's business operations. Eastbrook was based in New York and had 80 offices worldwide. [redacted] (LNU), an Englishman who worked in BCCI's London offices, was the financial advisor to [redacted] for Eastbrook and BCCI. [redacted] also acted as a go-between for BCCI and Eastbrook. Eastbrook was planning to raise $100 million from wealthy Latin Americans and drug traffickers to form a currency trading fund to launder drug money and flight capital. Allegedly Eastbrook was used as a vehicle by BCCI to pay bribes in Latin America and the U.S. [redacted] was unable to provide specifics of bribes or payees. b6 Per ICE b7C

[redacted] and [redacted] are financial commodity brokers who worked for Eastbrook Ltd., in New York. When Eastbrook ceased operations in New York, in approximately Dec. 1991, [redacted] and [redacted] carried out several boxes of records as did other Eastbrook employees. According to [redacted] and [redacted] have records of Eastbrook payoffs and of Eastbrook employees who were part of the BCCI organization. It was commonly discussed among and between Eastbrook employees that Eastbrook was a part of BCCI. b6 Per ICE b7C

A consortium of 13 banks hired the N.Y. law firm of [redacted] to represent them relative to their combined loss of $138 million from Eastbrook. The law firm hired [redacted] to do the background on Eastbrook. b6 Per ICE b7C

In approximately Feb. 1992, [redacted] provided information concerning Eastbrook to an investigator for the New York District Attorney's Office. [redacted] was told the D.A.'s office was already aware of the Eastbrook connection to BCCI and stated "that's the next train coming down the tunnel." Additionally, [redacted] has had contact with the FBI in Houston, Texas, which is investigating the $5 million loss from 1st City Bank - Texas (part of the $138 million in loans to Eastbrook). b6 Per ICE b7C

[redacted] agreed to (1) provide us with his Noriega and Eastbrook files; and, (2) be debriefed in more detail concerning these matters pending our review of the files. b6 Per ICE b7C

According to [redacted] is the girlfriend of [redacted] b6 Per ICE b7C father is the owner of El Siglo newspaper, and [redacted] was Noriega's finance minister. Accordingly, [redacted] and [redacted] lived above the newspaper facility. [redacted] believes [redacted] was being held hostage in the Bolivian Embassy during this time, along with other Noriega officials. According to [redacted] and [redacted] had left Panama two days prior to the invasion.

[redacted] said he contacted [redacted] former DEA Special b6 Per ICE b7C Agent in Charge, Houston, Texas, with the Noriega information. [redacted] contacted DEA - Miami and relayed same. Thereafter, in February, 1990, [redacted] was interviewed in Houston by a DEA Special Agent and DEA intelligence analyst [redacted] from Miami, Florida. [redacted] provided them with approximately 20 pages of records and the attached list of Noriega assets (Attachment 1). At that time the agent showed [redacted] a cashier's check for $2.6 million for the purchase of the Intercontinental Hotel in Orlando, listed as a Noriega asset. [redacted] told DEA he wanted to be a part of the Noriega financial investigation and that he could provide contacts all over the world. However, he informed DEA he would need funding for his investigation. [redacted] was not further contacted by DEA.

According to [redacted], the following assets on the list were b6 Per ICE b7C established as being tied to Manuel Noriega:[1]

During the course of this investigation photographs of BCCI subjects and associates have been obtained. These photographs have been arranged in systematic order and are being kept in the bookcase in SSA [redacted] office. b6 b7C

This 'Photo Library' consists of four photo albums, labeled 1 through 4, and three BCCI International Magazines, volumes 40, 41, and 43, and labeled as such. Each album or magazine has a table of contents listing the name and page or pages on which that particular person appears. The table of contents will be kept inside the front cover of each album or magazine. A master list of the names, album and/or magazine that the individual appears in, and the page numbers, will be kept at the 'photo library'.

If an individual is identified that has not been previously identified, please make a notation in the album or magazine and add his or her name and page number to the table of contents of that album or magazine.

Pictures may be removed from the 'photo library', but if removed make a note of what pictures were removed, the date, the agent's name, and the purpose.

Dear

National Commercial Bank

As part of our work we commissioned a background report on the above parties, a copy of which I enclose. Some of it makes interesting reading (whether it is right or wrong).

We believe that the "sources" described in the report are individuals either living in the Middle East or experts on Arab affairs. It should be noted that some of the information may represent the personal opinion of the particular source or may be based on third party rumour. However, the information has been further corroborated where possible by the preparers of the report.

I am sending you this information (for your team) in case it is of any help. Any comments that they may have will, of course, be most welcome.

Yours sincerely

Business History - Origins

[redacted] Shaikh Salim bin Ahmad Bin Mahfouz. The latter was of humble origins from the Hadhramaut region of present day Yemen. He arrived in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, some time before 1920 and took service as a house-boy with the Kaaki family, who were one of the leading money-changers in the Jeddah Souk. Salim eventually married one of the Kaaki daughters and was accepted into the family business. By about 1924 he was already running a currency-exchange business for the pilgrim traffic. In 1951, Shaikh Salim persuaded King Abdulaziz Ibn Saud to allow him to set up the first institution to operate under the title of Bank in Saudi Arabia. (Previous banks had to pretend that they were trading companies). The new bank, the National Commercial Bank, was also the first bank to be entirely owned by Saudi Arabians, and the Kaaki family were also founder members. However, by the 1970's [redacted] Salim bin Ahmad Bin Mahfouz were [redacted]

The National Commercial Bank

The National Commercial Bank of Saudi Arabia remains by far the largest bank in Saudi Arabia, with a very strong branch and deposit base, and close links with practically every company and individual of importance in Saudi Arabia. But we know that the bank's profit performance has been poor in recent years, mainly because it was very badly hit by the financial slump in Saudi Arabia in 1985-87, when many of it's "blue chip" Saudi borrowers turned out to be immensly bankrupt, and the bank (like all other banks in the Kingdom) found that there were no effective ways to recover debts from prominent Saudi individuals.

Because of its status as a "partnership" bank (owned by just the Bin Mahfouz and Kaaki families), the bank was able to avoid giving too many details of its position. Indeed, it has published no accounts at all since the end of 1989. This secrecy means that it has not had to undertake the very public restructuring forced on some of the Saudi joint-stock banks, such as the Riyadh Bank, Bank al-Jazira and the Saudi Cairo Bank. But it probably also means that N.C.B. has had less success than these other banks in actually grappling with its bank debt problems. The consensus among all observers of the banking scene is that N.C.B. is far too important to be allowed to go under, but that the exposure of BCCI-related problems may now force the N.C.B. management into solving the underlying problems of the loan portfolio, probably with the help of SAMA.

It is thought that the departure of [redacted] at the NCB will help the other members of his family, especially [redacted] to gain support from SAMA in any rescue/restructuring. SAMA is widely believed to have disliked and distrusted [redacted] who had got NCB into some highly expensive losses (silver markets, BCCI, REDEC etc), and as someone who used the banks funds for his own wild ventures. There is no doubt that NCB would have got into difficulties in the 1980s even without any help from [redacted] The bank was by-virtue of its close links with the Saudi power elite, almost bound to end up lending to risky individuals who could offer no security apart from their "name" or family position. And, as many spectacular Saudi business collapses of the 1980s showed, "name" or family links often turned out to be no help when businesses went wrong.

The facts of NCB's performance are as follows: Accounts for three years up to and including 1989 were qualified by the auditors on the grounds that the bank had granted advances to "clients, partners, parties related to the partner and directors, together with loans to officers, which constitute a contravention of Articles 8 and 9 of the banking Control Law". Interestingly SAMA seems to have made no effort to compel the bank to modify this lending (which apparently breached the Banking Control Law because it was over-concentrated among a few borrowers). This suggests that SAMA appreciated that the bank had made the loans for political pressure, rather than as strictly commercial loans.

As for profits, the bank placed its entire operating profits for both 1988 (6 months) and 1989 in general provisions for bad debts, meaning that there was a zero net profit for both years. The 1988 operating profit over 16 months came to SR 965.9 million. For 1989, the figure was SR 917.6 million. The bank now has very large general provisions (perhaps SR 4.5 billion as of mid-1989), but its recent actions suggest that it is still worried about the future. For example:

* The NCB's decision to close its London branch in May 1992 looks suspiciously like a panic reaction to the cost burden of the branch. The bank has said that this was a purely commercial decisions, because the branch had always lost money.

* The Bank has produced no account for 1990 or 1991. All that has happened after [redacted] b6 b7C was to issue of a short statement to the effect that the Bank's assets grew from SR79.7 billion at the end of 1990 to SR82.3 billion at the end of 1991, and that customer deposits rose from SR 73.5 billion to SR 75.6 billion in the same period. By publishing such incomplete information (and by saying nothing at all about profits), the general view is that the bank did itself more harm than good.

Even despite these signs of strain, it is universally agreed that NCB will pull through, probably with SAMA's help in mobilising a rescue package. Saudi International Bank in London (in which NCB has a small capital stake) is adamant that it continues to have full operating confidence in NCB. At the operational level, contacts in SIB point out that [redacted] did lead to some technical problems for NCB, as some correspondents were reluctant, in the next few days, to grant short-term deposit facilities. But, as NCB is a colossal net depositor of funds in the international market (rather than a borrower), there was never any suggestion of a serious difficulty for the Bank's day to day functioning because of the furore surrounding [redacted] b6 b7C

Share Holding Structure of NBC (C6)

"The largest partnership bank in the world", NBC (C8) is still a partnership between the Bin Mahfouz family and the Kaaki family. As of August 1988 [redacted] b6 b7C

NBC (C6) has always been regarded as under-capitalised relative to its loan/asset base. The bank's position is that it considers its partners are wealthy enough to provide confidence.

The relative position of the Bin Mahfouz family in the bank's ownership structure must have been strengthened by the death in the mid 1986 of Abdul Aziz Kaaki, one of the founders of NBC. It is understood that his shares were split among thirty relatives. This fragmentation made it much harder for the Kaaki family to act together in the bank's affairs.

The 1986-87 accounts for NBC suggest that the bank bought back 10.75 per cent of its shares from a partner. Our source could not ascertain the name of the partner.

The Bin Mahfouz family currently dominates the management structure of NCB at the higher levels, the role of the Kaaki family having been relegated to that of passive shareholders. Despite his great age, [redacted] from an early stage seems to have had a close relationship with the leading members of the Royal Family, and particularly with the then Prince Fahd, now the King. As Crown Prince, Fahd had a well-established reputation as a colossal gambler, and used [redacted]

NCB's handling of recent events - the closure of the London branch for unconvincing "commercial reasons", and the sale of silver - has made an extremely bad impression on the market and fuelled speculation that the Bank is in serious trouble. NCB has had to make heavy provisions for bad debts in recent years, and has had its accounts qualified by the auditors in each of the past three years. (NCB no longer operates in London as a bank, having scaled down to the status of a representative office).

What is certain is that NCB will not be allowed to go down, even though many of its loans are likely to be irrecoverable (particularly those involving leading members of the Saudi Royal Family, who are effectively immune from prosecution).

But the negative publicity from the BCCI scandal apparently means that many foreign correspondent banks have withdrawn their short-term deposit facilities for NCB. As NCB is overwhelmingly a net depositor with the international banking system this is more of a nuisance than a threat, unless loss of confidence escalates and depositors pull out.

The recent sale of silver by NCB is believed by one leading banking source (with Saudi interests) to have been a sale on behalf of a client and not a sale of NCB-owned silver. Others suggest that it was intended to be taken as a signal to the market, in that the silver was sold in one high profile operation, causing maximum disruption, when a discreet sale over several days would have achieved the objective without disrupting the price. The suggestion is that a similar tactic employed to unload property would cause more harm to financial institutions.

There is no doubt that NCB needs support (though this support will be given very discreetly). This is where the regulatory authority, the Saudi Arabian Monetary Authority (SAMA) comes in to play.

The Position of SAMA

The Saudi Arabian Monetary Agency (SAMA) carries out the functions of a central Bank in issuing currency, administering the reserves of the state, and supervising the banking sector. The agency does not have a proper charter from the king and acts as a subordinate arm of the Ministry of Finance and National Economy. Its independence of operation is therefore linked to the position of the Minister of Finance himself. If he is trusted by the King, and is allowed to operate without direct political pressure, then the SAMA is also able to operate with relative independence and effectiveness.

Since 1975 [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] When the king, for example, makes an extravagant promise which cannot be fulfil because no cash is available, it is [redacted] who pulls a long face an says that the king's promise is now inoperative.

Our belief is that SAMA has benefitted from [redacted] success in maintaining his independence from powerful princes and cronies of the King. SAMA itself has managed to achieve some quite difficult tasks, including the "managing" of the bad loan crisis in the Saudi banking sector in 1985-1987. The managing of the crisis took a characteristically Saudi form of moral persuasion on banks and certain debtors "behind closed doors": foreign bankers and observers lamented that SAMA had not in fact established proper legal procedures for debt recovery, or rules for bankruptcy, but had relied on secret negotiations. But the result was that no major bank actually went under, and that the funds were mobilised for three banks which did get into difficulties. b6 b7C

King Fahd undoubtedly realises the value of [redacted] and of SAMA to the functioning of the State. It is widely believed however, that the very large arms-for-oil deals arranged by, in particularlar, Prince Sultan were not popular with SAMA. Nor was it always possible to keep a minimal level of reserves behind the currency during the period of extraordinary financial pressure during the 1990-91 Gulf Crisis, but, at least the system has held together. It is worth noting that SAMA's present degree of independence lacks any legal/institutional basis. SAMA took a very dim view of NCB's involvement in the Bunker Hunt silver scandal and, more recently, of its involvement with BCCI. It is considered that the departure of [redacted] NCB will help the Bank in its relationship with SAMA, notwithstanding his continuing major shareholding in NCB. b6 b7C

Deals Done

Through the National Commercial Bank the Bin Mahfouz family must have lent to virtually every firm and leading individual in Saudi Arabia at some time or another. But [redacted] seems particularly close to the following individuals: b6 b7C

Ghaith Pharaon [redacted] (Chairman of REDEC)

[redacted] Northern Telecom and otherleading companies)

The first three are, of course, deeply involved in BCCI; [redacted] is [redacted] BCCI.

NCB was reported in March 1986 to be the largest creditor of Ghaith Pharaon's REDEC company at a time when REDEC was in acute financial difficulty. In January 1991 NCB was acting as the agent of REDEC in the attempt to sell most of REDEC's hotel and property interests.

An important link between Ghaith Pharaon comes with the involvement of the Bin Mahfouz family in the attempt to buy out the Pakistani shareholding in a Saudi Arabian bank. Bank Al-Jazira: Ghaith Pharaon was a shareholder in Bank Al-Jazira at the time the deal was launched.

The Relationship between th[redacted] Ghaith Pharaon b6 b7C

This relationship, although difficult to trace and document is clearly central to the BCCI story.

It is obvious that both Ghaith Pharaon [redacted] were linked in the late 70s and 80s as friends of John Connolly, who introduced them both to [redacted] b6 b7C Both acted as a sheild for Crown Prince Fahd's dealings in the silver markets. Both were friends of [redacted] at this time: Indeed, [redacted] and and Ghaith Pharaon seemed to have worked together to help [redacted] out of a serious difficulty by buying into Bert Lance's National Bank of Georgia, which owed money [redacted] (First National of Chicago).

But problems seem to have developed in the relationship between Pharaon and [redacted] as Pharaon's own wealth declined sharply during the 80s. In December 1985, Pharaon's flagship company REDEC stopped paying principal on its very large debts (relating to property and hotel activity), and began discussing re-scheduling. Out of total REDEC debts of about USD 340 million, NCB was owed USD 21 million. What really annoye[redacted] and other creditors was that Pharaon did not seem to regard REDEC as his responsibility and carried on investing with other assets in the very large projects such as the Mirapolis theme park outside Paris, which opened in May 1987 (35 per cent owned by Arab investors). b6 b7C

It is reputed that Ghaith Pharaon [redacted] no longer speak to each other. They do appear throughout the BCCI story, and there are specific instances where their paths seem to cross. b6 b7C

008 BCCI LEADENHALL ST.LDN 626 1477 15:05 08/09/92 1325015-000-6726

In September 1986 [redacted] BCCI coincided with Pharaon's reducing his stake in BCCI from 13 per cent to 6 per cent. Pharaon's spokesman in New York apparently denied that Pharaon had sold his seven per cent directly to the Bin Mahfouz family. It was all part of a complex capital increase for BCCI, and so no direct transfer was involved.

b7C

In late 1986, the Bin Mahfouz family, following the purchase of the stake in BCCI, was reported to have an option to buy 10 per cent of the First American Bankshares (originally bought when it was still Bank of Commonwealth, by Pharaon in association with [redacted] A press comment of October 1986 was that "the option adds further mystery to a series of unexplained links between the [redacted] BCCI, FAB and Ghaith Pharaon". NCB, of course, denied in July 1992 that it had ever bought or owned shares in the FAB parent company, CCAH. But later reports allege that KBM himself did buy an interest in CCAH: first a payment of USD 135 million for shares held by the ruler of Fujairah, then a few months late in September 1986 another group of CCAH shares. The US Federal Reserve alleges that these shares were bought by [redacted] with the assistance of [redacted] and through the intermediary of NCB".

[redacted]

b6
b7C

Our sources have traced [redacted] since the early summer of 1983 [redacted] Mobil's petrol station network in Italy. His financial commitment to the project was always rather uncertain, and we believe that he soon divested himself of financial involvement. But his name lingers on in the company [redacted]

We know that he had been associated with Ghaith Pharaon [redacted] BCCI, for many years. In 1975, [redacted] Pharaon and [redacted] Bank of Commonwealth, which later became First American Bankshares.

b7C

In recent years, [redacted] seems to have been involved in one scandal after another mainly in France and Lebanon. In France, the Banque de Participations et Placements went down in March 1989 with bad debts advanced to a number of companies linked with [redacted] More seriously, [redacted] French stock exchange in January 1989 during the Exchange enquiry into Pechiney's take over of the American Can Company, one of the major stock-exchange scandal of recent years in Paris. [redacted] to buy shares in the American parent company, Triangle.

b7C

But even more extraordinary events were taking place in the Lebanon. In 1983, President Amin Gemayal appointed [redacted] Lebanese bank which had crashed so spectacularly in 1966. [redacted] soon quarrelled with the Lebanese Central bank about some of the activities of Intra's subsidiary Bank al-Mashraq [redacted] Intra [redacted] but stayed on at Bank al-Mashraq until 1989, when he apparently disappeared for his own safety into the Shouf mountains as Lebanon and his own financial empire crumbled. Bin Mahfouz Family and Yemen

Nimr Petroleum

Nimr is registered in Bermuda, and has offices in Sana'a (Yemen) and London. It is now owned by the Bin Mahfouz family, though the proportion of the shareholding is not known. Nor are the names of any other backers, but it is strongly rumoured that the Saudi royal family holds a significant proportion.

Last year Nimr purchased Yemen Block 4 in the Shabwa area of South Yemen for US$ 500 million. The purchase included all the data and the production facilities developed by the Russians, who were the previous owners. Of this sum, US$ 350 has already been paid to the Yemen Government. Nimr also has three exploration blocks in the eastern part of South Yemen, and these carry heavy investment commitments, perhaps up to a further US$ 100 million.

Nimr has recently been recruiting a number of senior staff from within the oil industry. They have employed Atlantic Richfield (ARCO) to operate Block 4, but there are currently problems over the further financial investment needed for oil production: Nimr seem reluctant to invest much more.Exploration and Development servies for the concession are being provided to Al Nimr by ARCO Yemen (part of Atlantic Richfield). Arco Yemen has an option to acquire an equity interest in Shabwa 4 on completion of a minimum works programme.

Nimr has three other licenses in the Yemen. More ambitiously, Nimr apparently wants to modernise the Aden Oil Refinery in return for an equity stake in the refinery. But the Yemen Government is apparently hostile to the idea, not wanting to surrender equity. Nimr's proposals for the refinery are ambitious: two phases, each costing USD 250-300 million.

Yes

We have found two main elements in what appears to be a concerted effort by the Bin Mahfouz family to obtain a dominant position in the Yemen economy. In view of the enormous financial resources being committed to the Yemen, we are inclined to wonder whether the the Bin Mahfouz are acting on their own, or as the agents of the Saudi government (as part of a plan to build up Saudi influence in the newly united Yemen).

[redacted] International Bank of Yemen YSC, which was set up in 1979-80. The other foreign shareholder is the bank of America (20%). The remaining 55 per cent is held by Yemeni interests, including the Yemen Bank for reconstruction and development. b6 b7C

The whole Yemen episode is puzzling. Some have suggested that the Bin Mahfouz involvement is purely sentimental: the area around Shabwa is the traditional homeland of the Beni Seyyar tribe, who are connected to the Bin Mahfouz. But the investment proposed for the Aden refinery is too large a figure to be justified soley by sentiment. It may be that the family are being used as instruments of policy by the Saudi government. There have been suggestions that [redacted] b6 b7C

Saudi National Commercial Bank (SNCB) and the Shobokshi Collapse:

[redacted] apparently engineered a consortium led by SNCB in Bahrain, which became the second largest lender to the Ali and Fahd Shobokshi Group. When the Shobokshi Group began talks with its creditors in 1985. SNCB was leading a consortium of 18 banks, with an exposure of US$ 75 million out of a total Shobokshi debt of US$ 320 million. b6 b7C

SNCB and the Arab Asian Bank of Bahrain:

The Bin Mahfouz family investment company Middle East Finance group (MEFG) had before 1985 been one of the shareholders in this Malaysian-focussed Bahrain off-shore Bank. The other shareholders were [redacted] Bahrain's ruling family), Husein Najadi, the Arab Malaysian development bank and [redacted] In 1985, the Bank effectively collapsed, [redacted] MEFG then bought all the capital of the bank, raising their stake from 20 per cent to 100 per cent. It would apear that no accounts were published by the Bank between 1985 and 1989. There was some link between the bank and CE Coates of London. (See section on MEFG on the following page) b6 b7C

The Middle East Finance Group

The Middle East Finance Group (MEFG) is the Mahfouz family's investment vehicle. The company is based in Luxembourg, 90 per cent is owned by the Bin Mahfouz and 10 per cent by the Kaaki family. It has full control of the Arab Asian Bank of Bahrain since 11 April 1985.

Other subsidiaries of MEFG in early 1986 included:
International Trade and Investment Bank, Luxembourg
Coates and Company of London *
Arab Asian International bank of Hong Kong
Alexander Trust Company of Switzerland
Sedco of Jeddah
C and D International of Chile
United City Merchants, (UCM), a trading and financial services company, London

[redacted] MEFG included, in January 1986, b6 b7C

- [redacted]

The oddest deal which we have linked to MEFG arose out of the collapse of the Arabian Auto Agency (AAA - the Poclain and Kawasaki agent in Saudi Arabia), which was declared in default in September 1987 with debts of USD700 million. MEFG began buying up the debt of AAA during the Summer of 1987 at a very dep discount, ranging between 10 and 18 per cent of face value. by November 1987, it was believed to hold at least 25 percent and perhaps 40 per cent of the total debt.

The motive behind the apparently suicial purchase of debt seems to have been to delay putting AAA into default. The bank which sold the debts were apparently "friendly" banks (i.e. banks friendly to the owners of AAA), who were trying to delay a default for as long as possible. After AAA did default, it became clear that the company had, soon before defaulting, secretly transferred a large sum of money to its major owner, prince Zayid Subsidiary, a relative of king Fahd. The logical explanation must be that the purchase of debt was a "favour" by the bin Mafouz to prince Zayid, enabling him to leak the money out of the company before it went down the tube.

MEFG's takeover of the Arab-Asian bank

MEFG took full control of the Bahrain based Arab Asian bank on the 11 April 1985. MEFG had previously held a 20 per cent stake. When the take-over was completed, MEFG placed [redacted] SNCB of Bahrain in charge of the Arab Asian bank. MEFG also gave a key role to NCB's [redacted] MEFG subsidiary IIIB). b6 b7C millions of dollars could not be accounted for and charged [redacted] with exploiting his position, embezzling funds and transferring these funds to Europe. In December 1985 [redacted] got a three-year sentence for misappropriating $2.4 million. b6 b7C

MEFG appear to have acquire their full control of AAB at a nominal price but they soon face the fact that the bank had a lot of bad debts. In January 1986 AAB emerged as one of the largest creditors of the ARE Galadaris of Dubai and AAB's claim was to put USD.1 million. MEFG's reasons for such a costly take-over are difficult to fathom.

The wider Picture

In 1985, through a major acquisistion, [redacted] decided to expand the family controlled NCB banking operations. It was in 1986 that [redacted] began discussions with BCCI's President and Chief Executive, Agha Hassan Abedi [redacted] b6 b7C

The best starting point for an investigation of the alliances formed during the BCCI affair is surely the list of the main "troubled loans" (ie loans which there was no realistic chance of getting back) advanced by BCCI Holdings of Luxembourg. This list was prepared by Price Waterhouse, and give the situation at the end of 1989:

[redacted]	USD 313 million
	USD 150 million
Bin Mahfouz Family	USD 135 million
Ghaith Pharaon	USD 288 million
[redacted]	USD 121 million
	USD 132 milion
	USD 100 milion
Ruler of Fujairah	USD 186 million
Ruler of Ajman	USD 186 million
Gulf Group
(Gokal family, including Sadikin)	USD 405 million
Offshore companies	USD 212 million

b6 b7C

At least some of the above entries are "fronts" for unidentified "friends" of BCCI. In particular, Saudi friends express near-total conviction that [redacted] does not exist. We suspect that he and others could be fronts for [redacted] Saudi Arabian Intelligence Service. [redacted] Saudi Intelligence. The names of [redacted] in the London-based futures broker CAPCOM Financial Services. CAPCOM was expelled from the London Association of Futures Brokers and Dealers in July 1989 because the regulators were unable to identify all CAPCOM's beneficial owners, and were therefore unable to judge whether CAPCOM was fit and proper to receive investment funds. There is no published reference to the involvement of the Bin Mahfouz in CAPCOM, but this is a line of enquiry to be pursued

b6 b7C

We have not found any published reference to involvement of the Bin Mahfouz in the CAPCOM affair, but consider that it merits investigation. Another share-holder of CAPCOM was [redacted] BCCI.

A company search did not reveal Kahlon as a director, although he is know to have strong connections with the company.

A financial search revealed that there are no major credit cards registered under the name of either Mr or Mrs Kahlon. [redacted] Silver Manipulation

b6
b7C

There seem to be three separate strands of involvement by the Arabs in the manipulation of the silver markets by the [redacted]

(*) The first dates from February 1978, when ex-Governor Connolly of Texas introduced the [redacted] at their request, to [redacted] Ghaith Pharaon in a hotel in Washington [redacted] objective was to persuade the Saudis of the merits of investment in silver.

(*) A second, this time to the Saudi Royal Family, dates from October 1978, when [redacted] at a racehorse auction in France. Through land dealings in South America Nahas had become involved with Mohamed Fustok, a Palestinian by origin but now holding a Saudi passport. His daughter Aida had become a wife of Prince Abdullah Ibn Abdulaziz, the thirteenth son of the founder of the Saudi dynasty. Mahmoud Fustok was a valued advisor to Prince Abdullah, then No.3 in the hierarchy (and now the Crown Prince), and at Nahas's instigation, Fustok also became interested.

(*) A third strand was the Dubai connection [redacted] This had begun in 1973, and later involved the Dubai [redacted] in February 1979.

Fustok's investment advisors in 1978 were Advisory and Financial Corporation SA, Advicor, formed by a small group of employees who had split off from the Geneva branch of Chase Manhattan, and who were sponsored by the Banque Populaire Suisse. The US broker wa[redacted] Conti Commodity Services and of Conti Capital Management. The latter had authority to operate special commodity funds, one of which was registered in the Bahamas as Conti Capital Limited. Among the shareholders of the latter were [redacted] himself, [redacted] and [redacted] of NCB. The involvement of the merchants of Jeddah meant that there were now channels through which the Saudi Royal Family could invest in silver without publicity, and which also involved the NCB.

b7C

Similarly [redacted] avoided direct public linkage with the silver operation. On 15 July 1979 a company was established in Bermuda with the aim of dealing in precious metals. This was the International Metals Investment Company (IMIC). The [redacted] (through Profit and Investment Company) and 50% Saudi, the Saudi shareholders being [redacted] from a well-known Jeddah money and bullion family [redacted] from a substantial merchant family, and [redacted] man in London. [redacted] Company.

b6
b7C

Of the institutions involved in loans to th[redacted] and their fellow conspirators, intended to finance the speculation in silver, there were the US brokers, such as Bache, foreign banks, such as the Swiss Bank Corporation, and US Banks either directly or indirectly. An example of the latter was the First National Bank of Chicago, who lent to Bache to cover advances to the [redacted] of [redacted] Beirut, [redacted] contacts with the Saudi royal family. [redacted]

b6
b7C

On 14 March 1980 American Banks and branches of foreign banks in the USA, at the request of the Federal Reserve Bank, stopped lending money for speculation in silver and gold. [redacted] desperately tried to raise funds from Saudi Arabia, but the Saudi princes had decided that enough was enough. On 22 March 198[redacted] Fustok

RE: ASSET FORFEITURE - REAL ESTATE OPERATIONS INC

Recently the Asset Forfeiture Office (AFO) of the Department of Justice (DOJ) has become interested in finding information about the company 'Real Estate Operations Inc.' (REO). REO is associated with the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI) and there could be forfeitable assets tied to REO or any of the associated companies.

The writer recalled taking notes on REO when reviewing documents in the BCCI vault in the Cayman Islands. The DOJ Attorney in the Cayman islands advised the writer those files should not be copied at that time. The following is a synopsis of the writers notes:

The files concerning REO were in the Savings Deposit Files, second drawer from the top (in the BCCI vault). The listing of Officers was: [redacted] b6 b7C

The description of REO was that it was a holding company comprised of 39 different companies with the following business address:

c/o [redacted] b6 b7C
Patton, Boggs and Blow
2550 M Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C.

The writer contacted [redacted] on 10/8/92 and asked if the New York liquidators had any information on REO. he advised that they did in fact have some files, and would make them available when needed. The New York liquidators also liquidated an asset tied to REO (330 Madison Ave). b6 b7C

The writer ran 'Real Estate Operations Inc.' and 'REO' through [redacted] for the following collections: BCCI, Cayman, Abu Dhabi, and [redacted] There was only one document found, which is not surprising since any documents containing just REO would not have been marked to be copied. b7D b7E

Dear Representative Fazio
RE: FBI investigation of death of Danny Casolaro - Inslaw Case.

I urge you to support FBI investigation into the death/murder of investigative reporter Danny Casolaro. He was investigating computer theft of [redacted] b6 b7C Promis. It was used in tracking court cases through offices of U.S attorneys.
The program was purchased by the Justice Department.
The contract for purchase was broken and two courts found the government had stolen Promis. Attorney Generals Meese and Thornburgh have stonewalled Senate hearings.

FBI/DOJ-000-6796

Apparently Casolaros investigation gave him reason to believe that Onslow was part of criminal activities in high places including BCCI and the savings and loan scandal.

Without permission from anyone West Virginia officials ordered a hasty embalming of Casolaro. Casolaros death has been ruled suicide however he was positive, enthusiastic and close to completion of the case of his life. Suicide is an unreasonable verdict.

Onslow has asked the FBI for a full blown investigation, I urge you to do so. Please write and let me know.

Sincerely [redacted]

October 7, 1992

Honorable Vic Fazio
House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Congressman Fazio:

I am writing in further reply to your August 21st correspondence on behalf of [redacted] requests your support in prompting an FBI investigation into the death of Joseph Daniel Casolaro. b6 b7C

The Martinsburg, West Virginia, Police Department, conducted a thorough investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mr. Casolaro. On January 25, 1992, that Department ruled his death a suicide. The FBI did not investigate Mr. Casolaro's death since there was no evidence that he was the victim of foul play or that a Federal law within our investigative jurisdiction had been violated. To date, no subsequent information has been received to indicate that such a violation has occurred, and, accordingly, the FBI is unable to conduct an investigation into this matter.

I hope this information will be helpful to you in responding to [redacted] b6 b7C

Sincerely yours,

[redacted] b6 b7C

Re lead #36, on INSLAW case and DANIEL CASOLARO.

Re lead was to determine whether or not there is any connection between the BCCI scandal and the death of DANIEL CASOLARO. The possibility of a connection between BCCI and CASOLARO was brought to the attention of the FBI through several newspaper articles. The first article was from the 6/14/92 Washington Post Magazine. The article was titled, "ELLIOT RICHARDSON's Last Crusade." In this article there are three quotes that connect either INSLAW or DANIEL CASOLARO to BCCI. The first quote made by ELLIOT RICHARDSON is, "The wider case touches upon suspicions held by the HAMILTONs and others that the trail of the pirated Promis Software could lead to some of the most convoluted scandals of the post-war era: From BCCI to the October Surprise." This quote was made by ELLIOT RICHARDSON when he was discussing the allegations that the DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE (DOJ) had caused INSLAW to go bankrupt in an attempt to steal the computer software developed by the HAMILTONs, the owners of INSLAW.

The second quote during this article was made by BILL HAMILTON. HAMILTON stated that "the CIA installed Promis as a deposit tracking system in BCCI", and that "many foreign governments have bought pirated copies."

The third mention of BCCI in this article is not a quote, but from the body of the article. The author of the article states that RON ROSENBAUM, of Vanity Fair, called INSLAW the "missing link" between the BCCI and October Surprise scandals.

However, during this article, at no time did any of the people quoted or the authors of the article explain how BCCI was involved in this whole affair, or how BCCI was involved in the death of DANIEL CASOLARO.

The second article that brought this CASOLARO/BCCI connection to the attention of the FBI was another Washington Post article, an editorial, in fact, by JACK ANDERSON and MICHAEL BINSTEIN. In this editorial ANDERSON and BINSTEIN stated, "In the course of his probe, CASOLARO stumbled across evidence that he believed linked the INSLAW dispute to deeper intrigues, including the Iran/Contra scandal, the BCCI affair, and the Persian Gulf War arming of Iraq." Again, nowhere in this article did ANDERSON or BINSTEIN explain how BCCI was involved with the other affairs or with the death of DANIEL CASOLARO.

For review of this investigative lead, SA [redacted] spoke with SA [redacted] who had spoken with DANIEL CASOLARO [redacted] stated that he received no positive information from [redacted] regarding any connection between BCCI and the death [redacted] stated that the only statement that [redacted] could make regarding BCCI was that [redacted] believed that BCCI had been used in some manner during a foreign arms deal. However, [redacted] had no evidence that he could produce to verify this statement made by [redacted] b6 b7C

SA [redacted] also spoke with SA [redacted] on 9/9/92, as [redacted] was familiar with DANIEL CASOLARO and has a source who had been in contact with DANIEL CASOLARO prior to his death. SA [redacted] provided SA [redacted] with details on how the INSLAW allegations against the DOJ had come about. SA [redacted] was able to state that this matter began back in the late seventies when INSLAW was given a contract to produce computer software that would assist law enforcement nationwide. However, during this recanting of this matter from the late seventies to the present, at no time was SA [redacted] able to advise how BCCI was involved in the INSLAW case or in the death of DANIEL CASOLARO. SA [redacted] provided to SA [redacted] a booklet detailing the hearing before the Subcommittee on Economic and Commercial Law of the Committee of the Judiciary House of Representatives, regarding the Attorney General's refusal to provide congressional access to privileged INSLAW documents. The Committee's findings appeared to support the [redacted] claims that the DOJ acted illegaly in obtaining their computer software. However, there was no mention in this report of BCCI having any connection with the INSLAW case. In addition, there was no mention in this report of any investigation being conducted by DANIEL CASOLARO of the INSLAW b6 b7C case or of the BCCI scandal. Let it be noted that this hearing was conducted on 12/5/90, which was prior to the death of DANIEL CASOLARO.

Further leads will be conducted regarding this matter of BCCI and any connection with DANIEL CA[redacted]ne of the interviews to be conducted will be of [redacted] INSLAW, [redacted] DOJ illegally obtained their software program, Promis. An interview with the [redacted] is set up for 9/15/92, but during the telephone call with SA [redacted] to arrange for this interview, [redacted] advised that during his dealings with DANIEL CASOLARO, CASOLARO stated that five ranking Republicans were all behind the INSLAW case, the BCCI scandal, the Iran/Contra affair, the October Surprise scandal, and the failure of the nation's savings and loans.

2. Interview [redacted] of the Washington Post regarding their editorial which connected CASOLARO's investigation with the BCCI affair.

3. Interview SA [redacted] of the Los Angeles Division, as the editorial of [redacted] stated that [redacted] knew CASOLARO and does not believe that CASOLARO's death is a suicide.

4. Arrange for an interview of SA [redacted] Confidential Source, who is familiar with DANIEL CASOLARO, and supposedly has knowledge of the INSLAW case and the supposed connection between BCCI and the death of DANIEL CASOLARO.

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

C - All others

Claiming Non-Federal Arrests, Summonses, Recoveries or Convictions:

It is permissible to claim a local arrest, summons, recovery or conviction if the FBI significantly contributed to the accomplishment. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for the claim must accompany this report. When claiming a local recovery, enter the word "LOCAL" to the right of the amount. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IA/Ts) Used:

-Since more than one IA/T could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IA/T used must be rated.

-The IA/T used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

PURPOSE: To report results of interview with [redacted] b6 b7C [redacted] of the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

RECOMMENDATION: That no further action be taken with the IMF to pursue them to be a victim in possible collusion between the Bank of Jamaica (BOJ) and the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI).

DETAILS: On 10/22/92 [redacted] was interviewed by DOJ b6 b7C
Attorney [redacted] The purpose of the interview was to determine if the IMF would be willing to be the victim in a possible fraud against them by collusion between BCCI and the BOJ.

The IMF consists of 22 Directors from various countries representing almost all the countries in the world. The Canadian Director represents Jamaica. To obtain action on any issue the board must vote and obtain at least an 85% approval before any action can be taken. The United States has a 19% vote. The US director is a Presidential appointee who is approved by the Senate and whose salary is paid by the IMF. The US government deposits money on a quarterly basis and this money is co-mingled with other money to countries in need. Once money is given to a country there is no way to determine how much of the money was US money.

When the IMF is presented with a petition from a government requesting loans, the IMF staff travels to that country to work out a loan or a "program" as the IMF refers to a loan. For a country to receive monies from the IMF they must meet certain criteria in regards to their budget, international reserve accounts, monetary policy, etc. Once these requirements are met, the country and the IMF will draw up a Memorandum of Understanding in regards to repayment. The country will have to be able to fulfill target dates of 3-6 months in which to repay the "programs."

If a country violates IMF rules, such as fails to repay or falsifies accounts, the IMF will administer its own remedial action. The country could possibly be expelled or be cut off from receiving new loans. The country could be required to repay its "programs" immediately. According to [redacted] he could not remember the board taking action on any countries in the recent past, and he recalled there never being a problem with Jamaica. b6 b7C

When specifically advised that BCCI had given the BOJ money on short-term loans, [redacted] advised that the IMF referred to this as "window dressing." [redacted] further advised that these short-term loans could only effect the net international reserve status, however, could not effect this on any long-term situation inasmuch as the BOJ still must make payments to IMF and the short-term loans would not help BOJ's case to IMF for "programs." b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that the IMF has never taken action against a country for "window dressing" and doubted that it ever would. Such action would strike at the heart of IMF functioning which is government to government lending. The IMF does not concern itself with how the governments obtain their money. The IMF is basically only concerned with being paid back. If the IMF were not paid back for their loans, then the IMF might consider being a "victim", however, Jamaica is and always has been current of their loans. At the present time, there are 11 countries in default of their loans, and the IMF will not take any action against them. [redacted] advised that the directors consider their fund, and their employees, to be "immune" to government action and that the fund is a "non-political" institution. b6 b7C

[redacted] advised that if any action would be taken against BOJ and BCCI for any type of violation, the Department of Treasury must advise [redacted] to bring this matter to the attention of the IMF board and then a vote will take place. [redacted] advised that Treasury will most likely support the opinion that the fund will not be involved and the Treasury will not be involved in foreign policy matters. Also for any action to take place, the State Department must become involved due to the involvements of foreign governments. b6 b7C

On 8/29/91, twenty days after CASOLARO's suicide, CARLOS VELEZ, committed suicide with a .22 rifle to his left temple. Re: United States v. Clifford & Altman

Dear [redacted] b6 b7C

We are writing to advise you of certain information that recently has come to [redacted] During the week of September 14, 1992, [redacted] Clifford & Warnke law firm, tried repeatedly to contact [redacted] who was out of the office for the week. [redacted] eventually contacted [redacted] at his residence on the evening of Friday, September 18, 1992. [redacted] explained that he wanted to meet with [redacted] immediately to discuss a matter of importance to [redacted] Clifford and [redacted] agreed to meet with [redacted] the following afternoon at his residence in Maryland.

The story related by [redacted] the following day, September 19, 1992, was nothing short of extraordinary. He reported that in [redacted] he was approached by two FBI agents. According to [redacted] the agents contacted him for the purpose of gaining his assistance in what was described as an ongoing investigation into the affairs of [redacted] & Warnke. Essentially, the agents requested that [redacted] become the FBI's "eyes and ears" at the law firm. b6 b7C

In return for [redacted] cooperation, the agents reportedly promised that the pending Immigration and Naturalization Service ("INS") deportation action against him would be resolved in his favor. The FBI, he said, also agreed to expunge [redacted] criminal record and to guarantee him United States citizenship. Finally, the FBI reportedly offered [redacted] money for his services, and allegedly paid him more than $25,000.00 over the next two years. As proof of such payments, [redacted] claimed to have copies of two checks received from the federal government.

b7C

[redacted] stated that he followed the FBI's direction to release the counsel retained to represent him in the INS matter and that he proceeded pro se. He further reported that after hearing the evidence in the case, the Administrative Law Judge ruled from the bench in his favor. [redacted] said that this ruling convinced him that the FBI honored its commitment to provide a favorable outcome before the INS and that, as a result, he felt obligated to provide the assistance requested.

b6
b7C

[redacted] reported that in the latter part of January 1989, he provided the FBI with access to Clifford & Warnke's offices at 815 Connecticut Avenue, N.W. The FBI agents are said to have wired for sound the firm's two conference rooms and placed electronic listening devices in the offices of Mr. Clifford. [redacted] also claimed to have provided the FBI with access to the two automobiles used by Clifford & Warnke. The FBI, he said, placed voice-activated recording devices under the front seats of both vehicles to tape record telephone conversations of Clifford & Warnke attorneys. [redacted] further claimed that he removed the tapes at regular intervals and provided them to the Department of Justice. He reportedly retained copies of some or all of the tapes that he provided to the government.

b7C

[redacted] also asserted that on three or four occasions he provided the FBI with access to Security Storage, Inc., Clifford & Warnke's off-site document storage facility located in Washington, D.C. On each of these occasions, the FBI reportedly reviewed many of the law firm's files maintained there. In addition, he claimed to have provided the Department of Justice with copies of approximately four boxes of documents either received by the firm from BCCI or CCAH or which constitute the law firm's work product relating to its representation of these entities.

1325015-000-6834

b7C

b6
b7C

[redacted] also claimed to have met with AUSA [redacted] during the fall of 1989. He alleged that AUSA [redacted] encouraged him to surreptitiously remove documents from the law firm and provide them to the Department of Justice. For example, [redacted] stated that he provided AUSA [redacted] with a copy of the draft speech prepared for Senator Hatch by Clifford & Warnke on the same day that the materials were delivered to the Senator's office. As with the tape recordings referenced above, [redacted] claimed to have kept a copy of the documents provided to the Department of Justice.

b7C

The FBI's relationship with [redacted] is said to have continued through May 1990, when his employment at Clifford & Warnke abruptly ended after he was accused of attempting to steal money from the law firm. [redacted] believes that the FBI abandoned him when these accusations arose and claimed that that served as his motivation for bringing this information to our attention.

b6
b7C

[redacted] agreed to permit us to review the documents and tapes that he had supposedly compiled at the direction of the FBI. His promise to provide access to these materials was unconditional. In this regard, he expressly denied that he would demand or solicit any compensation from either Clifford & Warnke or Messrs. Clifford [redacted] He noted that he was currently attempting to arrange a sale of the information to the news media.

b6
b7C

On September 22, 1992, [redacted] travelled to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, accompanied by a Skadden, Arps paralegal for the purpose of meeting with [redacted] and reviewing the documents and tapes he claimed to possess. When [redacted] met with [redacted] and our paralegal on the morning of September 23, 1992, he did not have the materials in his possession. [redacted] stated that before he would provide access to the materials, he wanted a guarantee from Clifford & Warnke that it would compensate him for his efforts. He reasoned that the firm would have been required to expend considerable sums to verify his allegations and compile the evidence that he possessed. We declined to discuss with [redacted] the prospect of compensating him for providing such materials and left. We have had no further contacts with [redacted]

b6

b6
b7C

We bring this information to your attention for two reasons. First, if the government in fact engaged in any portion of the conduct alleged by [redacted] the Department of Justice should advise defense counsel immediately of the scope and duration of the covert operations conducted. The implications of such conduct to the pending federal and state criminal cases are far reaching. We also want access to any documents, recordings or other information provided to the government by [redacted] regardless of how such materials were obtained by the government. Conversely, if the allegations are untrue, we felt that the Department of Justice should be made aware of the information that [redacted] is circulating, so that it could take whatever action it deemed appropriate.

b6
b7C

With best regards.

Sincerely,

[redacted]

RE: LEAD #31; REGULATOR/AUDITOR INTERVIEWS.

The purpose of this memo is to provide an outline of investigative measures intended regarding Price Waterhouse and related auditors.

I. Analysis of potential witnesses.

In order to better select for interview auditors, directors, and other possible witnesses, an analysis is currently being conducted to determine the background of each potential witness, their role in the audits or investigation, and potential usefulness to the case. It is hoped that the reviewing agents can cull out only witnesses who have something to contribute to the investigation so that the number of interviews and travel will be limited to what is necessary. Without this review, there remain dozens of directors and auditors throughout the world who could be interviewed.

SA [redacted] has ben assigned to review the directors and SA [redacted] has been assigned to review the auditors. The agents will rely upon existing FD-302's, audit reports, and [redacted] b6 b7C b7E

II. Contact with [redacted] b6 b7C b7D

III. Conduct Interviews.

After the above steps have been completed, a number of interviews need to be conducted. Those are as follows:

1. Sources of allegations--SSA [redacted] has information regarding specific individuals who have made allegations of wrongdoing involving auditors. These names will be obtained from SSA [redacted] and the interviews conducted. b6 b7C

2. [redacted]--This individual is with Price Waterhouse U.S. and was reportedly involved in audits of BCCI Miami. Depending on the information provided, this may provide another avenue to obtain jurisdiction under U.S. law.

3. [redacted] the Cayman Islands whom [redacted] recently identified as having stated the auditors "had been taken care of" with homes and non-recourse loans.

4. Directors--after the above analysis, key directors of BCCI will be interviewed regarding their dealings with auditors. One of these should include [redacted] Grand Cayman.

5. Auditors--after the analysis by SA [redacted] key auditors will be interviewed. Several have already been interviewed and some may require re-interview due to the limited nature of initial interviews.

IV. Obtain access to Cayman records.

[redacted] b7D

It is not known if the request will be processed in time for the trip scheduled for mid-October. It is hoped that authorization to review the records will be had prior to the end of the currently scheduled trip or access to the documents will be allowed with the limited purpose of looking at the records without copying.

1325015-000-6838

V. Review VISA account records.

One of the allegations is that auditors associated with BCCI have enjoyed the use of VISA cards with BCCI making the payments regardless of type of expense, personal or business. In order to investigate these allegations, three steps will be taken.

1. Credit reports will be obtained on suspected auditors.

2. The computer system for BCCI VISA cards will be queried. This system is maintained by the liquidators.

3. The records of the Card Center for BCCI VISA will be reviewed.

Documents at Leadenhall Street

[redacted] confirmed that he had seen and reviewed, to some extent, records of ICIC Overseas and ICIC Investments that are located on the seventh floor of the BCCI office building on Leadenhall Street in London. He said that most of the records on that floor belonged to ICIC Foundation, a charitable organization, but that the offices were also used by [redacted] and that there were approximately 10 boxes of ICIC-O and ICIC-I records there. These are the only records of these two entities in London, and are the records to which the FBI was denied access.

b6
b7C

[redacted] says that the records have been secured since July, 1991, although ICIC-F representatives have had access to them. He doubts if [redacted] has gone through them. In his estimation, it would take two people three or four days to go through the records thoroughly.

b6
b7D

[redacted] said that progress is being made in getting the liquidators unilaterally to accept the existing PACE order as broad enough to cover these records so that we may review them. Once the liquidators have made that determination, which should occur within a few weeks, they will be willing to assist us in our review. [redacted] suggested that [redacted] Touche Ross are quite familiar with the records and could guide us through them. British counsel to the liquidators, [redacted] may want to be present during this process to some extent.

(We did not discuss the progress we are making in setting up an interview of [redacted] in England, but it would be convenient if the review of the records and the [redacted] interview could coincide so that we could show [redacted] documents and he could guide us to others, if he is so inclined.) b6 b7C

SPROUT N.V.

[redacted] explained that SPROUT is an investment holding company of some sort that was set up by the investment firm of Donaldson, Lufkin and Jenrette ("DLJ") in the Netherlands Antilles. Apparently, DLJ issued shares of stock in the company, including 500 shares to BCCI Overseas at $1,000 per share. These are the shares that were held in a custodial account at Citibank and were turned over to the Marshals by Citibank sua sponte earlier this year. b6 b7C

The liquidators do not know if the [redacted] shares are shares in the management company itself or in the assets that the company invested in as some kind of mutual fund. Apparently, DLJ still controls SPROUT, however, and would be able to answer this question and also tell us if the shares have any current value. b6 b7C

The liquidators suggest that we use our investigative resources to obtain all SPROUT records from DLJ in order to determine the actual value of the asset. I am asking [redacted] to obtain whatever background the liquidators have on this and to pass it on to [redacted] with a request that the FBI pursue this lead in the course of its effort to locate all BCCI assets that may be subject to forfeiture. b6 b7C

Avon

[redacted] suggested that BCCI may also have held some interest in the Avon corporation through Kemper Clearing Corp. We previously forfeited some BCCI Overseas assets at Kemper Securities, but may not have picked up assets that may be controlled by Kemper Clearing Corp. which is a related but separate entity. [redacted] will also follow up on this either by contacting Kemper Clearing directly, or by referring this to [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] said that the liquidators think that the [redacted] who owe BCCI more than one billion dollars from loans to their shipping business, have assets in the United States against which the liquidators might be able to levy. [redacted] had a list of seven bank accounts held in various corporate names at French American Bancorp and Security Pacific that may be [redacted] controlled and may contain as much as $350 million dollars. I agreed to have [redacted] pass this list to the FBI for the purpose of determining whether the accounts are indeed still in existence,

whether they contain substantial funds, and whether they are controlled by the [redacted] b6 b7C

I do not know at this point what means we would use to forfeit these funds, since they belong not to a defendant but rather to a person who owes a debt to the defendant. The debt is a BCCI asset that is forfeitable; but the debtor is not necessarily obligated to use these particular funds to satisfy that debt. Perhaps, if the FBI confirms the liquidators' suspicions, we or the liquidators could get a civil judgment against the [redacted] and levy against these accounts, which would make them subject to forfeiture. b6 b7C

1200 Reading Drive

We advised the liquidators that we are close to a resolution on this matter and will have a letter to them shortly.

Philippine Bonds

We advised the liquidators that we are not close to a resolution on this matter, but that we have it under review. They reiterated their position that neither the $33 million nor the 1/8 point fee are "assets located in the United States."

On 10/28/92 SA [redacted] met with [redacted] DOJ Trail Attorney, Asset Forfeiture Office (AFO) to discuss the status of various forfeiture matters. b6 b7C

Attached is a memo from [redacted] Trail Attorney, AFO regarding a meeting they (AFO) had with the BCCI liquidators on 10/27/92. SA [redacted] meeting with [redacted] concerned the results of the meeting of 10/27/92. b6 b7C

The following is summary of each area discussed between SA [redacted] b6 b7C

1. DOCUMENTS AT LEADENHALL STREET

The documents in question are documents which the FBI had been denied access to previously. The documents relate to ICIC (Overseas) and ICIC (Investment). These documents need to be reviewed in order to determine if there is any information which would benefit the United States government in the forfeiture of $ 97 million of ICIC (Inv) assets. The offices in which the documents were located were [redacted] b6 b7C ICIC and had significant contact with high level BCCI employees (i.e. [redacted] advised they (AFO) would like to have [redacted] DOJ, Attorney and the writer review the documents once permission has been granted.

2. SPROUT N.V.

Sprout N.V. is an investment holding company which may have assets in the name of BCCI [redacted] provided all available documents he possessed to SA [redacted] and requested that the FBI pursue the lead in the course of its effort to locate all BCCI assets that may be subject to forfeiture. b6 b7C

3. AVON

BCCI may have held some interest in the Avon corporation through Kemper Clearing Corp. and may be party to a class action lawsuit. If BCCI wins the lawsuit the proceeds would most likely be forfeitable. [redacted] will be following up on this matter. b6 b7C

4. [redacted] may owe BCCI more than $ 1 billion from loans. It is believed that the [redacted] have assets in the United States which may be forfeitable through a civil judgement. [redacted] requested help in determining whether there are assets held in seven accounts which are (or were) at the French American Bank Corp. and Security Pacific International Bank, both of which are in New York, New York. b6 b7C

5. 1200 READING DRIVE

The AFO is going advise the liquidators to sell the property.

6. PHILIPPINE BONDS

The Philippine bonds were not discussed.

7. NEW ORLEANS PROPERTY

The property in New Orleans has an offer on it to be sold. The AFO, along with the US Marshals, is handling the sale. The offer is at 100 % of the value.

RE: BCCI - NADDIS CHECKS

Dear

Regarding the previous telephone conversation on 10/28/92 with Special Agent (SA) the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) is requesting assistance from the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) in conducting NADDIS checks on claimants to the liquidation proceedings of the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI).

b6

By prior agreement with the Department of Justice (DOJ) and the liquidators for BCCI, Touche Ross, Inc. it was decided that the liquidators would furnish available information on those persons making claims against BCCI to the DOJ. DOJ would in turn determine to the extent feasible if the money claimed was derived from illegal activities. It was further decided that the FBI would conduct indices checks and that the DEA would conduct NADDIS checks on the names provided. The claimants are both individuals and companies.

Accompanying this letter is the first set of claimant names. At this point in time it is not known if the FBI will receive any additional claimant names. When the NADDIS checks [redacted] completed, or if there are any questions, contact SA [redacted] at (202) 324-9315.

10/13/92 Interviewed [redacted] ITEM INC. (Office Equipment Specialists) of Alexandria, Virginia. ITEM INC. owns and leases out the computer that contained the erased BCCI information. ITEM INC. purchased the computer two years ago from an office equipment distributor in California named ZEMAITIS. Interviewee will provide information on ZEMAITIS and a listing of all the previous clients that have used computer #90009505 who may have imputed the BCCI information. (See FD-302 dated 10/14/92)

10/15/92 Made liaison with ISA [redacted] (A-5/NVMRA), EXT. [redacted] for technical assistance in decoding/retrieving portions of erased information that was not retrieved by [redacted]

10/16/92 Received a FAX from ITEM INC. containing a chronological listing of the previous users/clients of computer #90009505 and the address of ZEMAITIS. Will obtain background information and interview previous clients.

10/30/92 Interviewed [redacted] ALTA ANALYTICS of Arlington, Virginia. ALTA ANALYTICS (AA) is 1 of 4 clients that leased computer #90009505 from ITEM INC. AA produces and sells an analytical software system called the "Netmap" system. The "Netmap" is a workstation-based, analytical software system developed to allow analysts to locate, graphically display and plot communication patterns, interactions, and networks. AA was the source of the BCCI information

Date 11/9/92

Subject: OFFICE SECURITY MATTER:
500-1ST ST., NW, WDC

At approximately 9:00a.m. on 11/7/92, unassisted entry to 500 First Street, NW, Suite 400, Washington, D.C., which is the off-site location of the "BCCI Special" (29B-WF-171994), was accomplished by six people, who subsequently identified themselves as members of "Judge Lacey's staff." The group was lead by [redacted] b6 b7C

According to [redacted], he and the others had been directed to come to the off-site by two DOJ employees: Deputy Assistant Attorney General [redacted] (position unknown). [redacted] as the person who had given him and the other members of his party the combination to the off-site's perimeter doors, in addition to the codes for controlling the alarm system. [redacted] said that only he had the codes for the alarm. b6 b7C

On 11/9/92, SSA [redacted], was notified of the security breach. SSA [redacted] said he would discuss with TSS SSA [redacted] whether a code-change is required. b6 b7C

Also on 11/9/92, it was learned from SA [redacted] (newly assigned to the "BNL Special" from the "BCCI Special") that, on 11/6/92, after being shown credentials, SA [redacted] admitted five DOJ employees to the captioned space. In a subsequent telephone conversation with ASAC DONALD W. THOMPSON, JR., SA [redacted] was instructed to give the DOJ personnel the door and alarm codes. SA [redacted] did as instructed. b6 b7C

It is therefore recommended that, other than at the captioned location, an office-wide code-change be accomplished.

Dear [redacted]

RE: BCCI commission rogatory to interview [redacted] b6 b7C in France.

As you know the U.S. has submitted a letter rogatory to the French for an interview of [redacted] b6 b7C My understanding is that he is a key witness, and that he could provide assistance to the various prosecutors handling all the different aspects of the BCCI investigation.

Given the complexity of the investigation, it is normal that the interview of [redacted] b6 b7C would be done by several prosecutors or investigators from the U.S. However, you might keep in mind the probable reluctance of the French Judge of Instruction to allow more than two or three Americans to participate. I have spoken to the French Police organization which is handling the matter, and they tell me that once they get the message from the U.S. proposing the mission they will make contact with the French Judge. The final decision is his. I only suggest to you that it is quite likely he will insist on a very reduced American delegation.

Yours truly,

Re: BANCA NAZIONALE DEL LAVORO aka BNL

On 10/28/92, [redacted] NEW YORK DEPARTMENT OF BANKING (NYDB), 630 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10036, telephone number [redacted] telephonically contacted the Washington Metropolitan Field Office of the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI) regarding captioned/referenced matters.

b6
b7C

[redacted] advised that in his capacity [redacted] from the NYDB, he is [redacted] BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL - NEW YORK AGENCY (BCCI-NY) pursuant to the closing of BCCI-NY by regulatory authorities. In this capacity, he has discovered a loan transaction that may be relevant to captioned BCCI case and involving the BANCA NAZIONALE DEL LAVORO (BNL) as reported in the media as IRAQGATE. [redacted] explained that FENTEX INTERNATIONAL CORPORATION, Empire State Building, 350 Fifth Avenue, Suite 2525, New York, NY 10116 sold hot rolled steel in 3/89 to the STATE TRADING COMPANY FOR CONSTRUCTION MATERIALS-STEEL DEPARTMENT in Baghdad, Iraq for $10 million. The loans (totaling $10 million) were at significantly higher interest rates than the going rates at that time, which is indicative of a higher risk. Further, the loans had maturity dates in 10/89 and 1/90. [redacted] has determined that the loan arrangements for Iraq were made by the London office of BCCI, but funded or "booked" at the New York agency (BCCI-NY). The funding of the loan went directly to RAFIDAIN BANK in Iraq. [redacted] advised that he is uncertain as to whether the steel purchase had anything to do with Iraq's weapons manufacturing but found that the circumstances involving BCCI and the government of Iraq was similar to the events reported in the media regarding BNL.

Re: Conference with [redacted] on 10/28/92 b6 b7C

Lead # 23 - [redacted]: METROBANK

Pursuant to referenced conference, the following is submitted regarding the status of lead #23:

Background

Lead requires a determination as to allegations that BCCI acquired stock ownership in METROBANK, Los Angeles, California, through GHAITH PHARAON acting in a nominee capacity.

Status

Per SA [redacted] memo dated 9/29/92, PHARAON acquired 5% of the METROBANK stock in 1988. The money for the purchase came from BCCI, but there is no evidence to determine that the money was not PHARAON's or that PHARAON acted as a nominee for BCCI. Contacts with DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE attorneys [redacted] has determined that there is no evidence to support the allegation. Further, FBI-Los Angeles has a pending investigation of PHARAON, BCCI and the failure of INDEPENDENCE BANK. Any information relevant to another California bank such as METROBANK and PHAROAN would logically be included in their case. b6 b7C

Recommendation

Based on the foregoing, it is recommended that Lead #23 be considered "Covered."

RE: [redacted] #74 - MONEY LAUNDERING CASE INVOLVING [redacted] b6 b7C

Per discussion on 10/28/92 between SA [redacted] b6 b7C and [redacted] regarding captioned lead, this matter should now be considered covered.

The [redacted] and the [redacted] b6 b7C b7E were contacted to determine whether the actions of [redacted] a Chicago based BCCI employee, warranted further investigation by the FBI. [redacted] on September 4, 1986, was arrested pursuant to a federal arrest warrant, but because the appeals court decided that the law [redacted] had been indicted under was unconstitutional and needed to be changed, the case was dismissed. This information indicated that there is no further FBI interest in [redacted]

Therefore, as requested by [redacted] this lead is considered covered. b6 b7C

Re: Conference with [redacted] on 10/28/92 b6 b7C

Lead # 25 - [redacted] : COMMONWEALTH BANK

Pursuant to referenced conference, the following is submitted regarding the status of lead #25:

Background

GHAITH PHARAON had ownership in COMMONWEALTH BANK, Detroit, Michigan at one time. Lead #25 requires background information regarding PHARAON's ownership, stock acquisition, whether PHARAON was a nominee for BCCI, and details regarding the subsequent sale of the stock. The lead also requires investigation regarding [redacted] who may have been involved with COMMONWEALTH BANK. b6 b7C

Status

Per SA [redacted] received a teletype response from FBI-Detroit dated 9/11/92 which reported that COMERICA, INCORPORATED took over COMMONWEALTH in 1983 and no documentation regarding PHARAON's 1975 stock purchase exists. FBI-Detroit also contacted officials from the FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION (FDIC) in an attempt to locate additional information with negative results. b6 b7C

On 11/2/92, WMFO received an airtel from Detroit dated 10/26/92 reporting the results of its investigation. In summary, a former bank examiner recalled the purchase of COMMONWEALTH stock by PHARAON from the [redacted] family in the early 1970s. [redacted] FIRST ARABIAN CORPORATION (FAC), initially interested PHARAON in the bank, and subsequently purchased the stock from PHARAON. Subsequently, FAC sold its interest in COMMONWEALTH to COAMERICA BANK in 1983. All of the stock transactions were closely monitored and approved by the FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION (FDIC). Inquiries to COAMERICA, INCORPORATED were negative regarding the stock transactions involving PHARAON. Further, no records are available to corroborate the recollection of individuals interviewed.

Recommendation

Inasmuch as PHARAON's involvement at COMMONWEALTH BANK was in the 1970s and no additional details are available, it is recommended that no additional resources be devoted to this matter and Lead #24 be considered "Covered."

Lead # 24 [redacted] MAIN BANK

Pursuant to referenced conference, the following is submitted regarding the status of lead #24:

Background

Lead requires a determination as to allegations that:

(1) BCCI may have acquired stock ownership in MAIN BANK, Houston, Texas, through GHAITH PHARAON acting in a nominee capacity;

(2) Former Texas Governor JOHN CONNALLY may have had dealings as a MAIN BANK stockholder with PHARAON and BCCI; b6 b7C

(3) [redacted] MAIN BANK stock and may have been involved with PHARAON's stock acquisition.

Status

Per SA [redacted] memo dated 10/13/92, PHARAON acquired 20% of the MAIN BANK stock in 1977. DOJ Trail Attorney [redacted] advised that PHARAON did not pledge any MAIN BANK stock to BCCI as collateral and there is no evidence to indicate that PHARAON acted as a nominee for the benefit of BCCI. Further, all records regarding MAIN BANK have been destroyed pursuant to the bank's document retention policy. b6 b7C

In addition to the foregoing, no information has been developed to indicate that [redacted] had any relationship with PHARAON or BCCI, nor that any improprieties existed involving [redacted] Owning stock in a corporation is not necessary indicative of a close business relationship with other stockholders. Also, since PHARAON was involved in the bank's ownership in 1977 and no existing and ongoing conspiracy has been established, the statute of limitations has expired thus precluding any criminal charges, whether it involved [redacted] or [redacted] alleged ownership can not be determined due to the bank destroying its records and venue for any violations would appear to be in Texas. b6 b7C

BCCI gets new acting chief after arrests

By Nick Fielding

CHRISTIAN HOLLANDER, former head of the international division of Bank of Credit and Commerce International, has taken over as acting chief executive officer following the arrest of 35 senior executives of the collapsed bank in Abu Dhabi on Sunday.

In Abu Dhabi yesterday Mr Hollander, the only senior executive of the bank not detained there, declined to comment on his status.

"That issue is in the hands of the board and the majority shareholders," he said. "I'm the only senior manager who has remained in the office over the past couple of days."

Mr Hollander joined BCCI in 1988 as head of planning and strategy. He later became regional general manager for France and Francophone Africa before taking over the international division 18 months ago.

Ten of those arrested on Sunday were released on Monday night, including Aijaz Afridi, deputy head of Far East operations, Mazhar Abbas, head of human resources, and several junior members of staff who were arrested by mistake.

Those still in detention include the following:

Swaleh Naqvi, former acting chief executive officer, and four members of his private office, Arjoman Naqvi, Mohammed Azmaruuun, Nadim Habibullah and [illegible] Askari; Zafar Iqbal, chief executive officer; Amir Siddiki, head of the American operation; Shahed Siddiqui, deputy head of Americas; Selim Siddiqui, in charge of credit, former head of internal inspection; Imtiaz Ahmed, head of South-east Asia and Far East; Iqbal Rizvi, head of Africa; Abdul Hafeez, secretary to the BCCI board; Bashir Ahmad of the computer division; Fakhar Hussein, former head of BCCI Cayman; Amir Siddiqui, joint executive in charge of credit; Ashaqur Rahman Khan, in charge of accounts; Aftab Shaikh, in charge of bad loans; Bashir Tahir, managing director of BCC Emirates; Alla Rakhia, in charge of accounts at BCC Emirates, and six others.

BEHIND THE SCENES WITH PEOPLE IN THE HEADLINES

Writer's death gets 2nd look

By Maria Puente
USA TODAY

West Virginia officials are expected to announce today the preliminary results of an autopsy on a writer who was investigating a number of government scandals.

Joseph Daniel Casolaro, 44, a Fairfax, Va., free-lance writer and author of several books, was found dead in a Martinsburg, W.Va., motel bathtub on Saturday, his wrists slashed, a broken beer bottle nearby. Police found a note reading, "I'm sorry, especially to my son."

Police initially assumed he killed himself. They did not reach the dead man's brother, Dr. Anthony Casolaro of Alexandria, Va., until Monday.

In the meantime, the body was embalmed — without the family's permission and against standard police procedures, said Ric Nawcome, spokesman for the Martinsburg police.

"We don't know why it was embalmed, we're still waiting for an answer from the coroner and the funeral home," Nawcome he said.

The handling of the body added to the suspicions. The dead man was working on a book about INSLAW Inc., a Washington-based computer software company that has fought an eight-year legal battle over allegations that Reagan administration officials stole its software and then tried to drive the firm out of business.

Former U.S. attorney general Elliot Richardson, a lawyer who represents INSLAW, called for a federal investigation of Casolaro's death. Richardson and Casolaro's relatives believe he may have been murdered because he was close to connecting the Inslaw affair with other scandals of the Reagan and Bush presidencies, including:

▶ The Iran-contra scandal of the Reagan years.

▶ The scandal over Bank of Credit and Commerce International, which supposedly laundered money for drug traffickers, terrorists and the CIA.

▶ The "October surprise" scandal, in which members of the Reagan-Bush presidential campaign are alleged to have traded arms to Iran for a promise that 52 American hostages would not be released until after the 1980 presidential election. The idea allegedly was to ensure President Jimmy Carter would not benefit politically from an "October surprise" homecoming of the hostages.

WRC-TV Washington via AP

CASOLARO: Was investigating several scandals

"Of all the people investigating this he's the first one who (told others) he was on the verge of a major breakthrough, and no sooner had he done so than he's dead," Richardson said. "It's impossible to dismiss this as coincidence."

Dr. Casolaro told The Boston Globe that his brother had warned his family before leaving for West Virginia that, if he turned up dead, not to believe it was an accident.

▶ BCCI founder, 8B

COMMERCE, INTERNATIONAL; GHAITH PHARAON, AKA DR. GHAITH PHARAON; FIF; FAG; OO: WMFO.

CAPTIONED MATTER INVOLVES INVESTIGATION OF FALSE STATEMENTS MADE OVER MORE THAN 10 YEARS TO THE BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM (BGFRS), WASHINGTON, D.C. (WDC), BY SUBJECTS TO HIDE TRUE OWNERSHIP AND CONTROL OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE AMERICAN HOLDINGS, N.V. (CCAH), NETHERLANDS, ANTILLES, AND ITS SUBSIDIARIES, BY BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (BCCI). IN 1982, BASED ON REPRESENTATIONS MADE BY CLARK MCADAMS CLIFFORD, [redacted] AND FOUR MIDDLE EASTERN "INVESTORS," THE BGFRS APPROVED CCAH AS A BANK HOLDING COMPANY TO OWN FIRST AMERICAN BANKSHARES (FABS), WDC. INVESTIGATION TO DATE INDICATES THAT THE "INVESTORS" WERE MERELY NOMINEES FOR BCCI, A LUXEMBOURG-BASED BANK WHICH WAS UNACCEPTABLE TO THE BGFRS FOR ANY OWNERSHIP OR CONTROL OF ANY AMERICAN BANK. YEARLY CCAH FILINGS TO BGFRS SINCE 1982 HAVE DENIED EXISTENCE OF ANY BCCI ROLE IN ITS OPERATIONS. SUBSEQUENTLY, BCCI HAS ALLEGEDLY USED SIMILAR NOMINEE TRANSACTIONS TO OBTAIN CONTROL OF BANKS IN GEORGIA AND CALIFORNIA.

b6

ON 2/7/91, WMFO INITIATED A FINANCIAL INSTITUTION FRAUD

INVESTIGATION CONCERNING CAPTIONED MATTER BASED ON A CRIMINAL REFERRAL FROM THE BGFRS, ALLEGING THAT CLIFFORD AND [redacted] HAD MADE FALSE AND FRAUDULENT STATEMENTS CONCERNING BCCI'S OWNERSHIP AND CONTROL OF CCAH, THE PARENT-HOLDING COMPANY OF FABS WHICH OWNS FIRST AMERICAN BANK, WDC. CLIFFORD, A NOTED WASHINGTON ATTORNEY AND FORMER SECRETARY OF DEFENSE, IS THE CHAIRMAN OF FABS AND HIS LAW PARTNER, [redacted] CLIFFORD AND [redacted] ALSO SERVE ON THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF CCAH. FABS IS THE LARGEST BANK-HOLDING COMPANY IN THE WDC AREA WITH $11.5 BILLION IN ASSETS. IN THE 1982 TAKEOVER OF FINANCIAL GENERAL BANKSHARES (FGB), THE PREDECESSOR TO FABS, BY A GROUP OF ARAB INVESTORS, CLIFFORD AND [redacted] ASSERTED THAT BCCI HAD NO ROLE IN THE TAKEOVER OTHER THAN THAT OF AN INVESTMENT ADVISOR. THE BGFRS APPROVED THE TAKEOVER OF FGB BASED ON THE REPRESENTATION THAT BCCI WOULD HAVE NO INVOLVEMENT WITH THE MANAGEMENT OR OTHER AFFAIRS OF FGB, NOW KNOWN AS FABS. THE BGFRS NOW ALLEGES THAT FABS MADE FALSE STATEMENTS IN REGULATORY REPORTS AND FILINGS CONCERNING THE ROLE OF BCCI IN THE 1982 TAKEOVER AND SUBSEQUENT OWNERSHIP OF FABS.

b6

ON 5/21/91, WMFO RECEIVED THREE ADDITIONAL CRIMINAL REFERRALS FROM THE BGFRS CONCERNING BCCI AND DR. GHAITH

PHARAON WHICH ALLEGGGED THAT PHARAON ACTED AS NOMINEE FOR BCCI IN THE PURCHASE OF TWO BANKS IN GEORGIA AND CALIFORNIA IN 1978 AND 1984, BEING THE NATIONAL BANK OF GEORGIA (NOW THE FIRST AMERICAN BANK OF GEORGIA), ATLANTA, GEORGIA, AND THE INDEPENDENCE BANK, ENCINO, CALIFORNIA. THE REFERRALS FURTHER ALLEGE THAT FALSE STATEMENTS WERE MADE TO THE BGFRS CONCERNING THE OWNERSHIP AND CONTROL OF THESE TWO BANKS.

SHEIK ZAYED, THE RULER OF ABU DHABI AND PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED ARAB EMIRATES, WAS A MAJOR INVESTOR IN BCCI IN THE 1970'S AND ACQUIRED CONTROL OF BCCI IN 1990. ON 7/5/91, AS A RESULT OF THE ALLEGED FRAUDULENT CONDUCT BY BCCI, BANK REGULATORS IN BRITAIN, LUXEMBOURG, THE UNITED STATES, SWITZERLAND, SPAIN, FRANCE, AND THE CAYMAN ISLANDS CLOSED DOWN BRANCHES OF BCCI WITHIN THEIR RESPECTIVE JURISDICTIONS. THE BCCI MATTER HAS RECENTLY RECEIVED EXTENSIVE MEDIA COVERAGE ALLEGING BCCI'S CONNECTIONS WITH NUMEROUS INTERNATIONAL ILLEGAL ACTIVITIES. MEDIA REPORTS ALSO INDICATE POSSIBLE RELATED CONGRESSIONAL HEARINGS IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

IN ADDITION TO THE SUBJECTS AND INDIVIDUALS NAMED ABOVE, THE FOLLOWING NAMES ARE BEING PROVIDED IN THAT THESE INDIVIDUALS

RELATE TO THIS MATTER AND SHOULD BE INCLUDED IN INDICES SEARCHES:

AS FBIHQ IS AWARE, LONDON IS ONE OF THE MAJOR FINANCIAL CENTERS OF THE WORLD. WITH THE ADVENT OF ELECTRONIC BANKING AND THE RESULTING EASE WITH WHICH HUGE AMOUNTS OF MONEY ARE MOVED AROUND THE WORLD. IT IS APPARENT THAT THE NUMBER AND THE SIGNIFICANCE OF FBI WHITE COLLAR CRIME (WCC) CASES WHICH HAVE A

SEARCHED ___ INDEXED ___
SERIALIZED SU FILED SU
JUL 31 1991
FBI - WASH. METRO FIELD OFFICE

NEXUS IN LONDON, WILL CONTINUE TO INCREASE DRAMATICALLY. LEGAT, LONDON, HAS RECOGNIZED THAT AND HAS TAKEN A VERY PROACTIVE APPROACH TO SUPPORTING THE BUREAU'S WCC PROGRAM IN THIS TERRITORY, AS EVIDENCED BY LEGAT'S RECOMMENDATION THAT AN FBI OFFICIAL FROM THE WCC SECTION SPEND A 30-DAY TDY AT [redacted] LONDON, TO ASSESS NOT ONLY THEIR METHODOLOGY FOR ATTACKING SERIOUS FRAUD CASES, BUT ALSO THE EXTENT TO WHICH IT WOULD BE ADVISABLE TO ASSIGN AN FBI AGENT TO [redacted] ON AN EXTENDED TDY BASIS TO SUPPORT PURELY WCC MATTERS IN LONDON. ASSISTANT SECTION CHIEF (ASC) [redacted] COMPLETED THAT 30-DAY TDY ON JULY 17, 1991, AND APPEARS TO BE IN FULL AGREEMENT THAT SUCH AN ASSIGNMENT WOULD BE ADVANTAGEOUS IN SUPPORTING THE FBI'S WCC PROGRAM.

b6
b7D

THE PURPOSE OF THIS COMMUNICATION IS TO ADVISE FBIHQ THAT INVESTIGATIVE REQUIREMENTS FOLLOWING THE RECENT FAILURE OF THE BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (BCCI) ARE SO SIGNIFICANT THAT, IN ORDER TO ADEQUATELY COORDINATE AND ADDRESS INVESTIGATIVE LEADS BETWEEN THE U.S. AND UK, CERTAIN STEPS SHOULD BE TAKEN BY FBIHQ. LEGAT, LONDON, HAS ALREADY COORDINATED TRAVEL TO LONDON FOR SPECIAL AGENTS FROM WMFO INVESTIGATING THE CLARK

PAGE THREE LON 29B-WF-171994 UNCLAS

CLIFFORD ASPECT OF THE BCCI CASE. THEY WERE PUT IN CONTACT WITH [redacted] THE BANK OF ENGLAND, [redacted] b6 b7C b7D APPOINTED FOR BCCI, AND PRICE WATERHOUSE. ADDITIONALLY, SEVERAL INTERVIEWS OF FORMER BCCI EMPLOYEES WERE CONDUCTED. IN THE MEANTIME, LEGAT, LONDON, HAS BEEN CONTACTED BY THE MIAMI DIVISION, THE TAMPA DIVISION, AND THE ATLANTA DIVISION CONCERNING VARIOUS ASPECTS OF THE BCCI CASE. IT HAS ALSO COME TO OUR ATTENTION THAT NEW YORK STATE AUTHORITIES UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE MANHATTAN DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE ARE MAKING INQUIRIES IN THE UK. IT IS REASONABLE TO ASSUME THAT SEVERAL OTHER FBI DIVISIONS, AS WELL AS VARIOUS OTHER INVESTIGATIVE AGENCIES, WILL BE ATTEMPTING TO CONDUCT INVESTIGATIONS WITHIN THE UK IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

THE SITUATION, AS IT EXISTS TODAY, REQUIRES THAT FBIHQ TAKE DECISIVE ACTION TO ENSURE THAT THE INVESTIGATIONS CONDUCTED CONCERNING THE FAILURE OF BCCI AND RELATED CASES ARE COORDINATED IN THE MOST EFFICIENT MANNER POSSIBLE. THE SITUATION ALSO OFFERS SOME EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE FBI. LEGAT, LONDON, RECOMMENDS THAT THE FOLLOWING ACTIONS BE CONSIDERED BY THE WCC

SECTION, FBIHQ:

(1) UTILIZE SOME TIME DURING THE ALREADY-SCHEDULED WCC SEMINAR AUGUST 26 - 30, TO BRING TOGETHER SUPERVISORY PERSONNEL FROM THOSE OFFICES WHO HAVE AN IDENTIFIED INTEREST IN THE BCCI FAILURE TO DISCUSS INVESTIGATIVE STRATEGIES INVOLVING LONDON. THOSE DISCUSSIONS NEED NOT NECESSARILY BE PART OF THE OVERALL AGENDA, BUT COULD TAKE THE FORM OF A SIDE BAR MEETING.

(2) LEGAT, LONDON, WILL BE REPRESENTED AT THE SEMINAR, AS WELL AS THE METROPOLITAN POLICE AND THE [redacted] IT IS RECOMMENDED THAT FBIHQ APPROVE THE ATTENDANCE OF A SENIOR REPRESENTATIVE FROM THE [redacted], LONDON, TO ATTEND THE SEMINAR. b7D

(3) SERIOUS CONSIDERATION SHOULD BE GIVEN AT THIS TIME TO ASSIGNING, ON AN EXTENDED TDY BASIS, AN EXPERIENCED FINANCIAL CRIMES AGENT TO THE [redacted] THAT AGENT WOULD RECEIVE ADMINISTRATIVE b7D AND COMMUNICATIONS SUPPORT FROM LEGAT, LONDON, AND WOULD NOMINALLY FALL UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF LEGAT, LONDON, AS FAR AS THE UNITED STATES EMBASSY, LONDON, AND UK AUTHORITIES ARE CONCERNED. IN REALITY, HE WOULD WORK EXCLUSIVELY ON MATTERS RELATING TO THE BCCI INVESTIGATION.

LEGAT, LONDON, WOULD LIKE TO EMPHASIZE THE OPPORTUNITY THAT

WE HAVE AT THIS TIME TO DEMONSTRATE OUR COMPETENCE AND

PROFESSIONALISM IN THE WCC AREA. [redacted] HAS ALREADY ASSIGNED ITS ASSISTANT DIRECTOR, [redacted], TO HEAD UP THE BCCI INVESTIGATION. THEY HAVE CURRENTLY ALLOCATED THREE ATTORNEYS, 14 POLICE OFFICERS, AND A SUPPORTING STAFF OF ACCOUNTANTS TO ADDRESS THE BCCI FAILURE. THAT FAILURE WILL HAVE PROFOUND AFFECTS ON THE BANK OF ENGLAND AND THE BANKING INDUSTRY IN GENERAL. AT THIS POINT, THE FBI HAS AN OPPORTUNITY TO ACT AT THE OUTSET OF THE INVESTIGATION TO ENSURE A THOROUGH AND PROFESSIONAL APPROACH. THE CREATION OF A TASK FORCE SUPPORTED BY A TDY AGENT AT [redacted] TO COORDINATE OUR INTERESTS IN THE UK ON A FULL-TIME BASIS WOULD BE AN EXCELLENT APPROACH. THE ALTERNATIVE APPEARS TO BE AN ENDLESS PROCESSION OF INVESTIGATIVE AGENTS, AUSAS, AND VARIOUS STATE AND LOCAL INVESTIGATORS CAUSING HAVOC AND DUPLICATING EFFORTS OF [redacted] INVESTIGATIVE PERSONNEL IN LONDON.

b6
b7D

LEGAT, LONDON, WOULD WELCOME THE WCC SECTION'S VIEWS ON THESE PROPOSALS, AS WELL AS ANY OTHER SUGGESTIONS FOR ACTIONS WHICH COULD BE TAKEN IN LONDON TO FACILITATE AND COORDINATE THIS INVESTIGATION.

WHEN THE VESSEL FAILED TO ARRIVE IN HOUSTON, CPC CONTACTED THEIR ATTORNEYS, SHOOK, HARDY, AND BACON OF KANSAS CITY, MO, WHO BEGAN TO MAKE INQUIRIES. ON JULY 30, 1991, NEW ORLEANS INDICES WERE CHECKED FOR ANY REFERENCE ON THE BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (BCCI), THE RESULTS OF WHICH DISCLOSED BCCI WAS INDEXED TO NO FILE 29A-4802 CAPTIONED "[redacted] CUSTOMER, GUARANTEE BANK AND TRUST, ZACHARY, LOUISIANA; BFLE (A); OO: NEW ORLEANS." b6 b7C

A REVIEW OF THIS FILE DISCLOSED BCCI WAS MENTIONED IN A NEWSPAPER ARTICLE APPEARING IN THE "STATE-TIMES" OF BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA, ON OCTOBER 12, 1988. THE ARTICLE WAS CARRIED BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS AS ORIGINATING IN TAMPA, FLORIDA. IN SUMMARY, THIS ARTICLE DISCLOSED FEDERAL AGENTS SMASHED A $32 MILLION GLOBAL MONEY-LAUNDERING RING, WHICH ROUTED DRUG PROFITS THROUGH A BANK TO COLOMBIAN COCAINE CARTELS. CHARGES RESULTED FROM A TWO-YEAR INVESTIGATION DUBBED "OPERATION [redacted]" NAMED AMONG THE DEFENDANTS WERE BCCI HOLDINGS, WHICH IS A LUXEMBOURG - BASED BANK HOLDING COMPANY WITH BRANCHES IN 72 COUNTRIES, ALONG WITH NINE BANK OFFICIALS. NAMED ALONG WITH BCCI HOLDINGS WERE TWO b7E

SUBSIDIARIES: BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL, S.A., WITH OPERATIONS IN THE UNITED STATES AND LONDON; AND BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL LTD. ACCORDING TO THIS ARTICLE, INDICTMENTS WERE RETURNED IN TAMPA, NEW YORK, CHICAGO, DETROIT, PHILADELPHIA AND HOUSTON. WARRANTS WERE ISSUED IN MIAMI, LOS ANGELES, LONDON AND PARIS.

A REVIEW OF NO FILE 29A-4802 DISCLOSED SUBJECT [redacted] [redacted] WAS THE SUBJECT OF NUMEROUS INSURANCE FRAUD-RELATED INVESTIGATIONS IN THE NEW ORLEANS DIVISION. ON ONE OCCASION, [redacted] AND ASSOCIATES ATTEMPTED TO OBTAIN FUNDS, BELIEVING THESE FUNDS WERE LAUNDERED DRUG PROFITS. THESE FUNDS WERE NECESSARY TO SATISFY THE STATUTORY CAPITAL REQUIREMENT NECESSARY TO FORM THEIR INSURANCE COMPANY. b6 b7C

DURING THE INVESTIGATION OF THIS SCHEME, IT WAS DISCOVERED THAT [redacted] AND ASSOCIATES PAID ONE [redacted] $35,000 AS AN ADVANCED FEE FOR A LOAN. THE PROCEEDS OF THIS LOAN WERE TO BE USED TO FUND THEIR INSURANCE COMPANY. IT IS TO BE NOTED THAT SUBSEQUENTLY, [redacted] WAS INDICTED FOR [redacted] [redacted] b6 b7C

DURING AN INTERVIEW OF AN INDIVIDUAL IDENTIFIED AS [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] WHO IS AN ASSOCIATE OF [redacted] AND WHO WAS b6 b7C INVOLVED WITH [redacted] IN LATER INSURANCE-RELATED SCHEMES, [redacted] IS BELIEVED TO HAVE MENTIONED THE BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL-BCCI. THERE ARE NO OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES WHICH EXPLAIN [redacted] OR [redacted] ASSOCIATION WITH BCCI. BECAUSE OF [redacted] MENTIONING BCCI, A COPY OF THIS AFORESAID NEWSPAPER ARTICLE WAS PLACED IN NO FILE 29A-4802 AND INDEXED.

NEW ORLEANS INDICES ALSO DISCLOSED THAT GHAITH R. PHARAON
WAS INDEXED TO NO FILE 196B-20 CAPTIONED [redacted] b6 b7C
[redacted] A AND M GLASS COMPANY,
BEMM OIL AND GAS COMPANY, BRIAN INVESTMENTS, CONDO CORPORATION, CONDOMINIUMS INCORPORATED, COURTNEY CORPORATION, EVANS REALTY, MASSACHUSETTS PLAZA INCORPORATED, MONY OIL AND GAS, ONE WALNUT PLAZA, QUAD MINERALS, SYNDICATED MINERAL INVESTMENTS, NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA; ITSP; MF; FBW; OO: NEW ORLEANS."

A REVIEW OF THIS FILE DISCLOSED PHARAON WAS MENTIONED IN A FRONT PAGE NEWSPAPER ARTICLE APPEARING IN THE "TIMES-PICAYUNE" OF NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA ON JANUARY 3, 1978. IN SUMMARY THIS ARTICLE DISCLOSED THAT SEVERAL NEW ORLEANS

INVESTORS PURCHASED A $10 MILLION TRACT OF LAND NEAR LAKE MAUREPAS (BETWEEN NEW ORLEANS AND BATON ROUGE) WITH THE AID OF A SAUDI ARABIAN MULTI-MILLIONAIRE NAMED GHAITH R. PHARAON. PHARAON WAS IDENTIFIED AS BEING THE HEAD OF IMAN INVESTMENTS, AN INTERNATIONAL COMPANY BASED IN THE NETHERLAND ANTILLES FOR TAX PURPOSES. PHARAON WAS FURTHER IDENTIFIED AS BEING IN THE PROCESS OF BUYING CONTROLLING INTEREST IN THE NATIONAL BANK OF GEORGIA, BERT LANCES' BANK.

THE NEW ORLEANS INVESTORS WERE OPERATING UNDER THE NAME ASCANTIA INC. AND INCLUDED TWO LOCAL ATTORNEY'S MICHAEL H. ELLIS AND JULIAN MURRAY JR., AND AN UNNAMED LOCAL DENTIST. MURRAY IS CREDITED WITH ARRANGING THE LOAN FROM IMAN INVESTMENTS THROUGH AN UNIDENTIFIED FRIEND WHO WAS A LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE FOR PHARAON. THE ASCANTIA INVESTORS CLAIMED THAT THEIR MAIN INTEREST IN THE LAND WAS FOR MINERAL EXPLORATION. THE ARTICLE REVEALED THAT NEW ORLEANS DEVELOPER SAM J. RECILE WAS THE PRESIDENT AND ON THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS FOR ASCANTIA INC., ALTHOUGH HE COULD NOT BE REACHED FOR COMMENT ON HIS CONNECTION WITH ASCANTIA INC.

A REVIEW OF NO FILE 1963-20 DISCLOSED THAT SUBJECTS [redacted] b6 b7C

[redacted] SET UP

b6
b7C

VARIOUS CORPORATIONS WITH THE PURPOSE TO EXPLORE AND DRILL FOR OIL. INVESTORS WERE SOUGHT OUT TO BUY LIMITED PARTNERSHIP INTEREST IN THESE WELLS. ALLEGEDLY MOST OF THE WELLS WERE NEVER DRILLED AND EVEN THE ONES THAT WERE, NEVER PRODUCED A SIGNIFICANT AMOUNT OF OIL. THE CORPORATIONS APPARENTLY TOOK IN MORE MONEY THAN WAS NECESSARY TO DRILL THE NUMBER OF WELLS THAT THEY DRILLED AND THIS MONEY WAS SHIFTED AROUND THE VARIOUS COMPANIES AND SIPHONED OUT BY THE SUBJECTS. [redacted] WAS THE MAIN FORCE BEHIND THIS SCHEME AND WAS THE SUBJECT OF NUMEROUS OTHER INVESTIGATIONS IN THE NEW ORLEANS DIVISION. PROSECUTION WAS DECLINED IN THIS MATTER BY THE UNITED STATES ATTORNEY'S OFFICE, EASTERN DISTRICT OF LOUISIANA ON DECEMBER 2, 1980. PROSECUTION WAS DECLINED BECAUSE IT WAS FELT THE FRAUD WOULD BE DIFFICULT TO PROVE BECAUSE OF THE INTRICACIES OF THE TRANSACTIONS AND THE FACT THAT INVESTING IN OIL WELLS IS TO BEGIN WITH VERY RISKY AND SPECULATIVE.

BECAUSE OF RECILE BEING MENTIONED IN THE NEWSPAPER

RE BRUSSELS TELETYPE DATED 8/2/91.

REFERENCED BRUSSELS TELETYPE SET FORTH REQUEST RECEIVED DIRECTLY BY THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE (DOJ) OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS (OIA) CONCERNING THIS MATTER.

THE PARTICULARS OF THIS REQUEST WERE SUBMITTED TO THE UNITED STATES EMBASSY IN LUXEMBOURG FOR COORDINATION, AND THE CABLE LEGAT SUBMITTED TO THAT EFFECT PROMPTED THE UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR TO LUXEMBOURG TO CONTACT LEGAT ON AUGUST 2, 1991, AND TO ADVISE THAT HE HAD HAD A DISCUSSION ON JULY 29, 1991, WITH THE LUXEMBOURG MONETARY INSTITUTE (LMI) WHICH IS THE STRUCTURE IN LUXEMBOURG WHICH LICENSES BANKS.

THE AMBASSADOR ADVISED THAT THE BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (BCCI) IS PRESENTLY SHUT DOWN IN LUXEMBOURG. HE ALSO STATED THAT BCCI LUXEMBOURG WAS, IN FACT, TWO ENTITIES, ONE A HOLDING COMPANY AND THE SECOND A FUNCTIONING BANK.

THE HOLDING COMPANY WAS PRESUMABLY THE ENTITY WHICH HELD THE CHARTER FOR THE BRANCHES IN OTHER COUNTRIES. IT AND THE BCCI

BRANCH IN LUXEMBOURG EMPLOYED AROUND EIGHTY (80) PEOPLE COMPARED TO THE "SEVERAL THOUSAND" EMPLOYED IN BCCI LONDON.

Predication

The captioned investigation was begun by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) on February 7, 1991, predicated on information received from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (BGFRS) in a written, criminal referral, dated January 22, 1991, alleging that false and fraudulent statements were made by the captioned subjects to the BGFRS with regard to the true ownership and control--by the BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL, S.A. (BCCI)--of the subject entity CREDIT AND COMMERCE AMERICAN HOLDINGS, N.V. (BCCI), Netherlands, Antilles. CCAH is a bank-holding company which owns FIRST AMERICAN BANKSHARES (FABS), Washington, D.C.(WDC), which, itself, owns FIRST AMERICAN BANKs (FABs) in WDC and five states,

Three subsequent BGFRS referrals, each dated May 7, 1991, cited similar false statements, in addition to violations of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, by GHAITH PHARAON and BCCI with regard to PHARAON's being a nominee in BCCI's acquisition and control of the NATIONAL BANK OF GEORGIA (NBG) from 1978 to 1987, and of the INDEPENDENCE BANK Encino, California, beginning in 1984.

The central allegations in the aforementioned BGFRS referrals were: (1) that the captioned subjects [redacted] and GHAITH R. PHARAON were merely nominees for BCCI when they acquired interests in CCAH or, in PHARAON's case, NBG and INDEPENDENCE BANK, using funds which came directly from BCCI and which BCCI carried on its books as loans, collateralized by shares in the acquired entities; (2) that the subjects falsely told the BGFRS that BCCI had, and would have, no part in the acquiring and subsequent control of the various entities; and (3) that BCCI's actual ownership and control of the entities violated the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended.

Investigation to date has included: contacts with various investigatory and regulatory entities, and with a confidential source; collection and review of documents; and identification and interviews of potential witnesses.

New York County District Attorney's Office

The initial contacts in this investigation were with the New York County District Attorney's Office (NYCDAO), New York, New York, and the BGFRS, WDC. In the former, representatives of the NYCDAO met with representatives of the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) at the U.S. Attorney's Office (USAO), WDC, on 2/7/91. The NYCDAO representatives told how their office had been investigating BCCI under the state's "enterprise corruption" statute for several years, and had received, from attorneys representing the "77.4% owners of BCCI," a favorable response to a plea offer, suggesting, inter alia, "a global settlement" of all the pending matters against BCCI, both state and federal. The NYCDAO representatives said that, due to grand jury secrecy requirements, they could not disclose the existence or nature of any evidence acquired during their investigation, unless the DOJ became a party to that New York County grand jury in a joint effort with the NYCDAO, or received leave of the New York courts, as had the BGFRS, they said. The DOJ representatives elected not to join in the NYCDAO's grand jury or "global settlement."

BGFRS

The initial contact with the BGFRS was with its Division of Banking Supervision and Regulation. In that meeting, the allegations contained in the January 22, 1991 criminal referral were further explained. Specifically, it was reported that BCCI had recently disclosed it had originally acquired ownership of FABS through a series of non-performing, non-recourse "loans" to the "investors" who bought FABS' predecessor, FINANCIAL GENERAL BANKSHARES (FGB), then traded their shares of FGB for shares of CCAH. Captioned subjects CLARK MCADAMS CLIFFORD and [redacted] also became minor shareholders through similar, non-recourse "loans" in what appeared to the BGFRS to have been an insider stock deal, through which CLIFFORD and [redacted] realized profits of about $6 million and $3 million, respectively. b6 b7C

The BGFRS disclosed that, in response to its civil subpoena, it had received all CCAH documents supposedly in the U.S., and that, although all BCCI loan documents had been taken to Abu Dhabi, the BGFRS was negotiating with BCCI for their return. BCCI also was reported to be on the verge of agreeing to cease and desist from doing business in the U.S., and to put together a divestiture plan.

Between 4/24/91 and 5/6/91, pursuant to [redacted] grand jury subpoenas, the BGFRS relinquished custody of [redacted] FBI and the USAO, WDC, for copying and return. b3

CLARK MCADAMS CLIFFORD

On 4/18/91, the existence of [redacted] (Pakistani national; date of birth [redacted] in Bhopal, India) as a potential witness, came to the attention of the USAO, WDC, through the USCS, Tampa, and USAO, Tampa. Essentially, it was predicted that [redacted] would be able to furnish information about the purchase of FGB by BCCI; how the financing was structured to allow BCCI a presence in the U.S.; discussions between ABEDI, [redacted] and CLARK CLIFFORD. b6 b7C

Between 4/18/91 and 7/10/91, efforts were made by the FBI, the USAO, and the U.S. Marshal's Service (USMS), to arrange an interview of [redacted]. Primarily, these efforts were made through contacts with [redacted] representative, [redacted] (W/M; dob [redacted]; U.S. citizen), who was interviewed at the USAO, WDC on 6/27/91 (see FD-302). Finally, it was arranged that, on 7/10/91, [redacted] would meet with FBI and DOJ representatives in London, England. b6 b7C

In the 7/10-11/91 interview (see FD-302) [redacted] furnished information about: his service as the [redacted] SHEIK ZAYED's Department of Private Affairs (DPA) along with [redacted] the relationship between SHEIK ZAYED and BCCI; the use of [redacted] of SHEIK ZAYED [redacted] as the nominee for BCCI's purchases of FGB shares; how CLIFFORD and [redacted] Office of Management and Budget during the CARTER administration, and [redacted] National Bank of Georgia [NBG]) came to Abu Dhabi in 1978 to begin preparing [redacted] to give false testimony in a civil proceeding in U.S. District Court, WDC, regarding the efforts of FGB's owners to block the takeover; how [redacted] after another session of rehearsals in WDC by [redacted], perjured himself in the WDC deposition. b6 b7C

Attempts continue to get [redacted] to come to the U.S. to testify. b6 b7C

[redacted] b6 b7C

ON 5/9/91, [redacted], a former BCCI official convicted in the Middle District of Florida in 1990 of [redacted] was interviewed at the Hernando County (Florida) Jail by agents of the FBI, U.S. Customs Service (USCS) and the [redacted], accompanied by representatives of the USAO and DOJ, WDC. (By prior agreement with the USCS, with whom [redacted] had been cooperating, the reporting of this interview was to be done by the USCS as part its overall reporting of its ongoing interview of [redacted]. At this date, the USCS has not completed its report. An outline [q.v.] of the FBI agents' recollections of [redacted] information has been b6 b7C b7E provided.)

[redacted] furnished information about: BCCI "conferences", otherwise known as "jamborees"; the placement of BCCI employees in FAB and NBG, particularly [redacted] and [redacted], and salary augmentations provided for them by BCCI; observations of CLIFFORD and [redacted] with AGHA HASAN ABEDI and [redacted]; gifts ABEDI bestowed; BCCI's involvement with FAB in joint-marketing ventures; [redacted] $50 million "loan" to CCAH; the [redacted] family's ties to BCCI; payoffs in Ecuador and Peru. b6 b7C

USCS/[redacted] INQUIRIES b7E

While in Tampa, Florida on 5/8-9/91, contact was established with investigators from both the USCS and the [redacted] regarding evidence gathered in their joint inquiry known as [redacted]: the money-laundering case in which BCCI was prosecuted in the Middle District of Florida. Documents and other evidence collected during that investigation were made available for review, and copies of some documents were made. Disclosed was the existence of tape recorded interviews of former BCCI officials [redacted] formerly an investigator for a U.S. Senate subcommittee. It was agreed that custody of the tapes and draft transcripts would be relinquished to the FBI. This transfer of custody was accomplished on 6/21/91. b6 b7C b6 b7C b7E

[redacted]

On 5/8/91, the USCS/[redacted] contact disclosed the existence of a possible witness, [redacted] (W/M; dob [redacted] in Lebanon; naturalized U.S. citizen), and provided a copy of a "Memorandum of Interview," dated 4/14/89, done following their interview of him. b6 b7C b7E

On 6/3/91, after several attempts, the FBI was able to contact [redacted]. After adopting the contents of the USCS/[redacted] memorandum, he provided some additional information (see FD-302). In summary, the information provided by [redacted] was: that he worked as the [redacted] at BCCI/NY from 4/86-10/86, and left when he realized BCCI was involved in laundering money; that from discussions in the office, from references by ABEDI and others to FAB, NBG and Independence Bank as "our" banks, and from observing BCCI employees being sent to First American and Independence banks as senior officers, he deemed it "general knowledge" that BCCI owned FAB, NBG and Independence Bank; that he was interviewed for his BCCI job by ABEDI and [redacted]-who later became [redacted] Independence Bank; that, in 4/86 or 5/86, he attended a 2-day conference in Miami on ways to enlarge BCCI's deposit base, chaired by [redacted] where [redacted] and b6 b7C b7E

[redacted] were also in attendance and where the deposits BCCI was seeking were termed "black market money."

[redacted]

On 5/10/91 (see FD-302), [redacted] (W/M; dob [redacted] at Marion, Illinois; SSAN [redacted] was interviewed. [redacted] a certified public accountant, formerly was the [redacted] Board of Directors of BancOhio, prior to 4/14/82, when he officially became [redacted] FGB.

Information furnished by [redacted] during his interview included: how he was interviewed for the FGB position by CLIFFORD, [redacted] (in CLIFFORD's office); how he was not consulted on the hiring of BCCI employees for FABS subsidiaries; his recollections of attending one of BCCI's annual conferences; how his efforts to establish a strong, in-house audit staff were stymied by CLIFFORD's and [redacted] refusal to back up the auditor in disputes with subsidiary banks; how he believed BCCI had found a way--through nominees--to "park" FABS until such time as BCCI could openly own it.

CONFIDENTIAL SOURCE

Beginning on 5/10/91, a still-ongoig series of contacts was begun with a Confidential Source (CS-1) of the FBI. To date, CS-1 has provided information and a number of documents (copies provided to USAO, WDC) relating to [redacted] The information was: that [redacted]

the USAO, WDC. As a BCCI officer before he was transferred to FAB/NY in 7/83, as [redacted] b6
BCCI's [redacted] New York, beginning in or about b7C
1/80. In summary (see FD-302), the information [redacted] provided was: that one of his role at BCCI/NY was look at expansion possibilities for BCCI in Canada and Latin America; that [redacted] involved with the business affairs of GHAITH PHARAON, worked in but was not part of BCCI/NY; that [redacted], like [redacted], worked from BCCI's NY office, traveling frequently to Latin America;

That [redacted] first met CLIFFORD and [redacted] when they and b6 a couple other attorneys from the U.S. were meeting with ABEDI b7C and [redacted] at a hotel in London, and the topic was legal issues involved in the FGB takeover; that [redacted] assisted, as [redacted]" in the search for office space for the new FAB/NY; that he believed the relationship between BCCI and FAB existed "at the top," i.e., between CLIFFORD, [redacted] and ABEDI, and "in the future," due to the existence of common shareholders; that he heard rumors in BCCI that the shareholders of both BCCI and FAB were nominees;

That [redacted] BCCI's behalf to purchase some b6 branches of Bankers Trust, and continued to do so on FAB/NY's b7C behalf, while still a BCCI employee; that [redacted] offered him the position at FAB/NY, and that ABEDI, [redacted] had not ordered, nor had they encouraged him to take it; that leaving BCCI for FAB/NY was not "going out of the family";

That joint-marketing efforts between FAB/NY and BCCI were discussed at "coordinating committee" meetings; that he received certain financial benefits from BCCI during his tenure at FAB/NY, e.g., two payments of $20,000 each, and two paid trips to Pakistan for himself and his family; that ABEDI's interviews of and comments about prospective FAB/NY management employees could be construed as giving approval; that although ABEDI and [redacted] were monitoring progress at FAB/NY, [redacted] did not have the impression they were giving directions, but did have the impression CLIFFORD (e.g.) was not adverse to their suggestions; that it was rare that BCCI employees left BCCI to work for unrelated entities; that the coordinating committee, established by BCCI, had as a goal to take advantage of FAB as a resource in the U.S.; that the committee did discuss some joint-marketing efforts, but [redacted] denied going with BCCI employees on such quests.

On 8/1/91, [redacted] was again interviewed (see FD-302), b6 based on new background information relating to what he had said b7C during the earlier sessions. On this occasion, he said: that he had attended a late-1985 meeting in Miami, Florida, where ABEDI, [redacted], CLIFFORD and [redacted] were present, but denied any recollection of ABEDI ordering the purchase of NBG by FABS, and that [redacted] was to go to NBG; that he was told in London in 1985

by ABEDI and [redacted] that he was to go to NBG to replace [redacted] who was returning to BCCI;

That after becoming an FAB/NY employee in 1983, he made 4 or 5 trips to BCCI/London during a six-month period, when [redacted] would call him to a meeting; that he went on these trips because he thought it was both all right and required; that about 40% of his trips to BCCI while employed by FAB/NY were paid for by BCCI; that his transfer to FAB/NY had been announced to him by [redacted] in a "1-minute conversation," in which [redacted] told him, "It has been decided you are going to (FAB/NY); [redacted] will be calling you"; that he was not given a choice in whether to go to FAB/NY or, later, to NBG;

That during the previous interview, his lack of recollection about the foregoing was due to "mental blocks";

That [redacted] were getting financial reports (not from [redacted] on FAB/NY's performance, and were monitoring such things as how the acquisition of the Bankers Trust branches was going and who was going to be included in the management teams; that, regarding the payments and other benefits he received from BCCI after going to FAB/NY, [redacted] said "They (BCCI) wanted me to be comfortable with their involvement."

[redacted]

On 5/29/91, [redacted] (W/M; dob [redacted] in Germany; naturalized U.S. citizen), formerly [redacted] FAB/NY, was interviewed in New York. In summary, he said: that before joining BCCI in 1983, he was aware of a "general consensus" among many bankers that BCCI was growing "too fast," signaling a "lack of controllability"; that he was recruited by [redacted]; that in 4/83 or 5/83, he was among 6 or 8 people who met with ABEDI in New York to exchange ideas about banking in America, and was invited by ABEDI to "stop in" to see him in London; that in 6/83, he met with ABEDI, [redacted] and 4 or 5 others at BCCI/London, and was told, "We want you to join us," i.e., be a BCCI employee; that on a subsequent visit, [redacted] was told his job would be [redacted] FAB/NY;

That at FAB/NY, according to what ABEDI told him, [redacted] mandate was "to build us a big bank," and that capital was "no object"; that the possibility of BCCI control over FAB/NY "never entered (his) mind," but when he later told an associate of his intent to go to FAB/NY, the associate said, "Oh, so you're joining Mr. ABEDI"; that when he agreed to join FAB/NY, ABEDI sent him to CLIFFORD and [redacted]; that his impression was that CLIFFORD and [redacted] for the holding company of which [redacted]--had been "briefed" in London about his prospective employment;

That the lease for FAB/NY was negotiated by [redacted] and [redacted] that directions regarding operations of FAB/NY came mostly through [redacted] that he viewed [redacted] as incompetent,

but when he complained about that, CLIFFORD said, "We have the utmost confidence in them"; that [redacted] seemed to be [redacted], and the opinions they expressed to [redacted] seemed to be those of superiors, not subordinates; that [redacted] viewed the relationship of BCCI to FAB as "family". b6 b7C

[redacted] b6 b7C

On 6/18/91, the FBI was notified by the USAO, WDC, of the existence of a possible witness, [redacted] (dob [redacted] U.K. citizen), one of the [redacted] of BCCI and, until mid-1990, its [redacted] The initial contact with [redacted] was by telephone on 6/19/91, at which time he told the FBI: that he had been deposed by the BGFRS (resulting in a 250-page deposition), had testified in the New York grand jury, and had been interviewed by the Bank of England (BOE) and Time magazine; that "BCCI" had successfully sought a "high court" injunction against him, effectively constraining him from talking to anyone other than the foregoing, and threatening him with a "massive" claim for damages.

On 7/12/91, after coordination between the USAO, WDC and [redacted] U.K. counsel, the FBI interviewed [redacted] (see FD-302) in London in conjunction with representatives of the U.K.'s [redacted] which was interviewing [redacted] as part of its own BCCI investigation. The interview was tape recorded by the [redacted] as is the [redacted] normal practice, and the FBI was given copies of the resultant cassettes (an official transcription from the [redacted] is forthcoming). b6 b7C b7D

In summary, [redacted] said: that he is licensed both as a chartered accountant and as a cost and management accountant in the U.K.; that he first worked for ABEDI in 1966 at United Bank in Pakistan, as [redacted] that after UB was nationalized, ABEDI decided to start a new bank to be 70% capitalized by SHEIK ZAYED, and 30% by the Bank of America (BOA); that 4 BOA [redacted] BCCI; that BOA insisted on such things as procedural manuals, good senior people, a "top-name" auditor (Ernst & Winney was hired at over $4 million/year), and an internal audit staff comprised of senior people from both BOA and BCCI, who even looked at such things as the lifestyles of management employees; b6 b7C

That, prior to 1989, there were some audit reports showing fraudulent activity by some managers, e.g., conducting foreign exchange transactions "off the books," and showing concentration of risk and loan balances that were too high with regard to commercial loans to shareholders;

That, in 11/89, the audit report from BCCI (Overseas), Grand Cayman, showed (a) $850 million in loans to CCAH shareholders, who also were BCCI shareholders, and whose collateral (the CCAH shares) was deemed unlikely to cover the loss if the loans were defaulted, (b) that International Credit and Investment Company (ICIC), which had been formed as a holding company for the founders' shares of BCCI, had "started its own, little bank," designated ICIC (Overseas), supposedly catering to the need for "total secrecy" of investors and investment advice, but which (e.g.) was buying $300 million worth of shares of BCCI through nominees, had $100 million in loans outstanding to BCCI shareholders, and had hundreds of millions of dollars "loaned" in varying amounts to a large number of shell companies associated with the GOKAL Brothers shipping concerns;

That on 3/9/90, at the request of external auditor, Price Waterhouse (PW), a BCCI "investigatory committee" was set up to examine the problems the audit had disclosed; the committee, [redacted] was [redacted] that [redacted] whom [redacted] assigned to examine the CCAH problem, wrote a "mild" report and then vanished, while [redacted] returned to Abu Dhabi, [redacted] resigned, and [redacted] BCCI's [redacted] for Europe. b6 b7C

[redacted] provided a copy of the second affidavit he filed in his defense against the suit brought against him by BCCI, and copies of his own memoranda. b6 b7C

[redacted]

On 8/1/91, [redacted] (Pakistani male; dob [redacted] in Lahore, Pakistan; naturalized U.S. citizen) was interviewed in New York, NY (see FD-302), under the terms of a letter of immunity to him from the USAO, WDC. b6 b7C

In summary, [redacted] said: that he holds a [redacted], and an [redacted] WDC; that in or about 1979, while employed handling Eurodollar transactions for the law firm of White & Case, [redacted] first dealt with BCCI on a $3 million-to-$4 million loan to [redacted] to buy a second hand airplane; b6 b7C

That in the fall, 1982, after being recruited and hired by BCCI, [redacted] was sent by [redacted] to the BCCI/NY representative office, along with [redacted], to work on acquisitions of banks in Central and South America; that he met [redacted] within a week of coming to NY; that [redacted] was a frequent visitor to [redacted], who ran the office; that [redacted] primarily would discuss the takeover of Financial General Bankshares (FGB) and expansion, thereafter, into NY; b6 b7C

That for the first couple of years, [redacted] did not think b6 b7C

1325015-000-7178

BCCI owned FABS, but when even BCCI's drivers began talking about FABS as "our bank," he changed his mind; that [redacted] saw as indicators of ownership and control of BCCI over FABS: ABEDI's references in conferences to FABS and NBG as part of BCCI's "family group,"-[redacted] understood the word "family" to be used in the Eastern sense of "people in or under my hand"; [redacted] and [redacted] of BCCI finding and arranging the lease for th- space FAB/NY subsequently occupied, after ABEDI approved of it during a tour which included CLIFFORD and [redacted] seeing it for the first time; BCCI employees [redacted] being "sent" to FAB/NY, while [redacted] who had been on BCCI's board in Abu Dhabi, was sent to NBG; [redacted] and [redacted] being hired for their positions only after meeting with [redacted] and ABEDI, because it was BCCI that was approving their employment--"This BCCI womb is where the power is," [redacted] said; the existence of a "First American monitoring unit" in BCCI/London, comprised of ABEDI's and [redacted] whom [redacted] observed almost constantly conferring on communications and financial information regarding FABS, and frequently meeting with [redacted] considered to be [redacted] and friend; often seeing then-FAB/NY employees [redacted] and occasionally, [redacted] in BCCI/London deferentially conferring with SHOAIB; observing [redacted] while in NY, spending part of his days at BCCI/NY and part at FAB/NY, and constantly receiving calls from the other office; the inclusion of [redacted] names in a BCCI directory among those of the top 20 or 30 BCCI officers, even though they were employed by FAB/NY; and seeing [redacted] trips to BCCI/London become more frequent after the "Tampa problem" (the money laundering allegations) arose;

b6

That [redacted] both told [redacted] that BCCI always wanted control in any situation where it owned all or part of an entity; that [redacted] sent [redacted] a set of model documents to be used in nominee transactions;

b6
b7C

That in nominee situations, BCCI always sought out someone of the stature of a CLARK CLIFFORD to act as a shareholder, and paid a consulting fee to that person; that from observations of and discussions with [redacted] in BCCI/Miami, [redacted] knew it was [redacted] who [redacted] on direction from ABEDI;

b6
b7C

That beginning in or about 1984, [redacted] was directed by ABEDI to [redacted] GHAITH PHARAON's "global debts," which amounted to about $340 million; that his observations of the way PHARAON acted indifferently toward his supposed assets NBG, Independence Bank and CenTrust S&L, [redacted] believed PHARAON didn't really own them--a belief which was later corroborated by documents showing that the money for the purchases of those entities came from BCCI and that the stock PHARAON supposedly owned in them was pledged to BCCI; that PHARAON's attorney,

b6

1325015-000-7179

[redacted] claimed to have helped BCCI get the law in Georgia changed to allow foreign ownership of a Georgia bank; that BCCI's [redacted] that PHARAON's only explanation for wanting to buy Independence Bank in the midst of his financial problems was that ABEDI probably was "on to another winner like NBG," for which PHARAON claimed to be receiving offers of "two-times book"; that [redacted] warned both PHARAON and [redacted] of the likelihood of the "Tampa problem" leading to a full investigation of BCCI, which would "taint" both of them; that [redacted]--when [redacted] told PHARAON that [redacted] was a "bloody liar" in telling PHARAON there would be no investigation of BCCI--claimed to have called friends [redacted] and others, who told him there would be no investigation of BCCI. b6 b7C b6 b7C

[redacted]

On 7/31/91, under the terms of a letter of immunity to him from the USAO, WDC, [redacted] (Indian/male; dob [redacted] Canadian citizen; U.S. resident alien [redacted] SSAN [redacted] was interviewed in New York. b6 b7C

In summary, [redacted] said: that he holds an [redacted] and had taken 2 years of [redacted] training in the U.K.; b6 b7C

That he joined BCCI in 1976, which he equated with joining a "family"; that [redacted] known as Bureau de Change--a foreign currency exchange; that in 1979, he was sent to be the [redacted] BCCI representative office in Canada; that BCCI/Canada, supposedly a 50-50 partnership between BCCI and the GOKAL brothers--whom he never met--was licensed in Canada as a "100% subsidiary" of BCCI; b6 b7C

That he was assigned to head BCCI/Caribbean in Miami in 1982; that he was concerned with potential problems he saw in BCCI/Latin America's solicitation and acceptance of deposits from people and entities about whom they knew nothing;

That in early-1984, ABEDI asked [redacted] to contact and meet with U.S. Senator PAULA HAWKINS about her comments to Pakistan's President ZIA about a Pakistani bank in the Cayman Islands involved in money laundering; that the meeting with Sen. HAWKINS, in her office, was attended by 12-15 other people, including representatives of the DEA, State Department, DOJ and the senator's office; that [redacted] pledged BCCI's cooperation in rooting out whomever among BCCI's 11,000 employees was involved in money laundering; that Sen. HAWKINS and the others assured [redacted] that BCCI was not a target and that what they had said to President ZIA would not be given to the media;

That [redacted] knowledge of the takeover of FGB by BCCI was the same as everyone else's--everyone knew BCCI was buying FGB; b6 b7C

CLARK MCADAMS CLIFFORD

That in or about 11/85, BCCI decided to buy a bank in Miami and, thereby, declare Florida to be its home state; that at about the same time, however, due to a change in accounting procedures, BCCI "discovered" a $365 million loss in its treasury, which made its balance sheet look bad and would preclude its acceptance by the BGFRS or FDIC; that in early-1986, [redacted] and others attended more than 3 meetings in Miami where the use of a nominee to purchase either Eagle Bank (EB) or Miami National Bank (MNB) was discussed; that [redacted] later overheard [redacted] side of a telephone call from [redacted] in which [redacted] was told [redacted] in the EB or MNB purchase would either be [redacted] that [redacted] recalled exchanging and discussing with [redacted] a file--which came to one or the other of them from [redacted]--on PHARAON's nominee purchase of Independence Bank, to be used as a model in the anticipated Miami acquisition; b6 b7C

That, on the topic of indications that BCCI owned and controlled FABS, [redacted] recalled the push to assist FABS in marketing and being told by the late AKHTAR ANIS, "We want to get business for (FAB) because, after all, they are our bank, too"; that even ABEDI and [redacted] made similar statements on "dozens" of occasions; that in a meeting at Vizcaya in Miami in 1984, where ABEDI, [redacted] were present, [redacted] complained that BCCI/Miami was neglecting marketing for FABs, to which [redacted] countered that FABs were "a bunch of nincompoops; they can't handle what we send them now"; that [redacted] attended a 1985 meeting in WDC, with [redacted] and [redacted] in which the discussion was about how BCCI and FABs could do business together, e.g., BCCI initiating mortgages in Florida and selling them to FABs, in return for FABs' international business referrals; that [redacted] accompanied FAB employee [redacted] to the Embassy of Brazil to jointly market BCCI and FABs as a "banking network"; b6 b7C

That CLARK CLIFFORD and [redacted] were appointed to their posts at FABS without having met the shareholders; b6 b7C

That [redacted] FABS [redacted] NBG was made by ABEDI, who announced it in a meeting in a glass-enclosed conference room in BCCI/Miami, in early-11/1985, attended by CLIFFORD, [redacted], and observed by [redacted] and others; that immediately after the session, CLIFFORD and [redacted] departed, but [redacted] met with [redacted] and the others to tell them about his decision on the time and price for the purchase NBG, and that he wanted [redacted] to go to NGB; that [redacted] protested the proposed move, saying he was happy in NY, and would just be returning to FAB anyway; that in a later conversation, [redacted] complained to [redacted] about being "pushed to buy a lemon; a can of worms" in NBG; that BCCI employee [redacted] was sent to NBG, only to return to BCCI in 1987; b6 b7C

That, during the time in 1988 when BCCI was trying to decide whether to openly go into California, [redacted] and b6 b7C

CLARK MCADAMS CLIFFORD

[redacted] met with [redacted] in WDC, and [redacted], who had been in BCCI/Hong Kong for a long period of time, asked if he could say hello to CLIFFORD, whom he said he hadn't seen since the FGB takeover; that, on seeing [redacted] CLIFFORD said, [redacted] it's good to have you back. Now, we can start telling lies again"; b6 b7C

That, with regard to evidence that [redacted] made decisions for FABS, [redacted] knew [redacted] for FAB/NY; that at one point, [redacted] was kidding [redacted] saying, "If you can't make (FAB/NY) profitable with $80 million in capital, give it to me and I'll do it," to which [redacted] replied, "Well, thanks to [redacted] I have to pay $10 million a year rent"; b6 b7C

That, at BCCI/London, there were two empty desks in the second-floor executive area, jokingly understood--by [redacted] and [redacted] (who coined the phrase "Rent-a-Face" or [redacted] to apply to the well-known personages ABEDI recruited as nominees)--to be saved for CLIFFORD and [redacted] that, with regard to the U.S. Congress' attempts to subpoena [redacted] was told by [redacted] that [redacted] told him [redacted] said [redacted] should not come to the U.S. until the subpoena was quashed; that after the "Tampa problem" arose, [redacted] advised [redacted] to "get rid of the case before the regulators really look at BCCI and find we have no internal control system." b6 b7C

THE INVESTIGATION SURROUNDING BCCI'S INVOLVEMENT WITH CAPROCK WAS PREDICATED UPON REVIEW OF TRANSACTIONS BETWEEN CAPROCK AND F. S. INVESTMENT COMPANY, A COMPANY BELIEVED TO BE [redacted] IR. [redacted] THE TRANSACTIONS ORIGINATED FROM AN EFFORT BY INSIDERS TO SOLVE A CAPITAL PROBLEM THAT CAPROCK WAS EXPERIENCING WITH ONE OF ITS SUBSIDIARIES, TITLE USA INSURANCE CORPORATION (TUSAIC). IN LATE 1987, STATE INSURANCE REGULATORS ADVISED THE OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS OF TUSAIC, WHICH WERE LARGELY THE SAME OFFICERS/DIRECTORS AT CAPROCK, THAT TUSAIC WAS SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS SHORT OF THE b6 b7C

STATUTORY CLAIMS RESERVE, AND THUS BADLY NEEDED A CAPITAL INFUSION TO REMEDY THE DEFICIENCY. BY MID-1988, THE CAPROCK OFFICERS/DIRECTORS WERE ADVISED BY FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD EXAMINERS THAT THE TUSAIC RESERVE SHORTFALL AND OVERALL CAPITAL STATUS OF BOTH ENTITIES HAD PLACED THE FUTURE OF CAPROCK IN JEOPARDY.

AS A RESULT, IN JUNE 1988 A MECHANISM WAS DEVISED UTILIZING THE SWAP OF STOCK BETWEEN GREAT WEST BANC SHARES, INC. AND TWO OTHER COMPANIES [redacted] DR. [redacted] THE NET RESULT WAS A SOLUTION TO THE CAPITAL SHORTFALL PROBLEMS AT CAPROCK THEREBY RELIEVING REGULATORY PRESSURE, BUT ULTIMATELY COSTING THE INSTITUTION SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS.

THE TWO TRANSACTIONS WERE SEPARATE BUT WERE USED FOR THE SAME PURPOSE. CAPROCK HOSPITALITY, FORMERLY KNOWN AS PARIBASS COMPANY, INC., AND CAPROCK PROPERTIES CORPORATION WERE THE TWO COMPANIES WHOSE STOCKS WERE UTILIZED. THE MAIN ASSETS OF EACH OF THESE COMPANIES WERE HOWARD JOHNSON MOTELS IN RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA, AND DUMFHRIES, VIRGINIA. INDICATIONS ARE THAT EACH OF THE MOTELS WERE GREATLY OVERVALUED. BCCI'S INVOLVEMENT COMES IN THE FORM OF LOANS THAT WERE OUTSTANDING TO BOTH CAPROCK HOSPITALITY AND CAPROCK PROPERTIES. IN ONE INSTANCE, CAPROCK ISSUED A $3.5 MILLION IRREVOCABLE LETTER OF CREDIT TO BCCI IN ORDER TO REMOVE BCCI AS THE FIRST LIENHOLDER ON THE MOTEL PROPERTY IN RALEIGH, NORTH CAROLINA. OTHER ACTIVITIES UTILIZING CAPROCK FUNDS TO SATISFY BCCI INSTRUMENTS OCCURRED; HOWEVER, THE FULL EXTENT OF ANY CAPROCK-BCCI CONNECTION IS NOT FULLY UNDERSTOOD AT THIS TIME.

IT SHOULD BE NOTED THAT NUMEROUS OTHER COMPANIES AND INDIVIDUALS ARE INVOLVED IN THE CAPROCK INVESTIGATION WHICH MAY TIE IN WITH SEPARATE INVESTIGATIONS ONGOING IN WMFO AND OTHER FIELD OFFICES. SOME OF THESE INCLUDE:

1. MCDOWELL ENTERPRISES, INC. - A COMPANY WHOSE [redacted] DR. [redacted]

2. DR. [redacted] CAPROCK PROPERTIES;

3. BANK OF BARODA - AN INDIAN BANK WITH TIES TO [redacted] P.S. INVESTMENT COMPANY; AND

4. [redacted] - EVENTUAL [redacted] CAPROCK HOSPITALITY FROM THE TUSAIC PARENT, TITLE USA CORPORATION.

b6

ANOTHER ITEM OF INTEREST CONCERNS THE PAYMENT OF FUNDS TO CAPROCK [redacted] DRAWN ON THE ACCOUNT OF BANK OF

CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL, S.A., A NEW YORK AGENCY, 320 PARK AVENUE, NEW YORK, NEW YORK, 10022. THE PAYMENTS ARE IN THE FORM OF THREE CONSECUTIVELY NUMBERED BCCI CHECKS TOTALING $95,500 AND ARE ALL DATED 11/16/88. THESE CHECKS, IN THE AMOUNTS OF $25,000, $32,500, AND $38,000, ARE MADE PAYABLE TO DILLMAN ASSOCIATES AND [redacted] THE DALLAS DIVISION IS UNCERTAIN AS TO THE PURPOSE OF THESE CHECKS; HOWEVER, THEY ARE HIGHLY SUSPECT. b6 b7C

IN A TELCALL BETWEEN DALLAS SA [redacted] AND WMFO SA [redacted], SA [redacted] INDICATED THAT FROM REVIEW OF BCCI RECORDS IN NEW YORK AND CONTACT WITH FORMER BCCI EMPLOYEES, IT WAS DETERMINED THAT [redacted] AN INDIVIDUAL PREVIOUSLY UNKNOWN TO THE DALLAS DIVISION, WAS A CLOSE ASSOCIATE OF CAPROCK [redacted] IS BELIEVED TO BE AFFILIATED WITH BCCI AND IS WELL KNOWN TO WMFO AND THE MIAMI DIVISION. SA [redacted] ALSO RECALLED HEARING ABOUT THE TWO HOWARD JOHNSON MOTELS IN VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA AS WELL AS THE CAPROCK HOSPITALITY AND CAPROCK PROPERTIES COMPANIES. [redacted] IS b3 b6 b7C

(OO: WMFO)

The purpose of this memorandum is to request authorization for SA [redacted] and me to travel, on a date yet to be determined, to Tampa Division to interview [redacted] b6 b7C

On 8/15/91, I called SA [redacted], US Customs Service (USCS), Tampa, FL, FTS [redacted], to inquire about the status of the writing of a report on the 5/9/91 joint USCS-FBI interview of [redacted] (in which it was agreed that USCS would prepare the report to avoid creating possibly-conflicting statements). SA [redacted] said former-USCS, now-DEA-SA-in-training [redacted] is still to write the report. (I subsequently notified AUSA [redacted] of what SA [redacted] had said, and was requested by AUSA [redacted] to proceed with an FD-302 on the [redacted] interview.) b6 b7C

SA [redacted] also informed me that, during the week of 8/26-30/91, he and USCS SA [redacted] are to begin the interviewing of former-BCCI official [redacted], currently being held pending trial (to begin in September, 1991) in the Middle District of Florida (MDF). [redacted] who was BCCI's regional manager for most of Europe and Africa, was indicted and extradited in the [redacted] case. b6 b7C b7E

On 8/20/91, I contacted USCS SA [redacted] to learn about the plans to interview [redacted] and was told that, about two weeks ago, pursuant to a "direct immunity" letter, preliminary "Rule 11-format" interviews of [redacted] were conducted by [redacted] MDF AUSAs and two Miami FBI SAs, [redacted] and another whose name [redacted] could not recall, but who were investigating the "CenTrust" matter. The purposes for the interviews were to evaluate [redacted] potential as a witness and candidacy for a plea offer. It was determined that [redacted] was amenable to pleading to the indictment in return for consideration of his cooperation at time of b6 b7C

Currently, SA [redacted] is awaiting approval from the DOJ Office of Enforcement Operations authorizing USCS to apply for a writ to take [redacted] on a daily basis, out of the holding facility to a place for the interviews. He anticipates that approval momentarily, but also, that it will take another week before the writ can be acquired. b6 b7C

[redacted] (dpob [redacted], Bombay, India) joined BCCI in or about 1980, leaving Bank of America to open a new BCCI branch in Karachi, Pakistan. Ultimately, [redacted] rose to become [redacted] eastern Europe and northern Africa, and a member of BCCI's "central committee," composed of 5 people from BCCI/London and 8 regional managers. According to SA [redacted] with regard to the captioned matter, [redacted] can provide information about: b6 b7C

--discussions in and decisions by the "central committee";

--non-performing loans "rubber-stamped" by BCCI's "credit committee" and booked in BCCI branches under his control;

--violations of currency laws by BCCI in various countries (which may not be applicable to this case);

--the flow of funds through ICIC; the existence of the so-called "black network," which dates to the opening of the Karachi branch of BCCI;

--weekly, Saturday-morning meetings between AGHA HASAN ABEDI, [redacted] and GHAITH R. PHARAON; b6 b7C

--meeting [redacted] and CLIFFORD in Vienna, Austria, at a BCCI conference in 1984 or 1985;

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK COUNTY OF NEW YORK: CRIMINAL TERM

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK :

-against- :

BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL, S.A.; : BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (OVERSEAS) LIMITED; :
BCCI HOLDINGS (LUXEMBOURG) S.A.; :
INTERNATIONAL CREDIT AND INVESTMENT COMPANY (OVERSEAS) LIMITED; : INTERNATIONAL CREDIT AND INVESTMENT COMPANY HOLDINGS; :
AGHA HASAN ABEDI; and :
SWALEH NAQVI. :

THE GRAND JURY OF THE COUNTY OF NEW YORK, by this indictment, accuse defendants Bank of Credit and Commerce International S.A., Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Limited, and BCCI Holdings (Luxembourg) S.A. [These defendants along with other related entities described below are hereinafter included in the appellation "BCC Group."], defendants International Credit and Investment Company (Overseas) Limited and International Credit and Investment Company Holdings [These defendants along with other related entities described below are hereinafter included in the appellation "ICIC Group."], and defendants Agha Hasan Abedi and Swaleh Naqvi of the crime of SCHEME TO DEFRAUD IN THE FIRST DEGREE, in violation of Penal Law Section 190.65 (1)(a), committed as follows:

The defendants, in the County of New York and elsewhere, during the period from November 1, 1972 through July 5, 1991, with intent to defraud ten and more persons and to obtain property from ten and more persons by false and fraudulent pretenses, representations, and promises, engaged in a scheme constituting a systematic ongoing course of conduct and so obtained property from one and more such persons, as follows:

The defendants, in the County of New York and elsewhere, made false and fraudulent pretenses, representations and promises as to (1) the identity of the owners of the BCC Group, and the degree of their financial involvement in the BCC Group, (2) the amount of shareholder capital at risk in the BCC Group, (3) the financial condition, net worth, and capital of the member entities of BCC Group, and (4) the ability of the BCC Group to repay creditors, including but not limited to depositors and banking institutions.

By means of the scheme described herein the defendants obtained property, the value of which has exceeded $20,000,000,000.00 (twenty billion dollars), from diverse persons, including United States citizens and foreign citizens residing in New York County, banks based in New York County, central banks of other nations, and thousands of depositors throughout the world.

The scheme was premised on the fact that banks rely on credit. The essence of the scheme was to convince depositors and other banking and financial institutions, by means of false pretenses, representations, and promises that the BCC Group was a safe financial repository and institution for funds, and thereby defendants acted to persuade depositors and banking and other financial institutions to provide the BCC Group banks with deposits and credit.

Foremost among the originators of the scheme was defendant Abedi, a Pakistani banker who had worked as chief executive of a number of Pakistani banks, until the nationalization of the banks in Pakistan in 1972. Abedi recruited co-schemers with the notion of establishing a third world bank which would be substantially owned by its employees and would be so structured that it could not be nationalized.

Defendants Abedi and Naqvi, acting with and assisted by others, established a series of banks and bank holding companies, as well as related corporate and investment entities, in more than seventy countries around the world. The leading bank, established first, was defendant Bank of Credit and Commerce International, S.A. [hereinafter BCCI, SA] established in 1972 in Luxembourg, Abu Dhabi, and England. Defendants Abedi and Naqvi, along with others, thereafter caused the incorporation and establishment of defendant Bank of Credit and Commerce International Holdings, S.A. [hereinafter BCCI Holdings] in Luxembourg in 1974, and defendant Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Limited [hereinafter BCCI Overseas] in Grand Cayman in 1975. Those three entities, as well as the related corporate and investment entities established as subsidiaries to BCCI Holdings and as affiliates of defendants were collectively known as "the BCC Group."

As part of the scheme, defendant International Credit and Investment Company (Overseas) Limited [hereinafter ICIC Overseas] was established in Grand Cayman as a bank. ICIC Overseas was used to conceal BCC Group liabilities and to create false assets for the

BCC Group. Defendant International Credit and Investment Company Holdings [hereinafter ICIC Holdings] was established and was used to conceal stolen monies. ICIC Overseas and ICIC Holdings, together with a series of related corporate and non-corporate entities were collectively known as the "ICIC Group."

Defendant Abedi was in charge of the BCC Group and the ICIC Group. Defendant Naqvi rose to become the second in command. In the late 1980s, after defendant Abedi became incapacitated, defendant Naqvi took charge of the scheme and of the BCC Group and ICIC Group. Defendants Abedi and Naqvi, acting with a small executive staff, created the false pretenses, representations and promises to advance the scheme to defraud.

In the course of the scheme and in furtherance thereof certain acts were committed. Among those are the following:

First, to create the false impression that the BCC Group was a repository and a financial institution with which depositors and other creditors could safely do business, the schemers employed the ruling families of a number of Middle Eastern states and other purportedly wealthy businessmen as nominal shareholders of the entities comprising the BCC Group, in particular, of BCCI Holdings. The schemers falsely pretended, represented, and promised that the nominees owned and financially would stand behind the BCC Group. However, by the terms of the secret contractual agreements the nominees were insulated from any economic loss suffered by the BCC Group.

Among the nominees were Ghaith R. Pharaon, Sheik Kamal Adham, Sayed Jawhary, also known as El Sayed El Sayed El Gohari, and Faisal Saud al-Fulaij, all of whom assisted the defendants by knowingly permitting the BCC Group management to trade on their reputations for wealth by fraudulently using their names as shareholders in BCCI Holdings, and thus, as owners of the BCC Group. Defendants further advanced their scheme to defraud by causing documents to be filed with the Superintendent of Banks of New York State, in New York County, that gave false information concerning the identities of the true owners of the BCC Group, including BCCI Holdings.

In addition, Pharaon, Adham, Jawhary, and al-Fulaij permitted defendants Abedi and Naqvi, the BCC Group, including but not limited to defendants BCCI S.A., BCCI Overseas, and BCCI Holdings, and the ICIC Group, to create the false appearance that the BCC Group and the ICIC Group loaned them money. This resulted in the creation of false assets for the BCC Group in the form of loans receivable which were not genuine. The false and fraudulent impressions were further enhanced by false confirmations of indebtedness to the BCC Group which Pharaon, Adham, Jawhary, and al-Fulaij caused and permitted to be sent to auditors of the BCC Group.

The creation of false assets and the false assertions of ownership of the stock of defendant BCCI Holdings created the false and fraudulent impressions that Pharaon, Adham, Jawhary, and al-Fulaij were economically involved in defendant BCCI Holdings as shareholders, that their money was at risk in the bank, and that they would financially stand behind the BCC Group if necessary.

Second, defendants established separate subsidiaries of defendant BCCI Holdings in a number of countries, including Luxembourg and the Cayman Islands, which have strict laws against release of banking information. By so doing, defendants guaranteed that there would be no comprehensive regulation on a consolidated basis by any single regulator of the BCC Group. This permitted the inter-bank transfer of assets and liabilities to be conducted in a manner that could and did conceal the true economic position of the BCC Group.

Third, defendants authorized and caused to be authorized the payments of bribes and kickbacks to agents of other banking and financial institutions. By virtue of that practice, defendants attempted to avoid and did avoid scrutiny by other banking and financial institutions of the capital structure and financial viability of the BCC Group. In 1986 and 1987, to obtain deposits from and a banking relationship with the Central Reserve Bank of Peru, defendants Abedi and Naqvi authorized and directed employees of the BCC Group to open a bank account in a Swiss bank in Panama to transmit bribes and kickbacks in the amount of a percentage of the deposits maintained by The Central Reserve Bank of Peru to the two senior officers of that bank. The total of such payments was approximately $3,000,000.00.

Fourth, the defendants systematically engaged in a program known as the External Marketing Program in New York County during the period of from 1987 to 1990. Pursuant to that program defendants and agents of defendants actively solicited bank deposits from numerous persons in New York County and elsewhere for the BCC group. Accounts and deposits were solicited and obtained through false representations that the BCC Group was a safe and viable banking institution. As part of this program, the defendants and their agents also represented that said persons could open, at the agency of defendant BCCI S.A. located in New York County, banking accounts that would be booked at the overseas branches of the BCC Group, including but not limited to branches of defendant BCCI Overseas in Lahore, Pakistan and Dhaka, Bangladesh. By means of these solicitations and with the knowledge that the representations made concerning the financial condition and the capital and net worth of the banking institutions were materially false, defendants obtained property in the form of deposits at the BCCI SA agency in New York County on behalf of the BCC Group from American citizens and residents of New York County.

Fifth, the defendants systematically filed and caused to be filed with the Superintendent of Banks of the State of New York, in New York County, provided and represented as true to correspondent banks, and otherwise published financial statements which defendants knew to contain false and fraudulent representations materially overstating and falsifying the capital, net worth of the BCC Group, and, in particular, of defendants BCCI Holdings, BCCI S.A., and BCCI Overseas, as well as the ability of these institutions to repay their creditors.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY - COUNTY OF NEW YORK

News Release

July 29, 1991

A New York County grand jury has returned an indictment that charges that the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI), its related entities and two of its founders engaged in a multi-billion dollar scheme to defraud its depositors, falsified bank records to hide illegal money laundering, and committed larcenies totaling more than $30 million, District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau announced today. The indictment stems from an ongoing investigation of BCCI that began in the spring of 1989.

Charged in the indictment are AGHA HASAN ABEDI, who founded the bank in 1972, and SWALEH NAQVI, who was the bank's chief operating officer until October of 1990. The corporate defendants are BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL, S.A., the leading bank established by ABEDI in 1972, and four subsequently created entities, BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (OVERSEAS) LIMITED; BCCI HOLDINGS (LUXEMBOURG) S.A.; INTERNATIONAL CREDIT AND INVESTMENT COMPANY (OVERSEAS) LIMITED; and INTERNATIONAL CREDIT AND INVESTMENT COMPANY HOLDINGS.

"This indictment spells out the largest bank fraud in world financial history," Mr. Morgenthau said. "BCCI was operated as a corrupt criminal organization throughout its entire 19 year history. It systematically falsified its records. It knowingly allowed itself to be used to launder the illegal income of drug sellers and other criminals. And it paid bribes and kickbacks to public officials."

All of the defendants are charged with the crime of Scheme to Defraud in the First Degree and three counts of Grand Larceny in the First Degree.

"By means of this scheme, the defendants obtained more than $20 billion from its depositors, including citizens and foreign nationals in New York City, banks headquartered in Manhattan, central banks of other nations, and thousands of depositors throughout the world," Mr. Morgenthau said. "The best estimates indicate at this time that upwards of $5 billion has been lost through this fraud."

The Scheme to Defraud count includes allegations that the defendants paid a bribe of $3 million to the two senior officers of the Central Reserve Bank of Peru, in exchange for receiving deposits from the bank.

The Grand Larceny counts relate to the loss of more than $30 million from the American Express Bank Limited on July 5, 1991, when the Bank of England and regulatory agencies in other nations, including the United States, ordered the closing of BCCI. Because BCCI obtained the deposits from American Express Bank through fraudulent means, by falsely representing BCCI's financial condition, the losses are thefts, Mr. Morgenthau said.

In addition, BCCI S.A. is charged with eight counts of Falsifying Business Records in the First Degree, relating to a series of instances on which the bank failed to file currency transaction reports on currency deposits of $10,000 or more in one of the bank's customer accounts, as is required by federal law.

"These transactions appear to be instances of money-laundering," Mr. Morgenthau said.

The top count in the indictment, Grand Larceny in the First Degree, exposes NAQVI and ABEDI to prison terms of up to 25 years on conviction. NAQVI, 57, is living in Abu Dhabi, one of the states in the United Arab Emirates, and ABEDI, 68, is living in Pakistan. The extradition of both men is being sought, Mr. Morgenthau said.

The corporate defendants are exposed to forfeiture actions and fines of millions of dollars on conviction of the charges.

"The corporate structure of BCCI was set up to evade international and national banking laws so that its corrupt practices would be unsupervised and remain undiscovered," Mr. Morgenthau said. "The defendants systematically falsified the capital structure of BCCI to make it appear as though it was a solvent, profitable bank secured by the backing of wealthy businessmen from the Middle East.

"In fact, much of the bank's capitalization and assets were fictitious and its backing illusory," the District Attorney continued. "The defendants created the appearance of respectability by persuading world leaders to appear with them and defrauded their thousands of depositors, both small and large, who relied on that appearance of respectability."

"This largest of Ponzi schemes is over," he said. "But we have much yet to discover about this bank, and much to do in reforming international banking practices. The key to the scheme was that BCCI was structured in such a way so that no single central bank was able to monitor its activities. No foreign bank should be permitted to operate in the United States unless it is supervised by a single, strong central bank and is not bound by bank secrecy laws of another jurisdiction. Without these reforms, the potential for massive worldwide bank fraud remains."

The investigation is continuing, Mr. Morgenthau said.

The District Attorney thanked the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and the New York State Department of Banking, for their close cooperation from the earliest stages of the investigation. "Our combined efforts and resources have enabled us to understand one of the most complex and secretive criminal organizations that we have ever encountered," Mr. Morgenthau said. "Without the generous assistance and intricate knowledge of bank regulators, this investigation could not have been done."

He particularly thanked Federal Reserve Board Chairman Alan Greenspan, and William Taylor, Virgil Mattingly Jr. and Richard Small of the Federal Reserve System; and Gerald Corrigan, President of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and Ernest Petrikas and Thomas C. Baxter Jr. of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Mr. Morgenthau also thanked New York State Department of Banking Superintendent Derrick Cephas, Deputy Superintendent Vincent Conlon, former Superintendent Jill Considine, former counsel Barbara Barrantes, and Timothy Mahoney, Jerry Schwartz and Leon Ellen of the Department's Special Investigation Division.

The District Attorney also thanked the Bank of England for its invaluable assistance. "Under British law, the Bank could not assist us without some lawful basis to do so," Mr. Morgenthau said. "Since the time that stage was reached, however, we and the Bank have shared important information in a cooperative and helpful manner."

In the District Attorney's Office, the investigation was conducted under the supervision of Senior Investigator Andrew Finan, assisted by Investigators Mark Baldassare, Robert O'Donoghue and Fred Ghussin and Supervising Investigators Gerald McQueen, Mervin Woike and Thomas Jackson, under the supervision of Chief Investigator Andrew Rosenzweig.

The case was presented to the grand jury by Assistant District Attorney John W. Moscow, Deputy Chief of the Investigation Division, who, with Assistant District Attorneys Richard T. Preiss and Marc Frazier Scholl, is in charge of the prosecution. They were assisted by Investigation Division Chief Michael G. Cherkasky.

For the information of recipients, captioned investigation centers on the hidden ownership/control of First American Bank (FAB) by the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI). The primary focus is on representations made to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (BGFRS), when the holding company which owns FAB purchased Financial General Bankshares (FGB) in 1980. Since the inception of this investigation widespread allegations of criminal activities involving BCCI have surfaced. Bank regulators in England, Luxembourg, the Cayman Islands and the United States have closed down and taken control of BCCI. This matter has received intense international media attention.

Re Director teletype to All FBI Field Offices and All Legats dated 8/28/91.

Enclosed for the information of each receiving office is one copy of the Department of Justice's (DOJ) Fraud Section memorandum dated 8/9/91.

On 2/7/91, WMFO initiated a financial institution fraud investigation based on a criminal referral from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (BGFRS) alleging that Clark M. Clifford and [redacted] had made false and fraudulent statements concerning the Bank of Credit and Commerce International's (BCCI) ownership and control of Credit and Commerce American Holdings (CCAH), the parent-holding company of First American Bank Shares (FABS). FABS is the largest bank-holding company in the Washington, D.C. area, with $11.5 billion in assets and controls banks in five other states. Clark Clifford served as Chairman of FABS and his [redacted] served [redacted] FABS from 1982 until they resigned these positions on 8/13/91.

On 5/21/91, WMFO received three additional criminal referrals from the BGFRS concerning BCCI's use of Ghaith Pharaon as a nominee in the purchase of two banks in Georgia and California (The National Bank of Georgia (now the First American Bank of Georgia, Atlanta, Georgia), and the Independence Bank, Encino, California), and that false statements were made to the BGFRS concerning the ownership and control of these two banks.

WMFO has been designated as the office of origin in captioned matter to coordinate all aspects of this complex investigation. The Financial Institution Fraud Unit, White-Collar Crimes Section, Criminal Investigative Division, is working closely with DOJ Fraud Section and WMFO to insure that necessary resources are assigned as required to expedite this investigation.

Airtel from Director, FBI to SACs, AT, DE, HO, LA, MM, TP, WMFO, and Legat, London
RE: Hidden Interests; Major Case 38; OO: WMFO

Investigation at WMFO has revealed that Pharaon had also purchased a bank in Detroit, Michigan, in 1975 and a bank in Houston, Texas, in 1977.

On 7/5/91, as a result of alleged fraudulent conduct by BCCI, bank regulators in Britain and six other countries closed down branches of BCCI within their respective jurisdictions. Information developed to date indicates that from at least 1977 through 1990, BCCI, its principals, and its affiliates, orchestrated a deliberate sustained criminal attempt to undermine the structure of American Banking and Securities laws by acquiring control of U.S. banks and thrifts without disclosing BCCI's controlling role, as required by state and Federal regulations. Preliminary investigation of BCCI's U.S. bank takeovers indicates a common scheme and practice involving numerous, repeated and consistent violation of Federal statutes including those which are predicate acts to a RICO violation under 18 U.S.C. 1962.

In recent weeks, actions by the Federal Reserve Board (FRB), by New York officials and charges in Senate hearings allege an extraordinary range of worldwide criminal violations by BCCI and its affiliates including: repeated unlawful acquisitions of U.S. banks and thrifts; public corruption and bribery in the U.S. and elsewhere; money laundering and financing other criminal activity; support for terrorist actions; and huge frauds and falsifications on the books and records of BCCI and its affiliates. Enclosed DOJ memorandum dated 8/9/91, from Laurence Urgenson, Chief, Fraud Section to Robert Mueller, Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, sets forth DOJ's recommended approach to investigating and prosecuting BCCI's alleged criminal activities in the United States. Based on a review of BCCI allegations made by the FRB, New York State authorities, and current outstanding investigations, DOJ opined (1) that BCCI had orchestrated a sustained, deliberate subversion of U.S. banking, security, and criminal laws commencing in 1977 for the purpose of secretly seizing control of U.S. banks and thrifts without making required disclosures and applications; and (2) that BCCI's American banking scheme had resulted in takeovers of the National Bank of Georgia; First American Bank, Washington, D.C.; Centrust, Miami, Florida; and Independence Bank, Encino, California. DOJ Fraud Section has recommended (1) that the current outstanding investigations be continued through the U.S. Attorney's Office (USAO), Washington, D.C.; (2) that the BCCI banking scheme be treated as a single case investigated and prosecuted as a consolidated Bank-RICO matter, with prosecution

7. THE NEW YORK STATE CHARGES STEM FROM SWALEH NAQVI'S PARTICIPATION IN A SCHEME TO DEFRAUD AND TO OBTAIN PROPERTY FROM TEN OR MORE PERSONS. THE FACTS UNDERLYING THE CHARGES CONTAINED IN THE NEW YORK INDICTMENT INDICATE THAT NAQVI, AS AN EXECUTIVE OFFICER IN THE BCCI BANKING GROUP, PERSONALLY USED HIS POSITION AND THE SERVICES OF LOWER LEVEL BANK OFFICERS TO MAKE FRAUDULENT REPRESENTATIVES AND PROMISES IN ORDER TO OBTAIN BANK DEPOSITS AND CREDIT FROM DEPOSITORS, BANKS, AND OTHER FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS. THE STATE CHARGES ALSO FOCUS UPON THREE INSTANCES IN WHICH NAQVI, AS AN EXECUTIVE OFFICER IN THE BCCI BANKING GROUP, AND HIS BCCI-LINKED CODEFENDANTS STOLE MONEY FROM AMERICAN EXPRESS BANK, LTD., DURING THE COURSE OF FOREIGN EXCHANGE TRADING, NON-COLLATERALIZED PLACEMENT TRANSACTIONS, AND USE OF LETTERS OF CREDIT AND ACCEPTANCES.

RE: Ghaith Rashad PHARAON
File 29B-WF-171994

Dear [redacted] b6 b7C

Per our telephone conversation today, I am forwarding to you descriptive data regarding Pharaon and his yacht. As I told you, Pharaon is wanted in the United States on Racketeering and Fraud charges related to the Federal Bureau of Investigation's case on the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI). He is allegedly enroute to Antigua on board his 165 foot yacht. The yacht is very easy to identify because of its size and the all white yacht's most distinguishing characteristic which is the likeness of the famous blue and gold death-mask of King Tutankhamen ("King Tut") on each side of the bridge.

The vessel left Las Palmas De Gran Canaria, Canary Islands at approximately midnight, January 18, 1995 and was allegedly enroute to Antigua. The vessel is said to be under the command of Captain [redacted] and manned by a crew of 13. The vessel is also alleged to have on board at least eight firearms. b6 b7C

The attached documents include a complete description of Pharaon and background information on the charges pending against him. Any assistance which you could provide in apprehending this badly wanted fugitive, would be greatly appreciated.

I look forward to seeing you again in the near future.

Sincerely,

[redacted] b6 b7C

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA
NEW BERN DIVISION
No. 91-100-CIV-4-F

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,) Plaintiff,)
v.) O R D E R FALCON CAPITAL CORPORATION,) Defendant.)

Entry of default having been entered on November 25, 1991, and the United States' Motion for Appointment of the Small Business Administration as Receiver of Defendant being uncontested, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED that:

1. Pursuant to the provisions of 15 U.S.C. § 687c, this court shall take exclusive jurisdiction of Falcon Capital Corporation (Falcon) and all or its assets, wherever located, and the Small Business Administration (SBA) hereby is appointed receiver of Falcon (Receiver) to serve without bond until further order of this court. The Receiver is appointed for the purpose of liquidating all of Falcon's assets and satisfying the claims of creditors therefrom in the order of priority as determined by this court.

2. The Receiver shall have all powers, authorities, rights and privileges heretofore possessed by the officers and directors of Falcon under applicable state and federal law and by the Charter, By-Laws and Articles of Incorporation of said corporation, in addition to all powers and authority conferred upon the Receiver by the provisions of 15 U.S.C. § 687c and 28 U.S.C. § 754. The directors, officers, employees and agents of Falcon are hereby dismissed. Such persons shall have no authority with respect to Falcon's operations or assets, except as may hereafter be expressly granted by the Receiver. The Receiver shall assume and control the operation of Falcon and shall pursue and preserve all of its claims.

3. The past and/or present officers, directors, agents, and employees of Falcon as well as all those acting in their place, are hereby ordered and directed to turn over to the Receiver forthwith all books, records, documents, accounts and all other instruments and papers of said corporation and all other assets and property of the corporation, whether real or personal. Falcon shall furnish a written statement within five (5) days after the entry of this Order, listing the identity, location and estimated value of all assets of Falcon as well as the names, addresses and amounts of claims of all known creditors of Falcon. All persons having control, custody or possession of any assets or property of Falcon are hereby directed to turn such property over to the Receiver.

4. The Receiver shall promptly give notice of its appointment to all known officers, directors, agents, employees, shareholders, creditors, and debtors of Falcon. All persons and entities owing any obligations or debts to Falcon shall, until further ordered by this Court, pay all such obligations in accordance with the terms thereof to the Receiver and its receipt for such payments shall have the same force and effect as if Falcon had received such payments and receipt thereof.

5. The Receiver is hereby authorized to open such Receiver's bank accounts, at banking or other financial institutions, to extend credit on behalf of Falcon, to utilize SBA personnel, and to employ such other personnel as necessary to effectuate the operation of the receivership including, but not limited to, attorneys, and accountants, and is further authorized to expend receivership funds to compensate such personnel in such amounts and upon such terms as the Receiver shall deem reasonable in light of the usual fees and billing practices and procedures of such personnel. The Receiver is not required to obtain Court approval prior to the disbursement of receivership funds for payments to personnel employed by the Receiver or payments for expenses incidental to administration of the Receivership. In addition, the Receiver is authorized to reimburse the SBA for travel expenses incurred by SBA personnel in the establishment and administration of the receivership. The Receiver may, without further order of this Court, transfer, compromise, or otherwise dispose of any claim or asset, other than real estate, which would result in net proceeds to the Receiver not in excess of $5,000 per transaction.

6. Falcon's past and/or present officers, directors, agents, shareholders, employees, and other appropriate persons shall answer under oath to the Receiver all questions which it may put to them regarding the business of said corporation, or any other matter relevant to the operation or administration of the receivership or the collection of funds due to Falcon. In the event that the Receiver deems it necessary to require the appearance of the aforementioned persons, it shall direct notice for any such appearance by certified mail, and said persons shall appear and give answer to the receiver within (10) days of service of said notice at the time and place designated therein.

7. The parties to any and all civil legal proceedings wherever located, including, but not limited to arbitration proceedings, foreclosure actions or other default proceedings involving Falcon or any assets of Falcon, but excluding the instant proceeding, involving Falcon or its present or past officers or directors or the Receiver, sued for, or in connection with, any action taken by Falcon's officers or directors while acting in such capacity whether as plaintiff, defendant, third-party plaintiff, third-party defendant, or otherwise, or with respect to any assets of Falcon, are enjoined from taking any action, including discovery, commencing or continuing any legal proceeding of any nature in connection with any proceeding. All civil legal proceedings wherever located, including arbitration proceedings, but excluding the instant proceeding, involving Falcon or any of its assets or any action of any nature taken by Falcon's present or past officers or directors sued for, or in connection with, any action taken by them while acting in their official capacity whether as plaintiff, defendant, third-party plaintiff, third-party defendant, or otherwise, are stayed in their entirety, and all Courts having any jurisdiction thereof are enjoined from taking or permitting any action until further Order of this Court. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Receiver may bring suit on any causes of action which Falcon has against any parties liable to Falcon.

8. Falcon and its past and/or present directors, officers, agents, employees and other persons acting in concert or participation therewith be, and they hereby are, enjoined from either directly or indirectly taking any actions or causing any such action to be taken which would dissipate the assets and property of Falcon to the detriment of the Receiver appointed in this cause, including but not limited to destruction of corporate records, or which would violate the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, as amended, (the Act), 15 U.S.C. 661 et seq., or the regulations promulgated thereunder, (the Regulations), 13 C.F.R. § 107.1 et seq. (1990).

9. The Receiver is authorized to borrow on behalf of Falcon, from the SBA, up to $200,000 and is authorized to cause Falcon to issue Receiver's Certificates of Indebtedness in the principal amounts of the sums borrowed, which certificates will bear interest at or about 10 percent per annum and will have a maturity date no later than 18 months after the date of issue. Said Receiver's Certificates of Indebtedness shall have priority over all other debts and obligations of Falcon, excluding administrative expenses of the Receivership, whether presently existing or hereinafter incurred, including without limitation any claims of stockholders of Falcon.

10. This court determines and adjudicates that Falcon has violated the Act and the Regulations, as alleged in the Complaint filed against Falcon in this action. After the foregoing activities are completed, the Receiver may submit a report to this court recommending that Falcon's license be revoked.

11. It appearing from the Complaint and affidavits and exhibits attached thereto that the SBA is further entitled to a judgment in the amount of $1,265,590.01, representing the principal balance and accrued interest as of November 1, 1991, on the debentures, plus interest accruing at a daily rate of $292.17, for each day subsequent to November 1, 1991, until date of entry of judgment. Therefore, the Clerk of Court is DIRECTED to enter judgment against Falcon in the sum on $1,265,590.01, plus any accrued interest on the debentures and accrued dividends on the preferred stock until the date of entry of judgment. It is further ORDERED that post-judgment interest shall accrue at the legal rate from the date of entry of judgment until the judgment is paid in full, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1961.

SO ORDERED.

Defendants.

The Superintendent of Banks of the State of New York, by his undersigned attorneys Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen & Hamilton, as and for his Complaint against the defendants herein alleges as follows on knowledge as to himself and his acts and on information and belief as to all other matters except as indicated otherwise:

SUMMARY OF ACTION

1. This action arises out of a series of loans made by the New York Agency (the "Agency") of the Bank of Credit and Commerce International, S.A. ("BCCI, S.A.") to the defendants Zurich Corporation ("Zurich") and P.S. Investment Company, Inc. ("P.S. Investment"), both wholly-owned and controlled by defendants Ponnapula Sanjeeva Prasad ("P.S. Prasad") and his wife Indrani Prasad ("I. Prasad"), collectively the "Prasad Defendants." The Prasad Defendants devised and executed a scheme to fraudulently induce the lending of approximately $34 million to Zurich and P.S. Investment by the Agency, the largest single loan relationship maintained by the Agency, in many instances for purposes other than those stated in the loan application and have ciphoned off revenues generated by the properties purchased and refurbished with the proceeds of the Agency loans and have repaid none of the $34 million.

2. The fraudulent scheme was perpetuated by a variety of misrepresentations, concealments and other devices by the Prasad Defendants, including the use of grossly inflated and fraudulent appraisal reports, the making of other false statements in connection with the loan applications and the corruption of certain BCCI, S.A. and Agency employees. The Prasad Defendants co-opted these employees in order to obtain approval of the loans detailed herein pursuant to applications that were fraudulent on their face. To the extent certain Agency or BCCI, S.A. employees were aware of and participated in the fraud alleged herein, their knowledge as a matter of law cannot be imputed to the Agency.

3. As a result of this scheme, the Agency, and the Superintendent in the possession of its property, including the monies owned by the Prasad Defendants, have been defrauded of approximately $34 million. Defendants are liable for damages for their fraudulent misconduct.

4. Moreover, as part of a restructuring agreement entered into by and between the Agency and the Prasad Defendants, P.S. and I. Prasad each executed an unconditional guarantee of the

1325015-000-12476

Zurich and P.S. Investment loan obligations to the Agency. No payment has been made under the Guarantee by either P.S. or I. Prasad and by this action the Superintendent seeks payment under the Guarantee.

PARTIES

7. Plaintiff Derrick D. Cephas, the Superintendent of Banks of the State of New York (the "Superintendent"), has his offices at the New York State Banking Department, Two Rector Street, New York, New York. BCCI, S.A. is a bank chartered under the laws of Luxembourg, which, until July 5, 1991, had been doing business in the State of New York as an agency from its principal office at 530 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York, pursuant to Article V of the New York State Banking Law (the "NYBL"). July 5, 1991, the Institut Monetaire Luxembourgeois took possession of BCCI, S.A. in Luxembourg. Following the seizure of the bank in Luxembourg, P. On July 5, 1991, the Acting Superintendent, acting in accordance with and pursuant to the NYBL, took possession of the business and property of the Agency wherever located and the business and property of BCCI, S.A. in the State of New York. Pursuant to Section 618(1) of the NYBL, the Superintendent is required to collect debts due and owing to the Agency. BACKGROUND

Structure of BCCI, S.A.

12. BCCI, S.A., a bank chartered under the laws of Luxembourg and technically headquartered in that country, maintained offices and agencies throughout the world.

13. For the period of time relevant to the instant complaint, BCCI, S.A. was for all intents and purposes headquartered in London, England or later on in Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates. Specifically, during most of the period of time relevant to the instant complaint, proposed loans and other economic transactions in an amount greater than $500,000 were required to be formally approved by the Central Credit Committee of the London office of BCCI, S.A. (the "Central Credit Committee").

14. BCCI, S.A. was operating in the United States in the form of agencies located in New York and various other locations, some of which were closed even prior to the events of July 5, 1991. The primary distinction between an agency and a branch is that an agency is not legally entitled to accept deposits from resident depositors, although it is entitled to accept such deposits from non-residents.

15. In addition, BCCI, S.A. maintained a regional office in New York, the function of which was to generally oversee the operations of the various agencies located in the United States. The United States Regional Office of BCCI, S.A. (the "Regional Office") was, along with the Agency, headquartered at 320 Park Avenue through early 1991 and then relocated to 530 Fifth Avenue in New York, New York.

16. Baji Palkhiwala ("Palkhiwala") assumed the position of regional general manager in February, 1988 and retained the position until in or about June, 1990 when he was replaced.

17. In or about 1987, Tariq Jamil, who had and may still have been a senior executive of the National Bank of Georgia and who subsequently became an officer of BCCI, S.A., introduced P.S. Prasad to employees of the Agency or Regional Office.

Summary of the Fraudulent Loan Transactions

18. Over a period extending from January, 1988 through approximately January, 1991, Zurich and P.S. Investment borrowed approximately $34 million from the Agency for the purchase and refurbishment of five hotels located in New York, North Carolina, Tennessee, Florida and Georgia. The loan transactions were marked by a pattern of fraudulent or grossly inflated appraisals and loan documentation, the diversion of the loaned funds from their intended purpose, as well as, with the exception of the last completed transaction, the lack of any legal representation of the Agency. With the exception of the North Carolina premises, which is in bankruptcy, each of the hotels is transacting business and, on information and belief, is producing significant operating income, none of which has been used to repay the debt owed by the defendants to the Agency, but instead has been and continues to be diverted by the defendants for their own purposes.

19. Moreover, during the same period of time, several loans, supported by fraudulent appraisals, were proposed to and some were approved by the Agency by allegedly non-Prasad-related entities. In reality, the loan applicants were related to the Prasads and that fact was at all times concealed from the Agency.

Caprock Savings and Loan Transaction

(a) The Raleigh Loan Transaction

20. In or about January 1988, P.S. Prasad contacted the Agency concerning a proposed loan from the Agency to finance the purchase of the Raleigh Inn ("Raleigh") in Raleigh, North Carolina (the "Raleigh Loan").

21. At the time of P.S. Prasad's initial inquiry concerning the Raleigh Loan, Raleigh had twice been in and out of bankruptcy proceedings. This fact must have been known to P.S. Prasad and yet at no time during the discussions between himself and the Agency concerning the proposed loan did he reveal the existence of the prior bankruptcy proceedings. Indeed, at all times prior to the disbursement of the loan, P.S. Prasad fraudulently concealed this critical fact from the Agency.

22. In order to induce the Agency to make the loan, P.S. Prasad obtained a grossly inflated appraisal on Raleigh. That appraisal was prepared by Charles W. Smith ("Smith"). The appraisal failed to disclose or in any way reflect the prior bankruptcy filings by Raleigh and vastly overestimated the value of the property. In what became a pattern with the Prasad-related loan requests, no independent appraisal was conducted by the Agency and the loan to Zurich was made in significant part on the strength of and in reliance upon the appraisal provided by P.S. Prasad.

23. On or about January 26, 1988, the Agency made two loans to P.S. Investment, one in the amount of $3.5 million and the second in the amount of $2 million. Both loans were advanced to finance the purchase of Raleigh from Borg-Warner Financial Services ("Borg-Warner"). The $3.5 million loan was supported by a first mortgage on Raleigh, while the $2 million loan was supported by a third mortgage on Raleigh.

24. Also on or about January 26, 1988, Caprock Savings and Loan of Dallas, Texas ("Caprock S & L"), of which George Dillman ("Dillman") was the Chairman and William C. Hatfield ("Hatfield") was a director, lent $375,000 to P.S. Investment for the express purpose of bringing current the outstanding property taxes on Raleigh. This Caprock S & L loan was supported by a second mortgage on Raleigh. The credit proposal submitted to the Central Credit Committee for approval of the two Agency loans made no mention of this $375,000 loan by Caprock S & L.

25. On or about January 26, 1988, simultaneous with the two Agency loans and that by Caprock S & L, Caprock S & L issued a $3.5 million standby letter of credit in favor of the Agency on the condition that in the event of a drawdown on the letter of credit, Caprock S & L would be assigned the first mortgage interest on Raleigh obtained by the Agency in connection with its $3.5 million loan to P.S. Investment.

(b) The Raleigh Purchase Transaction

26. Prior to the Raleigh Loan, Caprock S & L had set up two special purpose subsidiaries, namely Caprock Hospitality and Caprock Properties, both under another Caprock S & L subsidiary: Title USA Insurance Corporation ("Title USA"). Caprock Hospitality was created for the purpose of holding Raleigh.

27. Raleigh was purchased by P.S. Investment from Borg-Warner with the proceeds of the Raleigh Loan.

28. On or about February 26, 1988, the Bank of Baroda made a loan in the amount of $3.3 million to P.S. Investment in connection with which the prior $2 million loan of the Agency to P.S. Investment was subordinated, relegating the Agency's then third mortgage interest on Raleigh to a fourth interest.

29. On or about May 24, 1988, P.S. Prasad was contacted by Dillman concerning a proposed agreement between Great West Bancshares, Inc. ("Great West"), the parent company of Caprock S

& L by virtue of its ownership of 94% of the Caprock S & L stock, and P.S. Prasad or an entity controlled by him. The proposed agreement related to the transfer of Raleigh to Great West, or to a separate company whose equity was then owned by Great West or Caprock S & L, without any assumption of the debt associated with Raleigh by the transferee company and with the issuance to P.S. Prasad of certain stock in Great West.

30. On or about July 15, 1988, P.S. Prasad allegedly delivered preferred stock shares of Great West with a face amount of $3.8 million to his North Carolina attorney, Stephen F. Horne III ("Horne"), to be kept in Horne's custody for the benefit of the Agency, to which he had allegedly assigned the shares. On information and belief, these shares were at no point tendered to the Agency.

31. On information and belief, sometime during 1988, P.S. Investment sold Raleigh, subject to the Agency mortgage, to Caprock Hospitality.

32. On or about April 6, 1989, Hatfield as executive vice president of Caprock Hospitality and on Caprock Hospitality letterhead requested that the Agency extend a $3.5 million line of credit to Caprock Hospitality and release the $3.5 million standby letter of credit issued by Caprock S & L in favor of the Agency. In exchange, Caprock S & L was to provide or cause to be provided $1 million in deposits with the Agency and Caprock Hospitality was to obtain a $700,000 letter of credit in favor of the Agency to be presented for payment in the event of a default by Caprock Hospitality on its obligation to the Agency. The letter proposal further stated that the deposits and letter of credit would be provided within three weeks of the Agency's written acceptance of the proposal.

33. On information and belief, the letter proposal was never accepted by the Agency and the proposed transaction was never consummated.

34. On or about May 24, 1989, Caprock S & L extended the maturity date of the $3.5 million standby letter of credit issued in the Agency's favor on or about January 26, 1988 from May 30, 1989 to June 30, 1989.

35. On or about June 30, 1989 the Agency made a demand on the $3.5 standby letter of credit issued by Caprock S & L in connection with which the first mortgage interest held by the Agency on Raleigh was transferred to Caprock S & L.

36. By order of the Office of Thrift Supervision, Caprock S & L was placed into conservatorship and the Resolution Trust Corporation ("RTC") was appointed as its conservator on August 1, 1989. By operation of law, the RTC became the beneficial owner of the lien held by Caprock S & L on Raleigh.

37. In or about November, 1989 and in connection with the sale of Raleigh to Caprock Hospitality, P.S. Prasad approached the Agency concerning a loan to Zurich with respect to Raleigh, which at this point in time had been renamed and was doing business as a member of the Howard Johnson chain of hotels.

Specifically, P.S. Prasad requested a line of credit in Zurich's favor in the amount of $11.5 million.

38. The alleged purpose of the $11.5 million line of credit was threefold: to repay the $2 million Raleigh Loan and to purchase the RTC and Bank of Baroda liens, both for less than their face value, which if accomplished would have given the Agency a first, rather than a third lien on Raleigh.

39. The $11.5 million line of credit was again approved in large part on the strength of a grossly inflated appraisal prepared by Smith, which again severely exaggerated the value of the property. On December 12, 1989, subsequent to the approval of the $11.5 million line of credit, but prior to its disbursement, Caprock Hospitality, the owner of Raleigh, filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code. The bankruptcy filing by Caprock Hospitality was never reported to the Agency by P.S. Prasad or Zurich and was at no time reported to the Central Credit Committee, which had responsibility for evaluating and approving the proposed $11.5 million line of credit.

40. In or about March, 1990, and in connection with the $11.5 million line of credit, the deed of trust with respect to Raleigh was amended to reflect Zurich as the borrower in place of P.S. Investment.

41. Subsequent to the approval of the $11.5 million line of credit, Zurich drew down $2 million and used those funds to repay the Agency the outstanding debt on the Raleigh Loan. While a primary justification for the line of credit was to finance the purchase of the RTC lien on the property, it quickly became clear that the RTC did not and never had any intention of selling its lien to Zurich, despite P.S. Prasad's representations to the contrary at the time of his proposal to the Agency.

42. In or about May, 1990, Zurich obtained a $2.5 million disbursement on the line of credit, ostensibly for the purpose of purchasing the second lien on Raleigh that was held by the Bank of Baroda. In fact, however, Zurich fraudulently diverted the $2.5 million to purchase a second hotel, a Days Inn in Tarpon Springs, Florida ("Tarpon").

43. After the Agency discovered the fraud and demanded an explanation, P.S. Prasad asserted that he orchestrated the purchase of Tarpon in order to negotiate a lien swap with the Bank of Baroda of the Tarpon lien and the Bank of Baroda lien on Raleigh. P.S. Prasad then granted the Agency a mortgage interest in Tarpon. The Agency promptly took steps to record its mortgage. Almost immediately after the Agency recorded its mortgage interest in Tarpon, Harry McMullen ("McMullen") recorded a second mortgage on the property. At no time prior to its independent discovery of the McMullen mortgage interest, was the Agency made aware of the existence of any other persons or entities with a potential security interest in Tarpon.

44. Zurich continued to draw down on the $11.5 million line of credit for the purported purpose of refurbishing Raleigh.

45. In or about May, 1990, P.S. Prasad requested a disbursement of $2 million on the $11.5 million line of credit, representing that he had negotiated a deal with the RTC for the purchase of its lien on Raleigh.

46. On or about May 4, 1990, P.S. Prasad mailed a letter to Raghu Bahadur, then an employee of the Agency, requesting that the $2 million be deposited into the trust account of his attorney in North Carolina where it would be held until the transaction with the RTC was consummated. The letter request was approved by Shahbaz Raheem ("Raheem"), the Senior Credit Officer at the Regional Office until in or about January, 1991, and the money was deposited into the account designated by P.S. Prasad as that of his attorney. Subsequent to the deposit, the Agency learned that the account into which the deposit was made was in fact the personal account of P.S. Prasad and further that no deal had ever been reached with the RTC concerning its lien on Raleigh.

47. Upon learning that the $2 million had been fraudulently diverted into P.S. Prasad's personal account, officials at the Agency demanded an explanation from P.S. Prasad. P.S. Prasad explained the diversion of funds by stating that he had used the $2 million to refurbish yet another property which had been purchased with financing from the Agency, the Quality Hotel at Laguardia Airport in New York City ("Laguardia"). The Agency immediately demanded evidence that the $2 million had in fact been used to refurbish Laguardia, in response to which P.S.

Prasad produced a series of checks primarily made out to Right Connection Plumbing in the amount of $9,000, just below the legal reporting requirement of $10,000. Despite the Agency's demands, P.S. Prasad refused to provide complete copies of the checks, providing instead only xerox copies of the front of each check. P.S. Prasad thus deliberately stonewalled the Agency's attempts to verify that the checks had in fact been endorsed and cashed by their alleged recipient.

48. With the exception of the original two loans, totalling $5.5 million, which were repaid by a drawdown on the $3.5 million letter of credit issued by Caprock S & L and with $2 million advanced on the $11.5 million line of credit, no portion of the loans made to Zurich in connection with Raleigh has ever been repaid.

Chattanooga Transaction

49. In or about May, 1989, P.S. Prasad approached the Agency concerning a loan to P.S. Investment, the second of the Prasads' wholly-owned and controlled investment vehicles, in order to finance the refurbishment of the Ramada Inn in Chattanooga, Tennessee (the "Ramada Inn"), a property owned by P.S. Investment. The amount of the proposed loan was $500,000, the maximum dollar amount that could be disbursed without first obtaining the approval of the Central Credit Committee.

50. The $500,000 loan was made to P.S. Investment secured by a second mortgage in the Ramada Inn, a valueless property.

The first mortgage is and was at the time held by the Bank of India.

51. No portion of the $500,000 loan made to P.S. Investment in connection with the Ramada Inn has ever been repaid.

52. In or about May, 1989, representatives of the Federal Reserve Board, the United States government agency with primary responsibility for regulating the operations of BCCI, S.A. in the United States, examined the books and records of the Agency. Observing that Zurich was wholly-owned by the Prasads and that the disbursements were being used for the purchase of real estate in a declining market, the Federal Reserve Board cautioned against further loans to the Prasad Defendants. The Agency nonetheless continued to lend to the Prasads' investment vehicles.

Macon Hilton Transaction

53. In or about August, 1989, P.S. Prasad again approached the Agency concerning his plans to purchase a hotel, the Downtown Macon Hilton ("Macon") in Macon, Georgia. Zurich sought to borrow $7.5 million to purchase and refurbish Macon, which was then in danger of losing its franchise rights as a member of the Hilton chain of hotels on account of its failure to meet the minimum Hilton certification standards. With respect to Macon, P.S. Prasad again obtained and provided the Agency with an appraisal prepared by Smith on which the Agency relied heavily in approving P.S. Prasad's request on behalf of Zurich for a $7.5 million loan.

54. The Agency disbursed the $7.5 million and Zurich purchased Macon.

55. No portion of the $7.5 million loan made to Zurich in connection with Macon has ever been repaid.

Management of the Prasad-Related Loans

56. In or about February, 1988, Palkhiwala assumed the position of Regional General Manager of the Regional Office.

57. In or about November, 1989, Raheem authored a memorandum, which he sent to Palkhiwala, suggesting that the Prasad-related loans, as well as a limited number of certain other large loans, should be handled only by Z. Chaudry, Raheem and Palkhiwala. Sometime after receiving the memorandum, Palkhiwala revised it to limit the management of the Prasad-related loans to Raheem and Palkhiwala.

Marketplace Georgia Transaction

58. In or about November, 1989, Dillman approached the Agency concerning a proposed $250,000 line of credit in order to refurbish Market Place Georgia, a company which Dillman fraudulently stated owned a shopping mall in Valdosta, Georgia. Dillman held himself out as the owner of Market Place Georgia along with Gerish (Gary) Sharma ("Sharma") and further stated that he was the president of Market Place Georgia. In fact, Dillman was neither the owner nor the president of Market Place Georgia. Dillman also represented that the proposed loan was unrelated to P.S. Prasad. In reality, Market Place Georgia was purchased by P.S. Prasad in 1984 and he subsequently conveyed a fifty percent ownership interest in the property to Dr. Vithal Kusuma. The property was then allegedly transferred to Dillman and then to Sharma, but neither transfer was ever formalized and thus never consummated.

59. The credit line was approved and the initial $100,000 was disbursed and was used to repay a loan from the Agency to Dillman that had been collateralized by a $100,000 cash deposit of P.S. Prasad which was released at the time of the repayment. Of the remaining $150,000, $123,000 was fraudulently diverted to an entity controlled by P.S. Prasad, and $27,000 was disbursed to pay fees incurred in the transaction and for payment to Dillman. In sum, while the proposed Market Place Georgia transaction was presented as one wholly unrelated to the Prasads, P.S. Prasad and a Prasad-controlled entity were in fact together the recipients of the total dollar amount of the Agency disbursement.

60. Dillman executed a personal guarantee of the Market Place Georgia loan subsequent to which he filed for relief under the United States Bankruptcy Code.

Laguardia Transaction

61. In or about January, 1990, P.S. Prasad approached the Agency concerning a loan to Zurich in the amount of $14.1 million, $10.1 million to finance the purchase of a then welfare hotel at Laguardia Airport and $4.0 million for its refurbishment.

62. Again an appraisal was presented by P.S. Prasad to the Agency in connection with the loan application. The appraisal valued the Laguardia property at $19.2 million, however, that appraisal fraudulently included the value of the adjoining parking lot, which had previously been sold to P.S. Prasad's brother, Murali Krishnan Ponnapula ("Ponnapula"), with the proceeds of a $2.0 million loan from the Bank of India.

63. The Agency conditioned the approval of the Laguardia loan on the location of a bona fide purchaser for Macon. In order to circumvent this condition, P.S. Prasad manufactured two purchase offers for Macon, at least one of which was a fictitious $9 million offer made by Sharma.

64. In or about September, 1990, the Agency, then under new management, lent an additional $208,000 to Zurich in order to finance the completion of the renovations necessary before Laguardia could open for business.

65. At this point in time, the Agency had retained outside counsel to explore the complexities of the loan relationship between the Agency and the investment vehicles controlled by the Prasads. Prior to the final documentation of the Laguardia transaction, the Agency's outside counsel discovered that the adjoining parking lot was not available as security for the proposed loan. Counsel also discovered the diversion of funds from the Raleigh Loan, which P.S. Prasad alleged were used to refurbish Laguardia, and as a result increased the Agency's mortgage interest in Laguardia to $16,308,000.

66. No portion of the $14.1 million loan to Zurich in connection with Laguardia has ever been repaid.

Cox Distribution Transaction

67. In or about May, 1990, Mahesh Shetty ("Shetty"), holding himself out as a representative of Cox Distribution ("Cox"), contacted the Agency, concerning a possible loan to Cox from the Agency. Shetty, the then financial director of Zurich and the Secretary of Cox, described Cox, a company headquartered in Greensboro, North Carolina, as in the business of distributing the trailer products of Cox Trailer, of which Shetty was the financial director, and deliberately misrepresented Cox as totally unrelated to Zurich or the Prasads. In fact, however, Cox Trailers, the company whose products Cox allegedly distributed, is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Zurich and the documents transmitted to the Agency by facsimile for the review of Palkhiwala and Raheem concerning the proposed loan bore the imprint of Zurich's facsimile machine.

68. The loan amount requested by Shetty was $500,000, again the maximum dollar amount that can be disbursed without first obtaining the approval of the Central Credit Committee.

69. In support of the $500,000 loan application, Shetty provided the Agency with an appraisal estimating the value of Cox's principle place of business at $1 million. Subsequent to the transaction, the Agency learned that the appraisal company and appraiser who allegedly provided the $1 million valuation did not exist and no appraisal had ever been conducted on the Cox business.

70. The documents in connection with the Cox transaction were prepared by Horne, on behalf of Shetty and Cox. The real estate closing on the transaction was also overseen by Horne.

71. Raheem and Palkhiwala approved the $500,000 disbursement. Despite the representation by Shetty that Cox was unrelated to the Prasads, the loan was approved by Palkhiwala and Raheem pursuant to the memorandum of Palkhiwala concerning the restricted approval process required for loans to the Prasad-entities.

72. Shetty fraudulently represented that the $500,000 loan was to be secured by a first mortgage on a warehouse in North Carolina. In fact the Agency was granted a security interest in a defunct service station located directly across the street from the warehouse.

73. The service station on which the Agency was granted a $500,000 mortgage was purchased by Cox from Margaret Norville for $80,000 at or about the time of the loan disbursement by the Agency. Horne, the attorney on the Cox transaction, was, at the time of the purchase, the trustee of an estate that was owed $25,000 by Norville, which was deducted from the $80,000 purchase price of the service station.

74. No portion of the $500,000 loan made to Cox has ever been repaid.

Bell Petroleum Transaction

75. In or about May, 1990, Samuel A. Jasti ("Jasti"), P.S. Prasad's brother-in-law and the president of Bell, contacted the Agency concerning a proposed loan in the amount of $500,000 to Bell Petroleum ("Bell"), a company headquartered in Corsicana, Texas.

76. Again, Bell was fraudulently presented as an entity unrelated to the Prasads, but, as was the case with the Cox transaction, the documentation transmitted to the Agency in support of the loan request bore the facsimile imprint of Zurich. Contrary to Jasti's representations concerning the ownership of Bell, it is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Regal International, Inc. ("Regal"), a publicly held company engaged in the manufacture and sale of various expendable rubber products and headquartered in Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey, in which P.S. Prasad owned a majority interest. Vijay Dandapani ("Dandapani"), the then president of Zurich was also the president of Regal at the time of the proposed loan to Bell and Hatfield, the prior chief executive officer of Bell and director of Caprock S & L, was also a director. Shetty has been the president and chief executive officer of Regal since February 28, 1991.

77. Again, Jasti's loan request was supported by an appraisal and accounting statement. The appraisal, on the letterhead of an appraisal firm in Corsicana, Texas, estimated the value of the property owned by Bell at $2 million.

78. Prior to the disbursement of the $500,000 loan, an employee of the Agency telephoned the auditing company in order to confirm the value of the property owned by Bell. After telephoning the auditing company, the Agency learned that Bell was not a client of the company, that the signator of the appraisal was not employed by the company and that the company had at no point in time performed an audit for Bell or of the property allegedly owned by Bell. Moreover, the appraisal company did not exist at all.

79. After learning of the fraudulent documentation, the Agency rejected the proposed $500,000 disbursement to Bell.

Change in Agency and Regional Office Management

80. In or about March and April, 1990, the Central Credit Committee demanded information from Palkhiwala and Raheem concerning the status of the Prasad-entities' loan relationship with the Agency. The Central Credit Committee expressed its concern that significant amounts of money were loaned to Zurich and P.S. Investment, primarily on the purported strength of the Prasads' own financial condition, and that no portion of the loans had ever been repaid. The Central Credit Committee requested updated information on the security valuations, the personal net worth of the Prasads and other information relevant to the ability and intention of Zurich and P.S. Investment to service their $34 million debt obligation. On information and belief, Palkhiwala and Raheem never provided the Central Credit Committee with the requested information.

81. In or about June, 1990, Palkhiwala was replaced as the Regional General Manager, who, along with other Senior Officers hired at or about the same time by BCCI, S.A., staffed the loan recovery unit at the Agency, a then newly created unit whose purpose was to take steps to restructure and recover on deficient loan obligations owed to the Agency.

82. Despite the fact that Palkhiwala's replacement was hired and commenced work as the Regional General Manager in or about June, 1990, Palkhiwala refused to leave New York until he was threatened with termination by the BCCI, S.A. home office. Upon that threat, Palkhiwala was transferred to BCCI, S.A. in London in January, 1991. Raheem similarly left the employ of the Regional Office in January, 1991.

83. After the replacement of Palkhiwala and the installation of the loan recovery unit, loans to Prasad and Zurich came to a virtual standstill. In fact, subsequent to the change in management, only $258,000 in additional funds was disbursed. These final disbursements, one in the amount of $208,000 and the second in the amount of $50,000, were both advances to Zurich for the express purpose of completing the renovation of Laguardia, which at that point had not opened for business. These final disbursements were made in order to finance the remaining renovations and open the hotel for business, which the loan recovery unit determined was the most likely means of obtaining payment on the loan obligations.

Attempts to Restructure the Loans

84. In the Fall of 1990, after the installation of the loan recovery unit, attempts were made by the Agency to restructure the loans to Zurich and P.S. Investment. The first attempt at restructuring ended in failure with the refusal of P.S. Prasad to execute the proposed restructuring agreement on account of its inconsistency with the "spirit" of his prior relationship with the Agency.

85. By January, 1991, the then central headquarters of BCCI, S.A. in Abu Dhabi agreed that a restructuring of the Prasad-related loans was appropriate.

86. By March, 1991, the Agency and the Prasads on behalf of their investment vehicles, Zurich and P.S. Investment, reached an agreement on a restructuring plan (the "Restructuring Agreement"). The Restructuring Agreement included the execution of a personal guarantee by both P.S. Prasad and I. Prasad of the Zurich and P.S. Investment loan obligations.

87. The Restructuring Agreement obligated the Prasad Defendants to allow independent auditors retained by the Agency to evaluate each of the hotel properties in order to determine the revenue stream generated by each of the properties.

88. After the execution of the Restructuring Agreement, the Agency dispensed its independent auditors to both Macon and Laguardia in order to assess the revenue stream of each property. Macon was being operated at the time by P.S. Prasad's brother, Parthasarath (Pasha) Sanjeeva Ponnapula, who refused the Agency's auditors access to the Macon property and its books and records, in direct violation of the terms of the Restructuring Agreement.

89. The Agency's independent auditors were similarly denied access to the books and records of Laguardia.

90. No payments were ever made to the Agency under the Restructuring Agreement, and no records or explanation as to the use or whereabouts of the substantial revenue generated by the properties discussed herein has ever been provided to the Agency or the Superintendent.

FIRST CLAIM
Under 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c)

91. Plaintiff repeats and realleges the allegations contained in paragraphs 1 through 90 inclusive, as if fully set forth herein.

92. At all relevant times, Laguardia, Tarpon, the Ramada Inn, Macon and Raleigh were enterprises engaged in, and the activities of which affected, interstate and foreign commerce within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. §§ 1961(4) and 1962(c).

93. At all relevant times, defendants P.S. Prasad, I. Prasad, Zurich and P.S. Investment were "persons" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. §§ 1961(3) and 1962(c) employed by or associated with Laguardia, Tarpon, the Ramada Inn and Macon in that (a) Zurich, the wholly-owned and operated investment vehicle of P.S. and I. Prasad, owns and operates Laguardia; (b) Zurich owns and operates Tarpon; (c) P.S. Investment, the second wholly-owned and operated investment vehicle of P.S. and I. Prasad, owns and operates the Ramada Inn; (d) Zurich owns and operates Macon; and (e) Zurich owned and operated Raleigh at all times prior to its bankruptcy filing.

94. Each of the defendants participated directly or indirectly in the conduct of the affairs of the enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity in committing multiple acts of mail and wire fraud, in violation of 18 U.S.C. §§ 1341 and 1343, in furtherance of a systematic scheme to defraud the Agency in the making of the loans set forth herein, the fraudulent diversion of the proceeds of those loans for unintended purposes and the diversion of funds generated by the operation of the enterprise for unknown purposes, not the repayment of the approximately $34 million total principal amount of the Agency loans to Zurich and P.S. Investment.

95. In executing such scheme or attempting to do so, and in furtherance thereof, persons, including the defendants, acting on behalf of the defendants placed in authorized depositories for mail matter to be sent and delivered to the Agency by the Postal Service and placed on the wires correspondence necessary to the success of defendants' scheme, as described below. Each such transmittal constituted a separate violation of the mail or wire fraud statutes, 18 U.S.C. §§ 1341 and 1343 by each of the defendants. A sample of such mailings and wires is described below.

(a) a facsimile transmitted on May 27, 1988 from P.S. Prasad as President of P.S. Investment and on P.S. Investment letterhead to the then Regional Manager of BCCI, Prasad on the letterhead of Great West Bancshares ("Great West") detailing a proposed transaction involving the transfer of ownership of Raleigh to Great West or to a separate entity whose equity was owned by Caprock S & L, in exchange for the issuance of stock shares to P.S. Prasad.

(c) a facsimile transmitted on October 12, 1988 from P.S. Prasad on P.S. Investment letterhead to Raheem representing that P.S. Prasad had reached an agreement to purchase the Ramada Inn and requesting the immediate approval of a $200,000 overdraft so that he could meet the deposit requirement on the transaction.

(d) a facsimile transmitted on November 21, 1989 from P.S. Prasad on Zurich letterhead to Palkhiwala requesting a wire transfer in the amount of $500,000 to an account of Title USA at the Texan Commerce Bank in connection with the acquisition of Caprock Hospitality stock by Zurich and further requesting the wire transfer of $250,000 to a Zurich account maintained at Planters National Bank in Rocky Mount, North Carolina.

(e) a facsimile transmitted on December 1, 1989 by P.S. Prasad to Amir Saleem at the Agency on the facsimile cover sheet of Zurich attaching a projected cash flow analysis for Laguardia for the years 1990, 1991 and 1992.

(f) a facsimile transmitted on February 1, 1990 from Shetty on Zurich letterhead to Raheem enclosing a proposal for the issuance by the Agency of a standby letter of credit in the amount of $11.5 million in favor of Zurich and/or P.S. Investment, which had been agreed to and accepted by Dandapani on behalf of both Zurich and P.S. Investment on January 26, 1990.

(g) a letter dated and mailed on or about March 20, 1990, by P.S. Prasad as Chairman of Zurich and on Zurich letterhead to Raheem requesting the consideration by the Agency of a proposed purchase by unnamed persons of both Macon and Laguardia for the purchase amount of $10 million, to be applied to the total outstanding loan obligation to Zurich of $21.5 million, with the assumption by the unnamed buyers of the remaining $11.5 million loan obligation and the payment of a $300,000 transaction fee to the Agency.

(h) a letter dated and mailed on or about March 22, 1990 by P.S. Prasad on Zurich letterhead to an unidentified employee of BCCI, S.A. requesting authorization of an $8 million drawdown on the $11.5 million line of credit for the following purposes: (i) repaying a $2.5 million overdraft of Zurich; (ii) repaying a $3 million overdraft of P.S.

Investment; and (iii) the purchase of the Bank of Baroda mortgage on Raleigh for the sum of $2.5 million and the letter further requests the remittance of $3.5 million to the trust account of a law firm in Memphis, Tennessee to finance the purchase of the RTC lien on Raleigh.

(i) a facsimile transmitted on April 30, 1990 from Zurich to the Agency of an undated loan request to the Agency from Bell for a loan in the amount of $500,000, secured by the assignment of receivables estimated at a value of $800,000 and accompanied by a March 4, 1990 review of the accompanying financial statement of Bell performed by Anthony Simmons, Certified Public Accountant, and presented on the letterhead of Bailey Vaught Robertson & Co. of Dallas, Texas.

(j) a facsimile transmitted on May 4, 1990 from P.S. Prasad on Zurich letterhead to Palkhiwala requesting the immediate wire transfer of $2.3 million to a described trust account for the purpose of financing the purchase of the RTC lien on Raleigh and the letter further states that the second mortgage on Raleigh held by the Bank of Baroda was then in the process of being assigned to BCCI, S.A.

(k) a facsimile transmitted on June 5, 1990 on the facsimile cover sheet of Zurich to Ruben Ahmed of BCCI, S.A. from Pat White providing a list of trade references for Bell as per a facsimile request dated May 17, 1990.

(l) a facsimile transmitted on June 21, 1990 signed by Ruben V. Aragon as Chairman of the Board of Bell and on the letterhead of Bell regarding a sixty-day extension in which to obtain a new appraisal on the Corsicana, Texas property, which was being pledged as collateral for a proposed $500,000 loan to Bell.

(m) a facsimile transmitted on July 6, 1990 from Zurich to the Agency of a letter offer dated July 5, 1990 for the purchase of Macon by Reis Partners, Inc. for the purchase price of $8.5 million.

(n) a letter dated July 6, 1990 from Dandapani on Zurich letterhead and sent by facsimile to Raheem on July 6, 1990 explaining that the $2 million advance on the $11.5 million line of credit, which had been disbursed for the purpose of financing the purchase of the RTC lien on Raleigh, was instead used for the payment of union contractors who had been performing work on Laguardia.

96. Further, each of the defendants participated directly or indirectly in the conduct of the affairs of the enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity in committing multiple acts of bank fraud, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1344, in furtherance of a systematic scheme to defraud the Agency in the making of the loans set forth herein, the fraudulent diversion of the proceeds of those loans for unintended purposes and the diversion of funds generated by the operation of the enterprise for unknown purposes, not the repayment of the approximately $34 million total principal amount of the Agency loans to Zurich and P.S. Investment. As set forth above, those acts included, but were not limited to the following:

(a) each of the acts of mail and wire fraud set forth above.

(b) P.S. Prasad provided the Agency with two copies of his consolidated personal financial statement, both purporting to report the status of his financial condition as of June 30, 1989 and the first setting forth the amount of cash on hand and in banks as $150,000, with the second setting forth the amount of such cash as $10,150,000 and further with the first statement valuing P.S. Prasad's real estate holdings as of June 30, 1989 at $20,000, with the second financial statement for the identical time period placing a value on the property holdings at $15,020,000.

97. Each of the aforesaid violations constitutes an instance of racketeering activity as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 1961(1).

98. The multiple acts of racketeering activity by the Prasad Defendants were neither isolated nor sporadic, but were interrelated, part of a common and continuous pattern of fraudulent schemes, and perpetrated for the same or similar purposes, thus constituting a pattern of racketeering activity as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 1961(5).

99. The Superintendent in possession of the business and property of BCCI, S.A. in the State of New York and the Agency has suffered financial loss as the proximate result of the participation of the defendants in the conduct of the affairs of the enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c), in that the assets of the Agency available for distribution to its creditors have been fraudulently diverted, both by the diversion of the funds loaned to Zurich and P.S. Investment and the ciphoning off and diversion for unknown purposes, not the repayment of the Prasad Defendants' loan obligations, of revenues generated by the defendants' operation of the enterprise. By reason of the foregoing, defendants are liable to the Superintendent for threefold the damages the Superintendent has sustained, and the cost of this suit, as well as a reasonable attorney's fee.

SECOND CLAIM
Under 18 U.S.C. § 1962(d)

100. Plaintiff repeats and realleges paragraphs 1 through 90 inclusive, as if fully set forth herein.

101. By reason of the circumstances and events set forth above, the defendants, along with others unknown, unlawfully, willfully and knowingly conspired to violate the provisions of 18 U.S.C. § 1962(c).

102. In furtherance of their conspiracy, and to effect its objectives, defendants each committed overt acts in the Southern District of New York, in that the defendants sent or had sent numerous communications to the Agency or Regional Office in New York, New York from in or about 1988 to in or about 1991, and met with officers and employees of the Agency and Regional Office at various times in 1991 concerning the negotiation and execution of the Restructuring Agreement.

103. As a proximate result of defendants' conspiracy, plaintiff suffered financial loss in the amount of at least $34 million and such other amounts as may be proven at trial. By reason of the foregoing, defendants are liable to the Superintendent for threefold the damages the Superintendent has sustained, and the cost of this suit, as well as a reasonable attorney's fee.

THIRD CLAIM
Common Law Fraud and Deceit

104. Plaintiff repeats and realleges the allegations contained in paragraphs 1 through 90 inclusive, as if set forth fully herein.

105. As set forth above, defendants conceived and implemented a fraudulent scheme to induce the Agency into lending approximately $34 million to the Prasad-owned and controlled investment vehicles and concealed such fraud through various devices and misrepresentations that perpetuated the fraud.

106. As set forth above, defendants accomplished this fraudulent scheme through various misrepresentations, omissions and other devices upon which the Agency reasonably relied to its detriment, and upon which the defendants intended the Agency to so rely, including a series of fraudulent and misleading appraisals and other loan documentation.

107. The Superintendent has been damaged by the defendants' fraudulent scheme by reason of their fraudulent inducement of the lending of such funds by the Agency and by concealment of that fraud through various devices and misrepresentations that perpetuated the fraud and by reason of the failure of the defendants to pay sums lawfully due under the initial loan agreements and Restructuring Agreement.

108. As a proximate result of the foregoing, the Superintendent has been damaged in an amount of at least $34 million and such other amounts as may be proven at trial, which amounts plaintiff is entitled to recover from said defendants jointly and severally.

FOURTH CLAIM
(Against Defendants P.S. Prasad and I. Prasad)

109. Plaintiff repeats and realleges the allegations contained in paragraphs 1 through 90 inclusive, as if fully set forth herein.

110. On March 14 1991, the Prasad Defendants entered into the Restructuring Agreement with the Agency relating to the following loans:

(a) the Macon Loan, made to Zurich on or around August 28, 1989, for the principal amount of $7,500,000;

(b) the Raleigh Loans, the first made to Zurich on or around November 8, 1989 for the principal amount of $11,500,000;

(c) the Chattanooga Loan, made to Zurich on or around May 18, 1989 for the principal amount of $500,000;

1325015-000-12509

(d) the Tarpon Springs Loan, made to P.S. Investment on or around April 5, 1990 for the principal amount of $3,100,000; and

(e) the Laguardia Loans, made to Zurich for the principal amount of $16,258,000.

111. The Restructuring Agreement provides, inter alia, for (i) the creation of a revolving credit facility in favor of Zurich and P.S. Investment in the amount of $250,000 (the "Credit Facility"), (ii) the extension of three term notes in favor of Zurich and P.S. Investment in the aggregate amount of $30,000,000 and (iii) the extension of a loan to the Prasads in the amount of $4,000,000.

112. Pursuant to the Restructuring Agreement the revolving credit facility is to bear interest at 1% over the prime rate of interest published in the Wall Street Journal and each of the three term notes as well as the $4,000,000 loan is to be repaid with interest at a rate of 8.33% per annum (the "Notes")

113. On or about March 14, 1991 and in connection with the Notes and Credit Facility, Zurich and P.S. Investment executed certain Security Agreements (the "Security Agreements").

114. Under the Security Agreements, Zurich and P.S. Investment granted the Agency a security interest in all of each company's right, title and interest in existing and future (i) contracts, (ii) accounts, contract rights and general intangibles, (iii) equipment, (iv) inventory, and (v) all proceeds and products arising out of or in connection with:

Laguardia, Macon, Tarpon Springs, Chattanooga (on which the Agency possessed a second mortgage) and Raleigh.

115. The Security Agreements further provide that the obligations of Zurich and P.S. Investment shall become immediately due and payable upon certain events of default, including, inter alia, non-payment by the Prasad Defendants.

116. In connection with the Restructuring Agreement, P.S. Prasad and I. Prasad each executed an absolute and unconditional guarantee of the indebtedness of Zurich and P.S. Investment under the Restructuring Agreement. A true and complete copy of the guarantee of P.S. and I. Prasad is annexed as Exhibit A.

117. Both the Restructuring Agreement in Section 7.01(n) and the Guarantee contain specific waiver of notice provisions prior to collection upon the Guarantee.

118. To date, no payment has been made under the Restructuring Agreement by either Zurich or P.S. Investment, despite demands for payment by the Agency, constituting an event of default under the Security Agreements.

119. Further, no payments have been made by the Prasads under the Guarantee.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff the Superintendent of Banks of the State of New York in possession of the business and property of BCCI, S.A. in New York and the business and property of the New York Agency of BCCI, S.A., prays for a judgment in his favor as follows:

1325015-000-12511

(a) On the First Claim against the defendants for $34,000,000 in damages with accrued interest under the Loan and Restructuring Agreements, trebled pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 1964(c), and attorneys fees;

(b) On the Second Claim against the defendants for $34,000,000 in damages with accrued interest under the Loan and Restructuring Agreements, trebled pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 1964(c), and attorneys fees;

(c) On the Third Claim against the defendants jointly and severally, for damages in the amount of $34,000,000 with accrued interest under the Loan and Restructuring Agreements;

(d) On the Fourth Claim against the defendants P.S. Prasad and I. Prasad, pursuant to the Guarantee, for principal and interest due and owing by Zurich and P.S. Investment under the Restructuring Agreement; and

(e) Granting Plaintiff the Superintendent such other, further and different relief as to the Court may seem just and proper;

all together with the costs and disbursements of this action.

Dr. P.S. Prasad allegedly owes $34 million to BCCI — more than any other U.S. citizen. The bank's liquidator wants the money, but his lawyer says, "I don't think he'll be back here tomorrow."

On 8/19/92, SSA [redacted] and SA [redacted] b6 b7C discussed the possibility of interviewing [redacted] during the trip to London on 8/31/92 to 9/4/92. Since the interview of [redacted] was not scheduled until 9/2-3/92, SAs [redacted] and [redacted] would have an open date to conduct a pertinent interview of [redacted] concerning a specific transaction of [redacted] and a general discussion about [redacted]. SSA [redacted] approved of the interview and recommended calling [redacted] to arrange the meeting.

On 8/20/92, SA [redacted] telephonically contacted [redacted] b6 b7C s attorney in the absence of [redacted] concerning an interview of [redacted] on 9/1/92. [redacted] was advised that the interview would be conducted by SAs [redacted] and [redacted] and the interview would concern [redacted] and [redacted] advised that Trial Attorney [redacted] had also contacted him to arrange an interview for himself and two attorneys from Florida concerning [redacted] and CenTrust Bank. [redacted] stated that he would contact [redacted] to discuss possible times for the interview, and he requested SA [redacted] to call him the next day around 11:30 AM, EST.

On 8/21/92, SA [redacted] spoke with [redacted] as scheduled. b6 b7C [redacted] advised that [redacted] had no concerns discussing the matters previously mentioned; however, he would like to conduct the interviews requested by [redacted] and SA [redacted] on the same day, preferably 9/2/92. SA [redacted] explained that 9/2 & 3/92 were not good days, as the SAs had prior engagements that could not be changed. [redacted] stated that [redacted] said the afternoon of 9/1/92

Later on the same day, 8/21/92, SA [redacted] telephonically contacted Trial Attorney Matthews concerning the above discussions with [redacted] SA [redacted] explained that the SAs interview of [redacted] was not expected to take longer than 1 hour, which should leave enough time for the Florida AUSAs to speak with [redacted] asked if 9/4/92 was a possible date for the interview. SA [redacted] explained that 9/4/92 would not work for the SAs, as they were scheduled to return to the U.S. that morning; however, since the FBI had no request from the Florida AUSAs for the FBI to conduct an interview of [redacted], the attorneys could try to meet with [redacted] on 9/4/92. It was also stressed that planning for such an interview would need to take place. Indictment Says B.C.C.I. Was Bribe Victim

By RICHARD PÉREZ-PEÑA

By doling out bribes and claiming assets they did not have, two brothers illegally secured $28 million in loans from five banks, including B.C.C.I., prosecutors charged yesterday.

Robert M. Morgenthau, Manhattan District Attorney, said the case had come to light during his office's investigation into the Bank of Credit and Commerce International. He said the men had turned the tables on the outlaw bank, fraudulently obtaining $16.8 million in loans from B.C.C.I.

Ponnapula Sanjeeva Prasad and Murali Krishna Ponnapula were indicted on charges of grand larceny, a felony carrying a maximum penalty of 8⅓ to 25 years in prison, and several lesser counts.

Mr. Ponnapula, who lives in Memphis, pleaded not guilty yesterday in State Supreme Court in Manhattan and was released on a $25,000 bond. His brother, a psychiatrist whom Mr. Morgenthau described as the mastermind of the operation, is in India, where he lives.

"They both vigorously deny all of the allegations," said Frederick P. Hafetz, the lawyer for both men. "Dr. Prasad plans to return to the United States to fight the charges."

A third man, Nasim A. Syed of Ronkonkoma, L.I., a former official of the Bank of Oman Ltd., was charged with accepting a $53,000 bribe from Dr. Prasad and Mr. Ponnapula to help get a loan. He pleaded not guilty and was released on a $50,000 bond. His lawyer, Michael F. Bachner, said the payment to Mr. Syed had been for "legitimate purposes outside the bank."

A fourth man, Shahbaz A. Raheem, formerly B.C.C.I.'s chief credit officer in America, has pleaded guilty to receiving bribes of $100,000 in cash and part ownership of a hotel in Tennessee, and is awaiting sentencing.

Prosecutors learned of the improper dealing, Mr. Morgenthau said, when another former B.C.C.I. official, Baji A. Palkhiwala, told a grand jury that he had taken bribes totaling $250,000 from the two brothers. Because he was testifying under immunity, Mr. Morgenthau said, Mr. Palkhiwala cannot be prosecuted for accepting the bribes.

The loans were made to several companies controlled by Dr. Prasad, which Mr. Morgenthau said were little more than factories for bogus loan documents. "Their only business was monkey business," he said.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY - COUNTY OF NEW YORK

News Release
July 8, 1993

Contact: Gerald McKelvey
(212) 335-9781

Manhattan District Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau announced this morning that two men have been arrested and a third is being sought on an indictment charging them with fraudulently obtaining more than $27 million in loans from five banks and bribing officials of two of the banks to facilitate some of the loans.

Mr. Morgenthau said that this investigation and indictment resulted from his office's continuing probe into the now-defunct Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI); more than $16.8 million of the fraudulent loans were obtained from BCCI. This is the fourth set of indictments resulting from the BCCI investigation.

Specifically, today's indictment charges that defendant P.S. PRASAD, a/k/a PONNAPULA SANJEEVA PRASAD, masterminded the fraud through his control of a group of related companies (the "Prasad Group"). In addition, the indictment charges PRASAD's brother, MURALI KRISHNA PONNAPULA, with being a participant in the schemes. Also charged is NASIM A. SYED, a/k/a NASIM AKHTAR, a former high-ranking official of the New York office of the Bank of Oman, Ltd., for allegedly accepting bribes from the Prasad Group.

Mr. Morgenthau said that the investigation disclosed that in order to obtain the fraudulent loans, PRASAD and his accomplices bribed high-ranking officials at two of the five banks, made false representations and submitted phony loan documents to each of the banks. These fraudulent documents included loan applications containing false information about the borrowing entities, financial statements misstating the financial conditions of PRASAD himself, his accomplices and various companies that he controlled, appraisals overstating the value of properties offered as collateral, and environmental reports misrepresenting the condition of properties offered as collateral. According to Mr. Morgenthau, "Today's indictment charges that PRASAD's real business was operating a document factory which produced phony loan documents by the truck-full." PRASAD's organization operated in Greenville, North Carolina, from the beginning of the conspiracy in August of 1989, until 1990, when it moved to Queens, New York.

Mr. Morgenthau said that altogether, the indictment charges that loans were obtained fraudulently from the following institutions: BCCI, loans totaling $16.8 million; Bank of India, loans totaling $5.9 million; State Bank of India, one loan of $1.4 million; Bank of Oman Ltd., one loan of $1.5 million; and,

1325015-000-12573

Branch Banking and Trust Co. of Greenville, North Carolina, one loan of $2.5 million.

The indictment charges that PRASAD used loan proceeds for "the personal benefit of Girish K. Sharma, a PRASAD associate who was the brother of Satish K. Sharma, a high-ranking Indian politician and government official." Satish Sharma is currently the Minister of Petroleum in India.

PRASAD, is charged with seven counts of Grand Larceny in the First Degree, conspiracy and 63 related felonies in connection with the scheme. The top count, First Degree Grand Larceny, carries a prison sentence of up to 25 years.

PRASAD's brother, MURALI KRISHNA PONNAPULA, is charged with one count of Grand Larceny in the First Degree and Falsifying Business Records in the First Degree for assisting in fraudulently obtaining a $1.9 million loan from the Bank of India, which has an office in Manhattan.

The third man indicted, NASIM A. SYED, the former Bank of Oman, Ltd. official, is charged with Commercial Bribe Receiving in the First Degree, which carries a prison sentence of up to four years. SYED allegedly accepted bribes totaling $53,000 in exchange for, among other things, helping fraudulently to obtain the $1.5 million loan from the Bank of Oman, Ltd.

SYED and PONNAPULA will be arraigned later this morning in New York State Supreme Court. PRASAD returned to his native India before the fraud was uncovered; the District Attorney's Office is seeking his return to New York for prosecution.

Mr. Morgenthau said that in addition to bribing SYED, PRASAD also paid bribes to two BCCI officials to facilitate fraudulent loans from BCCI. Specifically, bribes totaling $250,000 were paid to Baji A. Palkhiwala, the former head of BCCI's regional office in the United States. In addition, bribes of $100,000 in cash, plus an ownership interest in a Tennessee hotel, were paid to Shahbaz A. Raheem, the former chief credit officer for BCCI in the United States. Raheem has already pleaded guilty to Commercial Bribe Receiving in the First Degree for his role in this scheme and is awaiting sentence, Mr. Morgenthau said. Palkhiwala, who was called to testify before the BCCI grand jury before this fraud was uncovered, received immunity by operation of New York law when he testified and cannot be prosecuted.

In addition to using loan proceeds to bribe bank officials, the investigation further disclosed that large portions of the stolen money were diverted for the personal benefit of PRASAD, PONNAPULA and other members of their family. Moreover, the loans were used to purchase controlling interests in two established corporations, Regal International, Inc., a Texas company that manufactures oilfield and marine rubber products, and Pharmacontrol, Inc., a New Jersey pharmaceutical company.

Mr. Morgenthau said that one of the saddest episodes of this case involved a small company called Cox Trailers, Inc., located in Grifton, North Carolina, which manufactured boat trailers and had been in existence since 1903. In mid-1989, PRASAD purchased control of the company from the Cox family. Shortly thereafter, in 1990, he obtained fraudulent loans totalling $4 million in the name of the company, ostensibly to inject much-needed capital into the business. However, rather than using the loans to reinvigorate Cox Trailers, as promised, PRASAD diverted the money for other purposes. Mr. Morgenthau said that, in large part as a result of this diversion, the company collapsed and the week before Christmas 1990, Prasad ordered that its remaining employees be fired. "Those who have difficulty perceiving the harm that PRASAD and his accomplices caused need only examine the story of Cox Trailers and its hard-working employees," Mr. Morgenthau said.

Mr. Morgenthau commended Senior Investigator Terence V. Hayes for his work on the investigation, under the supervision of Andrew Rosenzweig, Chief of the Investigations Bureau. The case was presented to the grand jury and will be prosecuted by Assistant District Attorney David Steiner, Senior Investigative Counsel in the Frauds Bureau, under the supervision of Frauds Bureau Chief Roslynn Mauskopf and Investigation Division Chief Daniel J. Castleman.

Title: U.S. v. BCCI Holdings

Synopsis: CLOSING COMMUNICATION

Details: The purpose of this communication is to summarize recent events surrounding the 63 seizure files associated with the BCCI investigation. On 2/1/99, several members of DOJ, USMS, and FBI met to determine how to close out the BCCI seizures entered in the CATS database as the Sixth and Final Order of Forfeiture had been entered into as of 12/22/98. A summary of this meeting is attached as reference. In brief, it was decided that the 63 BCCI individual seizures entered into CATS would be deleted in exchange for 6 seizures entered into CATS corresponding to each of the six orders of forfeiture. The following CATS ID numbers and corresponding seizure numbers were utilized for the respective orders of forfeiture.

92-FBI-000460 (3920-92-F-0115; 1st Order - 1/24/92 & 1/31/92)
92-FBI-000461 (3920-92-F-0116; 2nd Order - 7/29/92)
92-FBI-000462 (3920-92-F-0117; 3rd Order - 8/19/93)
95-FBI-003535 (3920-95-F-0097; 4th Order - 12/21/94)
96-FBI-003688 (3920-96-F-0097; 5th Order - 9/20/96)
99-FBI-000970 (3920-99-F-0092; 6th Order - 12/22/98)

The USMS has taken the responsibility for associating each of the 63 individual seizures with the 6 seizures for each order of forfeiture. Attached for reference is a spreadsheet which correlates each of the 63 seizures with the appropriate order of forfeiture. The USMS will make entries to the itemized list in CATS which will detail the total amount received for each

FACTS AND CIRCUMSTANCES

The Washington Metropolitan Field Office (WMFO) has been acting primarily as an administrative processor monitoring and reporting to FSPU assets seized from four criminal orders of forfeiture in U.S. v Hidden Interests; Major case number 38. Robb Evans, trustee has been appointed to oversee the complex assets listed in the four criminal BCCI forfeiture orders. On 02/12/96, Evans completed a $2,200,000.00 (two million) wire transfer to the United States Marshals Service in New York representing the liquidation of cash assets from the fourth order of forfeiture.

On October 4, 1988, a sixteen-count indictment was returned charging BCCI holdings (Luxembourg) S.A., Bank of Credit and Commerce International S.A., Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Limited (collectively, "BCCI"), [redacted] BCCI), and Capcom Financial Services, LTD. with conspiracy (18 U.S.C. Section 371), money laundering (18 U.S.C. Sections 1956 (a) (1) & (2), and drug conspiracy (21 U.S.C. Section 846). The first superseding indictment was filed and unsealed on October 11, 1988. Two additional BCCI [redacted] and two narco-traffickers, [redacted] were indicted on May 4, 1989. b6 b7C

This indictment resulted from [redacted] b7E

On Jan 24, 1992, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia accepted the pleas of guilty of the four corporate defendants (collectively, "BCCI") and the plea agreement between them and the United States of America. An order of forfeiture was entered as part of the plea agreement which provided that the four corporate defendants named shall forfeit to the United States ownership interests in all property located in the United States, including without limitation, real property and all tangible and intangible personal property.

Three additional supplemental orders of forfeiture have been issued by Judge Joyce Green, United States District Court, District of Columbia concerning BCCI. [redacted] Trial Attorney, Criminal Division has advised until all potentially forfeitable assets have been identified that no final orders of forfeiture will be issued by the Court. [redacted] anticipates a fifth order of forfeiture will be forthcoming in the Spring of 1996

The Washington Metropolitan Field Office (WMFO) has been acting primarily as an administrative processor monitoring and reporting to FSPU assets seized from four criminal orders of forfeiture in U.S. v Hidden Interests; Major case number 38. ROBB EVANS, Trustee has been appointed to oversee the complex assets listed in the four criminal BCCI forfeiture orders. On 02/12/96, EVANS completed a $2,200,000.00 (two million) wire transfer to the United States Marshals Service in New York representing the liquidation of cash assets from the fourth order of forfeiture.

On October 4, 1988, a sixteen-count indictment was returned charging BCCI holdings (Luxembourg) S.A., Bank of Credit and Commerce International S.A., Bank of Credit and Commerce International (Overseas) Limited (collectively, "BCCI"), [redacted] b6 b7C

BCCI), and Capcom Financial Services, LTD. with conspiracy (18 U.S.C. Section 371), money laundering (18 U.S.C. Sections 1956 (a) (1) (2), and drug conspiracy (21 U.S.C. Section 846). The first superseding indictment was filed and unsealed on October 11, 1988. Two additional BCCI [redacted] and two narco-traffickers, [redacted] were indicted on May 4, 1989.

This indictment resulted from [redacted] b7E

On January 24, 1992, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia accepted the pleas of guilty of the four corporate defendants (collectively, "BCCI") and the plea agreement between them and the United States of America. An order of forfeiture was entered as art of the plea agreement which provided that the four corporate defendants named shall forfeit to the United States ownership interested in all property located in the United States, including without limitation, real property and all tangible and intangible personal property.

Three additional supplemental orders of forfeiture have been issued by Judge Joyce Green, United States District Court, District of Columbia concerning BCCI. [redacted] Trial Attorney, Criminal Division has advised until all potentially forfeitable assets have been identified that no final orders of forfeiture will be issued by the Court. [redacted] anticipated a fifth order of forfeiture will be forthcoming in the Spring of 1996.

MAJOR CASE #38;

Details: On 4/10/96, [redacted] Trial Attorney, Asset Forfeiture/Money Laundering Section, Department of Justice furnished the following information: The fifth order of forfeiture in the above captioned investigation has been delayed. No specific date has been scheduled but [redacted] anticipates within the next four to six weeks the court will issue the fifth order of forfeiture. The reason for the delay is to ensure DOJ has an opportunity to identify all potential assets subject to forfeiture. b6 b7C

[redacted] concluded the conversation by stating the BCCI investigation is "getting toward the end." She does not believe additional orders of forfeiture are "imminent." However, it may take Robb Evans, the court appointed trustee a significant length of time to liquidate assets (i.e real estate). Then [redacted] promised to contact SA [redacted] when the fifth order of forfeiture becomes available. b6 b7C

RE: [redacted] b6 b7C

Dear Gentlemen:

Please be advised that this office represents the interests of [redacted] in his attempt to recover $115,000.00 borrowed, over time, by [redacted] A& M. Auto Sales. It is my understanding that the FBI has caused the forfeiture of a significant amount of A & M Auto Sales business assets as a result of an additional investigation done by your office. I am also to understand that [redacted] is involved in criminal prosecution as a result of that investigation. b6 b7C

[redacted] despite outside appearances is not a man of means. He works as a substitute teacher for various schools districts throughout the Cleveland area. His wages, (See Attached) provide him with relatively little income, as you can see. He lent [redacted] substantially all of his savings as an investment which, obviously, did not bear fruit. b6 b7C

While my client, up to the present, has been able to meet his financial obligations, largely due to the help of his wife's family, his financial situation has now become critical. While I understand that the FBI will not actively be involved in obtaining reimbursement to [redacted] perhaps your office might assist us as a creditor of [redacted] and A & M Auto Sales, if and when the forfeited vehicles are sold at auction. b6 b7C

Any assistance you may render to assist my client in recovery of his money will be greatly appreciated.

Please advise at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely yours,

[redacted] b6 b7C

The charges against Pharaon relate to his participation in the illegal activities of various financial corporations which are collectively known as the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI). The offenses charged are felonies under United States law and are punishable by imprisonment of not more than 20 years, fines and/or court-ordered restitution. Pharaon has also been indicted in the Northern District of Georgia, the Southern District of Florida, and the State of New York. As a result, Pharaon is wanted on three federal warrants and one state warrant, all relating to fraud and racketeering.

The United States government has actively sought the apprehension of Pharaon since his indictment. DOJ has made provisional arrest requests to various countries throughout the world, including [redacted] and others. A request for arrest also has been made by the FBI through Interpol. b7D

Since November,1994, WMFO has been tracking Pharaon's Panamanian flag, luxury yacht ,"Le Pharaon," from Spain to where it is currently believed to be headed, Antigua, WI. The yacht was first in Antigua from January 26, 1995 until February 26, 1995 [redacted] source [redacted] The vessel returned to Antigua on or about April 8, 1995 after stops at various Caribbean islands but departed by April 9, 1995. Legat Bridgetown confirmed the marine vessel's presence in Barbados on April 10, 1995, however it apparently departed on April 12, 1995. It is believed the yacht may be returning to Antigua. It is currently unknown if Pharaon is, or will be, aboard the vessel. b6 b7C b7D

III. FBI HEADQUARTERS FINDINGS

In accordance with the Attorney General Extraterritorial Guidelines, the following findings are made:

(1) The operation of this CI is reasonably necessary to detect, investigate, prosecute, or prevent criminal conduct in violation of the laws of the United States.

[redacted] b7E

[redacted] b6 b7C b7D

[redacted] b7E

(4) The proposed use of the CI in this extraterritorial investigative activity has been discussed with representatives of DOJ, including [redacted] Chief, Fraud Section, and representatives of the Office of International Affairs; as well as representatives of the Department of State. DOJ will review the proposed operation of the CI, insofar as it relates to compliance with United States laws and litigation strategy. b6 b7C

(5) All reasonable measures have been taken to reduce the risks of physical and monetary harm arising out of this investigation.

1325015-000-13543

Assistant Attorney General

(6) The CI understands that in the event he/she is arrested or detained as a result of activities undertaken either on behalf of or at the behest of the FBI, circumstances may be such that the FBI and the DOJ may be unable to provide any assistance in resolving the situation.

(7) The development and operation of the CI has, and will continue to be conducted in a manner consistent with all applicable FBI and Attorney General Guidelines.

(8) Consistent with the need to preserve the anonymity of the CI, the FBI has coordinated this extraterritorial law enforcement activity with the U.S. Embassy.

1325015-000-13544

Assistant Attorney General

IV. AUTHORIZATION REQUESTED

Based on the above information, the FBI requests authority to use this CI as an extraterritorial source pursuant to the authority conveyed in the Attorney General Guidelines on the Development of Operation of FBI Criminal Informants and Cooperative Witnesses in Extraterritorial Jurisdictions.

Approved: [redacted] Acting Associate Attorney Gen. 4/20/95 b6 b7C

Disapproved: _____

Assistant Attorney General

NOTE: This proposal has been discussed by the Financial Crimes Section and WMFO with officials of the Fraud Section, DOJ, as well as with Office of International Affairs, and Department of State officials. The Fraud Section, DOJ, advised that this proposal will be reviewed and evaluated upon receipt of this request.

This request differs in form from routine requests to DOJ in matters related to FBI Extraterritorial Investigations and Extraterritorial Use of Confidential Informants, with respect to certain information that should be provided. Specifically, the request normally details, in Section I, Part 6, the views of the prosecutor, as required by guidelines. Additionally, the request normally furnishes findings, in Section III, Part 4, that, "The Presidentially appointed prosecutor (normally the United States Attorney), or his designee, has reviewed the proposed compliance with the United States laws and litigative strategy, and concurs with the proposed operation of the cooperative witness."

In view of the fact that the prosecution of this investigation is being handled directly by DOJ, Washington, D.C., the decision concerning the impact of this proposed Extraterritorial Use of Confidential Informant on the prosecution cannot be viewed separately from the overall global policy implications of the extraterritorial investigative activity. This aspect has resulted in a reluctance on the part of the Fraud Section, DOJ, officials to commit to a concurrence concerning the proposed use of the CI, or the extraterritorial operation, without higher level review and evaluation since a supportive position, albeit initial, might in the end be contrary to the final position. As a result, the Fraud Section, DOJ, declined to render an opinion concerning the impact of the extraterritorial use of the CI on the prosecution, pending receipt of this request for review and evaluation. It is anticipated that the issues concerning the extraterritorial use of the CI and the extraterritorial rendition will be fully addressed by DOJ, concurrently, upon receipt of the request(s) for authorization.

Finally, Section I, Part 4, of this request notes that [redacted] consultation with the Office of International Affairs, DOJ, to identify any special circumstances which may negatively impact the proposed scenario. This requirement is set forth as Bureau policy in the Director's memorandum to all SACs, dated 11/1/94, captioned "Luring Fugitives from Foreign Countries; Extraterritorial FBI Operations and Investigations; Policy and Guidelines." Consultation is intended to facilitate and support the law enforcement mission and provide guidance for the effective implementation of the proposed lure. b7E

Assistant Attorney General

The charges against Pharaon relate to his participation in the illegal activities of various financial corporations which are collectively known as the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI). The offenses charged are felonies under United States law and are punishable by imprisonment of not more than 20 years, fines and/or court-ordered restitution. Pharaon has also been indicted in the Northern District of Georgia, the Southern District of Florida, and the State of New York. As a result, Pharaon is wanted on three federal warrants and one state warrant, all relating to fraud and racketeering.

The United States government has actively sought the apprehension of Pharaon since his indictment. DOJ has made provisional arrest requests to various countries throughout the world, including [redacted] and others. A request for arrest also has been made by the FBI through Interpol. b7D

Since November,1994, WMFO has been tracking Pharaon's Panamanian flag, luxury yacht ,"Le Pharaon," from Spain to where it is currently believed to be headed, Antigua, WI. The yacht was first in Antigua from January 26, 1995 until February 26, 1995. [redacted] The vessel returned to Antigua on or about April 8, 1995 after stops at various Caribbean islands but departed by April 9, 1995. Legat Bridgetown confirmed the marine vessel's presence in Barbados on April 10, 1995, however it apparently departed on April 12, 1995. It is believed the yacht may be returning to Antigua. It is currently unknown if Pharaon is, or will be, aboard the vessel. b6 b7C

GHAITH RACHAD PHARAON

The Washington Metro Field Office (WMFO) of the Federal Bureau of Investigation is seeking aid in locating captioned fugitive and his yacht, the marine vessel (M/V) "Le Pharaon." Pharaon reportedly uses his yacht as an office.

Pharaon is wanted to stand trial in the United States relative to his participation in the illegal activities of various financial corporations collectively known as the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI). In December 1991, BCCI, as a corporate entity, pleaded guilty in Washington, D.C., to racketeering, fraud, and conspiracy charges.

Pharaon is described as follows:

Name:	GHAITH RACHAD PHARAON
Aliases/Nicknames:	Dr. Ghaith Pharaon
Date of birth:	September 7, 1941
Place of birth:	Riyadh, Saudi Arabia
Documents:	Saudi Arabian Passport 100132/31
Languages:	Arabic, English, French, and some Greek

Pharaon is the subject of provisional arrest warrants lodged in several countries, and the U.S. fully intends to seek his extradition when he is apprehended. Pharaon is the subject of an Interpol "Red Notice," Number A355/8-1992. Pharaon should be considered "Armed and Dangerous" due to the discovery of numerous firearms aboard M/V "Le Pharaon," in September 1992, as reported by the police of the Port of Larnaca, Cyprus, when the yacht docked there for a short period of time.

RE: OPERATION "HIDDEN INTERESTS"
UNAUTHORIZED COMMITMENTS
WASHINGTON METROPOLITAN FIELD OFFICE

DETAILS: It has come to the attention of the Automotive Management Unit (AMU) that the Washington Metropolitan Field Office (WMFO) has rented vehicles in support of operation "HIDDEN INTERESTS" in excess of previously approved limits. The Criminal Investigative Division (CID) and SAC, WMFO have requested a ratification be approved. Ratification, if approved, would be done pursuant to Section 1.602-3 of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR). Set forth below are pertinent background information facts and findings to support a ratification.

The BCCI Task Force is currently utilizing nine rental vehicles from Action Auto Rental until 8/31/92. This request for ratification will cover through time period 8/31/92. Based on an urgent and compelling need, it is requested a new purchase order be issued to cover rental vehicle for the months of September, October, and November, 1992, until vehicles are received off of the GSA mandatory rental car schedule. It is recognized that the months of October and November will be handled based on the availability of funds due to the new fiscal year funding.

1) Facts leading up to the obligation

By teletype dated 8/6/91, the WMFO advised the Financial Institution Fraud Unit (FIFU), White Collar Crimes Section (WCCS), CID, of the formation of a special squad consisting of one Supervisory Special Agent, eight Special Agents, two investigative assistants, two financial analysts, one secretary and one rotor clerk, to conduct the major investigation involving the BCCI. The case has been codenamed "Hidden Interests" and designated Major Case 38, and is being handled under WMFO case 29B-WF-171994. The case was initiated in February, 1991, when WMFO received a criminal referral from the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System alleging false and fraudulent statements had been made concerning BCCI ownership and control of the parent - holding company of First American Bank Shares. Bank regulators in Great Britain, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Spain, France and the Cayman Islands have closed BCCI branches in their respective jurisdictions and opened up criminal investigations. Additional referrals on criminal activities have been received regarding BCCI which has been closely coordinated with the Department of Justice. Extensive media coverage, actions by the Federal Reserve Board and New York officials, and charges made in U.S. Senate hearings have alleged an extraordinary range of worldwide criminal violations by BCCI and its affiliates.

WMFO requested and received operational authority to initially rent nine vehicles for a period of 90 days. PO# R109982 was issued to handle the month of September, 1991, and PO# R204460 was issued for the first 60 days of FY 1992 until 11/30/92. PO# R204460 was amended to include rental (procurement) authority for additional 60 days until 1/31/92. After 1/31/92, even though they had operational authority to rent the vehicles, procurement authority had lapsed and the vehicles were rented continually at this vendor (Thrifty Car Rental) until 5/30/92. During this time period, the AMU with the assistance of the WMFO fleet manager attempted to obtain nine vehicles for use by BCCI but was only successful in obtaining four vehicles which were not available until mid-June, 1992. WMFO was allowed to retain vehicles from their surplus listing which normally would have been disposed of through GSA sales action. Vendors were changed in June, 1992, because a cheaper price was obtained. Bucar numbers 99-6560 through 99-6568 were assigned to these rental vehicles. It is recognized that switching to GSA schedule rentals would alleviate any future problems from long-term automotive rentals.

The BCCI task force has grown tremendously in size since its origin and currently is staffed by one Inspector-in-Charge, three SSAs, twenty SAs, and nine FAs, eight of which are TDY, for a total of 33 investigative personnel. This has expressed an increased need for vehicles.

The continued use of these rental vehicles from Thrifty totals an additional amount of $21,564.00 to PO# R204460 which has not been paid. Expenditures to the Action Auto Rental currently total $9,720.00 (through 7/31/92) which have also not been paid.

2) Have the services been provided to and accepted by the Government or how will the Government benefit from this commitment?

The services have already been provided and accepted by the Government in support of the BCCI investigation. The rental vehicles have successfully been utilized by our agents and analysts to effectively carry out their investigative mission. Investigation to date has resulted in the criminal indictments of two subjects, Clark M. Clifford and [redacted] in New York. b6 b7C

3) Why and how the contractor was selected and how the price determined to be fair and reasonable?

WMFO has used Thrifty Car Rental for car rentals involving other previous investigations. Competitive bidding utilized to establish PO#s R109982 and R204460 is listed below:

a) Enterprise Leasing at $809 monthly rental with unlimited mileage.

b) Budget Car Rental at $659 monthly rental with $.03/miles for cash mile exceeding 3,000 miles a month.

c) Thrifty Car Rental at $599 a month unlimited mileage.

In May, 1992, the following bids were obtained:

a)	Enterprise Leasing	$599 month
b)	Budget Rental	$590 month
c)	Thrifty Car Rental	$599 month
d)	Action Auto Rental	$540 month

The Action Auto Rental offered a savings of $59 per vehicle per month.

4) Were funds available at the time of the unauthorized commitment, and are they still available?

Funds were available and are still available for the continued rental period of these vehicles. Appropriations are available through the WMFO travel budget, subobject cost classification 522120.

In order not to go against current procurement regulations and since there is still a continued need for these rentals, WMFO has submitted FD-369 numbered 583397 dated 7/2/92 to obtain long term rentals based on GSA schedule pricing.

5) AUTHORITY OF RATIFYING OFFICIAL: The ratifying official could have entered into a contractual commitment at the time of the unauthorized commitment was created and still possesses contracting authority.

Based on the above, it is recommended that this unauthorized commitment in the amounts of $21,564.00 for Thrifty Car Rental and $14,580.00 for Action Auto Rental be ratified in accordance with the FAR, Subpart 1.602-3 and the Justice Acquisition Regulation, Part 2801-602.3.

SUBJECT: HIDDEN INTERESTS; MAJOR CASE 38; OO: WMFO.

MAJOR CASE 38 IS AN INVESTIGATION BEING CONDUCTED OUT OF THE WASHINGTON FIELD OFFICE WHICH IS LOOKING INTO THE SECRET ACQUISITION OF AMERICAN BANKS BY THE BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (BCCI). THE ATLANTA DIVISION IS SPECIFICALLY INVESTIGATING THE SECRET ACQUISITION OF THE NATIONAL BANK OF GEORGIA (NBG), BY BCCI, THROUGH THE USE OF A

ICC OLIA

FRONT MAN, GHAITH PHARAON. DURING THE INVESTIGATION, IT WAS DETERMINED THAT A BCCI [redacted] WAS TRANSFERRED FROM BCCI PANAMA TO NBG. INVESTIGATION TO DATE HAS REVEALED NUMEROUS IRREGULARITIES CONCERNING [redacted] WHICH INCLUDES BANK FRAUD, IMMIGRATION FRAUD, AND TAX FRAUD. ATLANTA CURRENTLY HAS A FEDERAL GRAND JURY LOOKING INTO THESE VIOLATIONS. b6 b7C

DURING THE ENTIRE TIME [redacted] WAS WORKING AT NBG, HE RECEIVED COMPENSATION FROM BCCI. THIS COMPENSATION WAS IN THE FORM OF $550.00 PER MONTH FOR APPROXIMATELY 9 YEARS. BCCI WAS INDICTED IN TAMPA, FLORIDA DURING EARLY 1990 AND AGREED TO PLEAD GUILTY. AT THE SAME TIME, [redacted] "NEGOTIATED", ALMOST TO THE POINT OF EXTORTION, A LARGE PAYMENT TO REMAIN SILENT. IN 1991, [redacted] RECEIVED APPROXIMATELY $300,000.00 FROM BCCI. b6 b7C

PART OF [redacted] DEFENSE OF THE $550.00 MONTHLY PAYMENTS IS A CLAIM THAT HE OWNED THREE RESIDENCES: ONE IN LONDON, ONE IN PANAMA, AND ONE IN THE UNITED STATES. [redacted] IS CLAIMING THAT THE $550.00 WAS A LOAN FROM BCCI TO PAY FOR THESE RESIDENCES. INVESTIGATION IN ATLANTA REVEALS THAT [redacted] DOES OWN A RESIDENCE AND HAS AN OUTSTANDING LIEN ON IT. IT IS ATLANTA'S INTENTION TO DISCOVER IF IN FACT [redacted] OWNED THE OTHER TWO RESIDENCES. [redacted] CLAIMS TO STILL OWN THESE RESIDENCES TODAY.

SINCE IT IS ANTICIPATED THAT THE REQUESTED RECORDS IN THE LEAD SECTION WILL BE USED IN COURT, CERTIFIED COPIES ARE REQUESTED IF AVAILABLE.

IF ANY QUESTIONS ARISE, PLEASE CONTACT SA [redacted] b6 b7C [redacted] ATLANTA DIVISION, (404) 679-6293.

Instructions

Subject Priorities for FBI Arrest or Locates:

A - Subject wanted for crimes of violence (i.e. murder, manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

B - Subjects wanted for crimes involving the loss or destruction of property valued in excess of $25,000 or convicted of such crimes in the past five years.

C - All others

Claiming Non-Federal Arrests, Summonses, Recoveries or Convictions:

It is permissible to claim a local arrest, summons, recovery or conviction if the FBI significantly contributed to the accomplishment. A succinct narrative setting forth the basis for the claim must accompany this report. When claiming a local recovery, enter the word "LOCAL" to the right of the amount. Enter "LF" in the "In-Jail" block for all life sentences and "CP" for capital punishment sentences.

Reporting Convictions:

Convictions should not be reported until the sentence has been issued. There are two exceptions to this rule. The conviction information can be submitted by itself if:

1. The subject becomes a fugitive after conviction but prior to sentencing.
2. The subject dies after conviction but prior to sentencing.

An explanation is required in the Remarks section for either of the above exceptions.

Rule 20 Situations:

The field office that obtained the process (normally the office of origin) is the office that should claim the conviction, not the office where the subject enters the plea in cases involving Rule 20 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedures.

Investigative Assistance or Techniques (IA/Ts) Used:

-Since more than one IA/T could have contributed to the accomplishment, each IA/T used must be rated.

-The IA/T used must be rated each time an accomplishment is claimed. (For example - if informant information was the basis for a complaint, an arrest, a recovery and a conviction and if separate FD-515s are submitted for each of the aforementioned accomplishments, the "Informant Information" block must be rated on each FD-515 even if it was the same information that contributed to all the accomplishments.)

Race Codes:

C = Chinese; I = Indian/American; J = Japanese; B = Black; O = All other; U = Unknown; W = White

CSCEC-FLA, which began its operation in the Jacksonville, Florida, area in the Fall of 1987, is involved in one major construction project known as DANTANA LAKES, a housing development intended for 400 single family homes to have been completed by the end of 1991. Because of a slow housing market, only about 70 houses have been completed and sold to date.

CSCEC-FLA was initially funded with a $10 million advance from CSCEC-CHINA through CSCEC-U.S. CSCEC-U.S. incorporates all U.S. CSCEC subsidiaries in a consolidated financial statement. CSCEC-U.S. files the corporate tax returns and pays U.S. taxes. CSCEC-FLA has an accumulated deficit of prior years expenses over income of three and a half million dollars, although it is making a profit at this time. Although CSCEC-FLA has lost a substantial amount of money, there appears to be little concern with its profitability as it appears to be a training exercise for Chinese construction engineers to familiarize themselves with U.S. management and business practices.

[redacted] b7E

[redacted] Banking contacts of CSCEC-FLA, CSCEC-U.S., and CSCEC-CHINA are unknown to Jacksonville.

Inasmuch as all logical investigation has been conducted, this matter is being placed in an RUC status.

[redacted], was contacted at his office located in [redacted] Washington, D.C. Also present during the interview was ATTORNEY-ADVISOR [redacted] U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE (DOJ), Washington, D.C. b6 b7C

After being advised of the identities of the agents and the purpose of the interview, [redacted] provided the following information: b6 b7C

Based on advice from the OFFICE OF SENATE LEGAL COUNSEL, [redacted] can only provide public information documents and information received from the press/media to the interviewers. Additional documents, such as those provided to the SENATE ETHICS COMMITTEE, may be obtained by submitting a written request to the Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee, who would then present the request to a vote in the form of a Senate Resolution. [redacted] also stated that he did not want to become a witness in any public proceeding that may result from his consent to be interviewed. b6 b7C

Pursuant to a letter written by [redacted] dated November 20, 1992 requesting information relating to the investigation conducted by the U.S. SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE ON TERRORISM, NARCOTICS, AND INTERNATIONAL OPERATIONS (of the COMMITTEE ON FOREIGN RELATIONS) regarding the BANK OF CREDIT AND COMMERCE INTERNATIONAL (BCCI), [redacted] provided photocopies of certain documents in response to the request and specifically addressed the inquiries as follows: b6 b7C

1. Regarding the alleged penny-stock market manipulation involving BCCI; [redacted] stated that the best explanation of this allegation is included in a recently published book entitled "False Profits" by PETER TRUELL and LARRY GURWIN. [redacted] provided photocopies of pages 172 through 176 of the book. [redacted] has also contacted [redacted] and urged [redacted] to assist federal investigators. [redacted] is b6 b7C

2. Regarding [redacted] referred to one document that was reproduced in Volume 3, page 650, of the Subcommittees report entitled "THE BCCI AFFAIR." [redacted] will attempt to locate additional records that can be turned over to the interviewers at a later time. b6 b7C

3. Regarding the involvement of BCCI-related people and [redacted] provided photocopies of various news articles. b6 b7C

4. Regarding [redacted] stated that those documents are not accessible. Senate Investigators obtained their documentation primarily from two sources: (1) the BCCI document repository in New York, which is currently under the control of the NEW YORK STATE DEPARTMENT OF BANKING (NYSDB) and (2) the RESOLUTION TRUST CORPORATION (RTC). Senate investigators did spend time reviewing the [redacted] transactions and concluded that they were simply a "straight-forward fraud" against BCCI. [redacted] believes that it would be easier for the FBI to obtain the [redacted] records directly from the NYSDB rather than from the U.S. Senate Subcommittee. b6 b7C

5. Regarding documents from the OVERSEAS PRIVATE INVESTMENT COMPANY (OPIC) referred to in footnotes 161-162 of the Subcommittee report; [redacted] stated that OPIC can provide a copy of the letter of recommendation from BCCI concerning [redacted] and ANTIGUA MELON FARM [redacted]. The document is also on file in the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. b6 b7C

6. Regarding an affidavit referred to in footnote 837 of the Subcommittee report; [redacted] advised that [redacted] is a former DOJ attorney and can be contacted at telephone number 813/821-5227. [redacted] has produced several versions of the affidavit and has additional documentation relating to the Iran Arms Deals and BCCI. b6 b7C

7. Regarding the HONG KONG DEPOSIT AND GUARANTY COMPANY and TETRA FINANCE references in footnotes 842 and 852-854 of the Subcommittee report and the identification of individuals involved; [redacted] provided photocopies of the documents requested as well as information obtained from press reports and legal decisions involving [redacted] that came about as a result of the financial collapse of the aforementioned companies. b6 b7C

8. Regarding documents referred to in footnote 849 of the Subcommittee report; [redacted] provided the requested documents. b6 b7C

9. Regarding the identification of the law enforcement document referenced in the last paragraph of page 601 of the Subcommittee report; [redacted] would not discuss this matter whatsoever. [redacted] explained that he utilizes confidential sources in the same manner as law enforcement and by disclosing the identity of a source, he would impair his ability to perform his job. [redacted] guaranteed confidentiality to the person that provided the document and advised that he could not provide the document or describe it inasmuch as it would reveal the identity of the person that provided it to him. [redacted] admitted that he is in possession of the document. b6 b7C

10. Regarding assistance in contacting a particular source; [redacted] said that he would again ask his former colleague to provide [redacted] with a telephone number for the source. b6 b7C

11. Regarding the Minutes of Evidence taken before the HOUSE OF COMMONS; [redacted] advised that his copy has been filed in storage and recommended that a copy be obtained from the HOUSE OF COMMONS or DISTRICT ATTORNEY FOR NEW YORK(DANY) [redacted] s office. b6 b7C

12. As requested, [redacted] provided two (2) computer data diskettes containing the "KERRY REPORT" in electronic format. b6 b7C

 b6 b7C

13. Regarding the report references to the activities of MOHAMMED HAMMOUD:

a) Records showing that HAMMOUD borrowed over $110 million from BCCI (one loan guaranteed by FIRST AMERICAN BANK); [redacted] referred to the PRICE-WATERHOUSE reports that were reprinted in volume 1 of the hearings, pages 356-358. b6 b7C

b) Records showing that HAMMOUD's real estate investments were managed by the current U.S. AMBASSADOR TO BAHRAIN CHARLES W. HOSTLER and his contacts with the U.S. STATE DEPARTMENT regarding the release of U.S. hostages from Beirut; [redacted] referred to the documents reprinted in volume 4 of the hearings, pages 741-778. [redacted] explained that a request for documents was made to the STATE DEPARTMENT for records and the records were provided. However, some of the documents were classified as "eyes only," and therefore, photocopies could not be obtained. [redacted] recommended that a request be made directly to the STATE DEPARTMENT regarding HAMMOUD. b6 b7C

c) Records showing that HAMMOUD met with high officials from the U.S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT and DOJ regarding BCCI are from attorney notes which have been turned over to the Senate Ethics Committee.

d) Documents regarding allegations that HAMMOUD's companies were front companies for BCCI; [redacted] referred to the PRICE-WATERHOUSE reports reprinted in volume 1 of the hearings, pages 356-358. b6 b7C

e) Documents showing FIRST AMERICAN BANK issued a $4 million letter of credit to HAMMOUD; [redacted] explained that the only published reference is contained in volume 3 of the hearings, page 429. Further, [redacted] knew about this transaction and detailed records were reviewed by the FBI at BCCI-New York. b6 b7C

f) The Power of Attorney held by [redacted] for HAMMOUD is reprinted in volume 3 of the hearings, page 427. b6 b7C

g-k) All records regarding [redacted] were personally turned over to the SENATE ETHICS COMMITTEE by [redacted] in early October 1992. b6 b7C

[redacted] admitted that Senate investigators are not held to the same high degree of standards as the FBI when conducting its investigation and subsequent reporting of results. [redacted] also admitted that much of the information contained in the Subcommittee report was obtained from media sources and other journalists and contains speculation and conclusions drawn by the investigators as well as their sources. [redacted] made frequent references to author LARRY GURWIN's work ("False Profits") during the interview. b6 b7C

[redacted] has no knowledge regarding any new developments involving BCCI and is no longer involved in any matters relating to the investigation of BCCI. b6 b7C

The Bottom Line / Christopher Byron

BCCI AND IRAN-CONTRA

WHAT HAPPENED IN 1984?

OVERALL, WILLIAM BARR ACQUITTED HIMself well last week in his confirmation hearings to become the next attorney general. Unfortunately, when the question of BCCI came up, Barr adopted a too familiar bit of officialese. "All allegations that have surfaced are being pursued," he declared, promising that under his leadership the Justice Department would "follow the evidence anywhere and everywhere it leads."

In fact, nothing like that seems to be happening at all—and the reason may well be a dawning awareness in Barr's own department that a freewheeling investigation could start brushing against some powerful people indeed, perhaps even including George Bush.

During his confirmation hearings, Barr spoke of the "37 prosecutors" and "dozens of agents" he'd assigned to the case, with active investigations now under way in five different districts. Yet even as Barr was speaking, one prosecutor told me that the prevailing investigative strategy among his colleagues is to "draw a little circle and stay inside it."

As a result, key leads simply aren't being followed up. Take, for example, Capcom Financial Services, Ltd. This BCCI-linked commodities-trading company is a swamp of wrongdoing, from allegedly conspiring to launder Medellín-cartel drug money to helping Manuel Noriega loot millions from the Banco Nacional de Panama ("The Bottom Line," August 19 and 26). Surprisingly, Capcom's founding shareholders turn out to be two top officials of America's largest operator of cable-television systems—Tele-Communications, Inc., of Denver, Colorado. Yet amazingly enough, a federal prosecutor in the case tells me he knows of no plans to probe what connections, if any, exist between BCCI and the cable business.

There's also a seeming reluctance on the part of Washington to ask some tough questions of BCCI's accounting firm, Price Waterhouse. The firm has been involved at least once before in a see-no-evil banking scandal, when it audited the books of Nugan Hand, Ltd., a fraud-riddled offshore bank that collapsed in 1979 after being infiltrated by drug-dealers and the Central Intelligence Agency. Details of the scandal can be found in Jonathan Kwitny's 1987 book The Crimes of Patriots, a True Tale of Dope, Dirty Money, and the CIA.

Now Price Waterhouse is mired in the same sort of thing all over again—only a hundred times bigger and uglier. Nonetheless, with the apparent exception of Manhattan D.A. Robert Morgenthau, no one in government, in either Britain or the U.S., seems even the slightest bit skeptical of P/W's dog-ate-my-homework excuses for being so tardy in uncovering what is clearly the biggest financial fraud of modern times.

Nor do the Feds seem much interested in the activities of BCCI's shareholders, several of whom have ties to the world of spooks and spies. The most obvious hot potato in that regard is Kamal Adham, onetime head of Saudi Arabian secret intelligence in the seventies. ("The Bottom Line," October 7.)

Scarcely had BCCI begun making headlines when Adham hired away an aide to White House chief of staff John Sununu to represent him in Washington, D.C. The apparent hope: that the aide, Ed Rogers, could curry favor with the White House and get it to call off the Justice Department in any pending criminal investigation.

Unfortunately for Adham, news of his ploy leaked out late last month, giving rise to calls for an investigation into Adham's attempt to buy influence at the White House. Yet no one in the Justice Department apparently even winced when George Bush, who headed the Central Intelligence Agency at exactly the time when Adham headed its Saudi counterpart, looked straight into a network-television camera and declared that he had no idea who Adham was until he began reading about him in the papers.

In reality, not only was Adham one of BCCI's most important shareholders but over the years, he treated BCCI as virtually his own cash register. Price Waterhouse documents reportedly show, for example, that as of December 31, 1989, Adham had $313.3-million worth of BCCI loans on its books—with no formal loan agreements or repayment terms in the records of the bank.

Why hasn't the Justice Department moved more aggressively on these and a dozen other fronts? As I argued two weeks ago, one possible reason for the foot-dragging may be certain secrets involving BCCI and the origins of the Iran/contra scandal ("The Bottom Line," November 11).

Conventional wisdom has it that the Iran/contra scandal grew out of Israeli intrigues with the National Security Council in the spring of 1985. But new evidence, unearthed by researcher Peggy Adler Robohm and a former Justice Department prosecutor named John Loftus, suggests a different possibility. According to this new evidence, the scandal may actually have begun at least a year earlier, as a BCCI-financed Anglo-U.S. intelligence operation, put together by then-CIA head

William Casey and run, in part at least, out of the office of then–vice-president George Bush.

If that is so, an aggressive prosecutorial effort to dig out wrongdoing inside BCCI could prove sensationally embarrassing, uncovering a financial record of arms deals tracing not just to the White House but to Downing Street as well.

Much of the evidence for this hypothesis is found in the recently declassified office diaries of Oliver North. Of particular interest in this regard are some seven volumes of spiral-bound notebooks that chronicle North's activities day by day in 1984, the year before the "arms for hostages" deals to Iran were thought to have begun.

No "official" investigation of the Iran/contra scandal—from the Tower Commission to the Senate Select Committee to the office of the special prosecutor, Lawrence Walsh—seems to have probed this aspect of North's activities in 1984, a subject that North as well avoids discussing in his new book, Under Fire.

Yet North's diaries show page after page of details as to how the Anglo–U.S. covert initiative apparently evolved. Its purpose: to use private British arms dealers not just to supply weapons to the Nicaraguan contras once the Boland Amendment cut off U.S. aid to those forces but, it would seem, to ship TOW missiles to Iran in hopes of winning the release of American hostages held in Lebanon.

Though North's diaries don't mention him by name, one of the individuals involved in all this was a British CIA man named Leslie Aspin. Prior to his death in 1989, Aspin signed a ten-page statement, which has now become public, that details his role in the affair. Beginning in June 1984 and apparently acting on orders from CIA boss William Casey, Aspin entered into a deal with a British arms broker, Ben Banneriee, to ship TOW missiles from Portugal to Iran. The purpose of the deal: to persuade the Iranian government to bring pressure on Arab terrorists holding hostages in Lebanon.

The Aspin statement describes numerous meetings and conversations between Aspin and North, as well as briefings with retired general Richard Secord. According to the affidavit, Aspin also spoke with a top North subordinate on the National Security Council, Robert Earl, as well as with Robert Owen, who had only recently resigned from the staff-of-then–Indiana senator Dan Quayle.

There is little doubt that Aspin's statement, dated May 1, 1987, is authentic. Last week, I obtained further corroboration on the matter through interviews with two arms dealers not mentioned in the statement who nonetheless had knowledge of the events Aspin described.

One such individual, who agreed to talk only on condition that he not be publicly identified, did not know that Aspin had died. When informed of that fact, the source then described his involvement in events Aspin had set forth, asserting he, too, had been operating on instructions from Casey.

Independently, I was able to confirm the man's claim of involvement with Casey by obtaining, through a source in Washington, a two-page U.S. Justice Department stipulation in an unrelated criminal case. The stipulation, signed by a U.S. Attorney in the matter, asserts that the source was indeed known personally to Casey and was working in behalf of the CIA during the period in question.

North's diaries, when examined in light of Aspin's ten-page statement, simply overflow with revelations. For example, in his statement, Aspin claimed that on November 15, 1984, he, North, Banneriee, and an Iranian go-between named Manucher Ghorbanifar turned up at the Paris branch office of BCCI and opened four different accounts to finance the TOW-missile deal.

As of now, there is no direct corroboration of Aspin's voice-from-the-grave assertion that such a get-together took place. But the claim seems at least indirectly corroborated by the bizarre manner in which the government censored various portions of North's diaries before releasing them to the public in May 1990.

On most pages of the diaries, only one or two words, or at most an occasional paragraph, is blacked out by the censors. Yet beginning with the entry for November 13, 1984—two days before North's BCCI meeting in Paris—State Department and CIA censors deleted 30 consecutive pages of notes from his diaries, blanking out literally everything North did, said, or thought about anything as he prepared to leave for Europe and open the BCCI accounts. The stated reason by the censors: to protect CIA and State Department secrets regarding negotiations to win the release of hostages.

How much George Bush knew of these events is for now an open question. But North's diaries show him to have been in regular and frequent contact with the vice-president during the period, and it defies common sense to believe that North would not have discussed his BCCI adventures with the vice-president even once.

In his 1987 campaign autobiography, George Bush claimed not to have known the Iran/contra "picture as a whole" until December of 1986. But as time passes and documents accumulate, the real "picture as a whole" is starting to come into view—and as it does, one can begin to understand why BCCI is a case the Feds seem to wish they'd never heard of. ■

FOR INFORMATION OF FBIHQ, DURING THE COURSE OF INVESTIGATING CAPTIONED MATTER, WMFO HAS SOUGHT TO ESTABLISH, INTER ALIA, THE EXISTENCE, NATURE, AND EXTENT OF ANY ACTIONS OF BCCI VIS-A-VIS THE "IRAN/CONTRA AFFAIR"; ACTIONS WHICH MAY HAVE VIOLATED FEDERAL LAWS. CERTAIN ALLEGATIONS HAVE COME TO WMFO'S ATTENTION, E.G., THOSE FOUND IN THE 9/30/92 REPORT FILED BY U.S. SENATORS JOHN KERRY AND HANK BROWN AT THE CONCLUSION OF THE "KERRY COMMITTEE" HEARINGS ON BCCI, WHICH

INDICATE THAT BCCI PLAYED ROLES, SPECIFICALLY, IN THE "IRAN/CONTRA AFFAIR", AND, GENERALLY, IN OTHER U.S. AND FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY OPERATIONS. ALSO CONTAINED IN THE "KERRY REPORT" IS A REFERENCE TO AN ALLEGATION MADE BY A [redacted] I.E., THAT A REVIEW OF THE UNCENSORED VERSION OF LT. COL. OLIVER NORTH'S DIARY WOULD SHOW EVIDENCE THAT THE FIRST BCCI ACCOUNT NORTH OPENED IN PARIS, FRANCE, ON 11/15/84, WAS PART OF A U.S., NOT ISRAELI, OPERATION, DONE WITH THE FULL KNOWLEDGE AND ACCEPTANCE OF THEN-VICE-PRESIDENT GEORGE BUSH, AND THAT A CONSPIRACY, PERJURY, AND OBSTRUCTION OF JUSTICE RESULTED FROM SUBSEQUENT, FALSE TESTIMONY BY NORTH, GENERAL SECORD, ET AL. DOJ, THROUGH THE "KERRY REPORT" AND THROUGH CORRESPONDENCE WITH [redacted] IS AWARE OF THESE ALLEGATIONS.

AS PART OF THE CAPTIONED INVESTIGATION, DOJ FORMALLY REQUESTED THE "IRAN/CONTRA" INDEPENDENT COUNSEL'S OFFICE SEARCH ITS RECORDS FOR INFORMATION WITHIN THE PURVIEW OF THE CAPTIONED MATTER AND HAS RECEIVED A WRITTEN RESPONSE INDICATING THAT IN 7/91--IN RESPONSE TO INTENSE MEDIA REPORTS ABOUT BCCI--THE OIC DID WHAT IT DESCRIBED AS ITS "LAST COMPREHENSIVE SEARCH...FOR BCCI-RELATED MATERIALS" IN ITS

FILES, "IN ORDER TO ASCERTAIN WHETHER BCCI HAD ANY CONNECTION TO IRAN/CONTRA EVENTS THAT WOULD MAKE FURTHER INQUIRY INTO THE BANK'S OPERATIONS APPROPRIATE." ACCORDING TO THE RESPONSE, THE SEARCH WAS UNPRODUCTIVE AS FAR AS FINDING EVIDENCE OF CRIMINAL ACTIVITY ON THE PART OF BCCI IN THE "IRAN/CONTRA AFFAIR".

AS PART OF THE AFOREMENTIONED DOJ-TO-OIC REQUEST, DOJ ATTORNEY/CONSULTANT [redacted] ARRANGED A MEETING AT THE OIC TO FURTHER DISCUSS THE POSSIBILITY THAT THE OIC'S RECORDS MIGHT CONTAIN REFERENCES TO, OR EVIDENCE OF, OTHER ACTS OF BCCI WHICH VIOLATED FEDERAL LAWS, E.G., THE UNLAWFUL ACQUISITION AND CONTROL OF U.S. BANKS. ON 1/27/93, A/C [redacted] ACCOMPANIED BY IIC [redacted] AND WMFO SSA [redacted] MET WITH ASSOCIATE INDEPENDENT COUNSEL [redacted] AT THE OIC. [redacted] REITERATED WHAT HE HAD SAID IN HIS 1/19/93 LETTER TO A/C [redacted] BUT AGREED THAT A FURTHER REVIEW OF THE DATABASES AT THE OIC WOULD BE APPROPRIATE. BY PRIOR AGREEMENT BETWEEN A/C [redacted] IIC [redacted] AND SSA [redacted] WAS TOLD THAT, GIVEN THE MANDATE OF THE CAPTIONED MATTER, THE FBI WOULD NOT BE PARTICIPATING IN THE

DATABASE INQUIRY; THAT A/C [redacted] WILL CONDUCT THE REVIEW ON b6 b7C

DAAG LAURENCE A. URGENSON.

FOR INFORMATION OF FBIHQ, IF DOJ DECIDES THAT ANY

INVESTIGATION IS WARRANTED BY THE RESULTS OF A/C [redacted] b6 b7C

REVIEW OF OIC RECORDS, DOJ WILL REQUEST IT THROUGH FBIHQ.

WMFO ANTICIPATES SUCH A REQUEST WOULD BE HANDLED AS A SEPARATE
